Angela Judge Out On Magee Motion

CONFRONTATION COOLED OFF — County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney (left) and Franklin Alexander, a coordinator of the Angela Y. Davis National Defense Committee, gesture widely as they argue over courtroom seating problems. Maloney supervised the ushering of press and spectators as hearings began yesterday on motions concerning Miss Davis and codefendant Ruchell Magee. Alexander, after relaying seating discrimination complaints from the pressing crowd, used a bullhorn to persuade the overflow to depart.

Hearing Today Is Quiet

The Angela Y. Davis-Ruchell Magee case came to another abrupt halt today when San Quentin inmate Magee was successful in removing the latest judge from the case.

Magee, surviving convict from the Aug. 7 shoot-out, opened the day's session in Marin Superior Court by filing a motion saying that he could not receive a fair hearing from Judge John P. McMurray, a retired Inyo County jurist.

The 30-year-old convict triumphantly said, "You're caught again," to prosecuting attorney Robert W. Harris Jr. as the judge led attorneys into his chambers to discuss the disqualification.

After more than two hours, the judge returned to the courtroom to say that he had disqualified himself from the case.

McMurray, a gaunt, plain-spoken man, had been appointed by the California Judicial Council to hear motions in the case, after the five Marin Superior Court Judges disqualified themselves.

Magee, who along with Miss Davis is charged with murder, kidnapping and conspiracy stemming from the Civic Center shoot-out in which Judge Harold J. Haley was killed, has attempted to run his own case from the outset, and has filed stacks of motions.

Earlier, he had moved that Marin judges E. Warren McGuire and Joseph G. Wilson be disqualified from the case. The first challenge, a preemptory one, was granted, but the second was denied after a hearing.

After two bomb threats thwarted efforts yesterday morning to begin hearings on motions, attorneys finally began arguments at 2 p.m.

One of Miss Davis's attorneys, Michael Tigar of Los Angeles, argued that the case against her should be dismissed because it is a "sham" and a "frameup" and based on purely circumstantial evidence.

He said that her activities on behalf of the Soledad Brothers and "other political prisoners" were constitutionally protected and he attacked as weak the identification of her by a gas station attendant which placed her at the Civic Center the day before the shoot-out.

As to why Miss Davis bought a fourth gun just before the shoot-out when she already owned three, and why she fled from California, Tigar indicated that she was "afraid."

Tigar's arguments were interrupted frequently during the first 15 minutes by thumpings from a holding cell adjacent to the courtroom. Magee had been placed there after his request that he act as his own attorney again had been denied.

After he asked to be taken from the court following Judge McMurray's order that Robert

10-Year Rapid Transit Plan Hit

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The Golden Gate Bridge District's $301 million, 10-year plan for a bus rapid transit link from Marin County to San Francisco ran into a wall of opposition last night.

A joint committee of San Francisco supervisors heard city officials and major civic organizations almost unanimously condemn the plan, during a two-and-one-half hour hearing. Three of the five committeemen declared opposition to the district plan, but agreed to delay making a formal recommendation to the full board of supervisors until March 29.

Only one San Francisco official joined bridge district and Marin County spokesmen in supporting the rapid transit plan for a second deck on the bridge and a tunnel to downtown San Francisco, exclusively for bus use.

San Francisco's approval is crucial to the bridge district's rapid transit proposal, which was drafted by the district under orders from the state Legislature to submit a long-range transit plan by April 3.

Should the Legislature kill the plan, the bridge district might be put out of business in July, when the last of the bonds that built the Golden Gate span are retired. Critics of the district have urged its abolition, but San Franciscans last night said they thought the district should continue operating its $25 million ferryboat and bus system already begun.

Last night's hearing was a joint session of the supervisors' street and transportation and planning and development committees, chaired by Supervisor James Mailliard.

The proposal was adopted unanimously last week by the bridge board, with the votes of Supervisors Mailliard and Peter Tamaras. Supervisors Ronald Pelosi and Robert E. Gonzales, also on the bridge board, were absent from last week's vote and Pelosi had requested last night's hearing.

Pelosi and Gonzales, members of the joint committee, joined Supervisor Terry A. Francois in opposing the rapid transit plan. But Supervisor Roger Boas persuaded the committee to delay action until March 29, so he could decide how to vote.

San Francisco Planning Director Allan B. Jacobs and spokesmen for San Francisco Tomorrow, San Francisco Beautiful and San Francisco Planning and Urban Renewal Association (SPUR) all argued that the bridge district's plans would offer "little or no benefits to the residents of San Francisco." They warned improved transit would hasten an exodus to Marin of middle-class San Francisco residents, clog city streets with more traffic

COURTROOM SALUTE — Angela Y. Davis raises a clenched fist in greeting to her supporters in the courtroom at the Marin County Civic Center. Today's hearing was quiet in comparison to yesterday's sessions plagued by bomb threat calls.

Moving Nixon Eulogy At Young's Funeral

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI)— Whitney Young Jr. was buried today in a pine-dotted hillside cemetery near his birthplace and in a moving eulogy President Nixon said all Americans have a responsibility to fulfill the dreams of equality which the civil rights leader championed.

"To fulfill his dream is the responsibility of each of us," Nixon said before a crowd of several hundred friends, family members, and high ranking dignitaries.

"It is the commitment that each of us makes in our hearts ... to help realize his American dream," Nixon said.

Nixon arrived at the Greenwood Cemetery shortly after the funeral cortege and Young's family was seated. The President walked through a crowd to the graveside and laid a presidential wreath of white and red carnations on the earth.

The President then stood upright, greeted Mrs. Young and other family members and began his eulogy.

"When others were asking what will the government do, Whitney Young was saying what can I do," Nixon said. "What can I do, what can I do to make this a better country through helping others toward equality.

"This recognition of equality was the dream of Whitney Young.

"Shortly before Christmas at a Cabinet meeting Whitney Young was offered a Cabinet position. He told me he felt he could do more for those he needed to help from outside the Cabinet than in it."

Nixon said Young's idea of America was "one nation, indivisible with liberty, justice and opportunity for all to fulfill his dreams.

"It is the responsibility of each of us to help fulfill the dream that was in his heart."

About 3,000 persons attended the services. Young was laid to rest in the heart of the blue grass country, only 40 miles from where he was born.

Young died last week in Lagos, Nigeria, at the age of 49. He was attending a conference on American-African relations when he was stricken with a cerebral hemmorhage.

After the graveside ceremony, Nixon returned to Blue Grass Field where he departed for Washington at 1:30 p.m.

120,000 March Up Fifth Avenue

NEW YORK (UPI)—Some 120,000 Irish-Americans, Irishmen and Irishmen-for-a-day marched up Fifth Avenue today in the city's 209th annual parade honoring Ireland's patron saint, St. Patrick.

The weatherman cast the only pall on the proceedings, replacing an earlier forecast of clear, sunny weather with cloudy skies and a chance of showers.

In all, 345 groups of marchers took part in the parade organized by the Ancient Order of Hibernians.

Toliver's Firing Recommended; 'Incompetence' Charge Leveled

The superintendent of the Sausalito School District has recommended that special assistant James T. Toliver Jr. be fired by the district board for "incompetence" and "disruptive" behavior.

In a letter delivered to Toliver Monday, Supt. Lawrence A. Lindberg charged the 37-year-old black educator with "failure to properly administer the school discipline program" and "failure to accept directives and suggestions of principal Henry Hopkins and cooperate with him and other district personnel."

Lindberg also accused Toliver, a tenured employee who has been with the district for almost four years, of "tardiness" and "encouraging and participating in activities disruptive of school district operations."

The superintendent's action came at the recommendation of Hopkins, principal of Martin Luther King School where Toliver has charge of the discipline program, among other duties.

In an evaluation dated March 12, Hopkins charged that the special assistant's performance "in administering discipline has been unsatisfactory, particularly in . . . bringing about a satisfactory solution to problems that appear to be explosive."

Lindberg also informed Toliver that even if the charges were proved false, he would not be employed next year as a special assistant because the position is being eliminated. Last week Toliver was one of 22 of the district's credentialed employees notified by Lindberg at a staff meeting that their jobs were being cut for budget reasons because of a continuing decline in district enrollment.

Toliver reacted with surprise to the administration's charges and vowed to fight the attempt to oust him.

"In my four years in the Sausalito School District I have never received any kind of formal evaluation of my performance," he said. "Now, out of a clear blue sky I have been presented with a number of accusations attempting to rip off not only my job, but my reputation as well."

Toliver said he and his attorney, Leonard Bjorkland, asked to meet with Lindberg to discuss the details of the charges, but "this request was denied."

He promised he will ask for a public hearing before the Sausalito school board, a right the Education Code provides tenured employees, and carry his case to the courts if necessary.

"During these past four years I have gone through too much and have put too much of myself into this community and this district to simply fold up my tent and silently steal away," he explained.

"I was this district's first black administrator," Toliver said. "I have seen its black employees picked off, one by one, in spite of the fact there are a majority of black children here from Marin City desperately in need of the empathy and insight provided by the black teacher. The white children have just as desperate a need to experience a positive relationship with a black adult," he added.

The superintendent's accusations drew prompt fire from school board chairman Nathaniel Johnson. "The black community interprets any move on Jim Toliver as a strike at black images in the school district, images the community feels are absolutely necessary for its youngsters," Johnson said. He added: "I can't even say how strongly I feel about this."

Evacuations On Bomb Scares Off

There will be no more mass evacuation of the Marin County Civic Center because of a bomb threat.

That was the unanimous decision of the Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday after bomb threats to both the Administration Building and the Hall of Justice between 9:30 a.m. and 11 a.m. (Another board of supervisors story, page 44.)

The threats, which proved unfounded, came as a hearing in the Angela Y. Davis case opened in the Hall of Justice.

The telephoned threats disrupted the Marin County Transit District board meeting twice, and the supervisors' session did not get underway until 1 p.m.

County Administrator Alan Bruce, who met with Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos, and the county's judges, said all agreed that henceforth, "there will be no general order of evacuation on the basis of simply a phone threat."

Backs Pep Pill

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A panel of experts on childhood behavior problems has made the second government endorsement in less than a week of "pep pill" treatment for some overactive children.

Their only quibble with the initial endorsement was that it underestimated the number of children so deviled by "inner tornadoes" they are considered potential candidates for treatment with amphetamines, or pep pills.

A government-assembled panel estimated last week in a report released by the Health, Education and Welfare Department that 3 per cent of all elementary school children up to about age 12 have "moderate and severe" behavior disorders.

"Three per cent is too low," Ronald S. Lipman, a National Institute of Mental Health (NIMH) official said Tuesday. "That report is somewhat conservative, but it's right for the time. No parent wants to be badgered to put his child on drugs.

Trial In Recess

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Charles Manson let his women codefendants confess and he smiled as other followers swore to his innocence but he never told what he knew of the Tate-Labianca murders.

The state and defense rested the punishment phase of the 10-month trial Tuesday without the 36-year-old Manson ever testifying before the middle class, predominantly middle-age jury.

The trial —which has cost Los Angeles County more than $800,000 —was in recess today. Final arguments on whether Manson and the three female killers get life or death are scheduled to start Thursday.

Sadat Supported

By United Press International

The Egyptian National Assembly has endorsed President Anwar Sadat's Middle East policies and voted never to give up the struggle to regain land seized by Israel in the 1967 war.

Egypt's top diplomat in Washington said Cairo would be willing to accept a United Nations peace keeping force but not if Israel were part of it.

In its first session since Sadat rejected a cease-fire extension March 7, the Egyptian assembly said the Egyptian people were ready to become "a nation of fighters alongside their armed forces."

Cairo radio said the assembly issued a resolution Tuesday night "declaring support for the leader and the people, emphasizing that we shall not give up one inch of our occupied land, no matter what the pressures and no matter how fierce the battle is."

Stork Party

WASHINGTON (UPI) —South Carolina's 68-year-old Republican Sen. Strom Thurmond becomes a father for the first time this month and his colleagues showered the expected infant with gifts Tuesday.

Among them was a diaper on which someone had colored a confederate flag.

"To insure propoer political development," the instructions said, "gold only at right ang

"To insure proper political development," the instructions said, "fold only at right angles."

Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., was host for the event, which may have been the first stork party in the history of the U.C. Capitol.

Thurmond's wife Nancy, 24, a former South Carolina beauty queen, was absent because the shower was a stag affair.

Dairymen Ask Price Increase

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California dairymen told a state hearing Tuesday that they needed higher prices from milk processors to help cope with rising production costs.

The state Agriculture Department hearing, continuing today, was being conducted at the request of producers who want changes in the Milk Pooling Plan and the Stabilization and Marketing Plans throughout the state except in the Inyo-Mono and Siskiyou areas.

The last price increase to dairymen was granted in 1967.

Since then, they said, there have been increases in hay prices, concentrate prices, labor costs and taxes.

Bread Firm Hit

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Federal Trade Commission has charged that nutritional claims for Wonder bread and Hostess snack cakes are false and exploit the desire of children and their parents for healthy growth.

The proposed complaint also charges false weight loss claims for Profile bread and seeks to eliminate the Profile trademark itself as deceptive.

The baker of all three products, ITT Continental Baking Co., Rye, N.Y., said it would contest the case. The firm's lawyer, John Schafer, complained that the FTC had changed its advertising rules and was pursuing its business prey like a hunter seeking "another notch in your gunstock."

According to FTC, Wonder bread is no more nutritious than most other enriched breads, Hostess snack cakes are made primarily of sugar, and thin-sliced Profile has only about five fewer calories per slice than regular bread.

Shamrock Day

DUBLIN (UPI)—Festive Irishmen today toasted the shamrock in song and dance and plenty of drink.

Bands, skirling pipes and mini-kilted majorettes swirled through flag-bedecked cities and towns. Thousands of visitors and Irish exiles joined the nation's 3 million residents in the celebrations marking St. Patrick's Day.

There were Gaelic games, race meetings, local sports and even hikes. It was a public holiday. Everything was closed except for essential services — and pubs ranked high on the list of essentials.

They were open and doing a roaring trade as Irishmen swept worries under the rug and forgot about inflated prices that put the shamrock at twice last year's cost.

Hawkers pushing their carts through the streets and little boys with baskets on their arms were asking up to 15 cents a sprig.

Thomas E. Dewey Dies At 68

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—Thomas E. Dewey, crime-busting attorney, three times governor of New York and twice unsuccessful Republican presidential candidate, died Tuesday of a heart attack. He would have been 69 March 24.

His body was to be flown to New York today for funeral services. The cause of death was listed as a heart attack, although the full autopsy report would not be released until later today.

Dewey had planned to attend a White House dinner Tuesday night and a St. Patrick's Day celebration today. President Nixon held a moment of silence at the dinner in honor of Dewey.

A bellhop at the Seaview Hotel found his body face up on a bed in his hotel room. The bellboy went to the room when Dewey failed to meet a chauffeur-driven limousine which was to take him to the airport. Dewey's luggage was packed on the bed beside him.

The Miami Heart Institute said Dewey underwent a checkup on Feb. 2, but was not a patient at the time of his death. Dr. Richard Elias, who conducted the examination, said, "I found what his doctor in New York already knew, that he had coronary artery disease."

Duane Andreas, president of the Seaview and a close friend of the former governor, said he and Dewey had played 18 holes of golf Tuesday morning. "He had a good game, a good day," Andreas said.

History probably will best remember Dewey as the man who, as the Republican presidential candidate in 1948, lost in one of the biggest upsets in American politics.

Once before, in 1944, he had lost the presidency, but political experts had not expected him to win that time against the popular incumbent Franklin D. Roosevelt, in the middle of World War II.

But in 1948, with two minority parties expected to drain the Democrats and signs that President Harry S Truman appeared unpopular across the country, Dewey seemed a sure winner after capturing the GOP nomination.

Several public opinion polls stopped taking straw votes because they said the campaign was too one-sided, and people began talking about President Dewey.

But he lost in a stunning upset blamed in part by experts on Truman's scrappy campaign, the revolt of the farm states, the decline of the third parties and Dewey's and the Republican party's complacency.

The defeat branded Dewey a loser. "We should have known he couldn't win," said Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, daughter of Theodore Roosevelt. "A souffle never rises twice."

"We followed you twice down the road," bellowed Sen. Everett Dirksen from the speakers' platform at the GOP national convention in 1952, "and you led us twice down the road to defeat."

THOMAS E. DEWEY
Upset by Truman

But Dewey was not done. He was re-elected in 1950 to his third term as governor of New York.

And at the 1952 convention, while the conservative wing of the party under Sen. Robert Taft of Ohio was bolting from his leadership, Dewey helped win the nomination for his candidate, Dwight D. Eisenhower, and was influential in having a young California Senator, Richard M. Nixon, put on the ticket as vice presidential candidate.

Dewey, long after his retirement from active politics, remained in contact with the Republican Party.

"The one thing I want to do in whatever way I can is to make the courage of eternal youth run once more in the veins of my party and my country," he once said.

Dewey, of famous lineage which dated back to the 1630s was known for his eloquent manner, his immaculate appearance, his natty black mustache. Mrs. Longworth said he looked "like the little man on top of the wedding cake."

Born in Owosso, Mich., Dewey graduated from the University of Michigan and Columbia University Law School. He worked in private practice and in 1934 he became a special prosecutor studying racketeers in New York.

In that position, he won 72 convictions in the 73 cases he handled and convicted underworld leader Charles (Lucky) Luciano. As governor, Dewey paroled Luciano in 1946 on the provision he would be deported.

Dewey's crime fighting activity led him to run for governor in 1938. He was narrowly defeated. He became New York's youngest governor in 1942 and was reelected in 1946 by the biggest margin up to that time.

As governor, he founded the State University of New York, expanded the highways, cut taxes and enacted the first antidiscrimination laws in the country.

The only failure Dewey ever confessed to in his career came while governor when in the 1940s he launched an investigation of graft and corruption in Albany County. The investigation came to virtually nothing.

"I tried my damndest and I did not succeed," Dewey said.

Dewey aides, encouraged by their leader, were also convinced of victory in 1948. Some looked for housing in Washington. One even signed a lease. But as the final returns were tabulated, he lost narrowly.

Dewey came back to Albany aboard the "Dewey Campaign Victory Special." He made no attempt to conceal his disappointment, his shock.

"There was no hint during the campaign that I should change anything," Dewey told reporters. "Herb Brownell (his campaign manager) talked with the Republican leaders and every single one of them said we were doing the right thing, and we would win.

"But now I am convinced of one thing. And that is that never again will a political campaign be conducted on a high plane. Not if you want to win. To win, you've got to get down in the gutter and slug," Dewey said, a loser to Truman's "give-'em-hell" campaign.

Dewey's administration was one that never permitted an official to do anything which might reflect on the state. His friend, Senate Majority Leader Arthur Wicks, had been accused of visiting a labor leader in jail.

Dewey called Wicks to his office and told him, "You've made a bad error, Art, and you've got to go." Wicks was ousted from his leadership post.

Exclusive Interview By Nixon Scheduled

NEW YORK (UPI)—President Nixon will give an exclusive television interview March 22 to ABC-TV commentator Howard K. Smith—the first prime time live interview ever granted by a president to a single newsman.

The network, which made the announcement Tuesday, said the interview entitled "White House Conversation" will be shown March 22 from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. EST. There will be no restrictions placed on Smith, the network said.

'Student Champion' Gets Seat On College Board

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Gov. Ronald Reagan has named Norman E. Watts Jr. of San Anselmo to the California Community Colleges board, the governor's office reported today.

Watts, 28, said he will try to champion the views of students. "It has been my opinion that in a lot of cases they have been ignored," he said.

Watts, a Republican and vice president of Quaker Hill Development Co. of San Rafael, said he worked extensively with a statewide student group called Students for a Creative Society last year. He said he pushed for increasing the state allotment for the educational opportunity program and for running state colleges throughout the year.

He said one of his first acts on the board will be to take a close look at providing more vocational training at community colleges.

Watts, who lives at 28 Woodside Drive, has been a Marin resident since 1967, the year he graduated from college. From 1962 to 1967 he attended night school at American University in Washington, D.C., graduating with a bachelor's degree in political science.

While a student, he was a staff assistant in 1962 for a former Southern California representative and in 1963 and 1964 for an Ohio congressman.

From 1964 to 1967, he was a research assistant for the legal office of Sears-Roebuck.

A native of Los Angeles, he was reared in San Marino and Pasadena.

Reappointed to the community college board yesterday were James C. Dodd, 47, of Sacramento; Harman K. Howard, 55, of Oakland; Joan King, 40, of Bradbury, Los Angeles County; and Myrtle Wiens, 63, of Porterville, Tulare County.

All but Dodd are Republicans.

The appointments must be approved by the state Senate.

TRANSIT

and bring "years of major disruption" if the bus subway is built.

San Francisco Public Works Director S. Myron Tatarian was the only city official defending the deck-and-tunnel plan. He drew grumbles from the 60-person audience by urging an additional new freeway link to the downtown, and use of the bridge second deck by weekend auto traffic.

Jacobs argued that only a rail rapid transit line would benefit the city.

(Bridge directors eliminated rail proposals from their plan due to the estimated $1 billion cost, but said their proposed bus tunnel could be converted to rails in the future.)

Pelosi last night warned bridge officials that their plan would have a "pretty tough time" finding a favorable majority on his board.

Defending the plan were three Marin residents. Ben Farlatti, president of the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau; Margaret Azevedo of Tiburon, chairman of the citizens committee advising the span board on the plan, and Tiburon's Mayor Denis T. Rice, spokesman for the Marin County Transit District.

They argued that failure to adopt a transit plan would increase auto traffic in San Francisco and necessitate widening Highway 101 to 18 lanes by the year 2010.

Lester Cohen of Sausalito spoke for the Sierra Club, against rapid transit as encouraging further population increase.

Bike Rider's Injuries Minor

Timothy Kirk, 11, of 31 San Miquel Way, Novato, suffered a bruised right leg in a car-bicycle accident at 1525 Grant Avenue, Novato, at 3:15 p.m. yesterday.

Novato police reported that Kirk's eastbound bicycle collided with a car driven by Carol Ann Cooper, 28, of 140 Kaden Drive, which was making a left turn into a bank driveway.

Kirkway was examined at Kaiser Hospital, Terra Linda.

Irish Premier Hopes For End To Violence

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Irish Prime Minister John Lynch expressed hope on St. Patrick's Day Wednesday that "the passions and prejudice of over 300 years" between Protestants and Roman Catholics will end in Northern Ireland.

After appearing on nationwide television ("Today" — NBC), the visiting head of government of the independent Republic of Ireland attended a special mass at St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church in downtown Washington.

Lynch, guest of honor Tuesday night at a White House celebration, said violence in Northern Ireland, still part of Britain, "must end sooner or later. But the passions and prejudice of over 300 years will

Napa Man Charged In Coed Slaying

NAPA (UPI)—Authorities today charged "Willie the Woodcutter," a 57-year-old family man, with the murder of Lynda Kanes, a 20-year-old coed at a religious school.

The suspect, Walter Boyd Williams, was to appear in St. Helena Justice Court to be arraigned.

He was arrested Tuesday at his home in rural St. Helena but officials would not disclose how he was linked to the slaying of Miss Kanes, whose body was found in a shallow grave near a remote mountain road a week after she disappeared last month.

Williams, who has a wife and four children, has lived in Napa County for 22 years and made his living by cutting and selling firewood in the hill country. He was known as "Willie the Woodcutter."

The Napa County Sheriff's office said it would withhold all information about the case, but a spokesman said there was "no connection" with the notorious Zodiac killer, several of whose victims were slain in the area.

Miss Kanes, a student at Pacific Union College at Angwin, vanished Feb. 26 while en route to a part time job she held at a country club at St. Helena.

Her automobile, with a portable radio still playing inside, was found on the mountain road near where her body was uncovered a week later. Near the car was her windbreaker with her bra neatly folded on top.

Mass searches, which included students from the Seventh Day Adventist College, failed at first to find her body. But on March 6 deputies came upon the grave covered with logs and brush, in a ravine about 300 yards from where the car had been abandoned.

Further searching turned up other items near the body, including a 48-star American flag with a piece missing, a two-gallon galvanized can with the residue of gasoline and oil mixture, half a barracks bag and a length of manila rope.

An autopsy showed the body had been beaten. In addition, there was a wire noose around the neck.

Air Show, Open House: Gnoss Field

Robert Cummings, film, theater and television actor, will appear at an open house and air show Saturday marking the opening of Spectrum Air's new facilities at Gnoss Field, north of Novato.

The open house, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., will feature displays of new Cessna aircraft and antique planes such as the Ford tri-motor, Stearman, P-51, AT6 and B-25.

Air rides will be offered at a penny a pound, there will be sightseeing rides and refreshments will be served, Spectrum Air reported.

The event is to mark the opening of the firm's new pilot center and new offices to replace those destroyed in a fire last October.

Cummings, a director of Spectrum Air, is a professional pilot and aviation enthusiast.

The event is open to the public at no charge, Spectrum Air announced.

$25 Fine On Pot Charge

Neil George Cuzner, 18, of Novato, has been fined $25 for a misdemeanor conviction of possessing marijuana.

Judge Robert A. Smallman of Marin Municipal Court also placed Cuzner on probation for one year.

Cuzner had pleaded guilty to the charge in February when it was reduced from a felony count, stemming from his ar-

Brazil Is Making Strides Within

By LORENZ STUCKI
Toronto Telegram News Service

Except for a small peripheral zone, all of Brazil lies south of the equator. For this reason, the well-known "north-south gap" is reversed. Brazil's "Milano" and "Torino" are in the south, its "Sicily" and "Calabria" in the north.

But distances are far greater in this huge country than in Italy, and while in southern Europe the 19th & 20th centuries often meet, in Brazil the encounter is between the 18th and 21st centuries.

Any one viewing Sao Paulo from the top of a skyscraper comes to think of Manhattan as a bit old-fashioned and rather small. Brasilia, the nation's new capital, is the first planned metropolis consistently conceived and built for the automotive age, without intersections and traffic lights, with pedestrian walks and children's playgrounds cleanly separated from the speeding traffic.

A good many things regarded elsewhere as architectural futurism have already been realized or are under construction here. Yet the northeastern part of the country, aside from its few larger cities, still lives in the epoch of the French Revolution or even in the era before the rise of the middle class, in a state of deepest feudalism.

Feudalism in northeastern Brazil, which is as large as Italy, Spain and Portugal combined, was intact until recently to the extent that not only the feudal lords, but also most of their "serfs" regarded it as normal and organic and felt a certain loyalty toward their propertied masters.

The people are poor and disenfranchised, many of them starve in years of severe drought, women must bear 10 children in order for four or five to survive past infancy, and the average life expectancy is hardly more than 30.

People here did not object to these conditions, any more than the masses of Central Europe did some centuries ago, for they lacked any standards measured against which their lives might have seemed humanly unworthy and social conditions absurdly unjust.

That is, until the arrival of the transistor radio and people from a later century who came and showed them: politicians from the south seeking new voters, city people from the coast searching for new markets and new sources of labor, bishops and priests, of whom more than half are foreigners in this part of the country.

More recently, the international press (in its constant search for the sensationalism of misery) has also discovered this forgotten piece of ground,, this Brazilian counterpoint to the glamor of Rio de Janeiro and the ultra-modernity of Sao Paulo. The misery is not new. What is new is the fact that people concerned no longer accept it resignedly as God's will.

Also new are the transportation facilities by means of which some of the most miserable attempt to flee to the presumed eldorado of the big cities, on the peripheries of which they live as flotsam in the favelas.

Why has this part of the country remained mired in such backward conditions? The main answer lies in the remote past, which is sketchy. Portugal, the seafaring colonial power which sent its ships to all continents in the 16th Century, including East Asia and Africa, had difficulty finding people willing to emigrate to this vast territory.

Through promises of land and dominion it attracted feudal lords with their dependents and their personal followers, people who did not wish to build a new world but only to go on living their dreams of the old, servants of the king, colonial officials. Without enterprise and without the puritan ethic of achievement of the English and German, Dutch and Scandinavian colonizers of North America, they were also without racial prejudice; they quickly intermarried with the Indians and later also with the Negroes, workers and slaves purchased from black and Arab slave dealers in the African territories and imported into Brazil.

In their tolerance for one another and for human weakness, these three racial groups were quite similar and so they jointly drove out the more industrious Dutch who for a time dominated parts of the northeast. Out of this arose an easy-going, charming, handsome, rather sleepy and undemanding type of person, well-suited to the tropical climate, inclined to music, to dreaming and vegetating, accepting sufferings humbly and passively from God or the gods.

Thus began Brazil, and it began in the northeast, where San Salvador de Bahia, founded in 1549 as one of the first cities in South America, served as the capital.

The main crop was sugar, a product which calls for large plantations and therefore not suitable for the smaller-scale farming common in Europe. In the course of the centuries, other countries began producing increasing amounts of sugar and thus competing with Brazil; the growing popularity of beet sugar finally destroyed the dominating market position which had formerly been enjoyed by northeastern Brazil's cane product. Energetic, enterprising and industrious colonists, such as those from the northern countries who opened up, subdued and developed half the world, would have turned to something else — but not the Brazilians.

Later times brought further waves of immigration to Brazil, aimed first at Minais Gerais, where gold and diamonds had been discovered, and then, under the influence of Europe's population explosion, concentrating on the southern part of the country where the climate was most favorable and where Italian, German and Swiss immigrants settled in order to build a new life, as did Japanese settlers a century later, driven by similar population pressures.

These people came from countries which were in the full flower of development under liberal free enterprise and, here as in the United States, sought that which they had lacked in the old country and strove for success in the new world of limitless possibilities. For them the northeast, the north and the still trackless west were other worlds about which they were unconcerned.

The south was large enough.

San Salvador de Bahia, once the capital of the Portuguese colony of Brazil, is situated on a gigantic bay with a highly irregular coastline and dotted with many islands, an incomparable spot both as to landscape and the advantages of its natural harbor.

While Sao Paulo has grown to nearly four times its former size during the last two decades, Bahia remained for four centuries a sleepy little fishing town, with beautiful, splendid churches but without any notable commercial port or trade. The gigantic coastline of the bay outside the small city remained empty, and in the hinterlands of the State of Bahia, which is as big as France, the clockwork of history stood still.

For the past few years the clock has been running again and an attempt is being made to catch up on the centuries. On the By of Bahia a satellite city called Aratu now is being created, spread over an area of some 160 square miles and planned for a million inhabitants. The Northeastern development agency, the state and the city of Bahia joined forces in the Centro Industrial Aratu, which is using public funds to create port facilities, streets, man-made lakes and parks, facilities for electricity and public water supplies — in brief, the entire infrastructure of a large industrial city . . . thus the 20th century has arrived.

Novato Panel Endorses 'Bedroom Tax'

The Novato Parks and Recreation Commission has endorsed a planning staff proposal that a "bedroom tax" be levied on new development to obtain funds for park and recreation purposes.

Commissioners Monday night felt the proposed tax was a good approach toward obtaining revenue, reported recreation director Edward W. Adams.

As proposed developers would have to pay the tax, $75 for the first bedroom and $15 for each additional bedroom, for all residential construction, including mobile homes.

The Novato Planning Commission will have a special meeting at 8 p.m. March 29 to discuss the proposed tax.

Parks and recreation commissioners received a request from Betty Machado of 1424 Dawes Street that the seven-member commission be expanded to include four more youth members. John Briggs, a high school student is now serving on the commission.

The commission tabled the request since the city is working toward establishing a youth advisory committee as proposed by City Mgr. Charles A. Brown, Adams reported.

Gonorrhea was next highest on the list with 38 cases reported, 15 cases of Rubella, two cases of infectious hepatitis, and one case each of measles, syphilis and salmonella infections.

Downtown Plan Stirs More Heat

The sections of the Novato downtown plan covering Grant Avenue, east and west, came under fire at a public hearing before the Novato City Council last night.

Richard Gronberg, proprietor of Johnson's Red Barn, challenged the provision for a mall along East Grant Avenue, and Planning Commissioner Ben F. Edwards had doubts about eliminating parking along West Grant Avenue.

Councilmen took no action at their second hearing on the plan, attended by about 15 persons, but indicated it would be up for adoption next Tuesday.

Gronberg criticized the provision that the East Grant area be devoted solely to office and commercial use, pointing out that light industry now exists there.

There is sufficient commercial and office space in Novato, but a lack of sites for light industrial, he said. The proposed plan would discourage expansion of industry in the area, he said.

Councilman Wayne Sartain said the city should be looking for other areas for industrial development, not the East Grant area.

Gronberg doubted that the proposed mall from Machin Avenue to Scott Street, flanked by small shops, would work.

Sartain said the plan is aimed at "what can be," not what exists now.

Councilmen emphasized it wasn't the city's intent to hurt small business, and Sartain said the purpose of designating the Pinheiro Ranch site for a regional shopping center was "to try to help downtown."

There are now commercial and office uses in the West Grant area and the plan calls for it to be primarily an office center.

Some businesses "thrive on what's there" and "some couldn't thrive on what's proposed," Edwards said, in a plea for flexibility in the plan.

Edwards also expressed concern that the provision to eliminate parking along Grant Avenue from Highway 101 to Seventh Street, and have off-street parking, would drive some businesses from the area.

Sartain said at present "Grant Avenue does not function well," and possibly there is a case for replacing diagonal parking with parallel parking.

Councilman George C. Quesada called for the council to be dedicated to the plan and do everything it can to implement it, rather than making alternate provisions before it is given a chance.

Councilmen also indicated they favored the provision for clustered multiple family development on Reichert Hills, which would provide open spaces, a provision favored by owners of the land involved.

Fire Kills Boy, Injures Four Others

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Flames and smoke billowed upward in a downtown boutique Tuesday to the mezzanine living quarters of a family where a young boy was killed and four members of his family injured.

An ambulance steward, John L. Meyers, 50, suffered a fatal heart attack at the scene.

The youngster who died was Mark Whisler, 5, son of Louis Whisler, 35, who is in serious condition, and of Melinda Whisler, 32, who is in critical condition.

In addition, the boy's two sisters were injured. They are Holly 6, who is in critical condition, and Amy, 4, who is in satisfactory condition.

The only entrance to the living quarters was through the apparel shop, arson inspector Richard Crispin noted as he estimated damage at $30,000.

Firemen had to break through wired glass windows in an alley in their rescue attempts.

Some of the damage was in other establishments in the six-story structure on Grant Avenue, near Market Street.

Surplus Trucks Up For Bidding

The surplus property sales office at Hamilton Air Force Base has announced that two trucks and a cargo trailer, for sale by sealed bid, may be inspected at the base starting tomorrow.

Rezoning Land Near Campus Site Backed

The Novato City Council last night introduced an ordinance to rezone 15.4 acres adjacent to the proposed north campus of the College of Marin from limited agriculture to planned residential.

Planning Director Brian W. Mattson said the proposed zoning would provide flexibility to preserve the natural features of the site: San Jose Creek and heavy tree cover. A development is planned at the site.

Existing zoning would permit the parcel to be subdivided into 7,500-square-foot lots, he explained.

Redwood Land and Investment Co. requested the zone change for the site on the south side of San Jose Boulevard, opposite San Jose Junior High School and east of the college site.

Councilmen also introduced an ordinance to rezone 8.8 acres on the east side of Marin Valley Drive, south of Bolling Drive, from highway commercial to planned residential, as requested by Myron Kaplan.

The council recommended that density be about 10 to 15 units per acre and land coverage be limited to 30 to 35 per cent of the site.

The Novato City Council Also:

ANNEXATION — Approved annexation to the city of the Marin County Housing Authority's 40-unit senior citizen housing project at the north end of Fourth Street.

SAN MARIN — Approved precise development plans for a 16-unit townhouse complex on the east side of San Andreas Drive, north of San Marin Drive, and a three-unit apartment building at the northeast corner of San Andreas Drive and San Andreas Court, as submitted by Standard Investment Co.

REZONING — Adopted an ordinance rezoning lots at 1033 Second Street and 1032 Third Street from single family to apartments, as requested by Jack Chernow.

APARTMENTS — Adopted precise development plans for a 32-unit apartment development on the south side of Rowland Boulevard, east of South Novato Boulevard, submitted by Charles Kuhn.

PREZONING — Adopted an ordinance to prezone 20.5 acres of unincorporated land south of Center Road and east of Eucalyptus Avenue for single family residential along Sun Lane and limited agricultural along Eucalyptus Avenue.

MOBILE HOME — Adopted an ordinance to prezone 31.5 acres in the unincorporated area east of Marin Valley Mobile Country Club park.

ANNEXATION — Set 8 p.m. April 27 for a public hearing on annexation of 12.6 acres, south of center road and east of Eucalyptus Avenue.

Arraignment On Credit Card Forgery

Stephen Robert Carrino, 23, of San Rafael, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on a charge of credit card forgery. He is to plead to the charge next Tuesday.

Carrino was arrested Saturday after security agents at Disco department store in San Rafael discovered him attempting to use an allegedly stolen credit card.

Consultant Is Eyed For Creek Study

The Novato Flood Control Zone Advisory board is considering hiring a consulting engineer to evaluate methods for Novato Creek flood control other than the plan proposed by the Army Corps of Engineers.

The Corps plan calls for most of Novato Creek to be left in its natural state, but for nearby Warner Creek to be in a concrete channel.

Charles E. Murphy, Marin County Flood Control engineer, said board members Monday night stressed the need for protecting the environment and ecology.

Murphy said he was designated to determine the scope of work a consultant would be expected to undertake and report back to the board.

No date was set for the board's next meeting, but Murphy expected it would be in mid-April.

Three new members joined the board — Jack Kniveton, president of Bel Marin Keys Homeowners Association; Tom Nolan, Novato assistant city engineer, and Dr. L. J. Becnel of Novato.

J. Dietrich Stroeh was elected board president, succeeding Frank Galli.

Auto Stolen

Someone took his 1964 Cadillac from the rear of 1233 Fourth Street between 2:30 and 7:30 p.m. yesterday, William Clinton McDuffie of 273 Mt. View Avenue, San Rafael, reported to police.

Negligence Charges In Oil Spill Inquiry

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The captains of two tankers which collided under the Golden Gate Bridge, causing a massive oil spill in San Francisco Bay, were charged with negligence Tuesday by the Coast Guard.

The federal agency filed charges of "negligence in the performance of their duties" against Capt. Harry H. Parnell of the Arizona Standard and Capt. Morris E. English of the Oregon Standard. Both ships belong to Standard Oil of California.

The two ships collided in darkness and fog Jan. 18 in the middle of the channel beneath the bridge, causing 840,000 gallons of fuel oil to spill into the water.

Thousands of volunteers conducted a massive clean-up and bird rescue operation after the accident.

The charges resulted from evidence presented before a Coast Guard board of inquiry. The agency said a hearing will be held next Tuesday before federal examiner Tilden Edwards to determine "the right of each captain to hold his U.S. Coast Guard license as a master mariner and San Francisco Bay pilot."

Monetary Policy Hit By Banker

SAN FRANCISCO — (BW) — United California Bank's chief economist Dr. Raymonda Jallow, declared that current monetary policies are "Planting the seeds for a renewed inflationary spiral and contined weakness of the American dollar in international markets."

To overcome this situation, the senior vice preisdent urged monetary authorities "to maintain a rate of inflation below the 5 per cent level.

"It is mandatory that the federal reserve board authorities expand the total money stock (including time deposits) by no more than an 8 per cent to 10 per cent annual rate instead of the current 18 per cent growth rate," Jallow told the annual meeting of the Western Independent Bankers Assn.

Spiritual Folk Singers Simon, Garfunkel Win Grammy Awards

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —Simon and Garfunkel's "Bridge Over Troubled Water," which ushered in a spiritual trend in pop music, won six Grammy awards Tuesday night including record, song and album of the year.

In taking the top award of the National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences, the group's spiritual folk song beat "Close to You" by the Carpenters, "Everything is Beautiful" by Ray Stephens, "Fire and Rain" by James Taylor, and "Let It Be," by the Beatles.

The brother and sister team of Richard and Karen Carpenter's "Close To You" won best contemporary vocal performance by a group and they also were named best new artists of the year.

Stephens' "Everything is Beautiful" was named best contemporary male vocal performance. Best contemporary female vocal went to Dionne Warwick for "I'll Never Fall in Love Again."

B. B. King's "The Thrill is Gone" won best rhythm and blues vocal by a male.

One of the biggest surprises at the national televised awards presentation, held simultaneously in New York, Chicago, Nashville, Atlanta and originating at the Hollywood Palladium, was the appearance of Paul McCartney.

"I didn't think I was going to get in because I didn't have a black tie on," said the McCartney who accepted a grammy for the Beatles "Let It Be," which was judged best original score written for a motion picture.

Paul Simon and Art Garfunkel, who once were reported to have said they would never attend a Grammy Awards ceremony, accepted their awards in person at the 13th annuql presentations. Their other Grammys included best arrangement accompanying vocalist, best engineered recording, and best contemporary song.

Aretha Franklin won a Grammy for best rhythm and blues female vocal for "Don't Play that Song".

Best Rhythm and Blues song was "Patches" by Ronald Dunbar and General Johnson and the Delfonics won best rhythm and blues group performance with "Didn't I (Blow Your Mind This Time)."

Other winners in some of the 44 categories were, best country female vocal performance, Lynn Anderson for "Rose Garden;" best country group performance, Johnny Cash and June Carter for "If I Were A Carpenter;" best country song, "My Woman, My Woman, My Wife," by Marty Robbins; best instrumental arrangement, Theme from "Z" by Henry Mancini; best recording for children, "Sesame Street;" best comedy recording, "The Devil Made Me Buy this Dress," by Flip Wilson; and best spoken word recording, "Why I Oppose the War in Vietnam," by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

In jazz categories, small group performance went to Bill Evans and large group was Miles Davis' "Bitches Brew."

Bus Service Operating In Marin At A Deficit

Central Marin bus service between Novato and Kentfield is operating with an 88 per cent public subsidy, and the Tiburon feeder service with a 90 per cent subsidy.

These figures were released yesterday in a statement of operating expense and revenue submitted to the Marin County Transit District directors yesterday by Marin Transit Systems Inc. of Marin City.

The bus firm provides both the central Marin service and the Tiburon feeder service under contract with the Golden Gate Bridge District.

For the month of February, the total operating expense for the central Marin service was $7,695. The 3,978 passengers paid a total of $942.55 in fares. This meant a total operating loss of $6,752.45, or 88 per cent.

In February, the Tiburon feeder service fared worse. Total operating cost was $2,732.50. The 1,310 passengers paid $282.20 in fares. This meant an operating loss of $2,450.30, or 90 per cent.

The situation in February represented a slight improvement over January figures.

In January, the central Marin service had a total operating expense of $8,100. The 3,037 passengers brought a revenue of $680.35, leaving a total operating loss of $7,419.65, a 92 per cent deficit.

For the Tiburon service in January, total operating income from 1,001 passengers was $243.10. Total operating expense was $2,900.10, an operating loss of $2,656.90, also a 92 per cent deficit.

The operating loss is subsidized by the Marin County Transit District from revenues collected from a countywide tax of 5 cents per $100 assessed value.

The transit district is distributing bus schedules and publicity placards in an effort to increase patronage and reduce the subsidy.

Samuel Manheimer of Ross rose from the audience section to suggest that merchants be asked to advertise in the buses and help defray expenses. He told transit directors that many county residents are not aware of the bus service despite the publicity efforts.

Printed bus schedules are available at the Marin County Transit District office in the Hall of Justice at the Marin Civic Center.

Transit Company Will Add Saturday Service

Saturday bus service and three more weekday runs will be added to the Central Marin bus service provided by Marin Transit Systems between Novato and Kentfield.

Marin County Transit District directors yesterday instructed James B. Robertson, acting general manager of the district, to start the expanded service as soon as possible.

Robertson said he would try to have the Saturday service started this weekend. A detail of the Saturday schedule has not been completed, but Robertson said it will be similar to the daily schedule, which starts at 6:39 a.m. in San Marin.

The transit directors also approved the addition of these three new runs to improve service:

A 7:39 a.m. bus will leave San Marin and arrive at College of Marin at 8:55 a.m. At present, the first bus leaves at 6:39 a.m. and the second bus at 8:39 a.m.

A 7:15 a.m. bus will leave College of Marin and head north, reaching San Marin at 8:31 a.m. At present, the first bus to leave the college is at 8:15 a.m.

At present, the last northbound bus leaves College of Marin at 3:15 p.m., hitting the Civic Center at 3:47, and arriving at San Marin at 4:31 p.m. Another run will be added so that the last bus will leave College of Marin at 4:30 p.m., stopping at the Civic Center after the 5 p.m. closing time, and arriving in San Marin about 5:45 p.m.

Transit directors also asked Robertson to see if a bus can serve the Tamalpais Retirement Residence at 501 Via Casitas in Greenbrae and whether a bus stop can be arranged in Loma Verde on the west side of Highway 101 opposite Nave Lanes.

California's First Quints; Fertility Pill

VAN NUYS, Calif. (UPI)— Mrs. Pearl Kaplan, who gave birth to California's first quintuplets, had been taking an experimental fertility drug not commercially available in the United States.

Dr. Hubert Rubenstein, the obstetrician in charge of Tuesday's delivery team of 26 doctors and nurses, said Mrs. Kaplan, 25, had been taking the drug Humagon for about a year before she became pregnant. The drug is manufactured in Europe and available in America only on an experimental basis.

One of the 10-week premature infants was stillborn. But the other four, all girls weighing about two pounds, were in "guarded condition" at Valley Presbyterian Hospital. Doctors expected the infants to live.

School Workers Ask 6 Pct. Pay Increase

Fairfax School District classified employees last night asked district trustees for a 6 per cent cost-of-living pay increase plus fringe benefits similar to those asked earlier by the district's teachers.

School board members took no action on the request. They said they would study the entire salary picture before asking any decision.

H. Reginald Hammond, district superintendent, said the nonteaching employees asked a special 6 per cent raise to bring secretaries' pay schedules into line with other districts, plus total health insurance for employees and families, and an extension of the pay scale for length of service. The top scale now is for six years, Hammond reported; the classified employees want to add increments to 15 years.

Hammond today estimated that the cost-of-living pay raise would cost "roughly $18,000, plus $8,000 for the medical coverage."

The Fairfax School District Board Also:

FINANCES — After discussing proposals for a statewide property tax and other innovations to finance schools, decided to write Marin County's legislators opposing a sugested override tax to finance pupil transportation. "It would shift more burden onto the local property owner," Hammond explained.

MEETING — Approved attendance by Hammond and executive secretary for finances, Gwyneth McGee, at a regional school districts finance meeting in Petaluma March 25.

REORGANIZATION — Heard Hammond report that a letter outlining pros and cons of reorganizing Deer Park and Central schools to provide kindergarten through third grade at one school and fourth through sixth grades at the other, will be sent to district parents next week.

DEER PARK — Heard Hammond report that he will meet with county parks and recreation director Pierre W. Joske tomorrow, to discuss joint development of land at the Deer Park School.

Panel On Sewage To Be Named

Appointment of a hearing panel to consider a cease and desist order against two Southern Marin sewage dischargers, and possibly also a ban on all new construction in their territory, is on the agenda of the Regional Water Quality Control Board's monthly meeting on March 25 in Oakland.

The board will meet from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and from 2 p.m. to adjournment in the Board Room of the East Bay Municipal Utility District, 2130 Adeline Street.

The regional board also is to set a date for the hearing panel to meet. The board generally appoints three of its nine members as a hearing panel.

If this is done, the panel probably will hold its hearing in time to recommend formal action by the full board at its April 29 meeting.

The Independent-Journal reported an incorrect statement Saturday by the Richardson Bay Sanitary District that the cease and desist order would be considered by the regional board at the March 25 meeting.

The other affected discharger is the City of Mill Valley.

The possibility of a ban on all new construction was suggested by the regional board's staff when the board adopted tough new standards for sewage treatment by the two dischargers.

The I-J, in a separate story Saturday, also reported incorrectly that the new standards had not yet been adopted by the regional board. They were adopted unanimously on Feb. 25.

The regional board, however, agreed at that meeting to consider on March 25 any evidence by the two dischargers that the new standards should be eased. Spokesmen for the two objected that the standards were impossible to meet, and that the only alternative would be to pump the treated sewage out Tennessee Valley for discharge into the ocean.

Banning new construction, which has been ordered in several other communities by the regional board, would be aimed at preventing any further pollution until the two dischargers met the new standards.

In some cases, however, the regional board has lifted a ban when it found that a discharger was making significant progress toward meeting its standards.

Decision Due On Insurance Manager

Hiring an insurance manager for the Golden Gate Bridge District will be considered by its insurance committee at 10 a.m. tomorrow in toll plaza offices.

Also on the agenda are proposals to increase major medical benefits under group insurance from $10,000 to $20,000, and to market all high-risk bridges in the International Bridge, Tunnel and Turnpike Association as one package to insurance companies.

The legislation-public relations committee also will meet tomorrow, at 1:30 p.m., to consider hiring the San Francisco public relations firm of Arnold & Palmer & Noble as district consultants. The same firm did the public relations work on the district's long-range transportation plan.

President Of Firm Chews A Safety Blade

NEW YORK (UPI)—The president of the Personna Safety Razor Co. put his mouth where his money is Tuesday.

He chewed on a razor blade wrapped in a plastic pouch and other coverings which the Federal Trade Commission says is hazardous to children.

Some 80 million blades were distributed in the wrappings in newspaper inserts March 7 and 14 bringing complaints to authorities resulting in the FTC action.

Personna President Charles H. Wilson Tuesday chomped on one of the wrapped blades in a television interview (WNEW-TV) with no apparent ill effects.

Wilson then twisted and bent the wrapping with his fingers. So did a reporter. Neither appeared able to extract the blade.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT — The First Lady announced the engagement of her daughter Tricia to New York socialite Edward Cox last night during a White House party that celebrated the engagement, Mrs. Nixon's 59th birthday and St. Patrick's Day. Irish Prime Minister John Lynch and his wife were guests at the party which was described as one of the "swingingest" ever held in the White House.

Saigon GIs Pursued By Reds In Laos

SAIGON (UPI)—More than 1,000 South Vietnamese troops, carrying their wounded, fought their way through Laotian jungle today in flight from pursuing North Vietnamese forces, U.S. helicopter pilots reported.

The American pilots said the South Vietnamese, survivors of the North Vietnamese capture of Artillery Base Lolo, hacked their way through jungle and scrambled down a 1,000-foot cliff in their quest for safety.

The Americans said so many South Vietnamese scrambled on some rescue helicopters that GIs had to shove them off before the 'copters could take off.

South Vietnamese spokesmen insisted there was neither fighting nor any retreat inside Laos.

U.S. helicopter pilots said the South Vietnamese were headed toward Artillery Base Brown but were forced to abandon that idea when the North Vietnamese blocked their way and the government troops sidestepped the blockade and made their way toward a third base named A Loui.

Two U.S. helicopters were shot down Tuesday trying to resupply South Vietnamese soldiers at artillery base Brown, said W.O. Fred Few, 22, of Chattanooga, Tenn.

Earlier the U.S. command reported the second heavy Communist attack in 24 hours against the American base at Khe Sanh.

Tricia, Ed Engaged At 'Swinging' Party

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Tricia Nixon and New York socialite Edward Finch Cox became officially engaged Tuesday night at one of the swingingest parties ever staged at the White House.

The pre-St. Patrick's day celebration wound up after 2 a.m. EST with movie star Fred McMurray playing the saxophone and Dennis Day singing "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling."

Blonde, blue-eyed Tricia, 25, in a long white chiffon gown banded in ostrich feathers, danced several hard rock numbers with Cox, 24. Several of his Harvard Law School pals kept cutting in.

The evening combined an "Irish Evening of Entertainment," Pat Nixon's 59th birthday party, and the announcement of Tricia's engagement for the June 5 wedding. Sentiment and gaiety were the order of the evening — and nobody wanted to go home.

The President, with Mrs. Nixon smiling by his side, formally announced the engagement of his elder daughter to "Mr. Edward Cox" on the stage in the East Room. He did it with some humor, taking note that the news had broken long ago.

"I understand I'm supposed to make a surprise announcement," he said, grinning. "The difficulty is I find every time I have a surprise announcement, it's leaked —and there seems to be no exception."

He added that making the announcement to the gathering of some 300, including Ireland's Prime Minister and Mrs. John Lynch "seems to be rather an anti-climax."

But the guests, who knew the secret beforehand, stood and applauded as Tricia and Cox took their bows beside her parents. They were joined by her fiance's parents, Col. and Mrs. Howard Ellis Cox of New York.

Mrs. Nixon had decreed that this would be "Tricia's evening." But there was a huge cake with white and green icing inscribed: "Happy Birthday Pat."

No Strike By Teachers Or Workers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—There will be no strike by San Francisco city workers. The city's Labor Council refused to give a strike sanction Tuesday to five unions representing the employes.

George Johns, secretary of the AFL-CIO council, said union members did not really want to walk out although they were critical of a pay increase voted by the Board of Supervisors.

The unions had asked 10 per cent salary boosts but the supervisors voted for only 4 per cent increases. Union leaders said that amount failed to keep pace with the rising cost of living.

In another action, the council also refused to give immediate sanction to a strike by the American Federation of Teachers against the school system.

Johns was given authority to award the sanction but declared teachers must undertake additional negotiations before he would consider that.

The AFT, which represents a third of the district's teachers, had voted to strike today. The Classroom Teachers Association, which represents a majority of the teachers, had voted not to support a walkout.

310 Okinawans Will Lose Jobs

NAHA, Okinawa (UPI)—A total of 310 Okinawan workers will be dismissed from the U.S. Naha and Kadena Air Bases May 15.

The dismissal notices were handed to the base workers Monday by the U.S. military authorities following notification to the All-Okinawan Military Workers Union.

The latest notice of dismissal will comprise the fourth phase of the 3,000 workers discharge program announced by the U.S. military authorities last year.

This brought to 1,250 the number of Okinawan base workers who have so far been served with dismissal notice.

$7 Million Bank Embezzlement Believed Biggest In History

CHICAGO (UPI)—A federal grand jury has subpoenaed the records of a Chicago businessman and a former bank vice president in an investigation of an embezzlement believed to be the largest in American banking history.

The embezzlement occurred at the Cosmopolitan National Bank and is believed to involve $6 million to $7 million.

James R. Thompson, first assistant U.S. attorney, said Tuesday subpoenas were issued to Louis Steinberg, president of Steinberg-Baum Inc., and Donald B. Santowski, a former vice president in Cosmpolitan's bookkeeping department.

The embezzlement was discovered Feb. 25 when an executive of a large corporation allegedly confessed to a bank official.

Donald D. Magers, bank president, refused to name the executive, but said the man confessed he and a bank employe had conspired to embezzle $6 million to $7 million from the bank.

The basically simple embezzlement scheme had remained undetected until the confession, Magers said, and he was stunned to learn of it.

Magers said the executive simply wrote checks on his firm's account and cashed them in other Chicago area banks. Some of the checks were as high as $900,000, he said.

When the checks were returned to Cosmopolitan's bookkeeping department, he said, no record was made on the overdrafts from the account. The bank employe involved in the scheme was the only one who handled the records, Magers said.

The Chicago office of the FBI also has refused to identify the men involved in the theft. U.S. attorney William Bauer said he was "not in a position to confirm or deny" reports that Steinberg and Santowski were under investigation.

"The Cosmopolitan case is under investigation by a federal grand jury and I do not comment on cases before a grand jury," Bauer said.

Steinberg-Baum is a privately owned Midwest merchandiser-discount operation. It has 13 stores in the Chicago metropolitan area and four subsidiary outlets, named Cost-Plus stores.

Magers said the exact amount of the shortage could not be fixed pending a full check by examiners and an audit.

He said a bonding company insurance policy for $1.8 million will cover part of the theft and the bank hopes to recover the balance of the loss from the corporation.

State Rejects Big Suits By Blind Inmates

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —The State Board of Control has rejected $10 million in claims by two convicts blinded from drinking orange juice laced with "canned heat" during a firefighting operation.

Two $5 million claims were filed for Billy G. Christian and Joseph J. Martinez, currently confined to the hospital section at San Quentin. They were blinded after drinking the juice during firefighting near Rio Nido in Sonoma County on Oct. 9, 1970.

At the time of the incident they were inmates at the Parlin Fork Conservation Camp near Fort Bragg.

Their attorney said the two men drank the juice not knowing it contained poisonous "canned heat." He said other inmates had spiked the juice.

The board's action Tuesday cleared the way for civil suits to be filed in the case.

Gun Purchases By Stanford Students Eyed

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI)—Stanford University students have purchased a "frightening" number of guns, Santa Clara County Sheriff James Geary said Tuesday.

He told county supervisors that students bought 20 carbines, six shotguns and five automatic handguns at a gun show five weeks ago.

Geary said he had to maintain strong reinforcements for campus riot duty in view of "this frightening situation."

University officials said they were studying possible restrictions on firearms on the campus.

Two students were shot, neither seriously, during a Feb. 8 antiwar demonstration at the school.

Pay Hikes Voted By Supervisors

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors yesterday approved an average 5.5 per cent salary increase for most county employees.

In approving the resolution of intent to adopt the salary schedule, supervisors accepted recommendations of the county salary survey team.

The raises will be effective on July 1 and will be in addition to the 2.5 per cent cost-of-living increase all employees received on March 1.

The total cost for the increase is estimated at $1,220,000. County Administrator David L. Nichols said the federal and state governments will pay about $640,000 of the cost and the county taxpayers the remaining $580,000.

Nichols said increased fringe benefits would include 15 vacation days after 10 years service; lowering the retirement age from 55 to 50 years after 20 years of service; education incentives, health benefits and additional pay for hazardous duty.

Seven groups representing county employees have signed memorandums of agreement on the salary offer, but three groups representing social workers have not.

Nichols said the social workers have requested further consideration be given to a voluntary dental plan.

Expansion Doubters Put To Rest

By ERIK M. INGRAM

The author of a hospital expansion report calling for further development of Marin General Hospital last night cut the heart out of arguments for small satellite hospitals.

Martin A. Paley of Lester Gorsline Associates, addressing himself to a group of Terra Linda physicans at the Marin Hospital District board meeting, said hospitals are built to save lives and not for the convenience of doctors.

"A large comprehensive hospital is more likely to make the difference between life and death (for a patient)," he told an audience of about 50 persons at the hospital.

Examination of travel time from various points in the county to Marin General coupled with population projections through the year 2000 show it would be a mistake to build at any other location, he said.

Terra Linda physicians and some residents have been pushing for a district hospital north of San Rafael because they claim that is where the population center will be in the future.

Paley said the population center will remain where it is — at Marin General.

"The question is," he continued, "what is a reasonable location for the most equitable distribution of services."

The question produced an exchange between Paley and the Terra Linda physicians who continued to press for abandonment of plans to enlarge Marin General.

Dr. David L. Johnson of Terra Linda argued that the 1980 projection of 34 per cent of the population living in San Rafael and north calls for a separate hospital.

He failed to mention, however, that the figure included the population of Novato which is not a part of the district.

Dr. Filmore S. Rodich, a Terra Linda internist, suggested that most persons using the hospital now come from what is considered north. He also charged that the cost per bed for construction at Marin General should be compared to the cost per bed on "flat land development" — which would be lower.

Paley responded that hospital patient records show most patients from San Rafael and no "significant figure" from the area north of that city.

Dr. Gwendolyn M. Campion, board president, answered Rodich's second point saying costs of construction was not the only consideration in expansion but also cost of service. Two hospitals, she said, would mean needless and expensive duplication of services.

Other questions posed by Terra Linda physicians in support of a second facility included traffic congestion at one hospital and resulting smog, the potential of earthquake disaster at the hospital and the possible increase in room rates expansion of Marin General would create.

They were told the hospital is not earthquake proof but no building is.

The charge that room rates would be increased to pay for construction was not answered, being irrelevant since construction would be financed through bonds paid by taxpayers.

The hospital board is expected to continue study of the report at its Tuesday meeting at the hospital.

Ancient Rail Depot Blaze; Arson Probe

Fire, believed to be arson, partially destroyed the 175-year-old railroad depot at Point Reyes Station today, causing damage estimated at about $5,000.

Fire Chief Louis J. Bloom of the Marin County Fire Department said that there was evidence the fire was set, but withheld description of the evidence.

Marin County fire trucks from the Point Reyes substation found the fire had already spread through the walls and roof of the main building and adjoining storage area minutes after the alarm at 2:32 a.m. They were assisted by a truck from Synanon's Fire Department and one from the Point Reyes National Seashore Department. The fire was under control by 4:22 a.m., but mop-up crews were still on site by 9 a.m. this morning.

The building was being used by the engineering department of the Federal Highway Administration. Chief Bloom said fire and water damage to the engineering equipment, documents and other government property still has not been determined.

The old depot building, located on Main Street in Point Reyes Station, was built in the early 1800's by the Northwestern Pacific Railroad. When the railroad discontinued service there in the mid 1930s, the depot was left vacant until 1946 when it was purchased by Gene Compton, a San Francisco restaurateur, who converted it and the adjacent building into a lumber yard.

It was used as a lumber yard by the Diamond National Corporation until March 1970.

Early last October, the federal government leased the building for their engineering offices. Synanon also leases one of the adjacent warehouses to store lumber and other building equipment.

Firemen Respond To Leaky Waterbed Call

A Sausalito man, whose waterbed sprung a leak at 9 p.m. yesterday, called the fire department for help.

Fire fighters helped Mike Kelly of 811 Spring Street siphon the water from the bed out to the back yard, before flooding or any damage occurred.

Delay On Rezoning Requests

An indefinite delay was placed on rezoning requests last night by the Petaluma Planning Commission when it said it would await recommendations from planning consultants before making decisions.

The commission had received a request from the Wes Bailey Land Co. to rezone land on South McDowell Boulevard for the future Cambridge Square Subdivision. Caster Mobilehome Corp. had also requested rezoning as well as a use permit for a mobile home park on North McDowell Boulevard, adjacent to the Petaluma Estates Mobilehome Park.

Asst. Planner Richard D. A. Anderson said the commission cited the current moratorium on rezonings and said it would consider the applications again next fall when planning studies are complete.

Bound Over On Burglary

Stephen Thomas Ainslie, 19, of San Rafael, was bound over to Marin Superior Court yesterday on charges of burglary and possessing stolen property.

He is to be arraigned in superior court next Wednesday.

Population Warning: One Billion by 2071

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A White House panel said today that U.S. population growth has aggravated the country's social, environmental and economic problems and made their solution more difficult.

It urged the nation to start developing an explicit policy on population. Otherwise, under certain circumstances, the number of Americans may rise to a billion a century hence.

This recommendation was made in an interim report to President Nixon and Congress by the Commission on Population Growth and the American Future.

Detailed proposals of the commission, headed by John D. Rockefeller III, will be submitted in its final report a year from now.

"Despite the pervasive impact of population growth on every facet of American life," the commission said, "the United States has never developed a deliberate policy on the subject.

"The tension between population and the economy, population and the environment, population and government services, is with us at all times ... Whether we wish to alter it or to live with it, we cannot afford to ignore it."

The commission was created by Congress in March, 1970, at the request of President Nixon. In its interim report, the panel said that while the population stood at 204 million according to last year's census, it probably will grow eventually to 300 million regardless of any policy that may be established.

Whether the population will rise by another 100 million to 400 million "may be determined by what Americans do about family size and population in the next couple of decades," the interim report said.

A difference of just one child per family, on the average, "will have enormous consequences not only for total population but for demands that will be placed on society in the years ahead," the commission reported.

For example, a policy permitting three-child families would result in a population of nearly a billion 100 years hence as a result of "excess birth over death."

The commission made it clear that it deplored the possibility of such future population leaps. Even relatively small growth has caused complications.

"Our view, at this stage of our work," the commission said, "is that population growth of the magnitude we have had since World War II has aggravated many of the nation's problems and made their solution more difficult."

Forgery Charge Against Woman

A 22-year-old Mill Valley woman was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday for investigation of passing a forged prescription after she attempted to obtain barbiturates from a Mill Valley drug store, then left hurriedly when the pharamacist attempted to check with the doctor.

Susan Linda Mark, of 873 Marin Drive, was arrested by police about 4:30 p.m. after she was traced from an auto license number which a pharmacy employee wrote down as Miss Mark left Lockwood's Pharmacy, 12 Miller Avenue.

When she tried to pass the prescription, the pharmacist became suspicious when he noticed the signature was different from the doctor's regular signature, officers said.

Innocent Plea To Auto Burglary

John James Edmunds, 26, of no known address, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of auto burglary. A preliminary hearing was set for Monday.

Edmunds was arrested Monday after he allegedly broke into a car parked near the Holiday Inn in Terra Linda.

Probation In Scuffle Case

Harold Neal McGee, 25, and Richard Louis McGee, 24, both of San Rafael, have been placed on probation for one year in connection with misdemeanor convictions stemming from a scuffle with a neighbor last December.

Judge Robert A. Smallman of Marin Municipal Court also sentenced Harold to 20 days in jail and Richard to 15 days in jail. Both were given credit for time already served.

Both pleaded guilty in January to resisting arrest Dec. 28 after Harold had aimed a gun at a neighbor.

First Latin Mass Slated Friday Night

The first public Mass in Latin to be celebrated in Marin since the Latin Mass Society of Marin County was formed will be at 7:30 p.m. Friday at St. Vincent's Chapel at St. Vincent's School for Boys, north of San Rafael.

Rev. Donald St. Sure, a Jesuit priest, will be the celebrant, according to Frances Bodeen, executive secretary of POPE (Parents for Orthodoxy in Parochial Education), the parent group for the Latin Mass Society.

Mrs. Bodeen said that the Mass, on St. Joseph's feast day, will be a spiritual bouquet dedicated to Archbishop Joseph T. McGucken of San Francisco.

The Latin Mass Society will seek a "more worthy translation" of the ancient Latin into the vernacular, Mrs. Bodeen said. If there is enough response from Roman Catholics in the country, the group will also organize a Gregorian chant choir, she said.

Those wishing to be notified of future Latin Masses may send their names and addresses to POPE, Box 6161, San Rafael 94903.

CASTING ABOUT for a different dinner dish? This one calls for turkey simmered in a skillet, as here, or done in a pressure pan. It's Spanish Turkey Legs made with combinations of green pepper, tomatoes, olives and noodles.

Spanish Turkey Meal In Skillet

Cooked turkey legs save pennies.

The fact that the turkey meat offers plenty of the high-quality protein is part of the bargain packet.

Turkey legs may be cooked to tenderness quickly in a pressure pan (20 minutes) or simmered more leisurely in a heavy skillet — as in this recipe.

SPANISH TURKEY LEGS

2 turkey drumsticks (about 3 lbs.)
2 tablespoons cooking oil
1 cup chopped celery
½ cup chopped onion
1 small green pepper, slivered
1 cup fresh chopped or canned tomatoes
1 cup water
1 bay leaf
1 teaspoon salt
6 stuffed olives, sliced (if desired)
2 cups dry noodles

Wash drumsticks and pat dry with paper towel. Brown on all sides in hot oil in heavy skillet. Stir in celery, onion, and green pepper, and saute lightly. Add tomatoes, water, bay leaf, and salt; simmer, covered, for 2 hours, or until turkey meat is tender. Add olives and noodles, cover and simmer for 20 minutes or until noodles are tender, adding more liquid if necessary. Separate meat from turkey legs, discarding the bones, and serve at once. Makes 6 servings.

With Spring Sunshine Ahead, Think About Serving Punch

With Sunday the first day of spring, it's time to think about serving refreshing fruit punch on the patio.

ORANGE FREEZE

1 can (9 fl. oz.) frozen concentrate orange juice
1 pint orange sherbert or vanilla ice cream
1 bottle (28 fl. oz.) plain soda *

*Or use 1 bottle (28 fl. oz) ginger ale or lemon-lime carbonated beverage. Combine concentrate, sherbert, and club soda in a mixing bowl. Blend, using rotary beater or upectric mixer. Pour over ice in tall glasses. Serve at once. If desired, garnish each serving with an additional scoop of sherbet. Makes 6 servings.

CHERRY FIRE PUNCH

5 cups cold water
1 can (9 fl. oz.) frozen concentrate orange juice
1 cup pineapple juice
⅓ cup lemon juice
1 package (10 oz.) frozen sweet cherries in quick thaw pouch
1 bottle (7 fl. oz.) quinine water, chilled
Ice cubes

Combine water, concentrate, pineapple and lemon juices. Stir until blended. Chill. Dust before serving, thaw fruit as directed on package; add to punch mixture with quinine water and ice cubes. Serve immediately. Makes 2 quarts or 16 servings.

Clean Gasket

Clean the rubber gasket on the refrigerator door with the cleaner used for white side wall tires.

SALUTE TO ITALY

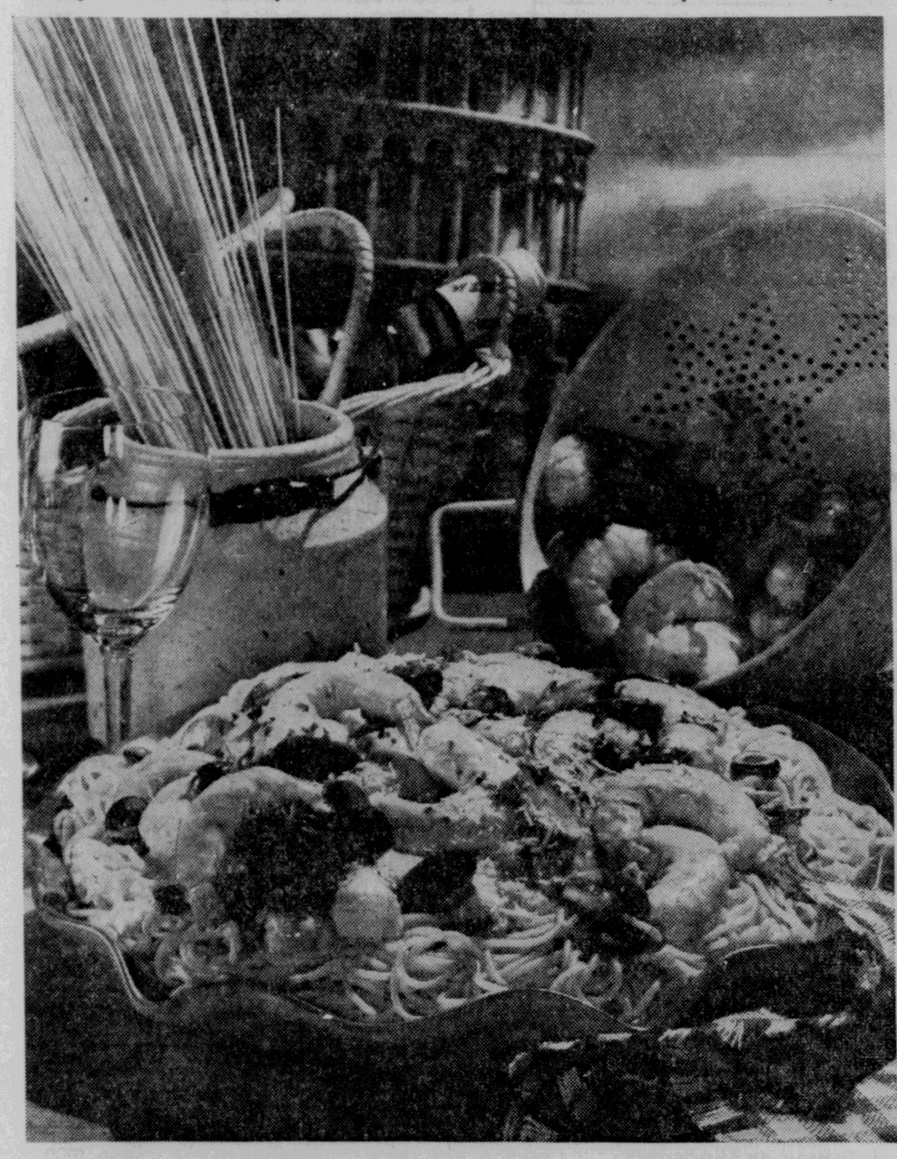
Team Creamy Shrimp With Spaghetti

It's true — the shrimp boats have been coming in loaded, and the sturdy shrimpers have been working overtime. Now the tasty little crustaceans have been processed and are reaching markets across the country. They are available in several styles including individually-quick-frozen, peeled shrimp which may be bought in polybags or rigid plastic containers.

Shrimp are also available by the pound either raw or cooked, peeled or unpeeled, and fresh or frozen, as well as in handy, 4½ ounce, shelf-ready cans. Shrimp are graded in six sizes to fill every need whether you soup them in a bouillabaisse or chowder, toss them in a salad, sauce them in a creole, or combine them with rice or pasta in a hearty, satisfying entree.

Shrimp may be small in size as their name indicates, but they are mighty in taste and pack a powerful, hunger-thwarting, protein punch as well as abounding in valuable minerals and vitamins. Shrimp are low in fat and calories with an approximate 150 calorie count for the drained contents of a 4½ ounce can.

Everyone loves shrimp — and many of the ethnic groups who make up America today have brought cuisine ideas for eating enjoyment from their native lands. The Italians are no exception with many American entrees today reflecting their creativity in preparing hearty gourmet foods. The mainstay ingredient in dozens of Italian entrees is the always popular pasta. Pasta takes many forms such as spaghetti, noodles, macaroni, or variations of these basic forms.



As a salute to the ingenious Italians the National Marine Fisheries Service has created a new recipe, Creamy Shrimp With Spaghetti. The tender, tasty shrimp are combined with mushrooms, olives, lemon juice, and dill weed in a creamy sauce. Served over hot, seasoned spaghetti and topped with another Italian specialty, Parmesan cheese, this entree will be among your family's all-time favorites and a collector's item for those occasions when time is short and appetites are big.

CREAMY SHRIMP WITH SPAGHETTI

3 cans (4½ to 5 ounces each) shrimp or
1½ pounds raw shrimp, cooked, peeled, and deveined
¼ cup butter or margarine
3 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
2 cups milk
1 can (3 ounces) sliced mushrooms, undrained
⅓ cup sliced ripe or stuffed olives
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ to ¾ teaspoon dill weed
4 to 6 servings hot, cooked, seasoned spaghetti
2 tablesppons chopped parsley
Shredded Parmesan cheese (optical)

Drain and rinse canned shrimp. Melt butter or margarine; blend in flour and salt. Add milk; cook stirring constantly until thickened. Add undrained mushrooms, olives, lemon juice, dill weed, and shrimp; stir carefully.

Heat well. Serve over spaghetti and sprinkle with parsley and Parmesan cheese, if desired. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Pineapple Pancakes Welcome The Day

Chilly mornings make a hot, hearty breakfast ever so welcome. And what better send-off for the day's activities than golden brown pancakes? Light tender pancakes, so quickly made with pancake mix, can be the base of the nourishing breakfast your family needs daily.

These Pineapple Pancakes are made extra delicious with the addition of crushed pineapple to the batter. Syrup drained from the pineapple is combined with maple-blended syrup and cooked sausage links to make a tempting warm topping.

While pancakes are baking everyone can enjoy a fruit cup — perhaps a combination of orange sections and sliced bananas. Offer milk and coffee with the pancakes, and your family will have the wholesome, hearty breakfast needed to meet the day's activities with vigor and alertness!

An easy way to be sure that breakfast and other meals are nutritionally well balanced is to use the basic four food groups as a guide for menu planning. A selection of foods from these groups — meats and alternates, milk and milk products, breads and cereals, and fruits and vegetables — provides the variety of nutrients your family needs every day.

PANCAKE BREAKFAST
(Makes 4 servings)

Sausage Syrup:
One 8-½ oz. can crushed pineapple
One 8-oz pkg. brown and serve sausage links
½ cup maple-blended syrup

pineapple Pancakes:
1 cup pancake mix
1 cup milk
1 egg
1 tablespoon melted or liquid shortening
Pineapple (saved from can used in syrup)

TRY THIS hearty breakfast suggestion: pineapple-flavored pancakes topped with warm sausage syrup.

For sausage syrup, drain pineapple, reserving liquid for sausage syrup. (Pineapple is to be used in pancakes.) Cut sausage links in half and prepare in medium-sized skillet according to package directions; drain. Add pineapple liquid and maple-blended syrup; bring to boil, and boil 5 minutes. Reduce heat and keep warm until ready to use.

For pineapple pancakes, place mix, milk, egg, shortening and drained pineapple in bowl. Stir lightly until batter is fairly smooth. For each pancake, pour about ¼ cup of batter onto hot, lightly greased griddle to make 8 pancakes.

Turn only once. Serve with warm sausage syrup.

Reuse Bags

Sturdy plastic food bags can be reused —sometimes more than once. Wash them with suds, rinse, stuff with crumpled paper toweling and stand upright to drain.

Fork The Card

A fork makes an excellent holder for a recipe card. Stand it, tines up, in a glass and put the card between the tines. The card stays clean, and is easy to read.

Repel Flies

After emptying, washing and sanitizing garbage cans with hot suds, scatter some packaged soap or detergent into the clean cans. This will repel flies and other insects.

GRANDFATHER ROBERT FROST

'Our Relationship Is Alive'

Marin Women

By PAT BALMES

"Grandfather passed along a yearning to express myself, to communicate my gratitude for being alive," says Mrs. David Hudnut, granddaughter of poet Robert Frost.

The mother of five children who are under 12 years old makes time for her art and writing.

"Motherhood just doesn't stop and art begin. My art is part of serving my family. Art happens because we need it, not because we have leisure," says Mrs. Hudnut. Currently Robin is doing research for a commissioned hisotrical painting of the Lewis and Clark expedition. She is also writing and illustrating a modern Christmas tale "with, hopefully, a sense of timelessness about it." Her paintings, "though few and far between," sell well, some right off her easel.

After trying a studio away from home, Robin decided she is more productive where real family life is going on, and her husband built her huge work table and art storage shelves on a sunny landing at the top of the stairs, central to the children's bedrooms.

This year the Hudnuts have been settling into their redwood house on a sparsely-built high meadow in Tiburon where they can hear meadowlarks. They moved here from Birmingham, Mich.

In their living room, furnished with family treasures, the bookshelf holds a copy of her aunt Lesley Frost's children's book, "Digging Down to China," which Robin illustrated, and an album of Christmas and greeting cards which she designed. Some contain Robert Frost's poems.

ROBIN RELATES that her late grandfather has had a great influence on her life "because he was a person who could express himself so well." Robin calls him "Frost," as if to remind herself that she must share him with the world.

"Because I know his thought and poetry, our relationship is still very much alive. Many days I recall his poems." Robin jests that when she scrubs her kitchen floor she reminds herself of "The witch that came (the withered hag) / To wash the steps with pail and rag" from Frost's "Provide Provide."

And, more seriously when she thinks about relationships between husband and wife, Robin recalls "The Death of the Hired Man."

She quotes, "My object in living is to unite / My avocation and my vocation / As my two eyes make one in sight," from "Two Tramps in Mud Time."

She explains,

"Women have a chance that men don't have to fit all their talents and interests into their vocation as wife and mother."

Robin was close to her grandfather. She says she did not want to read the books published after his death that saw him through others' eyes, some critical.

Her mother, Frost's daughter Marjorie, died a month after Robin was born.

"It hurt Frost very much to think that my mother was dead. She was a poet, a light touch and happy spirit that kept the Frost family loose and happy," she says, — Her mother left her only child a slender volume of poems, among them Robin's favorite, "Franconia."

"Long, long ago a little child,
Bare headed in the snow,
Lay back against the wind
— and smiled,
Then let her footsteps blow.

Lighter than leaves they blew about,
Until she sank to rest
Down where no wind could blow her out,
Deep in a mountain nest.

And to this day she's smiling there
With eyes alert and wild,
For she has lived on mountain air
And stayed a little child."

(reprinted with permission of Robin Hudnut)

Robin remembers "the new dolly from Grandfather that was always under the tree each Christmas," and she speaks of summers she spent at his farm house at Bread Loaf in Vermont:

"Grandfather thought he was doing something nice for me. He would take me out to dinner. He would listen to me play the piano. But it was lonely for me, an only child, to leave my father. Frost lived alone in his cabin. His wife had died and it was not like visiting a warm, happy family," she recalls.

"BUT FROST was not lonely. At that time in his life, when he was famous, people were pressing in on him. He needed to be alone to be creative," Robin explains.

"Grandfather would ask what I was thinking, and when I would begin to tell him, he could express my thought better than I could myself. Frost was so warm, so 'with it,' such a powerful human being with so many antennae. He liked to look at every person as they came around the corner, as if they were freshly made. He liked to look for the unexpected in unlikely people."

The Bread Loaf cabin was small and had a large vegetable garden. Many people from all over the world came "to have their times with Frost" at that cabin, according to Robin.

When Robin was graduated from high school in Billings, Mont., Robert Frost came to give the commencement address.

Her memories are best of their times together when she was at Smith College and Frost, in his late 60s and early 70s, was giving seminars at Amherst College and doing what he called talking-around at campuses all over the country. Then she could appreciate him as a great thinker, says Robin.

While Frost was teaching at Amherst and living at a nearby inn, he telephoned Robin almost weekly, inviting her to dinner.

"He always had a twinkle in his eyes," she remembers. Frost would sometimes give her money and say,

"For books."

Frost visited Robin's house at Smith College often, talking intimately with groups of girls, giving them his poignant reactions, Robin remembers. Never having been graduated himself, he sympathized with her trapped feeling.

"Do you think you are going to sit here until you have learned everything? You have to go ahead on limited knowledge," he would say.

SHE RECALLS that Frost had wonderful ways of expression, was startling to talk to, was buoyant, never heavy-handed and loved to talk. He would go on into the night until someone would have to say,

"We'd better stop."

After her graduation, Frost encouraged and guided Robin's art.

"He warned me that I would become 'a self-cured ham' surrounded by all those art treasures at my job at the Frick Collection in New York City. He was afraid I would become discouraged by those masterpieces and thought I should quit my job and go paint," relates Robin.

After Robin married David Hudnut, Frost shared a Christmas in Connecticut with them and their first-born, Dave Jr. Frost told her,

"Looking at my great grandchildren is like looking through a telescope turned backwards."

Robin and David attended President John F. Kennedy's inauguration and heard her grandfather read his tribute to the United States, "The Gift Outright."

His lines, "Such as we were we gave ourselves outright / (The deed of gift was many deeds of war)," Robin interprets in her own life by giving herself outright to motherhood and wifehood, a role in which she feels totally happy and contented.

"Frost had high hopes for humanity: 'Earth is the right place for love. I don't know where it's likely to go better.' Some of those feelings I know I have and can pass on to my children," says Robin. "Perhaps, someday, I would like to be a teacher, too."

ROBIN IS the daughter of Marjorie Frost Fraser and Willard Fraser, who was three times the mayor of Billings, Mont. She remembers long, quiet hours in her childhood there when she had time for thought and creativity. Her father felt that a political career would give him an opportunity to serve, she says. He taught Robin,

"You can do things. You can accomplish it."

An archeologist and historian of Indians and the West, Fraser, who is now running for his fourth term as mayor, induced the movie makers to film "Little Big Man" in Montana, the authentic historical site of the Battle of the Little Big Horn or Custer's Last Stand.

Robin lived in Billings, then a city of 30,000, until she went to Smith College to study art and art history. Upon graduation she received a graduate fellowship to teach art history at University of Montana and studied there toward a master's degree in art.

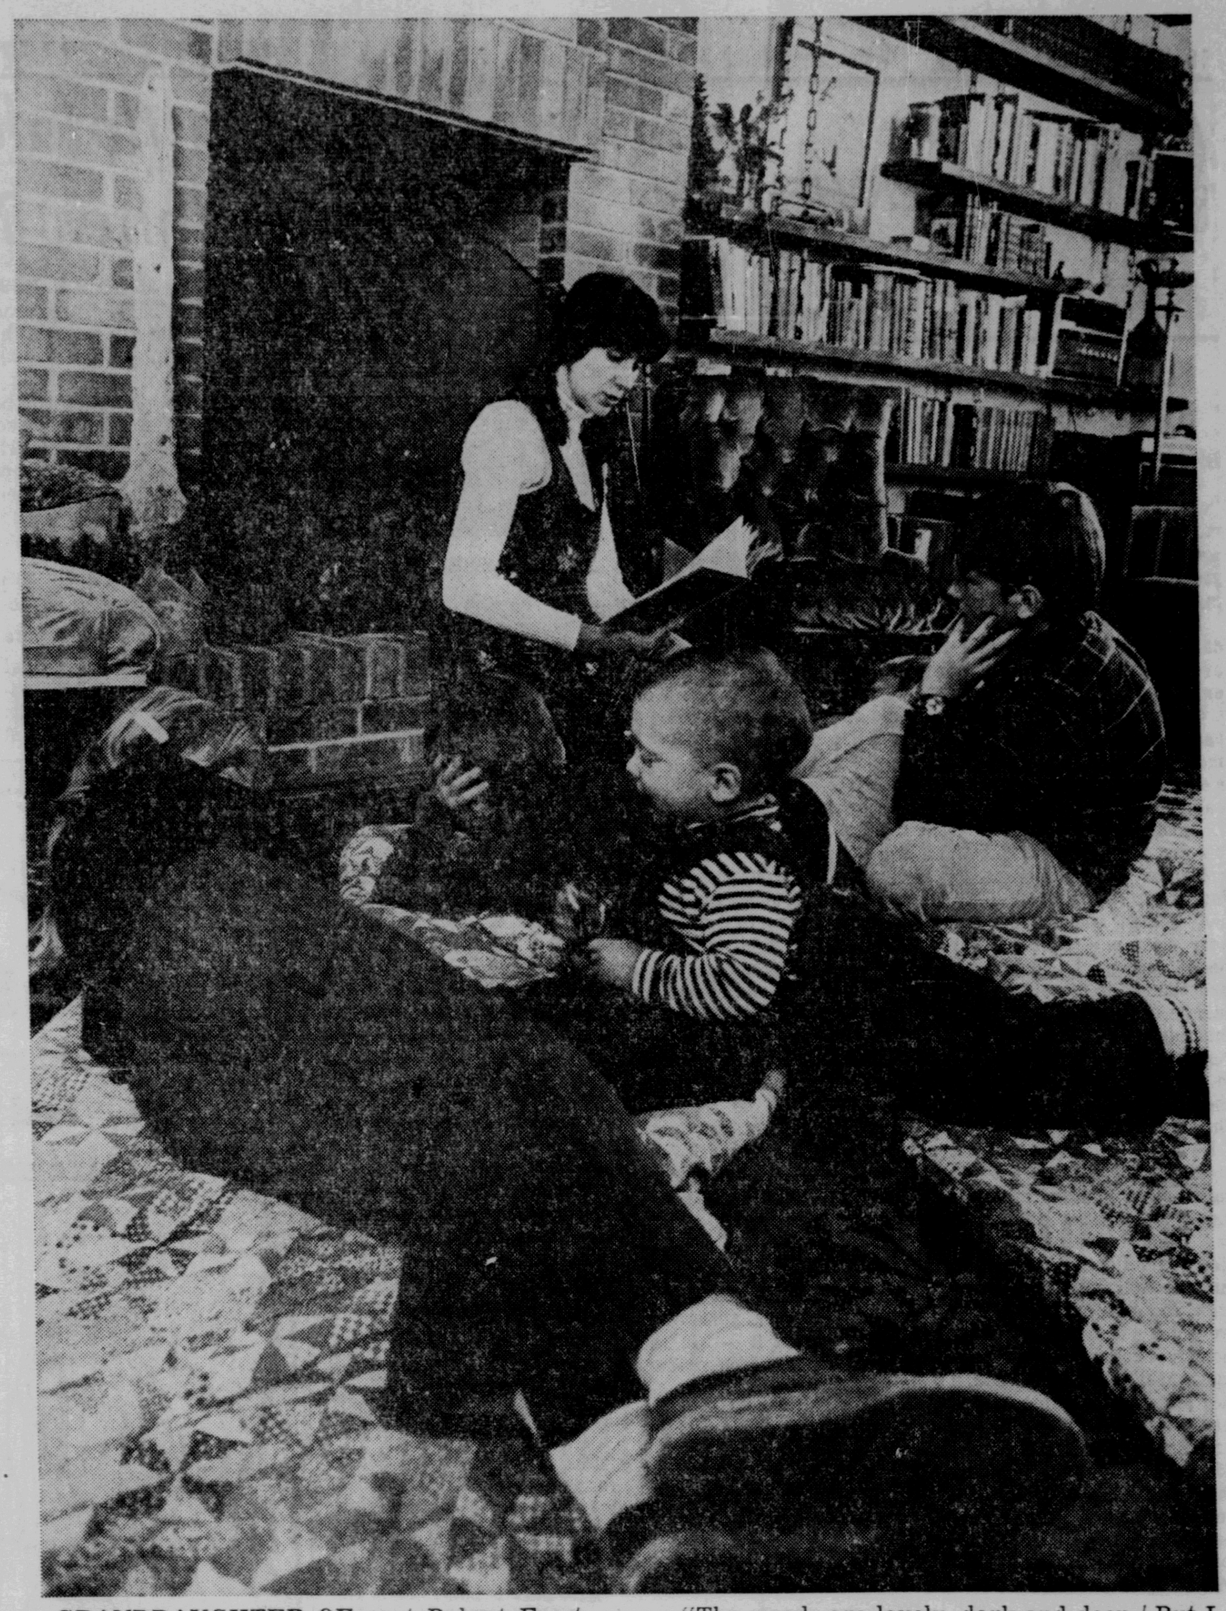
While on shipboard with art history students going to Europe, Robin met Princeton student David Hudnut of Rochester, N.Y. Later she married the young lawyer and lived "in three places in New York City," Ithaca, and Birmingham, Mich., before coming to San Francisco for a business opportunity with United States Leasing International.

David's family has a literary ancestor too: Harriet Beecher Stowe, who sat at her kitchen table to write "Uncle Tom's Cabin." David's father, two brothers and an uncle are Presbyterian ministers, as was his late grandfather.

DAVID'S MOUNTAINEERING ax is perched atop the bookcase at their Tiburon home, witnessing his family's love for the mountains. He and Dave Jr. climb in Rocky Mountain National Park in Colorado with rope and pitons, but Robin prefers easier climbs "where I just use my hands."

In their family room, hung with a hammock, a baby swing, rings for the five children and their friends to "skin the cat," and a climbing rope, is an Enit Kaufman chalk portrait of Frost. There, amid lively activity, the artist and mother quotes Albert Schweitzer's words which hang on the wall,

"I don't know what your destiny will be, but one thing I know; the only ones among you who will be really happy are those who have sought and found how to serve."



GRANDDAUGHTER OF poet Robert Frost, Mrs. David Hudnut of Tiburon reads his "Stopping by Woods on a Snowy Evening" to her children, from left, Margie, 9; Benjie, 1: Josh, 6; Johnny, 4 and Dave Jr., 12, quoting, "The woods are lovely, dark and deep / But I have promises to keep / And miles to go before I sleep / And miles to go before I sleep."

(I-J photos by Alfred Arn)

ROBIN HUDNUT works on a chalk portrait, her way of expressing her "gratitude for the privilege of life." The artist explains, "This is what I can do to respond to all that has been given to me. Some people cannot just talk, they must express themselves more quietly; in writing, music or color."

"JOLLYGOOD, FIT FOR A KING...
that's what I like about LAMB."

Here's a recipe Henry VIII would have loved. It's easy and uncomplicated, the way our English cousins prefer it. You start with a fine leg of tender, young American lamb. Then you make this superb sherry-spiked glaze. The whole thing goes like this.

BUCKINGHAM GLAZED LEG OF LAMB (makes 6 to 8 servings)
1 leg of lamb
Salt and pepper
½ cup dry sherry
½ cup currant jelly
½ cup catsup
½ teaspoon marjoram leaves

Sprinkle lamb with salt and pepper. Place on rack in shallow roasting pan. Roast in 325° (slow) oven 30 to 35 minutes per pound, or until meat thermometer registers 175° for medium doneness. Meanwhile, make sauce by combining sherry, jelly, catsup and marjoram in small saucepan. Stir and heat until jelly melts. Brush on lamb occasionally during roasting time. Heat remaining sauce and serve with lamb, garnished with parsley, lemon, and Spanish olives.

Look before you buy. Make sure it's fresh American lamb — the finest.

HELEN HELP US!

Young Couple Are Proving Love By Having Dates Without Sex

DEAR HELEN:

Once upon a time, in the "well ordered" old days when marriage usually came first, it was thought that sex was the greatest, closest, most meaningful expression of true love.

But with sex so cheap these days, it seems people use it to avoid getting really close —in an understanding way I mean.

Or as some gal in a cartoon once said, "I go to bed with a man to keep him from getting serious.'' It's all fun and games, and easier than talking . . . and never, but never forget it's just physical; blank out involvement or emotions or caring. That's square.

A woman friend made this very clear in a puzzling way. She's successful, single, and had planned to remain so — no middle class traps for her, like marriage and dull morality and runny-nosed children. And then, in spite of her best intentions, she discovered she was human. She fell in love.

Do you know how she is expressing that love? By not having an affair with the man. She insists that always before, sex has meant a casual, nothing kind of relationship. She wants this one to last. Strangely enough, the man agrees. So they are going together for six months — nothing but "proper" dates. At the end of that time, if they still feel the same, they'll marry.

So fine — it's like the good old days, except for one thing. These two are liberated. When free people deliberately repress themselves, isn't it kind of unnatural, or something? — CAN'T FIGURE THEM OUT

DEAR CFTO:

No. I think it's kind of romantic —a different way of "proving their love."

It's a topsy turvy world we're living in, yes? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

We've been married two years, and for more than a year now, my husband has lived with me only on weekends. During the week, he stays with his mother.

I live with my folks, but they never bother us, while his mother and family won't accept me. He says he'll live with me all the time if we get an apartment by ourselves, but he's never tried to find one. We both work, so it isn't money problems, though it is cheaper living home.

I love him, but I'd like a full time husband. What can Ido? — N. H.

DEAR N:

Go apartment hunting. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

We are two high school teachers concerned about the validity of movie ratings. The grading is all right, but meaningless, when theater people close their eyes and allow very young children into M and R films. If they can check on ages when it comes to paying adult or student prices, why not on ratings too? Or do they use those initials as a lure to attract bigger audiences? We've seen 16-year-olds and younger getting into X-rated films. — J & D

DEAR J AND D:

Let's let theater owners or managers answer your question. How about it — are ratings meaningless, you readers out there? — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

U.S.D.A. findings show that beef, pork, lamb, veal, poultry, fish and eggs contribute over 40 per cent of the protein in the national diet. Beef ranked highest in consumption, followed by pork. The meat group supplied about one-third of the total iron consumed. Liver supplied 11½ per cent of the total vitamin A intake and pork provided 14 per cent of the total thiamin in the diet.

SMART SHOPPER

'Tattletale Gray' Replacing 'Whiter Than White' Laundry

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — Some dramatic changes are taking place in the washday miracle business. And the consumer has much to gain from them.

In the first place, the number of miracles has dropped faster than suds down the drain. Phosphates, the ingredients which manufacturers claim are the most important for detergent washing ability, are being reduced in many products to help reduce pollutants in rivers and lakes.

Enzymes, those friendly and famous little consumers of chocolate and blood stains, are being phased out as potential health hazards and skin irritants. Yet only a few months ago, an axiom of the detergent biz was that enzymes were next to godliness in getting stubborn stains out of clothes.

THE NEXT thing to go — and is already going in many home laundry rooms — is the concept that clothes must be always pure white in order to be clean. This, of course, is not true. But millions of home launderers have been brainwashed into believing that it is.

In fact, if you are one of those who want to fight pollution as well as dirty clothes, you face the necessity of cutting down on phosphates, the principal cleansing agent of detergents because of their water softening ability and stain removal capacity.

One way to do this is to buy low-phosphate detergents or switch to soap if you are in a soft-water area. If you are in a medium or hard water area, you still might be able to use lower-phosphate detergents than you now use without sacrificing washing ability.

The only way to tell if you can use lower-phosphate detergents is to try them and see if they do an acceptable job. There is one side effect, however. That is the likelihood that too little phosphate will leave the water with high alkaline content, which tends to abrade fabrics and reduce their life.

ANOTHER STEP is to cut down the amount of your present detergent per load. If you cut too much, it could have the same side effect noted above. But it could also save quite a bit of money on detergent purchases.

At least one expert on detergents, Ronald Ostrander, a chemical engineer for Proctor and Gamble, told a House Committee that good laundry results could be obtained with one-quarter or one-eighth of a cup of Tide instead of the recommended 1¼ to 1½ cups.

CARDIN'S JERSEY OVERALLS

Paris couturier Pierre Cardin has chosen jersey overalls for men as the central motif for his collection, unveiled Monday. At left two models wear the jersey with short leather boots as Cardin's idea of the replacement for the traditional suit. At right, the jersey is teamed with knee-high boots and worn under an Abominable Snowman-like fur coat.

Serving all of Clover Country — NEWS FLASH! — Spring 1971

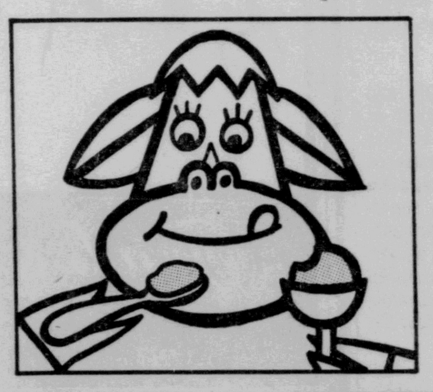
SECRET FOUND IN GRANDMOO'S SEWING BOX

"My new ice cream is just like Grandmoo used to make," says dairy industry celebrity.

Something old was announced to Redwood Empire ice cream lovers when Clo, famous spokes-cow for Clover Brand, introduced her new Clover Country Ice Cream.

"The recipe was Grandmoo's secret for many years," Clo said. "We found it in her sewing box, hidden among the thimbles and vanilla beans."

"And now, Clover Brand brings back this old-fashioned country ice cream for everyone in Clover Country to enjoy," she explained. "Its creamy smoothness and country-fresh taste take you right back to the joys of childhood."

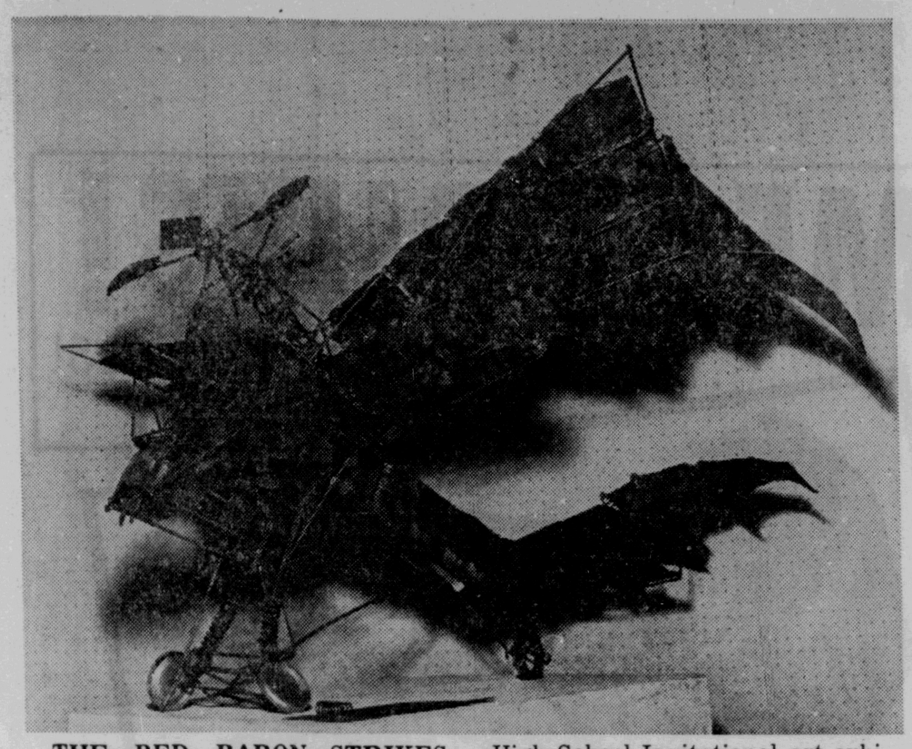


Clo paused thoughtfully, then suddenly ambled off, mooing happily. "Hey, Clo," this reporter yelled, "Where you heading?"

"To the nearest store for some of that delicious, ever-lovin' Clover Country Ice Cream," she called, breaking into a full gallop.

"Wait for us," we muttered, strapping on our roller skates.

When you head for your favorite food store for some old-fashioned Clover Country Ice Cream, here's the brand new, zip-open carton to look for. It's as different as the ice cream inside it.



THE RED BARON STRIKES BACK — This whimsical welded sculpture won an honorable mention for Anorzis Makaruk in the High School Invitational art exhibit at the Marin Society of Artists' gallery in Ross.

HIGH SCHOOL ART SHOW — Students from Marin high schools including Arna Segerquist whose abstract painting won an honorable mention, are currently participating in a show of all media arts and crafts at the Marin Society of Artists' galley in Ross.

Only $1,000 From Edinburgh Goal

The drama department at the College of Marin needs only $1,000 more to pay air fare for 35 students and faculty to Scotland's Edinburgh Arts Festival this summer.

James C. Dunn, head of the department, said yesterday the students already have raised $13,000 and are continuing efforts to raise the remainder.

Of the amount received so far, he said, $5,000 came from the Okes Foundation in San Francisco, $3,000 from a student-sponsored art auction in February, $3,000 from the college's student government and the remainder from individual donations.

He said plans for raising the last $1,000 include canvassing businesses for donations and a benefit performance of the next college production, "Cabaret."

The college was asked to perform at the Edinburgh festival because of its unusual production of Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew."

The production, directed by Dunn, was staged in an Old West setting and played to sell-out crowds at the college.

Dunn said yesterday at least one performance of the play will be staged in Marin before the company leaves for Scotland in August.

Laser Beam Art Lecture Slated

A lecture and demonstration of laser beam art will be given at 8 p.m. tomorrow in Darwin Hall at Sonoma State College.

Dr. Elsa Garmire, a laser physicist and research fellow in electrical engineering at California Institute of Technology, is a founder of a group known as "Experients in Art and Technology." She has worked with the intense light as a new art form and acted as a consultant on laser beams for the hemispherical Mirror Pavillion at EXPO '70 in Osaka, Japan.

ART REVIEW

Show For High School Artists

By LAURA DEVENDORF

Some artists consider even sidewalk drawing art, and a growing number seem to feel that showing in professional galleries and museums and contending for prizes doesn't matter. But not the artists on display through March 21 at the Ross Art and Garden Center.

These are students selected by the Marin Society of Artists for its High School Invitational Exhibition at the center.

For most participants, this is their first time out in a professional gallery and they have met the occasion with earned enthusiasm. According to Henri Boussy who has the dual role of Tamalpais High School art instructor and of exhibit coordinator for the society, getting in just wasn't that easy.

"Invitations with tight quotas were issued to the art departments of all Marin public high schools. Each school, for example, was allowed only six paintings or graphics. So at Tam with three instructors, each of us could only select two. It was very difficult and some of the kids were disappointed."

Of the final 220 pieces included in the show from Tamalpais, Drake, Terra Linda, San Andreas, San Marin and San Rafael high schools, 10 received $10 awards from the Sylvia Ludens memorial fund, and four were given honorable mentions by jurors Farhad Moezzi, Martin Stoelzel and Alton Raible.

Raible's impression has since been echoed by many, "It's a good show with some elegant things in crafts.I was particularly pleased with the craftsmanship in this area, much of it equal to college ability."

This is strongly a ceramics show with three awards and two honorable mentions going to this category. And except for Phil Tobin of San Andreas, all these awards were taken by Terra Linda students.

As Boussy sees it, this is probably caused by "the enthusiasm and energy of a particular department and instructor." It's more a matter of emphasis than that one school has an advantage over another.

"As to program," Boussy adds, "they are all comparable. All offer a full arts program plus ceramics, art metal and jewelry, sculpture, crafts and some graphics. As a county, we're remarkably rich in art experience."

The invitational reflects this variety with awards, for example, going to everything from a richly woven tapestry, to a surrealistic oil, to a welded airplane.

As sponsor, the art society is enthusiastic about the show which was initiated last year as a means of satisfying their community service obligation. And as one member remarked, this year's edition has "a freshness and vitality that is superior to many of the shows the society itself has offered."

The winners and their parents are delighted with the recognition. One parent who is now a professional artist recalls when she herself won a $3 art award in junior high and regards her child's accolade as something of an omen.

If anyone is disgrunted it is for the same reasons found in any professional juried show. "The students," Boussy reports, "take exception to some of the awards. Students are inclined to be more conservative while the judge is more apt to be radical or avant garde."

Otherwise, most of them are impressed. "Gee, man, I didn't know the other schools were doing such good stuff!" was one overheard remark. Well, with a world bulging with hopeful artists, few of whom will survive, a show like this is a mild introduction to that reality.

Those who survived its screening have reason to be proud. And those who won have even better reason to relish that heady taste of the ultimate in survival — success.

Winners were:

Painting: Rob Springett and David Seagale, both Sir Francis Drake High School; honorable mention to Arna Segerquist, Terra Linda High. Drawing: Diane Gower of Tamalpais High. Tapestry: Nancy Byrd, Terra Linda. Art metal: Bill Harrington, Tamalpais High.

Sculpture: Ronald Aguila and Gary Williams, both Terra Linda; honorable mention to Anorzis Majaruk, also Terra Linda. Ceramics: Debbie Gerhke, Jeff Hamlin and Jonathan Braun, all Terra Linda; honorable mentions to Zack Miller, Terra Linda and Phil Tobin, San Andreas.

Larkspur Council Delays Action on Schultz Sign

The Larkspur City Council last night took a look at a compromise proposal by developer Niels J. Schultz to put up a smaller version of the city's last billboard, but took no action.

Instead of the approximately 600-foot square sign at 2062 Redwood Highway advertising and pointing the direction to Schultz's Bon Air apartments, Schultz proposed a sign about one-third as large, giving directions to Greenbrae, Bon Air and possibly Larkspur.

The councilmen agreed that there is a dearth of highway signs marking exits to Larkspur and none for Greenbrae and Bon Air, but did not agree on which markings were most needed.

Councilman Neil Brixon finally said, "Let's get that big sign down and put up some sign less objectionable to residents."

It was decided, however, to postpone decision on the matter until at least the April 7 meeting because city officials plan to meet in the meantime with state Division of Highways representatives to discuss directional signs for the area.

In other action last night, the council denied an appeal by J. B. Ketring for a sideyard variance for a deck at his home at 909 Marina Vista.

Police Relations On Board Agenda

The Marin Junior College District board, meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the College of Marin's Olney Hall, will be asked to grant college credit for a police-community relations program.

Sponsored by the Marin County Police-Community Relations Department, the program is made up of a series of speakers talking on community problems.

The board, in the past, has turned down similar proposals that the program be granted college credit. The board has maintained the college already has such a program.

The board also will consider working drawings for demolition of the old science and communications buildings located on the proposed library site.

Low-Cost Housing Discussion Tonight

A proposal to build federally assisted housing in Marin City will be discussed by the Marin County Housing Authority board at 7:30 p.m. today in the Manzanita Center, Marin City.

The proposal, which would provide low-cost housing under several federal programs, is from the Marin Urban Development Association, a group of Marin City residents seeking exclusive development rights in Marin City.

Red Cross Gets Donation Boost

Donations to the American Red Cross are running about 10 per cent ahead of those of last year, according to Emanuel Franzel of Belvedere, chairman of the Marin chapter.

Yesterday, the half-way point of the drive for $33,000 needed this year for the Marin Chapter, 1,960 donors have given a total of $14,922.

The funds will support such programs as the first aid and swimming instructions, but will also be used to help replenish the national disaster fund which was depleted by the Southern California earthquake and just recently the disasters caused by the tornadoes along the Mississippi Delta, Franzel said.

Young Potters Display Wares

Ceramics produced by young potters of the Sunrise Art Guild are on display at the Fairfax Library, 47 Broadway.

Librarian Emily Shortell said the exhibit will continue through March 31.

Tom Rinker, Seth Seiderman and Edward Trumble, all students at Sir Francis Drake High School, have arranged 25 pieces of pottery, including vases, bowls, teapots, cups, casseroles and a pitcher.

FIRST STEP FOR SCHOOL PURCHASE

Hub Council Forms Panel To Check Cook School For City Headquarters

By LARRY MOWELL

The San Anselmo City Council took a tentative step last night toward buying Isabel Cook School for a city hall and fire headquarters.

The council, meeting with the San Anselmo School District board, formed a committee to find out if the purchase is feasible. Councilman Kenneth L. Anderson was selected to head and choose the committee.

The council has been eyeing the site for more than a year to house its crowded departments. Meanwhile, the school district, eager to dispose of the 43-year-old school has been postponing decisions on moving the school's students until the council decides, according to director Basil H. Scalarbrini.

Until the council moved last night at the prodding of the school board, two other possibilities also had been considered. The first was to build on the creekside parking lot at the Hub; the second was to add to the present city hall after buying adjoining property.

To buy the Isabel Cook School site and build a facility for displaced students would require a joint bond issue, probably about $2 million, Mayor James F. Reed predicted.

He doubted voters would pass it and Councilman Warren R. Perry pointed out that voters in November would not even buy a fire engine "which is peanuts compared to this."

Nevertheless, Reed said, "we have to get out of this facility (city hall.) We have almost hopelessly substandard facilities in both police and fire departments."

If the school is purchased, the fire department could be housed in the present multipurpose building, Scalabrini said. The police department would expand into vacated offices of the present city hall when all other city departments move to the school, he said.

Councilman Woodrow V. Capurro opposed the site. He said the cost of remodeling would be great and objected to separating city services, moving from the center of town and feeding fire trucks directly onto busy Sir Francis Drake Boulevard. However, he voted for the study with the other four councilman.

Councilman Lewis W. Stewart said, "It could be the most economical thing the city has ever done to meet a pressing need."

The sale would also meet a pressing need of the school district. District Supt. W. Kenneth Lowry said after the meeting the site is bad for a school because of traffic and noise on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard. In addition, he said, the school, built in 1927, is inflexible for modern instruction and has hazardous stairs and stairwells.

The 421 displaced students would be taught in an addition that would be built to an existing school, Lowry said.

Boy Bit, Rabies Feared

The father of 6-year-old Bobby Bethke of Sausalito has appealed to the owner of a dog that bit his son last week to come foreward to spare the boy the painful rabies treatment.

Robert Bethke, of 6 Princess Lane, Apt. 4, said his son was bitten on the leg Thursday at 5 p.m. in front of the Village Fair on Bridgeway.

Young Bethke described the dog as small with long, reddish-brown hair, his father said. Its owner was a young girl with long, brown hair, wearing blue jeans, a cape or poncho and boots, carrying a leather purse.

Bethke said the girl knew her dog bit Bobby because she spanked her pet.

He asked the girl to call him and tell him whether the dog has died or is ill. If so, rabies are possible and Bobby will have to undergo the painful 14-shot Pasteur treatment.

If the dog is not found, Bethke said, Bobby's shots will begin tomorrow.

Youth Injured In Cycle Crash

An 18-year-old San Anselmo youth was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital with injuries sustained yesterday when his motorcycle collided with a car in San Anselmo.

The hospital said Larry Gillespie of 837 San Anselmo Avenue was admitted with broken ankles and a fractured vertebra.

Police officers said today he was southbound on San Anselmo Avenue when an auto, driven by Wolfe Albert Mayer of 117 Sequoia Drive, San Anselmo, pulled in front of him at the Belle Avenue intersection.

Mayer told officers he was leaving a parking space and did not see Gillespie coming.

Summer School Plan Opposed

The superintendent of the San Anselmo School District disclosed last night that he opposes a district-sponsored summer school program.

"Observing the present fiscal condition of the district and the previous recommendations of the district's teachers, I cannot recommend that the district operate a summer school program for 1971," Supt. W. Kenneth Lowry said in a memorandum to the school board prepared for a joint meeting with the city council.

Since the alternative would require the city alone to provide recreational services during the summer to school children from the adjoining unincorporated area of Sleepy Hollow, the school board asked the city council to let the board pay the city's nonresident recreation fee. The council agreed in concept, provided the payments are fair to the taxpayers of San Anselmo.

Instead of a district-sponsored summer school, Lowry suggested a private educational program run by parents and financed by fees. It would be similar to a self-sustaining program operated in the Kentfield School district for the past two years, Lowry siad.

The district would save approximately $6,500 by underwriting the Kentfield-type program, Lowry said, but would pay $2,000 to $2,500 from its community services funds to pay for the recreation of Sleepy Hollow children.

Lowry said the money would pay the differences between the fee charged each child and the cost to the city of a program.

Councilmen, still licking their wounds from the defeat of a proposed police services district for unincorporated areas, feared city taxpayers would be subsidizing the recreation of Sleepy Hollow youngsters, since 80 per cent of the community services fund is supplied from San Anselmo.

"I don't see how the council should decide how we should spend the money we receive," said Basil H. Scalabrini of the school board.

However, director Eugene E. Jacks — acknowledging the intensity of the tax equity dispute between San Anselmo and Sleepy Hollow — said some equitable means of financing could be worked out.

During the meeting, the city council also approved an amendment to a contract for mutual use of recreation facilities and referred to the parks and recreation commission proposed improvements to the playground at Isabel Cook School.

The amendment, already approved by the school board, would allow one agency to build recreation facilities on the property of the other.

The school district, which also had been scheduled to hold its regular meeting last night at Red Hill School, adjourned to Thursday at 8 p.m. to take up unfinished business.

Classes Set On Listening

Lothar Salin, San Rafael printer and advertiser, has scheduled classes in West and Central Marin designed to develop effective listening habits and communicating techniques for use in both business and personal situations.

In San Anselmo, classes will be held at 7:30 p.m. beginning March 30 at Red Hill School. In West Marin, classes will begin at 7:30 p.m. March 31 at the West Marin Elementary School, Point Reyes Station.

Despite 'No Vacancy' Signs, Teacher Applicants Flock In

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Marin school districts are receiving record numbers of applications for teaching jobs at the same time many of them are reducing staffs.

There is such a surfeit of applicants for teaching jobs that Kentfield School District stopped accepting applications three weeks ago, reported Supt. Anthony G. Bacich. Novato Unified School District has been discouraging those who write in for application forms, telling them there is no likelihood of jobs, according to Supt. James G. Bunker.

Yet there are more than 500 applications on file in Kentfield and about 1,000 — all new this year — in Novato. And the major flood of applications generally starts about this time and continues through April.

The Kentfield and Novato districts are by no means unique. Kenneth Lowry, superintendent of San Anselmo School District, reported applications there are running at least one-third greater than in previous years. Supt. Milton S. Cohen reported more than 1,000 applications have been received already by Larkspur district.

Supt. Clifford Campbell said Dixie district has about 700 applications already on file. Two-school Lagunitas School District already has 140 applications for teaching jobs for next fall, six more than the total received all last spring, reported Supt. Joseph Amato. Supt. James A. Collins in Mill Valley said applications are running considerably heavier than in the past.

None of these districts, however, has any jobs to offer — other than to fill a few vacancies left by resignations. And most of them expect very few to resign, since changing districts is far from easy this year.

Rather than adding jobs, some elementary school districts will be eliminating some, because of lower enrollment.

County Schools Supt. Virgil S. Hollis predicts a decline of about 1,000 in over-all Marin public school enrollment next term. Enrollment this year — roughly 52,000 — is down about 300 from last year, which in turn declined about 800 from the 1968-69 school year.

The declining enrollment is one reason some districts plan to reduce teaching staffs. Another reason is probable loss of state or federal funds for such special programs as remedial reading instruction and counseling.

The Larkspur district, expecting enrollment to drop by 65 after a decline of 75 this year, plans to reduce its teaching staff by five. Mill Valley district, which expects enrollment to hold close to the present 3,563, has notified 10 teachers hired last year that they may not be re-employed.

Dixie, which cut staff for the current year, plans no further reduction for next year as attendance is expected to remain at about the present 4,640. Kentfield expects its enrollment to drop from 1,360 to 1,300 and will eliminate three teaching jobs. Lagunitas plans to keep the same number of teachers although expecting about 20 fewer pupils.

Reed district, predicting an enrollment decline of 40, "may cut two or more teachers," according to acting Supt. Lester Dunn. San Anselmo, with pupil count expected to go down by 50, may eliminate six special teachers.

Biggest drop, and biggest cut, are in prospect in Sausalito — which, unlike other districts, has not received "a lot of applications," according to Supt. Lawrence A. Lindberg.

With enrollment expected to fall from the present 570 to 518 next fall, the Sausalito district plans to eliminate eight classroom teaching positions and nine jobs in the district office, Lindberg said.

The enrollment decline has not yet hit the high schools. But in Novato Unified district, there will be three or four fewer teachers next year through eliminating six or seven in the elementary schools, adding three in junior highs, and keeping high school staffs unchanged, reported Superintendent Bunker.

San Rafael city schools will have about the same number of teachers next year as this, with about the same total enrollment of 8,900, predicted Jerald Gill, personnel director. A slight drop in the elementary schools will be balanced by a slight increase at the high schools, he said.

Only three districts expect greater enrollment next year: Tamalpais High, Shoreline Unified and Marin Junior College.

Supt. John A. Grasham said a 6 per cent enrollment increase is expected at the college and some teachers will be added.

Supt. Charles E. McCully at Shoreline, where a slight increase is forecast, said he is receiving up to 20 job applications per day, but expects to have only two jobs to fill — those of teachers planning to quit at year's end. Supt. Wilber D. Hawkins plans to reduce the administrative staff in Tamalpais High School District by four, but will at least balance that by additions to the teaching staff because of a predicted enrollment gain of 360.

Novato's Dollar Days Set To Go

Downtown Novato retail merchants will offer three days of sales during spring dollar days starting tomorrow.

About 30 to 35 stores, offering a wide variety of merchandise, will participate in the sales event Thursday, Friday and Saturday, according to Billie Garl, secretary of the Novato Chamber of Commerce.

Stores will be open Friday night until 9 o'clock. Spring dollar days are one of the eight business promotional events sponsored by the retail committee of the chamber this year.

A banner announcing the sales days flies over Grant Avenue near Highway 101 and participating merchants are expected to fly banners in shop windows.

Portable Classroom Firm Sued

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A civil suit charging fraud was filed in Superior Court Tuesday against a Santa Rosa firm that supplies many Marin County School districts with portable classrooms.

The Speedspace Corporation, one of four firms indicted last November by a Federal Grand Jury on anti-trust charges, was sued Tuesday for more than $1 million by Atlantis Electric, Inc., of San Francisco in a contract dispute.

The suit charged that Speedspace fraudulently represented that it would hire the electrical firm as a subcontractor for $1,500,000 worth of work in 1969 and then failed to carry out the promise.

Pleads Innocent To Drug Count

Roger Blair Griffith, 22, of San Rafael, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to charges of possessing hashish and offering to sell marijuana and opium.

A preliminary hearing was set for next Tuesday.

Griffith was arrested last Wednesday after a San Anselmo man told police that he picked up Griffith, who was hitchhiking, and that Griffith offered to sell him the drugs.

Auto Stereos Reported Stolen

Two tape stereos have been reported stolen from autos parked at 10 Skylark Drive, Larkspur, police said yesterday.

Officers said Dicie Jane Gates of apartment 75 reported Saturday a tape stereo and tapes valued at $139 missing from her auto.

Earlier, Sheldon Andrews of apartment 69 reported a similar theft from his auto parked at the building.

Car Hits Tree, Driver Injured

A 39-year-old San Anselmo man was treated today at Marin General Hospital for cuts above the right eye and on the ear sustained in a San Anselmo auto accident.

Officers said Marcel Cassou of 230 Brookside Drive, was traveling west on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard when his auto struck a tree at Cordone Drive. No cause was listed for the 1 a.m. accident.

Fewer Reed Students; Staff Same

The Reed School District will have approximately 60 fewer students next school year but that won't mean a reduction in staff, Acting Supt. Lester Dunn told the district board last night

Dunn said the enrollment drop from the current total of about 2,000 would mean two less classrooms in use

Chairman Gordon C Wright said he hoped the two extra teachers would be used throughout the district to help in the teaching program.

Dunn's disclosure came as the board reviewed its $2,425,377 preliminary budget for next fiscal year.

Although the board took no action on the budget, Trustee Kenneth C Wells questioned the proposed increase in maintenance to $31,440, up from $16,639 two years ago.

Dunn said it was due to an increase in vandalism and a resulting boost in insurance. The insurance will increase from $13,500 this year to about $20,000 next year, Dunn said.

On a question from the audience, Dunn said that the district now has an assessed valuation of $55 million, but that it should go to $59 million next fiscal year.

Although the preliminary budget for next year is $115,091 more than this year's budget, Dunn said it should not require an increase in the current tax rate of $2.28 per $100 of assessed valuation.

The Reed School District Board also:

COMMITTEE — Appointed Betsy Leth to the district's facilities and transportation committee.

PORTABLES — Authorized Dunn to see if the district can cancel its lease on three portable classrooms which now cost the district $6,835 per year. It now has sufficient classrooms without these, Dunn said.

LANDSCAPE Hired the landscape architectural firm of Theodore Osmundson and Associates of San Francisco for $2,000 to design the initial stage of landscaping for the new Reedlands Wood School. Dorothy Groo, chairman of the facilities and transportation committee, reported on work to be done.

SPEAKERS Asked for a demonstration of a speaker system from Harry Kowamato of Los Angeles for use at board meetings. Kowamato has offered to sell the system to the district for $600. Audience members have complained in the past about an inability to hear speakers.

REORGANIZATION — Asked for a volunteer to serve as an alternate delegate to the Tamalpais High School District Reorganization Committee.

CLOSED Went into a closed meeting at 10:30 p.m. to discuss hiring an interim superintendent, but adjourned at 11 p.m. taking no action.

Trustees Want To Know Possible Bike Path Use

Trustees of the Reed School District last night approved surveying district students to determine how many would use a bicycle-pedestrian path proposed along the old Northwestern Pacific Railroad right-of-way.

Trustees said they would use the results to try to convince the state Division of Highways to install street lights for safety reasons at points where the railroad right-of-way crosses Tiburon Boulevard, a state highway.

The City of Tiburon has proposed building the path. It obtained the right-of-way from the railroad last year.

The city has asked the school-district to contribute to the cost of building the paved path, although Trustee Chairman Gordon C. Wright said last night he thought school money could be spent only in areas where the path would be contiguous to school property.

Airline Reports January Losses

LOS ANGELES (BW) — Western Airlines has reported a January loss of $322,000, reduced from a loss of $637,000 for January of last year.

January operating revenues increased 7.1 per cent to $25,137,000.

Man Kills Boy For His Prank

CINCINNATI (UPI)—A 16-year-old boy was fatally beaten with a wooden stake after he walked on the newly seeded lawn of a neighbor, police said.

John Rothan, a student at Western Hills High School, died about seven hours after he was admitted to St. George Hospital Tuesday.

Police were questioning Joseph W. Evans, 26, who told them the boy and several of his friends deliberately walked on his new lawn and pulled up one of the stakes he had put around the perimeter to protect the grass.

Stock Exchange Chief Resigns After Dissent

NEW YORK (UPI)—Ralph S. Saul, president of the American Stock Exchange since 1966, resigned from the post Tuesday for "personal reasons." He will join First Boston Corp., an investment banking firm.

American board chairman Frank C. Graham Jr., who announced the resignation, said it was accepted with reluctance. The board will set the date for the resignation to assure reasonable time to name a successor.

Saul, 48, served with the Securities and Exchange Commission for seven years before becoming president of the nation's second largest stock exchange. He was a one time assistant counsel to Gov. Averell Harriman in the 1950s.

In recent months, Saul disagreed with leaders of the larger New York Stock Exchange on the issue of letting mutual funds, insurance companies and other large trading institutions have their own seats on the exchanges. The New York Stock Exchange favored letting them in, while Saul was opposed.

Saul also opposed plans to substitute a system of negotiated fees for the traditional commission structure used by both exchanges in the buying and selling of stocks.

Final Days Set On Rail Station

Tomorrow is the last day objections to closing of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad station in San Rafael may be filed with the state Public Utilities Commission.

If no appeal received, the railroad's application to close will be routinely approved without a public hearing.

A commission spokesman said yesterday a hearing would be held only if protests are received from the City of San Rafael or from persons "who regularly use" the station.

The railroad has moved ticket sales and other operations formerly handled at the station to Petaluma.

Teacher Group Asserts Wrong Information Given

Reed School District Teachers Association said last night the Independent-Journal had been furnished misleading information for an article on March 11 stating that an agreement on resolving disputes between the district board and teachers was near.

Martin Magid, association president, told the board "that once again information supplied to the press by the Reed District office has appeared in the paper as misleading and inaccurate."

Board Chairman Gordon C. Wright said that he had hoped that procedures aimed at resolving disagreements between the two parties would have been approved last night. However, he said, Acting Supt. Lester Dunn was sick last week and County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney, who was to have helped work out the procedures, was unavailable.

The procedures, discussed at a meeting between the board and teachers last Wednesday night, also would be aimed at settling the current teacher contract impasse. Wright had told the I-J after that meeting that an agreement on the procedures was near and that discussions might be wrapped up at last night's meeting.

Another meeting with the teachers was set for 8 p.m. next Wednesday at Bel Aire School.

Ferronickel Output Begins In Caledonia

OAKLAND (BW) — Start up of ferronick production from electric furnace no. 10 at Doniambo in Caledonia — the second large furnace to be brought on steam this year — has been announced by Societe Le Nickel and Kaiser Nickel.

The new 33,000 KW rectangular furnace brings to four the number of furnaces producing nickel contained in ferronickel put into production at Doniambo during the last three years.

Stolen Car

Petaluma police reported that a car owned by Pebble M. Fender, 163 Webster Street, was stolen last night. The white 1963 Rambler had license plates ENG 659.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

New Health Care Legislation Due

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation is being prepared to insure every Californian against the kind of long term illness that can ruin a person financially.

A working man would pay a small, almost token monthly premium and be protected against "catastrophic" medical expenses for long-term hospitalization or extensive surgery.

The far-reaching proposal—expected to be opposed by insurance companies—will be introduced by Assemblyman William Campebell, R-Hacienda Heights.

He also is the author of Gov. Ronald Reagan's Medi-Cal "reform" bill, but plans to push his own catastrophic insurance program separately.

"Only two kinds of people can afford to get sick today—the Medi-Cal recipient and the extremely wealthy," Campbell said in an interview.

"What I want to do is give the working guy a piece of the action. He now pays for all the Medi-Cal and welfare and gets nothing in return."

Medi-Cal provides free health care for 2.4 million low-income Californians. It and welfare combined cost taxpayers $3.5 billion annually.

As now envisioned by Campbell, his legislation would require every employed Californian to pay a $1 monthly premium into a new state-operated catastrophic insurance program. Employers would match that with another $1.

Nonemployeees such as shop owners or pensioners—could buy into the insurance program on a volunteer basis for $2 monthly.

Rich and poor would pay the same premium under the legislation as tentatively drafted. But Campbell said he may still decide to base the premium on percentage of income.

His plan would not replace the basic private insurance program which covers relatively minor day-to-day costs of short-term hospitalization, doctor visits or drugs.

A person would become eligible under the new state program only after benefits ran out under his private basic plan.

For instance coverage might begin, Campbell said, after 75-to-100 days of hospitalization, $2,000 in surgical fees, $200 in outpatient drug costs, $1,000 in laboratory fees or $500 in physical therapy.

Campbell, a 35-year-old former school executive, said he expects to draw opposition from insurance companies because his program "would probably do away with private major-medical coverage." He also anticipates the fire of some conservatives who might fear a government insurance program. But Campbell said he regards himself as a conservative.

"I won't tolerate it at any level of our government. And if we find it going on, believe me, those responsible will either straighten up and fly right or they will be ousted."

HOME TAX

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —The property tax on homes occupied by their owners would be eliminated under a $2 billion tax revision proposal being sponsored by California's Democrats.

The program would provide $1 billion in direct property tax relief for owner-occupied homes. It also would include a reduction in taxes for enters and business inventories.

Details of the program are scheduled to be announced publicly on Thursday.

BENEFITS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A string of bills revising the state's workmen's compensation program has been introduced with the sponsor saying inflation has cut buying power of current disability payments.

Chairman Willie L. Brown Jr. of the Assembly Ways & Means Committee proposed the legislation Tuesday for the California Labor Federation, AFL-CIO.

The measures would:

—Increase maximum weekly permanent disability benefits from $52 to $100 per week and provide life pensions for those with disabilities of 70 per cent or more.

—Increase maximum weekly temporary disability benefits from $87 to $150.

—Require mandatory rehabilitation programs for injured workers.

—Extend coverage to domestic service.

—And require labor representation on the Workmen's Compensation Appeals Board.

ANTISMOG

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The major proposals of Gov. Ronald Reagan's antismog program—including stiffer exhaust emission controls—was before the Legislature today.

The proposals in the form of bills were introduced Tuesday with one requiring 1966-70 model cars to be equipped with devices to control oxides of nitrogen. It was authored by Sen. H. L. Richardson, R-Arcadia.

The oxides are the pollutants causing the brownish-orange element in photochemical smog. Currently, emission devices need only to filter out hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide from exhaust.

OIL CRITIC

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan is accused of "protecting oil interests" by keeping the Legislature from acting at once on a bill tightening the oil depletion allowance.

The charge came from Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, R-Van Nuys, who said Tuesday that the bill needed a letter of authorization from Reagan before it could be considered by the full Assembly ahead of the budget.

Moretti said the measure by Assemblyman John L. Burton, D-San Francisco, would raise an estimated $26 million by limiting the oil depletion allowance to the actual cost of development of a well.

Currently oil companies are allowed a 27 1-2 per cent depletion allowance on all wells every year before they begin paying any other taxes.

HIRING

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan said Tuesday that he would not tolerate discriminatory practices in the hiring of state workers.

Reagan made the comment after an official of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People said state government hiring policies were "subtly discriminatory."

The governor told his weekly news conference:

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Heart Is Susceptible To Many Abuses; Heart Diseases Result

There are many different forms of heart disease because the old ticker is susceptible to a variety of abuses. In addition, the organ deteriorates with age and is subject to injury from a blow to the chest or penetrating wound. We can further subdivide cardiac conditions into disorders involving the valves, muscles, and coronary arteries, etc. Arterio sclerosis, a major offender, indirectly affects the pumping apparatus by narrowing the coronary arteries. These channels literally feed the heart muscle because the blood on the inside of the heart goes in one end and out the other.

ONCE THE HARDENING process develops, the changes may be permanent, but all is not lost. New passageways may open up to bypass obstructions or provide new channels to nourish the starving heart muscle. Several operations also improve the coronary blood flow.

High blood pressure is another origin of cardiac disease. Constant arterial resistance overtaxes the old pump and, to compensate, the heart enlarges. In addition, hypertension encourages hardening of the arteries which, in turn, adds to the resistance and impairs the coronary circulation.

BRONCHIAL ASTHMA, chronic bronchitis, and emphysema also create a strain on the heart. In these situations the right ventricle is forced to pump blood into scarred lung tissue. As a rule, these lung conditions exist for years before signs of heart trouble occur.

Cardiac infections usually strike at an earlier age and the most notorious culprit is rheumatic fever. Although the entire heart may be involved, the valves are favored. But not everyone who has had rheumatic fever is left with leakage. Those with marked scarring can have the damaged valves replaced with artificial appliances.

Rheumatic fever is on the wane thanks to the prophylactic effect of antibiotics. Syphilitic heart disease has almost disappeared. Congenital defects continue to occur but with the new German measles vaccine these conditions will become less prevalent.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

MOBILES OVER CRIB

F. L. W. writes: Mobiles suspended over the baby's crib or buggy are for mothers, not for baby. The mother should try it on herself. Try to lie on your back and stare at moving objects, such as butterflies or birds, and you will soon be a nervous wreck. What do you say about this, doctor?

REPLY

Following the movement of these mobiles is one way in which the baby's eyes are strengthened. An infant is not sophisticated enough to become a nervous wreck.

TRIGGER FINGER

T. G. writes: My doctor wants to give me injections for trigger fingers (the pinkie and ring finger.) Do you think this treatment will do any good?

REPLY

What kind of injections? Splinting the fingers helps the majority. As a rule, surgery is advised when simple measures do not bring relief within three weeks.

EMOTIONS AND DIARRHEA

M. A. writes: Could a mental condition cause a person to have loose stools all the time?

REPLY

Not as a rule. Loose stools may occur in a highly nervous, emotionally disturbed individual. But X-rays and stool analyses should be done to rule out more common causes for the symptom.

Mascone Vote Plan Is Passed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A proposal to make 18-year-old Californians as powerful as their parents in the voting booth reached the halfway mark in the state Legislature today.

Republicans and Democrats generally agreed that the legislation giving 18-, 19-and 20-year-olds the vote in all elections would receive Assembly approval.

In an apparent unprecedented action, the Senate Tuesday voted narrow 28-9 approval to the proposed constitutional amendment by Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco, and sent it to the Assembly.

Veteran Senate attaches could recall no previous occasion when the Senate passed a measure lowering the voting age. At past sessions, the Senate repeatedly has killed such proposals while the Assembly has endorsed them.

The legislation needed at least 27 favorable votes. Ten Republicans joined 18 Democrats in voting for approval while eight Republicans and a Democrat voted to defeat it. The Democrat was Sen. Lawrence Walsh of Huntington Park.

Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti's office said the Moscone measure would be assigned to the Elections and Reapportionment Committee which already has approved a similar bill by Assemblyman Willie Brown Jr., D-San Francisco.

The committee has under study other proposals which would go much further than Brown's or Moscone's and lower the legal age of adulthood and give the 18 to 20 crowd the same privileges enjoyed by their parents.

Supporters estimate that 1.5 million young Californians would be fully enfranchised under the Moscone legislation. Currently, they can vote in congressional and presidential elections but are prohibited from casting a ballot at a city council, school board or gubernatorial.

The Moscone measure would be subject to voter ratification, probably at the June 1972 primary election. Gov. Ronald Reagan has said he favors submitting the question to the electorate.

The legislation also eliminates all California literacy tests for voting and reduces residency requirements to only 30 days in the state in conformity with federal law. A voter now must reside in the state for one year, the county for 90 days and 54 days in a precinct.

Moscone, a potential Democratic contender for governor in 1974, has carried the 18-year-old voter measure for four years. The Senate last March 3 defeated it again but reversed itself Tuesday with only token debate.

Tam Meeting Is Tonight

The Ad Hoc Congress on Tamalpais High School District Reorganization will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock instead of tomorrow as originally scheduled.

The meeting, to be held in the Redwood High School library in Larkspur, was switched at last night's meeting. The group's final meeting, slated for Monday, was rescheduled for Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the library.

The congress is a group of district and school administrators, trustees, students and community representatives meeting with Supt. Wilber D. Hawkins for a line-by-line explanation of his plan.

BEFORE THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA

Application of PACIFIC GAS AND ELECTRIC COMPANY for authority to revise its tariff for electric service to offset increases in the cost of gas used for electric generation.

APPLICATION
No. 52490

PACIFIC GAS AND ELECTRIC COMPANY hereby gives notice that in Application No. 52490, filed with the California Public Utilities Commission on March 10, 1971, it has requested authorization to revise its tariff for electric service to offset increases in the cost of gas used for electric generation. These increases are subject to possible reduction and refund to PG and E's electric department. Should this occur, PG and E proposes to reduce its offset rates accordingly and to make appropriate refunds.

The proposed offset rate increase will cover the increased cost of gas used to generate electricity and will not increase PG and E's net revenues. The proposed increase of .0059 cents per kwh for substantially all electric service, to be effective March 31, 1971, amounts to less than a 1% increase for those affected. For domestic customers this means an average increase of less than 3c per month over present rates.

A copy of the application and related exhibits may be examined at the offices of the California Public Utilities Commission, State Building, 350 McAllister Street, San Francisco, California 94102; at Pacific Gas and Electric Company, 245 Market Street, San Francisco, California 94106, Room 832; and c/o the Division Managers in PG and E's Division Headquarters in Eureka, Red Bluff, Chico, Marysville, Sacramento, Auburn, San Rafael, San francisco, oakland, San Jose, Salinas, Fresno, and Stockton.

This notice is given in accordance with Rule 24 of the revised Rules of Practice and Procedure of the California Public Utilities Commission.

TRAINING BY CLEANING THE PARK

Two men from the San Rafael National Guard Engineer Battalion demolish an old bridge in the Palomarin area of Point Reyes National Seashore. The work during the weekend was the beginning of a program to upgrade the area through removal of old structures and through erosion work, planting and a general cleanup. Since the work provides training for the guardsmen and is valuable to the park, Supt. John L. Sansing said the project will continue through April and May.

PX Probers Exonerate Bromley

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Senate investigators today formally exonerated a reputed slot machine czar of sworn allegations that he offered a former general a $50,000 bribe to keep quiet about corruption in the military.

Bringing together the principals —entrepeneur Martin J. Bromley and former Brig. Gen. Earl F. Cole —the Senate Investigations Subcommittee gave Cole a chance to confirm or deny that Bromley tried to bribe him in Germany on Oct. 10, 1969.

"The man at the end of the table is Martin Bromley," Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., acting subcommittee chairman, told Cole. "Is he one of the men you met in Frankfurt who offered you a $50,000 bribe?"

"He is not," Cole answered firmly as Bromley smiled.

"Have you ever seen him before today?" Ribicoff asked.

"To the best of my knowledge, I have not," Cole said. "I do not know Martin Bromley."

"Then, any indication that you were the man is wrong," Ribicoff told Bromley. "The committee believes you and we wish to say that in no way were you implicated in the alleged bribe offer to Cole."

Two weeks ago, an Army investigator testified under oath that Cole had told him two men, one a Jeff Bromley, tried to bribe him to "take the Ffifth Amendment and keep his mouth shut" in the subcommittee's investigation of alleged corruption at military clubs and Post Exchanges around the world.

Subcommittee investigators said at that time that Jeff Bromley was an alias used frequently by Martin Bromley, whom they identified as head of a worldwide slot machine syndicate. Cole has been accused by more than two dozen witnesses of being deeply involved with some of Bromley's associates, especially businessman William J. Crum.

Tuesday, Bromley indignantly denied to the committee both that he ever used an alias and that he ever tried to bribe Cole. He produced evidence that he was in Spain when the alleged bribe offer was made.

Cole supervised club operations in Vietnam and later was made PX commander in Europe. Last summer, he was demoted to colonel, stripped of his Distinguished Service Medal and retired because of activities in the European Post in 1969.

Appearing for a fourth round of questioning today, Cole continued to deny he had a close relationship with Crum. But as before, his most frequent answer to questions was," I don't recall."

Though questioning Cole closely about a meeting he had with Crum in Hong Kong in 1967, the subcommittee made no reference to Crum's appearance on network television Tuesday night, in which the mystery businessman made his first public denial of wrongdoing.

Crum dismissed as an "out and out lie" testimony given the committee that he bribed Cole to help build a fortune selling slot machines and liquor to military bases in Vietnam. He also said the charge was made by an "extremely vindictive man," a former employe, who "had a very bad habit" of pretending to be the nephew of Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz.

Answering on network television the charges he has refused to discuss with the Senate investigations subcommittee, Crum denied he was the key man behind a web of corruption at military clubs and post exchanges in the war zone.

Crum, who the subcommittee has been trying to find for months, appeared on the CBS TV "Sixty Minutes" show in an interview filmed by Mike Wallace aboard Crum's sailboat outside Hong Kong. Crum said he was too ill to travel to Washington, but would talk to Senate investigators if they come to him, "in the presence of my attorneys."

Turk Kidnappers Caught In Battle

ANKARA (UPI)—Deniz Gezmis, a 25-year-old university dropout who masterminded the kidnaping of four U.S. airmen, was captured by Turkish police today in a four-hour gun battle near Gemerek, 125 miles southeast of Ankara.

Gezmis was described as the leader of the Turkish People's Liberation Army and, as such, was Turkey's most wanted man. With other militant leftists he is accused of a series of bank robberies, bombings and attacks on political rivals.

He was brought to Ankara for questioning and told police he and his companions had planned to execute the four Americans kidnaped March 4 but were dissuaded by a letter one of them, Sgt. James Sexton, 22, of San Angelo, Tex., had written to his pregnant wife.

Yusaf Aslan, Gezmis' accused accomplice in the kidnapings, was wounded in the gunbattle which broke out Tuesday night when the two men were challenged while loading a motorcycle onto a truck. En route to a police station they suddenly drew pistols and began firing.

They fled into a house where a woman was wounded before Gezmis managed to commandeer a car. They tried to flee but ran into a police roadblock where they fought it out until Aslan was hit and wounded seriously and Gezmis was captured.

The capture of Gezmis and Aslan came only hours after Turks learned of a high level military shakeup which diplomats said thwarted a planned coup by dissident army, navy and air force officers dissatisfied with the way their superior officers were conducting Turkish affairs.

Diplomats said the two events had increased chances of a quick and peaceful settlement of a crisis of authority now in its sixth day. It appeared the country's four political parties would form a coalition under a leader yet to be chosen.

Police said Gezmis was armed with two automatic weapons and two hand grenades of Russian manufacture, plus identity cards of the Al Fatah Palestinian guerrilla organization when captured. They said Aslan carried two revolvers and a grenade, also of Russian make, a large quantity of ammunition and an American identity card.

Gezmis is accused of kidnaping the four Americans at gunpoint. They included Sexton; Airman 1c Richard Caraszi, 22, Stamford, Conn.; James M. Gholson, 23, Alexandria, Va.; and Larry J. Heavner, 22, Mayville, W.Va. They were released unharmed and returned to the United States last Sunday.

February Income Fails In Big Push

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The personal income of all Americans increased in February at a rate only about half as fast as the monthly average during last year's recession, the Commerce Department said today.

The report further dampened the Nixon administration's predictions of an early economic upturn.

The department said personal income —the total of wages, salaries, interest, dividends, individuals business profits, farm earnings, rentals, welfare benefits and other payments to individuals —was at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $828.9 billion last month, up $2.2 billion from January.

Total personal income in January had leaped $9.2 billion from December. The average monthly increase in 1970 was almost $4 billion.

Wages and salaries accounted for $1.6 billion of the $2.2 billion February gain. Of the advance, $900 million came in government employment and only $700 million in private employment.

Manufacturing payrolls, which increased $1.3 billion in January, declined by $200 million in February.

In a related report, the department said home building activity increased only slightly in February. The administration has been counting on a sharp increase in residential construction to help stimulate the still sluggish economy.

Private housing starts were at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 1.7 million units last month, up only 6,000 units from January and well below the 2 million unit figure reported in December. The February rate was substantially higher than the 1.3 million rate a year ago.

Home building increased steadily in the last half of 1970 after a severe slump that ripped the industry in 1969 and the first half of last year. It reached the two million unit mark in December but slipped in January and February.

President's Message For St. Pat's Day

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon said today St. Patrick's Day is a celebration for all Americans.

"It is a time of celebration not only for those of our citizens whose ancestors were born on the Emerald Isle, but also for countless others who value those qualities of warmth and humor, pride and courage which are so closely associated with the Irish people," the President said in his annual St. Patrick's day message.

STARS ABOVE

Sea Serpent Made Up Of Long Lines

By SHERMAN WALKER

The Sea Serpent (Hydra) is made up of a long line of stars that are rather dim. Although Hydra doesn't seem to be going anyplace in particular, it is an interesting figure to trace out by the sky viewer.

Hydra has one bright star called Cor Hydra (Heart of the Serpent) and sometimes called Alphard (meaning the Solitary One). The whole constellation is more noticeable than it deserves — there are few bright stars in the vicinity. The Serpent reaches across almost 90 degrees of sky and is of about the same brightness throughout its length, except for Alphard which is about magnitude 2½.

To locate Alphard in the sky, face southward at 9 p.m. and look at the region of the sky that is three-fifths of the distance up from the southern horizon to overhead.

Alphard is of orange-reddish hue which probably accounts for the name, Heart of Hydra. It is more than 200 light years from the solar system.

Just south of the constellation of Cancer (the Crab) is a small group of stars making up the head of the Serpent. Also there is one dim star which could mark the end of the tongue.

The brighter of the five stars of the head is Epsilon Hydrae.

Psssst! AF Floats Secret Test

The Air Force conducted hush-hush tests of a new Mae West in the Olympic-sized swimming pool of the Edgewater Inn in Corte Madera yesterday.

It turned out that the tests were secret not because of national security but because of the complications of industrial competition and bureaucracy.

Air Force civilian technicians were testing a new inflatable life preserver developed by H. Koch manufacturing Co. of Corte Madera.

J. J. Riley, supervising the tests for the Air Force research and development center at Wright Patterson Air Force Base in Ohio, firmly vetoed newspaper photographs. Meanwhile, the "downed pilot" in flight suit, helmet and bright red Mae West was being dragged the length of the pool by three puffing technicians hauling on a simulated parachute harness.

"How would it look," Riley demanded, "if this got out here before it was out in the East? We haven't contracted with the vendor yet, this is just a test, not a purchase.

"You'll have to go to the Wright Patterson PIO (public information office) to get the story. You won't be able to get it without my OK."

About then, the dragging harness parted and the "pilot" climbed out of the warm pool. The secret test was over.

Lecture Slated On De Chardin

An illustrated lecture on priest-paleontologist Teilhard De Chardin will be presented by St. Stephen's Church from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday at the church, 3 Bayview Avenue, Belvedere.

A team of speakers will discuss the Frenchman's book, "The Phenomena of Man," and his concepts on man's destiny.

Further information may be obtained and reservations made by calling the church.

Innocent Pleas To Pot Charge

Hart Keith Bell, 26, of San Rafael, and Charles Virgil Leffingwell, 25, of San Francisco, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to charges of possessing marijuana.

They are to return to court next Wednesday to have a date for a preliminary hearing set.

The pair was arrested in a drug raid March 8 at a Sausalito residence.

Probation Of Two-Years Given

Cathy Brownell of San Rafael has been placed on probation for two years by Judge Robert A. Smallman of Marin Municipal Court for her conviction on a misdemeanor charge of possessing marijuana.

Mrs. Brownell and a San Rafael man were arrested at their home Aug. 6 and both were charged with possessing marijuana. Charges against the man were dropped in January when Mrs. Brownell pleaded guilty to the charge and indicated the marijuana belonged to her.

Scientist Said Hushed On SST-Cancer Theory

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said today a government cancer expert was prevented from talking in public about the possibility the supersonic transport (SST) could alter the upper atmosphere and increase the incidence of skin cancer.

The House begins debate today on whether to continue funding for the 1,800-mile an hour airplane.

Proxmire said Dr. Gio Gori, associate scientific director of the National Cancer Institute had planned to appear at a press conference with three other scientists today to discuss skin cancer problems raised by the SST.

But Proxmire said Gori had to cancel his public appearance "and we understand the reason was because the White House objected."

Gori could not be reached immediately for comment.

Proxmire released a letter from Gori saying a 4 to 10 per cent decrease in ozone caused by water vapor spewed into the stratosphere by SSTs could result in thousands of new skin cancer cases.

Proxmire quoted Gori as saying the ozone decrease would allow more ultraviolet radiation to reach the earth and an "annual increase in skin cancer cases in the United States alone would range from a low of 23,000 cases to a high of 103,000 cases."

Proxmire said it was one thing for the administration to require loyalty from government employes. "But it's outrageous to attempt to deprive the Congress and the people of this vital data," he said.

Proxmire said it would be foolhardy to approve another $134 million to keep the project alive until all the questions about skin cancer possibilities were answered.

The letter from Gori to Proxmire was among 24 released by the senator who had written 40 meteorologists and skin cancer experts for their opinion on the estimate of Dr. James E. McDonald of the University of Arizona that SSTs could cause 10,000 new cases of skin cancer.

None of those responding said McDonald was wrong, said Proxmire.

A close vote in the Senate will go in favor of the SST according to GOP Leader Hugh Scott, who said "it will pass. There are enough votes for it."

The House, which began debate today, will vote on an amendment to kill the project Thursday. But it too is expected to approve the project. SST opponent Rep. Sidney R. Yates, D-Ill., said, however, he is still optimistic the House might vote the project down.

Yates, in remarks prepared for the debate, said the project was "unduly favorable to Boeing" aircraft Co., because the government was providing $1.3 billion in subsidies while Boeing would get "most of the profits."

Restitution Is Ordered

Steven Terry Odom, 20, of Santa Rosa, has been ordered to pay $360 restitution in connection with his conviction on a misdemeanor count of car theft.

Judge Robert A. Smallman of Marin Municipal Court also placed Odom on probation for three years.

Odom was arrested Jan. 18 when California Highway Patrol officer stopped to assist him when he developed car trouble on Highway 101.

He pleaded guilty to the misdemeanor charge last month when it was reduced from a felony count of car theft.

Hungarian Boss Blasts Nixon For War, Strategic Embargo

BUDAPEST (UPI) — Janos Kadar, first secretary of Hungary's Communist party, believes the United States is re-escalating the war in Vietnam.

In an exclusive interview with United Press International, Kadar ranged over both domestic and international affairs and said that, while east-west European relations are improving, there is little hope for a radical growth soon in Hungarian-American relations.

It was his first interview with a non-Communist correspondent in nearly 2 1-2 years.

Hungarian sources said the fact Kadar gave a policy interview so soon before the Soviet Party congress—which sets long-term policy for both the Soviet Union and its allies—was a "sensational" sign of his strength, self-confidence and solid ties with Moscow.

In a written answer and in a 90-minute private conversation in his office, Kadar made these major points:

—Both the European Common Market and its Communist counterpart, COMECON, "represent a reality—and obviously will remain so. Therefore I find it reasonable that some sort of contacts be established between the two organizations and most likely this is going to happen."

—A European Security Conference could be convened this year. Its original agenda should focus on non-controversial items, but he said the question of a mutual east-west reduction of troops in Europe might be discussed there "at a certain stage." The Berlin question, however, would be a "burden."

—Hungarian-American relations are hampered by U.S. "discriminations" in trade, including the strategic trade embargo. He hinted that he considered President Nixon's visit to Romania and Yugoslavia "a discrimination among the socialist countries, an attempt to disrupt our cooperation" and said the time is not ripe now for Nixon to visit Hungary.

—"I am impressed," he said, with moves by the new Polish government —an important statement of approval for the hard-pressed Poles. He indicated that Hungary and other COMECON nations are sending aid to Poland.

The last blizzard of the season whistled along the Danube River outside Kadar's wood-paneled office as he received this correspondent and, over coffee and Coca-Cola, discussed his problems and policies.

Tropical plants stood at one end of the long yellow-and-brown office and Kadar's neat desk stood at the other, beneath the framed "Order of Lenin" medals given by the Soviet Union. A painting of Lenin playing chess hung on one wall, group photographs from Kadar's past hung on another.

Cigarette boxes containing three different brands stood on the mahogany conference table where the interview took place, but Kadar smoked his own—a particularly potent Hungarian brand, "Sinfonia." He wore a conservative gray suit with maroon tie and laughed, smiled and joked often as he talked in his soft, hoarse voice. After 14 years in power, Kadar seems in good health, but looks tired and older than his 58 years. He frequently stressed the "practical" basis of his policy; ideology played little part in his conversation.

On Vietnam and the Middle East, Kadar was uncompromising.

Asked about "de-escalation" of the Vietnam War, he said, "the facts run counter to this catchword." He cited the invasions of Laos and Cambodia and said:

"This dangerous sequence and trend of events can be called anything but de-escalation of the war: in fact, exactly the opposite has taken place . . . the only way to end the war is to make use of the political contacts still at disposal at the Paris talks."

He repeated the familiar demand that Israel withdraw from all captured Arab territories. But he said such withdrawal could "provide a far more favorable climate" for settlement of the long-range Palestinian problem.

On relations with the United States, the Hungarian leader said that, given the distances and differences between Hungary and America, "it is scarcely believable that (they) could suddenly become main partners." But he suggested that the Nixon administration is doing little to help this situation.

First, he said, Washington should "cancel the obsolete measures which hinder economic relations." He explained he meant both the lack of "most favored nation" treatment and the strategic embargo.

After Nixon's visits to Romania and Yugoslavia last year, he said "some people (in Hungary)—and they were not few—viewed these visits as a discrimination among the socialist countries, as an attempt to disrupt our cooperation."

He refused to comment on Nixon's call for congressional guarantees for private U.S. investment in Romania and Yugoslavia. But, asked if he would welcome a Nixon visit to Hungary, Kadar replied:

"Neither the situation nor the conditions, in my opinion, have ripened on either side for a visit to Hungary by President Nixon."

Kadar acknowledged that the presence of Hugarian cardinal Jozsef Mindszenty in the U.S. Embassy here (where he has been since 1956) continues to hamper relations "to a certain extent," but added that "time has surpassed Mindszenty and his problem."

He said this was mainly a problem for Mindszenty and the United States, but said "we are prepared to consider . . . such initiatives that may lead to a solution. Since this situation was not brought about by us, I think the initiatives must not be expected to come from our side either."

Seniors Ask Mountain Graduation

Seniors at Redwood High School in Larkspur would like to hold their graduation ceremony on Mount Tamalpais, but park officials must first give approval.

Trying to get away from the school's "cramped" gymnasium, where ceremonies have been held in the past, the students have suggested the Mountain Theater as an ideal location since more spectators could be seated.

A meeting among the students, school administrators and park officials was set for today to study the feasibility of the site and special problems it might offer.

"The Mountain Theater should be available for this type of activity," Robert Crawford, a park official, agreed yesterday.

Only twice before has it been used for graduations, he said, but by out-of-couny schools with much smaller graduating classes.

He said matters to be discussed today include insurance, control of access to the outdoor theater and transportation.

The thought of new graduates "getting a sense of freedom and jumping into their hot rods, scares the hell out of me," he said.

Crawford said he would propose today that graduates be transported to and from the graduation by bus to avoid accidents on the mountain roads.

He said the students' proposal would be studied thoroughly during the next month.

Strawberry Cove Plan Due Airing

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A controversial plan to build a 96-unit apartment project on Strawberry Cove will be heard again by the Bay Conservation and Development Commission at 2 p.m. tomorrow in Room 1194 of the State Building, 455 Golden Gate Avenue.

Commissioners heard more than two hours of opposition on March 4, and agreed then to continue the hearing tomorrow to give time for all interested persons to speak.

The project was proposed by Paul J. Broman of Peacock Gap, and has won strong opposition from residents of the area. Broman's plans call for building the apartments in six separate structures, a swimming pool, public boat ramp and a boardwalk along the bayshore.

Commissioners have set voting on Broman's application for a permit for their April 15 meeting.

Partial Prison LockupContinues

A partial lockup at San Quentin continued today after another day of calm at the prison where 12 men were wounded and one killed during racial troubles last week.

Associate Warden James W. L. Park said the 1,400 men in the east and south blocks were still locked up today. He did not know when the lockup will be ended.

Inmates in the two cell blocks have been locked up, except during meals, for the past week. Lockup in the north and west blocks was ended Monday.

Inmates are being searched for weapons as they are taken to meals, Park said. More than 50 makeshift weapons have been seized since violence erupted March 8, Park said.

Fine Day For Talking About Irish Football

Happy St. Patrick's Day. Pass the corned beef and let's all have a slug of Irish whiskey, you little leprechauns, you. Shurre and begorra, but it's a fine day for the wearing of the green —be it a tie, or socks or cabbage.

And what better time than to discuss Irish Football, a rough and tumble sport that will be displayed in San Francisco's Balboa Stadium Sunday by the Kerry All-Ireland champions against an Irish All-Star team. To start at 2:45 p.m., the game will be the first time two headliner Irish teams will have played outside of Eire.

Just what is Gaelic Football? "It's a combination of the best of soccer, rugby and a little basketball," explained Kevin Downey of San Rafael, publicist for the co-sponsoring United Irish Societies of San Francisco and the St. Patrick's Fathers, a missionary group.

"The players are all amateurs and come from all walks of life," said Downey, a native of the auld sod who played the game for 20 years before coming to the U.S. "There are men from all walks of life in the 20-30 age bracket — a policeman, banker, farmers, truck drivers, an accountant, hotel owner, military officers and so forth, giving unselfishly of their time to Ireland's favorite sport.

"The game is played with 15 men per side," he continued, "on a field 130 by 80 yards. There is one referee, two linemen and four umpires — one at each corner of the field.

There are 30 minutes of constant action in each half with a 10-minute intermission. That is, there are no time outs unless there is a serious injury. If a player is just slightly hurt, then he has to get off the field on his own — even if he has to crawl.

"Believe me, Shamus, there is tackling just as rough and tough as any hockey game you've seen and the players don't wear pads.

"Now, the idea, of course, is to get the ball through the goal posts by either kicking or punching the ball. We use a soccer ball. (Look, Ma, Paddy's Pigskin!) If the ball is kicked or punched over the cross bar it is worth one point. If the ball goes under the bar, past the goalie and into the nets it is worth three points. Players cannot throw the ball, but they may kick it or punch it. It's not unusual to see them kick the ball 60 yards in the air."

Downey, who operates a cocktail lounge in San Francisco, says the co-sponsors hope to draw a crowd of 10,000 to Balboa. He said games in Ireland draw upwards of 100,000 fans.

The Kerry team, he said, has been champion of Ireland 22 times. "They have a dynasty like the Green Bay Packers and the Chicago Bears used to have and the San Francisco 49ers will have in the future. A game like this is like the Baltimore Colts against the rest of the National Football League or the New York Knickerbockers against the rest of the National Basketball Association."

Speaking in an Irish brogue as thick as the corned beef I was eating over our luncheon meeting, Downey said the 36 players on the two rosters will arrive in San Francisco Saturday afternoon and will stay at Bay Area private homes to save on expenses. Two of the All-Stars, Colm McAlarney and Sean O'Neill, will stay at Downey's home in Terra Linda.

Downey said it is costing $25,000 to bring the squads to San Francisco, adding, "Needless to say we'll need a capacity crowd to help us defray the expenses. Tickets cost $3 apiece and can be purchased at any Macy's store in advance. On the day of the game the tickets will cost $4."

With that, Downey downed a large glass of milk!! An Irishman drinking moo juice at this time of year???? Egads!!!

"Yes," he apologized. "I've developed an ulcer worrying about the expenses of this game."

Now, shurre and you wouldn't want a fine gent named Kevin Downey to suffer further on this day of days, would you? Get out and buy a ticket for some good fun at Balboa Stadium Sunday.

Marin Baseballers Win Loop Opener, 10-3

POWER SUPPLY — College of Marin first baseman Rafael Gallardo (25) crossed the plate with a big smile on his face after clouting a home run early in yesterday's game against Skyline. Gallardo had six runs batted in on the day to lead the Tars to a 10-3 win in their Camino Norte Conference opener in Kentfield. (Independent-Journal photo by Alfred Arn)

Gallardo Knocks In Six Runs

First baseman Rafael Gallardo had six runs batted in, five of them in the first two innings on a home run and a bases loaded single to lead the College of Marin Tars to a 10-3 victory over Skyline Junior College in a Camino Norte Conference season opening baseball game yesterday at Kentfield.

Jerry Goodrich, staked to six runs in the first two innings, went the distance to record the win. He also helped himself at the plate with three singles in four at bats.

Gallardo, a sophomore, cracked a fastball 380 feet over the right centerfield fence with Ken Roby and Dee Fedrick aboard and nobody out in the first. In the second, Goodrich opened with a single and was thrown out at third when Mike Parnow followed with a single. Roby and Fedrick then walked to set the stage for Gallardo, who drilled a line single to right to score Parnow and Roby.

Gallardo picked up his other RBI in the sixth inning with a sacrifice fly.

The Tars play again tomorrow, at De Anza Junior College in Cupertino.

Cavaliers Surprise Warriors

CINCINNATI (UPI) —Somebody named Bobby Smith has put a damper on the playoff hopes of the San Francisco Warriors.

The unheralded Smith and Walt Wesley sparked a fourth-quarter rally that carried the expansionist Cleveland Cavaliers to a key 108-103 victory over the Warriors Tuesday night. It was only the 14th victory in 78 games for the Cavaliers this season.

But as far as coach Al Attles and the Warriors are concerned, it couldn't have come at a worst time.

San Francisco needs two victories to nail down second place in the NBA's Pacific Division and the final playoff spot. Cleveland wouldn't cooperate, so the Warriors now must test Cincinnati tonight and follow it up with games against the rugged Chicago Bulls on Thursday and at Seattle in the season's finale Sunday.

Cincinnati, Chicago and Seattle also are scrambling for playoff spots. The fast-breaking Royals are 1 1-2 games behind Atlanta in their fight for the final playoff spot in the Central Division, so Bob Cousy's squad won't roll over and play dead for the Warriors.

Chicago has a comfortable four-game edge over Phoenix in their runnerup battle in the Midwest Division but the Bulls have treated the Warriors roughly all season and there's no sign of a change of heart.

So Attles knows it's up to the Warriors. He doesn't want to depend on San Diego and Seattle losses to back the Warriors into the playoffs.

San Diego is two games behind San Francisco with home games remaining against Detroit. Milwaukee and Phoenix. Seattle, which trails the Warriors by 2 1-2 games, entertains Milwaukee and the Warriors at home and goes on the road for games at Portland and Phoenix.

Smith scored a career-high 37 points against the Warriors who led 80-78 at the end of the third quarter but were outscored 30-

Two Marin Teams Win With Shutout Victories

Two Marin County Athletic League teams registered shutout victories, and two others lost in extra innings in preseason, non-league baseball games yesterday.

Marin Catholic blanked Analy of Sebastopol, 5-0 in Kentfield, San Marin whitewashed Cardinal Newman, 6-0 in Santa Rosa, Terra Linda bowed to St. Ignatius in San Francisco, 8-4, and San Rafael was defeated by Petaluma, 7-6 in Petaluma.

A game between Redwood and Montgomery of Santa Rosa scheduled for yesterday was postponed because of wet grounds.

Junior lefthander Jim Lowe blanked Analy on seven hits, and his Marin Catholic teammates erupted for four runs in the second inning to back him up. The Wildcats of Kentfield collected only six hits, but half were doubles, including a two run blast by Don Bianchini. The other two-base hits were by Vince Bormolini and Tom Olson, who also stroked a two run single.

Three San Marin pitchers, Ken Siler, Rick Jensen and Greg Mazeres, limited Cardinal Newman to just three hits, while the Mustangs exploded for five extra base hits. Mazeres had two of them, a double and a triple, while Tim Bowen and Marty Larsen each doubled and Jim Thompson belted a two-run triple in the seventh. Thompson also had a single.

Terra Linda came from behind to tie St. Ignatius with three runs in the bottom of the seventh inning, only to have the Wildcats score four times in the top of the eighth to win it. The Trojan rally started with two out and the bases empty, and included three walks and two singles. The telling blow was a two-run base hit by Tom Hughes after Larry Kerr walked with the bases loaded to force home Jim Cottington.

Ken Burns slammed a two run homer as San Rafael scored three times in the second inning to take an early lead over Petaluma. The Bulldogs scored twice more in the third, and once in the fourth, but were shut out the rest of the way. The Trojans tied the score at 6-6 with a run in the sixth, and pulled out the victory with a run in the ninth.

Gary Nelson and Dave Urquhart had a triple and a double respectively in the losing cause.

John Billings pitched a three-hitter to lead the Drake High School Pirates to a 2-1 victory over Santa Rosa High School. John Loane had a single and double to pace the Drake Attack.

Giant Vet, Rookie Impressive

PHOENIX (UPI) —Two sacrifice flies and Don McMahon, a 41-year-old relief pitcher, showed Tuesday he has lost none of his stuff by blanking the Milwaukee Brewers over the final two innings to pick up his first win of the spring.

San Francisco won 6-5 when rightfielder George Foster scored Jim Rosario with a sacrifice fly in the top of the 10th inning at Phoenix.

Trailing 5-4, the Giants had tied the contest in the ninth on a hit batsman, single by Chris Speier and Ed Goodson's sacrifice fly.

Both teams collided again today at Phoenix. San Diego comes to town Thursday and the Oakland A's meet the Giants for the third time this spring on Friday at Phoenix. The A's and Giants have split in their two previous games.

Rookie righthander Steve Stone of the Giants continues to impress manager Charlie Fox. He started against the Brewers Tuesday and struck out nine while allowing two runs in six innings.

Matching Stone on Milwaukee's side was another rookie, Bill Parsons, who shut out the Giants on two hits over the first five innings.

Then in the sixth the Giants scored four times to take a 4-2 lead. One of the big blows of the rally was a double by Willie Mays.

Terra Linda's Swim Team Romps Again

Paced by ace freestyle sprinter Thom Guthrie, the Terra Linda High School Trojans continued to go undefeated in first round Marin County Athletic League swim meets with a powerful 72-23 victory over the Novato Hornets in Terra Linda.

In other league meets, San Rafael overwhelmed Drake's Pirates 60-34 in San Anselmo.

With only eight boys out for the varsity and Class B swim teams, and some of them downed with the flu, Tamalpais High School didn't have enough athletes to field teams yesterday and had to forfeit their meets to Redwood High.

Guthrie tied the school record he already held in the 50 free with a 23.3 clocking, and splashed to another victory in the 100 free to complete his perfect day.

The other Trojan double winner was Rick DeMont, picking up victories in the 200 I.M. and 400 free. DeMont's I.M. time is the fastest in the league this year.

Recording an excellent 1:01.5 backstroke time was Roger Rechsteiner for Novato. Rechsteiner, the only Hornet swimmer to take a first place, also romped in the 200 free for his double win.

In their breeze over Drake, the Bulldogs got a double win from Scott Dicker, who nailed down the I.M. and the butterfly.

Terra Linda's superb Class B team also remained undefeated, with an 83-2 annihilation of Novato.

'Exclusive' Rooting Section For Hawaii

HONOLULU (UPI) —University of Hawaii will have an exclusive "eastern" rooting section during the National Invitation Tournament in New York.

Approximately 200 employes of American Airlines in New York have adopted the squad and will form a special cheering section at Madison Square Garden.

FRAZIER HOSPITALIZED

Blood Pressure Reported High

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Heavyweight champion Joe Frazier complained of being tired and was admitted to St. Luke's Children's Medical Center Tuesday when tests showed his blood pressure "on the high side."

Dr. James C. Giuffre, medical director, said the champ would be hospitalized "at least a week" for "purely routine" tests.

The boxer has cancelled all scheduled public appearances since he won a grueling 15-round decision over Cassius Clay March 8 at New York.

"I hope and pray it's nothing seriously wrong with him," Clay said. "They say he's just tired. I hope it's true."

From his hospital bed Tuesday, Frazier, as he did right after the title fight, talked about retirement but said that if Clay "wants another fight, He'll get it."

Clay remained solemn when he was asked if he would visit Frazier. "If he's just tired, he'd get a lot more rest not seeing me," he said.

"His problem is in no way the result of the fight," the physician said. "There is no detached retina. His eyes looks a little bloodshot, that's all.

"I checked his blood pressure and found it was on the high side," Giuffre said. No medication had been prescribed.

The physician said the urea content of Frazier's blood "was high" but said the fighter "really needs rest and relaxation." The doctor said he would perform the tests, including a complete blood profile to pinpoint Frazier's ailment.

Frazier's blood pressure was about 130 over 80 prior to the fight, Giuffre said, and 160 over 90 when checked at the hospital.

There were unconfirmed reports earlier that Frazier had already been in the hospital for several days. He cancelled out on several television appearances. He notified NBC he would not be able to appear Tuesday night on Johnny Carson's "Tonight Show."

Yank Durham, his manager, a hospital board member, said Frazier had the flu last Saturday when he failed to appear for a television taping with Clay in New York City. "I didn't want him embarrased," Durham later remarked.

Giuffre said Frazier went to the hospital Monday to sign autographs and returned Tuesday to show a film of the fight to youths at a drug clinic. The doctor said Monday was "the first time he had been here."

The doctor said Frazier pulled him aside while there to show the films and complained of feeling weak.

Giuffre pronounced Frazier physically sound before the fight.

Baseball Tryouts Set For Saturday

Major League tryouts for the San Rafael American Little League will be held Saturday for boys 10 through 12 years of age at Davidson Junior High School, it was announced today. Only boys who did not play for a major league team last year must try out.

The tryouts will start at 10 a.m. for 10-year-olds, 11 a.m. for 11-year-olds and noon for 12-year-olds.

In the event of inclement weather, the tryouts will be postponed until Sunday, same times, same location.

Artis Gilmore Signs $2.7 Million Contract

NEW YORK (UPI)—Wendell Cherry, board chairman of the Kentucky Colonels, was willing to reach into his pockets to make his team a winner in the American Basketball Association.

Cherry dug deep Tuesday night and came up with an estimated $2.7 million multiyear contract for Jacksonville's All-American Artis Gilmore. It was believed to be the richest contract ever offered a rookie.

"When we took over this franchise, we were determined to bring this city the best basketball money could buy," said Cherry Tuesday, "and I think we've taken a giant step that direction tonight."

That giant step is represented by the 7-foot-2 Gilmore, who signed with the Colonels for what team president Mike Storen called, "the most substantial contract ever signed in this league."

Gilmore stretched his huge frame over a courtside table in between games of an ABA doubleheader in Louisville Tuesday night as a crowd of 10,000 gave him an enthusiastic ovation.

"This marks a major breakthrough for the ABA in signing a top-flight big man," Cherry said.

Gilmore averaged 22.3 points and 23.2 rebounds per game this season as he led the Dolphins to a berth in the NCAA Regionals. Jacksonville was beaten by Western Kentucky, 74-72 last Saturday.

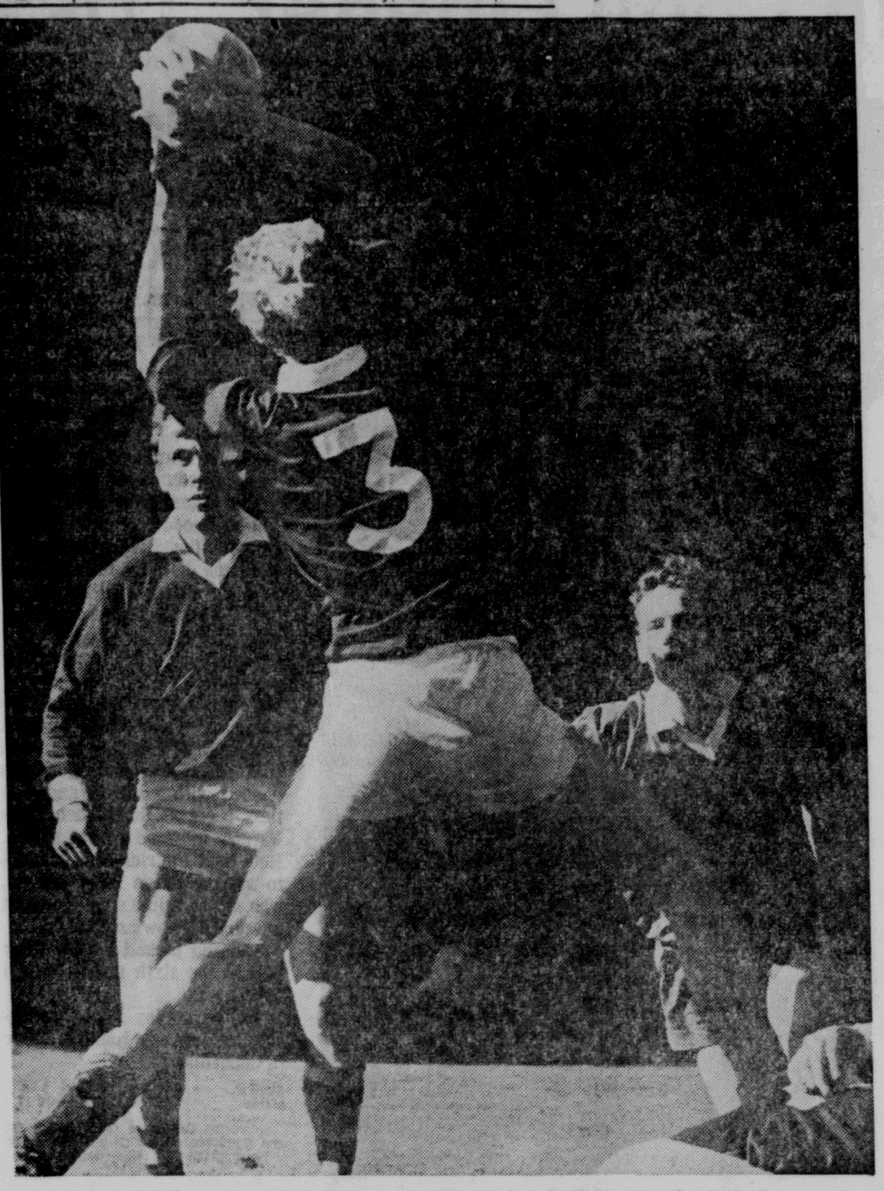
Gilmore is expected in New York Wednesday afternoon.

Anthony Fourth In PBA Winnings

AKRON, Ohio (UPI)—Earl Anthony of Tacoma, Wash., on the strength of his $10,000 win last weekend in the Cougar Open, has pulled into fourth place in the earning standings of the Professional Bowlers Association.

Anthony's winnings brought his total so far this year on the tour to $21,060.

The top three in the standings are Johnny Petraglia, Brooklyn, N.Y. with $26,603; Dave Soutar, Gilroy, Calif., $22,830, and Don Johnson, Akron, with $22,136.



IRISH FOOTBALL IN SAN FRANCISCO

Action like this will be seen for the first time in the United States Sunday, 2:45 p.m. at Balboa Stadium, San Francisco, when the Kerry championship team of Ireland meets an All-Star team from the rest of Eire in Gaelic Football. It will mark the first time two high-caliber teams of Ireland will play on foreign soil. See Jim Gilmartin's column on page 37 for complete details.

A Garden In Phoenix Without An Outfield

PHOENIX — Behind the centerfield fence of Phoenix Municipal Stadium there is a garden spot. In fact, it is called Cookie's Garden. Several years ago when he was a coach of the Giants Cookie Lavagetto conceived the idea of the garden, complete with a baseball infield and pitching mound but no outfield.

"WE DON'T need an outfield for what I have in mind," said Lavagetto. "All we want to do is teach the proper way to bunt and the correct way for a pitcher to cover first base."

Lavagetto's garden school always opened each day as the Cactus League exhibition activity started on the other side of the centerfield fence. What was going on in the garden was obscured by the fence and oleanders.

COOKIE SINCE has retired but the garden activity still goes on while Cactus League games are being played. Hank Sauer now is the garden teacher and, like Lavagetto, he rarely sees an exhibition game.

If the Giants turn out to be good bunters this season and if the pitchers break from the mound instinctively to cover first on every ground ball hit to the right side, does Sauer plan to take credit?

"WHY NOT?" countered the amiable Pennsylvania Dutchman who was born on St. Patrick's Day. "Won't I get the blame for bum bunts or pitchers forgetting about covering first?"

Sauer's role as a garden teacher isn't his only job with the Giants. He is batting instructor, scout and good will ambassador. He even filled in last year as manager of the Phoenix Giants when Charlie Fox was promoted from the farm club to the big team.

SAUER KNOWS that in his job as batting instructor he can't make a .300 hitter out of a .250 hitter.

"No way, no how," said Sauer. "I can correct faults and I can teach a youngster sound batting fundamentals. But the rest is up to him.

"I TEACH the three important things — how to hold the bat, the hip pivot and to keep the head in there. Then if they still can't hit, the ability is not there."

Keeping the head in there? What does that mean?

"KEEPING THE eyes on the ball means the same thing," said Sauer. "A batter must practice following the pitch. If there is one common fault among young batters it is failure to keep the eyes on the ball."

Of all his jobs with the Giants, Sauer is happiest as batting instructor. Why?

"I'VE NEVER forgotten the help I received as a young player," said Sauer who was the home run hitter of the Cubs two decades ago. "Jewel Ens made me. I was always in front of the ball and pulled everything foul down the left field line.

"I was using a 35 ounce bat. Ens gave me a 42 ounce bat. I told him I couldn't swing that but he convinced me I could. The heavier bat slowed down my swing and shots I had been hitting foul now were finding the left center lane."

AS A GOOD will ambassador, Sauer soothes sagging morale. Some years ago when Willie McCovey's morale was low because a former manager of the team tried to convert him into an outfielder, Sauer got Stretch straightened out.

"Hank is a good man," says McCovey.

Cooper Beaten, Decides To Quit

WEMBLEY, England (UPI) —Henry Cooper, who once floored Muhammad Ali and who held the British heavyweight boxing title longer than any other man in history, has decided to call it a career.

Wicks and Rowe were picked as forwards, Love as center, and Westphal and Phil Chenier of California as guards.

HAYWARD (UPI) —Hayward State is looking for a new head basketball coach today after Herb Graw quit to become associate dean in the school of education.

2 Records In Marin Track Loss

Despite two school record performances by Ted Cain, the College of Marin Tars lost their second straight Camino Norte Conference track meet yesterday 113-23 to Contra Costa J.C. in Kentfield.

The Tars, who lost their league opening meet to West Valley of Campbell Mar. 5, picked up only a single first place yesterday, and Cain wasn't responsible for it. Gary Wall won the high jump at 6 feet, 1 inch.

Cain had to settle for second place in each of his record setting efforts. He covered the 440 in 49.3 seconds to break the old mark of 50.2, and smashed the record for the 440 intermediate hurdles with a clocking of 55.3.

Seals' Last Chance At Penguins

OAKLAND (UPI) —The California Golden Seals have been able to beat every team in the National Hockey League this season with the exception of Pittsburgh and Los Angeles.

They get their last chance tonight to defeat the Penguins at the Coliseum-Arena. In their previous five games, the Seals have managed one tie and four losses.

Against Los Angeles, the Seals own a horrendous 0-4-0 record. The Seals entertain the Kings in the Arena Sunday afternoon and close the season April 3 in Los Angeles.

"Those teams go about hockey in a very definite manner which a lot of our guys can't understand," said Seals coach Fred Glover. "In some cases you could say we get intimidated."

Glover threatened to shake up the Seals considerably unless certain individuals show definite improvement and hustle in the team's remaining nine games.

"Some of the players are not putting out," he said. "I've warned them that if they can't straighten themselves out during our remaining seven home games, they won't be around next season.

"Let's face it —when you have a year such as we've had, you've got to make changes."

Carr, Wicks Lead UPI All-America

NEW YORK (UPI)—Austin Carr of Notre Dame and Sidney Wicks of UCLA, who finished 1-2 respectively in the balloting for UPI's Player of the Year honors, were the top votegetters in the 1970-71 All-America squad selected Tuesday by the United Press International.

Carr, a 6-foot-3 guard who is the nation's second leading scorer, and Wicks, a 6-8 forward who led the top-ranked Bruins in scoring and rebounding, received 781 and 777 points out of a possible 800 in a balloting of 400 sportswriters and sportscasters from across the country.

Also named to the first team All-America squad were Artis Gilmore of Jacksonville, John Roche of South Carolina and Dean Meminger of Marquette. All five first-team selections are seniors.

The second team consists of Jim McDaniels of Western Kentucky, Johnny Neumann of Mississippi, Ken Durrett of LaSalle, Howard Porter of Villanova and Curtis Rowe of UCLA. Neumann, a sophomore who led the nation in scoring with a 40.1 average, is the only non-senior on the second team.

Named to the third unit were sophomore George McGinnis of Indiana, junior Paul Westphal of Southern California, junior Julius Erving of Massachusetts, senior Charley Yelverton of Fordham and senior Dave Robisch of Kansas.

Haywood: Not Sure Of Getting Money

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Spencer Haywood testified before a U. S. District Court here Tuesday that he asked the Denver Rockets for a salary increase of $100,000-a-year because he did not believe he would ever get the $1.9 million they originally promised him.

Haywood, appearing before Judge Warren J. Ferguson and a seven-woman five-man jury who will decide who has the rights to the 21-year-old star, told the court that he did not understand how a stock investment portion of his contract would bring him the money.

He said he discussed the contract, which had a variable annuity clause in it that was to have provided him with $1.5 million, with his former high school basketball coach and guardian William J. Robinson. He said they agreed that the contract did not provide for the $1.9 million.

United Press International learned Monday that the stock held under the annuity plan was in the name of the Ringsby Trucking Line, the firm that owns the Rockets.

J. W. Ringsby said that the worth of the annuity plan could have reached as much as $3 million, depending on the economy. Ringsby also admitted that the worth of the stock could have dropped had there been a serious decline in the market.

Because he was uncertain that the annuity plan would bring him the money, Haywood asked the Rockets for the $100,000 raise. It was at that time that he came under the advisement of a Los Angeles attorney who said there were still further discrepancies in the Denver contract.

Haywood said he left the Rockets because the contract was invalid. He later signed with the Seattle Supersonics of the National Basketball Association for a straight cash deal of $100,000 a year over 15 years.

There are numerous suits and counter suits surrounding the case of the former Univrsity of Detroit star and the man who led the United States Olympic basketball team in 1968. Lawyers are battling for the Denver Rockets and the Seattle Supersonics, the lawyer who advised Haywood of the alleged contract discrepancies is also being sued by Denver. Even the Supreme Court has been brought into the case to make a ruling over Haywood's eligibility to play for the Sonics.

Finley's Experiment Headed For Oblivion

By United Press International

Baseball's three-ball, three-strike experiment seems doomed for oblivion along with previous suggestions that the game be played with yellow baseballs or metal bats.

The suggestion was made by Charles O. Finley, owner of the Oakland Athletics, who thought the three-ball, three-strike rule might speed up the game. But experiments with it have turned out exactly the opposite — producing tedious games of "pitch and catch."

The Cleveland Indians and Athletics experimented with the suggestion again Tuesday, with the Indian winning a 10-7 decision during which Cleveland pitchers allowed 15 walks and Oakland pitchers eight. Vida Blue of the Athletics, who pitched a no-hitter and one-hitter last spring, was among the pitchers who just couldn't adjust. He allowed eight walks and was tagged for six hits and five runs in six innings.

Ray Lamb, the winning pitcher, yielded only three hits but walked 10 batERS.

On other fronts: Ralph Garr drove in two runs with a sacrifice fly and a single and rookie Marty Perez knocked in two with a single to lead the Atlanta Braves to a 5-2 victory over the Minnesota Twins. Phil Niekro, 12-18 last season after a 23-13 record in 1969, pitched five one-hit innings and has allowed no runs in nine innings this spring.

George Foster's sacrifice fly drove in Jim Rosario in the 10th inning and gave the San Francisco Giants a 6-5 win over the Milwaukee Brewers ... Bob Spence hit three homers, including a grand slam, as the Chicago White Sox' "B" team whipped the Pittsburgh Pirates' "B" squad, 13-9. Richie Zisk hit two homers and Vic Davalillo also connected for the Pirates.

Tony Conigliaro homered for the California Angels but they lost to the Tokyo Orions, 7-2 ... Rookie Bill Bonham and veteran Bill Hands combined in a one-hitter to pitch the Chicago Cubs to a 2-1 triumph over the San Diego Padres. Rafael Robles singled off Hands in the fifth inning for the Padres' only hit.

The cCardinals ran their spring record to 8-3 when Jose Cardenal's grand slam homer in the seventh inning helped them beat the Cincinnati Reds, 10-7. Ted Simmons hit a three-run homer off Greg Garrett in the second inning to help the Cardinals build a 5-0 lead ... Frank Howard and Mike Epstein hit their first homers of the spring for the Washington Senators, who beat the Boston Red Sox, 5-4. It was the fourth straight loss for the Red Sox. After the game, the Senators farmed out outfielders Tom Grieve, Jeff Burroughs and Gary Ratliff, pitchers Mike Thompson and Jan Dukes and infielders Jim Mason and Larry Biitner.

Tom Bradley, Terry Foster and Stan Perzanowski combined in a four- itter to pitch the Chicago White Sox to an 8-0 decision over the New York Yankee in a night game at Caracas, Venezuela.

Patterson Sets Cleveland Bout

CLEVELAND (UPI) —Floyd Patterson, former heavyweight champion, has agreed to fight Terry Daniels of Dallas here in a 10-round main event April 14.

Since ending a two-year retirement to take another shot at gaining the title, Patterson, 36, has knocked out Charlie Green and Levi Forte. His overall record as a pro is 48-7-1, including 37 knockouts.

Daniels has compiled a 27-2-1 pro record. In his only two appearances here, Daniels scored knockouts.

Patterson had been scheduled to meet Oscar Bonavena in New York next month but the bout was cancelled when the Argentine boxer broke his wrist in an automobile accident Monday in Los Angeles.

Brisk Ticket Sales For U.S.-Russ Meet

BERKELEY (UPI) —Ticket sales have been brisk for the July 2-3 track meet at the University of California's Edwards Stadium between the United States and Russia.

In the five days since the site of the meet was announced, 1,727 tickets have been sold and there are requests for an additional 1,000. Cal officials are confident of selling out all 22,000 seats in the stadium both days.

See Europe by bus.

In fact, see Europe in your choice of buses. The new Volkswagen Station Wagon comes as a 7- or 9-seater. (The 7-seater is standard and has an aisle all the way through. Like a bus should.)

There's room in the back of the bus for 10 or 12 good-sized valises.

The man to see about buying one here is the man to see about having one waiting for you in Europe. Your local authorized Volkswagen dealer. He'll arrange licensing and delivery and even give you the scoop on how to get it back home.

It'll be nice to have a family bus with about twice the inside room of most conventional wagons. And VWs save you money on travel expenses. On either side of the Atlantic.

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

How To Prevent Dry Rot Damage

Dry rot still takes a big toll of wooden boats every spring. The cost of the damage, not only in money but in a waste of good boating time, is tremendous. This is the time of the year most of the damage is done. This is the time one can do something about it.

If you have a wooden boat, here are some questions that may provide a few of the answers you want. They are from other owners of wooden boats who are concerned about dry rot:

Q. Why do they call it "dry rot?" The wood has to be wet to rot . . .?

A. It is a misnomer. The expression originated centuries ago when the rotten wood found in big ships was usually very dry. Rotted wood dries out extremely quickly because it has so little substance. What's left is just a skeleton.

Q. What is rot exactly?

A. It is the disintegration of wood caused by a fungus which is a very simple form of plant life. A fungus is a parasite and feeds on other organic matter. It send out microscopic roots which consume the cellulose of wood. As a part of the balance of nature fungus rids the forest floor of dead trees.

Q. Will it spread from wet canvas?

A. The fungus which destroys sails and canvas goods, if they are stored wet, is called mildew, it's slightly different, but just as destructive. Other forms of fungus are mushrooms, puffballs and the mold found on stale bread.

Q. Will dry wood rot?

A. Not if it's truly dry. There must be at least 15 per cent moisture in the wood before fungus will grow. Also wood that is saturated with water will not decay . . . or, at worst only decay very slowly . . . because the fungus won't grow due to lack of oxygen.

Q. How does dry rot start?

A. Rot spreads when it matures and becomes dry. It sends out microscopic seeds called spores. They are in the air everywhere. Those landing on wood will sprout and grow if conditions are right.

Q. What are best storage condition?

A. Germination of the spores won't take place in cold weather or on dry wood. Right conditions for growth are the same as those for other plants . . . warmth, moisture, oxygen. Rot thrives in moist, warm weather or in heated places where there's lots of moisture. It follows that the best storage avoids these conditions.

Q. Will good paint on a wooden boat prevent rot?

A. Contrary to popular belief rot does not start on the outside of a boat so the paint is not the most significant factor . . . although it is important. Rot begins on the inside in cracks and joints and closed spaces where wood can stay moist for a long time.

Q. How about the topsides . . .?

A. Most important! Keep topsides in good repair so that water will not become trapped in crevices or joints. Caulk and fill seams and joints where water can be held. Soak wood in fungicidal preservatives.

Q. Water runs into my boat no matter what precautions I take. What should be done?

A. I know what you mean. Winter winds seem to force snow and rain through almost anything. However, if water comes in, provide drain holes for it to run right out again. Also provide good ventilation so that wood can dry out after getting wet. This may kill the fungus and stop the cycle.

Q. Are any woods fungus-proof?

A. Some resist dry rot better than others. Best by far is cypress. Cedar is No. 2, and Sitka spruce is good. Hardwoods that resist rot are mahogany, oak and teak. That's why you see these woods used in boat building.

Q. How long can sails be stored wet?

A. Consider one hour as being too long. Mildew grows very much faster than dry rot fungus. Under good conditions . . . for the mildew . . . I once saw a $500 canvas sail utterly destroyed in six days.

Teams Point To UCLA In Regionals

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Sixteen teams are busy readying for eight NCAA regional playoff games and throughout there's the feeling that there's really only one team to beat — UCLA.

The Bruins have become virtually synonymous with the NCAA—they've won the last four titles and six of the last seven—and the general consensus among tournament teams this year is that UCLA is the one to stop.

The Bruins, the nation's No. 1 ranked teams, finished 25-1 with an impressive victory over Southern California Saturday afternoon. They'll open against Brigham Young in the Western Regionals tomorrow at Salt Lake City, Uah and Long Beach State (23-4) will face the University of the Pacific (21-5) in the other half of the doubleheader.

In other regional play, Pennsylvania (27-0) takes on South Carolina (23-4) and Fordham (24-2) meets Villanova (24-6) in the Eastern regionals at Raleigh, N.C.; Western Kentucky (21-5) tangles with Kentucky (22-4) and Marquette (27-0) plays Ohio State (19-5) in the Mideast at Athens, Ga.; and Notre Dame (20-7) faces Drake (20-7) and Houston (21-6) hooks up with Kansas (25-1) in the Midwest at Wichita, Kan.

"I'm not overconfident but I don't lack confidence either," says UCLA coach John Wooden. "I think we've peaked at the right time." On the other hand, any team is capable of beating you at this point.

Bowlers Win $2,761 In 'City' Tourney

A prize fund totaling $2,761.70 will be given out by the Marin County Bowling Association to winners in the 23rd annual City Tournament which ended last weekend, according to unofficial figures released yesterday by MCBA secretary Dick Treadway.

Singles winner Walt Spellman will get $75 plus trophy, and doubles winners Rennie Horvath and Charles Robertson will each get $55 plus trophies. Spellman won the singles with 636 scratch, 52-pin handicap, 688 total. The doubles winners scored 1182-136—1318.

The Roto-Rooter Service team earned $250 and trophies for its record shattering scratch 3251 and 3315 handicap. All events winner John Bussey earned $50 for his 1924-66—1990 score.

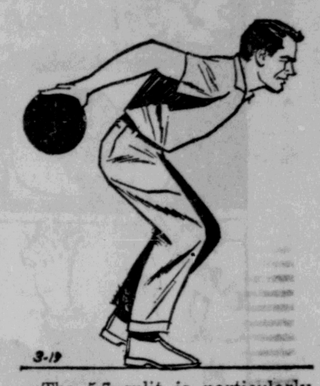
BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER



The 5-7 split is particularly frustrating, because it often occurs after a pocket hit. The bowler has an urge to grumble about "bad luck," but such is not the case. If you leave the 5-7 or the 5-pin alone after hitting the pocket, it is a strong indication that your ball is fading instead of driving in at the finish.

There are several remedies. Make sure you are keeping your fingers behind the ball all the way. Reduce your speed. And reduce the amount of hook you are using. One or more of these should help.

ALMANAC

Today is Wednesday, March 17, the 76th day of 1971. This is Saint Patrick's Day.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter. The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury and Saturn.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Pisces.

On this day in history:

In 1889 a submarine developed by John Holland remained submerged off Staten Island, N.Y. for one hour and 45 minutes.

In 1912 Mrs. Luther Gulick of Lake Sebago, Maine, formed a group for young women to be known as the ''Camp Fire Girls.''

In 1938 Generalissimo Franco ordered the bombing of the Loyalist-held city of Barcelona in the Spanish Civil War.

A thought for today: American publisher Horace Greeley said, "The illusion that times that were are better than those that are, has probably pervaded all ages."

Examinations For Base Checkers Set

The federal Civil Service Commission announced yesterday that examinations will be given in May for persons seeking jobs as checkers in military base stores throughout the Bay Area.

Three months' experience in a grocery store or completion of a training course for checkers is required. Applications may be obtained in any main post office, and must be returned by April 30, the commission said.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Expert Employs New Math For A Four-Heart Victory

The rubber bridge player suffers from the conviction that two plus two equals four. The typical expert at the national tournament now being held in Atlanta will assure you that even three plus two may equal only three. It sounds pretty foolish, but the expert can show you a hand to prove his point.

KING OF HEARTS

South wins the first trick with the king of spades and leads the king of hearts, expecting no trouble. If the hearts behave normally, South will lose only one spade and two clubs.

Unfortunately, East discards a diamond on the first round of hearts, and South thus discovers that the trumps are very sour indeed. The typical rubber bridge player would see that he is sure to lose two trump tricks as well as the three tricks in the black suits. "Three plus two equals five," he says to himself, and he promptly concedes down two. The concession saves time, but it's hard to think of any other argument in its favor.

BETTER ATTEMPT

The tournament experts makes a better attempt to make his contract in spite of the discouraging mathematics. Mind you, a rubber bridge expert could make the same skillful play, but few rubber bridge players are willing to give a hand the right amount of thought.

After discovering the bad trump break at the second trick, the expert cashes the top diamonds and ruffs a diamond. Then he leads the ace of spades, holding his breath, cashes the ace of clubs, and gives up a spade trick.

FREE FINESSE

West wins the third round of spades and leads the queen of clubs. East overtakes and tries to cash a second club trick, but West has to ruff since he has nothing but trumps left in his hand. Now West must lead a trump, giving declarer a free finesse and the contract.

Market On Low Side At Closing

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market finished lower Wednesday, although well above early morning levels. Trading was fairly heavy.

Of the 1,659 issues crossing the tape, 762 pointed lower while 604 gained.

Closing prices included AT&T 48 3-4 off 1-8; Bethlehem Steel 22 off 1-8; DuPont 141 5-8 up 1 1-8; Ford 60 7-8 off 1-4; General Electric 110 1-2 unchanged; General Motors 84 5-8 up 1-8; Southern Pacific 41 off 1; Standard of Jersey 77 3-4 off 14; Texaco 37 1-2 off 3-8, and U.S. Steel 33 1-4 up 1.

Profit taking accounted for part of the setback. But some analysts believed selling also reflected uncertainties in the Middle East and Laos, and fresh signs the predicted economic recovery will be slow in getting started.

Gillette was among the day's most active issues as a result of an early block of 356,400 shares traded at 49, off 1 1-8 in a cross-transaction.

Also heavily traded were Federal National Mortgage, Chrysler, Occidental Petroleum, and Ford Motor.

Steels and chemicals generally traded narrowly. So did rails, airlines, and aircrafts.

Prices weakened in brisk trading on the American Stock Exchange.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Investment Club's Success Story

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Five years ago I wrote for your advice on starting an investment club. We have grown from nine members to 26 and our net assets are $50,000. Would you appraise our holdings? They are: Avon, Bristol-Myers, Eastman Kodak, Litton Industries, Minnesota Mining, Tampax and Xerox. — M.H.

A. With one exception your club has built a fine portofolio of issues with above-average appreciation prospects. The weakest stock, Litton Industries, has recently reported disappointing earnings again for the second quarter. For the six months through January, earnings dropped 37 per cent to 61 cents a share on a 2 per cent gain in sales; full fiscal year net may be equally sluggish.

The 84 per cent rebound staged by Litton shares from May 1970 lows, suggests the strong possibility of a period of consolidation. You should consider switching out of Litton in anticipated periods of sideways action.

Q. I recently inherited odd lots of seven utility companies and of two mutual funds. I have $1,000 to invest and would like to add to one or more of these. Which would you select? — C. L.

A. Your inherited portfolio returns a generous 6.5 per cent on average. My first choice for purchase would be Central Maine Power, which reported improved operating results for 1970.

Earnings rose 9.1 per cent to $1.62 a share. Dividends have widened annually, with the most recent increase to 30 cents in the December quarter. Continued earnings growth should be realized from greater area industrialization and participation in atomic generating plants to be operative in 1971 and 1972.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL

Child Care Deductions Allowed Up To $900 For Working Mothers

You can deduct up to $600 for the care of your child, or $900 for two or more children if it is necessary to enable you to work.

You can deduct this only if it is for the care of a dependent child under 13 years of age, or for the care of any other dependent for whom you are entitled to an exemption who is mentally or physically incapable of caring for himself.

The expense must be paid and it cannot be paid to an individual for whom you claim a dependency exemption.

You can only make this deduction provided the cost is for you to earn a living or to enable you to look for work.

If you work only part of the day and pay for child care for all the day, you can deduct only the part that corresponds to the time you were working.

If the person you pay does work other than child care, such as housecleaning, the deduction is allowed only for the child care part.

The deduction is allowed to women and to widowers. Widowers include men who are divorced or legally separated and have not remarried. It is also allowed to husbands of incapacitated or institutionalized wives while the wife is disabled.

This deduction is allowed only if the wife is mentally or physically incapacitated or institutionalized for a period of 90 consecutive days unless the period is terminated by her death.

A married man or woman can deduct their child care expenses only if they file a joint return and together earn less than $6,000 per year.

If they earn over $6,000 per year, the deduction is reduced by the amount earned over the $6,000. This does not apply if the taxpayer's husband or wife is incapable of self-support because he or she is mentally or physically defective.

If you qualify, then get Form 2441 and complete it fully. Attach this form 2441 to your tax return and claim the deduction on Schedule A, line 16, Miscellaneous Deductions.

PG&E Asks Gas Rate Increase

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Pacific Gas & Electric Co. asked the State Public Utilities for a rate increase Wednesday to off set an increase in the cost of natural gas used in steam-electric generating plants.

The utility asked a one per cent boost in the rates it charges for electricity and said that would increase the average residential customer's bill by about three cents a month.

Beginning March 31, the company declared it must pay $2.5 million more a year to the El Paso Natural Gas Co., which supplies 45 per cent of the gas it uses to generate electricity.

Marin Banks Report On Deposits, Debits

February bank debits in Marin County dropped below last year's level, but deposits gained slightly.

Second Generation Clothiers Opens On Hub's Miracle Mile

A new clothing business in San Anselmo is The Second Generation at 412 Red Hill Avenue on the Miracle Mile.

Owner Mrs. Sally Fulton of Kentfield opened Monday with a line of used children's and women's wear and will try to handle consignments of top apparel lines in stocking her racks. This is her first business venture for herself, although she has been in retailing previously.

Hours are from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays.

UNUSUAL BUSINESS opened not long ago in Sausalito is Anchor Trading Co. at 490 Gate 5 Road.

Owner F. J. (Woody) Whitcraft retired from the sea three years ago and first opened in Santa Cruz before coming to Sausalito.

Anchor Trading handles the usual supplies and hardware, but Whitcraft's specialties are marine artifacts — decor pieces and trading "for anything that comes off a boat." Consequently if you can't find what you want anywhere else you might here.

Hours are from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. seven days a week.

ANOTHER NEWLY OPENED marine business at 135 Third Street, San Rafael is Trawler Yacht Sales, a yacht brokerage firm also handling the Newport Trawler line.

Owners are Addison Mooney of Corte Madera, James Howard of San Rafael and R. (Bud) Gestri of Sausalito. All have been active in Marin County boating activities for several years.

ALEXANDER GRIEVE of San Rafael has been elected a principal of Towers, Perrin, Forster and Crosby, Inc., international consultant management firm. He has been an actuarial consultant in the San Francisco office for the last five years.

OTHER REAL ESTATE: Donald A. Beacock, head of Earle and Solvason, Inc., Corte Madera, has been awarded a graduate educational certificate from the Realtors Institute ... Marin County's multiple listing sales in January reflected the highest cooperative sales among all counties in the state, at 78 per cent.

Echo Of Indian Treaties In Alaskan Oil Discovery

Many decades have passed since the United States government, by treaties broken and treaties changed, took the last land it wanted from the Indians and confined them to reservations which nobody else much cared about.

But the same thing may be happening in the Arctic regions of Alaska as a result of the discovery of oil.

A GROUP OF OIL companies paid the State of Alaska $900,000 down — with more to come from royalties — for rights to drill in the northernmost region of the 49th state. This is cold, mostly barren country in the "land of the midnight sun." It is not in private ownership; therefore, the mineral rights reside with the State of Alaska.

But this vast, frigid expanse is the home of a few thousand Eskimos. They claim as their homeland by right of long occupation some 56 million acres — including those where the oil was found.

THE ESKIMOS are not quite so naive about the way government does things as were the Indians of a century ago. And the government is not quite so disdainful of the rights of a minority people as it was back in the days of "Manifest Destiny."

A bill has been introduced in Congress to grant the Eskimos exclusive native hunting rights to 40 million acres, land title to 100,000 acres around established villages, cash payments which will run to a billion dollars over 28 years, plus a share in oil royalties.

This sounds like a mighty fine offer — far better than anything the Indians got in the Old West. The Eskimos would wind up rich.

However, the Eskimos who live in the far north of Alaska are not satisfied with the offer, according to John Upicksoun, president of the Arctic Slope Native Association, who is touring California to raise money for a legal battle. Upicksoun is from Point Barrow, right on the edge of the oil reserve (a place remembered mostly, by those who remember it at all, as that where famed humorist Will Rogers and globe-girdling flyer Wiley Post died in the crash of Post's plane on Aug. 15, 1935).

UPICKSOUN SAYS his people want title — not just hunting rights — to more of the land. They are not so much interested in the billion dollars.

"We know how to live off the land, the rivers and the sea," says Upicksoun. "Hunting rights alone will not keep prospectors and oil developers from ruining our land and so we must demand full ownership."

His words echo those a century ago of the Indian chief White Ghost, when the government forced the Sioux and Cheyenne out of the Black Hills because gold had been found there. Said White Ghost:

"THE EARTH IS FULL of minerals of all kinds, and on earth the ground is covered with forests of heavy pine, and when we give these up to the Great Father we know that we give up the last thing that is valuable either to us or the white people."

We hope the members of Congress listen to the Arctic Slope Native Association. Nothing resembling what happened to the Indians should happen again in the United States. Not even with a billion-dollar lure attached.

"Where be ye, St. Patrick, now that we need ye???"

Trade Quota Mess Springs From Nixon Campaign Promise

WASHINGTON — There is discredit enough for everybody in the Japanese-United States textile trade mess into which the nation is again plunged.

Plunged by whom isn't quite clear — unless it is by everyone, none of whom wants the mess we now face and nearly all of whom will be hurt.

One thing is evident: It will take a lot of poise and restraint by all concerned to avert the worst legislated textile quotas spawning a web of other protectionist blockades to commerce with every trading nation sliding down the chute to retaliation and attempted self-survival.

And in the end, as the twin evils of protectionism and depression of the '30s proved, none escapes.

THE FIRST STEP to averting the worst is to see as clearly as possible how we got here. It's like this:

Before his election Mr. Nixon promised the U.S. textile industry "special relief" against increasing textile imports. He said he would try for negotiated voluntary quotas.

He tried to get them with the Japanese — and failed. Then the President asked Ways and Means Committee Chairman Wilbur Mills to initiate legislative quotas as a means to bring pressure to bear on the Japanese to accept voluntary quotas.

It didn't work. Nixon tried new negotiations with the Japanese — no agreement.

Wilbur Mills never wanted legislative protectionist quotas and felt let down by the President when the administration supported them last year. They failed to pass because time ran out.

Now both the Japanese and Representative Mills (D-Ark.) have made an end run around the President. The Japanese have come up with a pretty foxy, one-sided voluntary quota agreement — if Korea, Taiwan and Hong Kong will go along. And Mills apparently left the President on the sidelines and allowed the Japanese to believe no legislative import quotas would be enacted in light of their voluntary plan.

NOW EVERYTHING is in a tangled mess.

The President terms the Japanese offer "inadequate" and wants legislated quotas only if a more adequate voluntary agreement cannot be reached.

Mills accepts the Japanese offer as the best way to avoid harmful protective legislation.

Where lies the national interest? Let's look at some facts.

Nixon and Mills are both basically advocates of liberal, free-trade policy. The President has always described quotas as "wrong in principle" and textile quotas as justified "only as exceptional."

But is there any prospect whatsoever that the many protectionists in both the House and Senate will, if they pass any quota legislation, ignore the demands of other industries to "exceptional" treatment like the textile industry? Hardly.

THE REALISTIC CHOICE between the nations is not between a carefully limited textile quota as exceptional to the President's disapproval of quotas or no trade legislation at all. It is between no quotas and a burgeoning protectionist network which would beget a disastrous trade war between the United States and other trading nations.

Congress must choose — unless the Japanese decide to improve their offer.

Fortunately Congress has two different Nixons to choose from — his harried, partly politically minded plea for the textile quota and the wise advice in his recent message on "U. S. Foreign Policy for the 1970a."

In that message he said our goal must be "to defend and encourage liberal trade policies abroad and at home."

Sound advice.

$72 MILLION QUESTION

Teacher Retirement Fund Shift Points Up Dilemma

By ARTHUR YOUNGBERG
California News Alliance

California teachers — kindergarten through junior college — have a $72 million question. They want to know why $72 million in State Teachers Retirement System reserves should be shifted into the state general fund to avoid a tax increase.

The $72 million in dispute is the contingency reserve: funds set aside from interest earned on teacher contributions to protect against investment losses and other costs not anticipated. The Reagan administration wants to take this reserve and use it in the general fund.

HOW DID THIS financial dilemma come about?

Most retirement funds operate on the principle that payments contributed, plus interest earned, will provide enough to meet pension benefits. But not so the Teachers Retirement System.

Teachers contribute from 6.5 to 11.8 per cent of their pay. This money is invested in bonds, mortgages, and stocks. School districts also contribute to the fund, up to 3 per cent of teacher salaries. But this money is not invested. It earns no interest.

Together, the teacher and school district contributions pay only about half the costs of pensions for retired teachers under the system. The state makes up the rest.

THE STATE SHARE of teacher retirement costs in 1971-72 is pegged at $98 million. By shifting the $72 million from the reserve, only $26 million needs to be budgeted. This would help the administration balance the budget without increasing taxes.

However, legislative analyst A. Alan Post estimates that it will take $150 million over a 30-year period to repay the $72 million, because of the loss of investment earnings — an interest cost of $78 million for taxpayers.

Assemblyman E. Richard Barnes, R-San Diego, has introduced a bill that would require teachers to pay 8 per cent of their salaries into the system, to be matched by 8 per cent from school districts. In 10 years, this would put the system on a self-sustaining basis, Barnes figures. In the meantime, the state would be required to budget $135 million a year.

WHAT MAKES the Teachers Retirement System problem so frightening is the increasing liability as more teachers become employed and salaries keep going up.

Michael Thome, executive officer of the system, estimates the state liability for future benefits now is $4 billion and growing each day. Thome says that if the system isn't properly funded, the annual state cost will go from this year's $98 million to $354 million in 1980 and $625 million in 1989.

The $72 million transfer proposal faces its first big hurdle Friday, when the State Teacher Retirement System board is expected to vote on it. The board has the power to veto such a transfer.

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

If all our misfortunes were laid in one common heap, whence everyone must take an equal portion, most people would be contented to take their own and depart. — Socrates.

I saw a delicate flower had grown up two feet high between the horses' feet and the wheel track. An inch more to the right or left had sealed its fate, or even an inch higher. Yet it lived to flourish, and never knew the danger it incurred. It did not borrow trouble, nor invite an evil fate by apprehending it. — Henry David Thoreau.

There is nothing in the laws of nature or the nature of man to require that a state which is big and vital and productive must also be mundane and dirty and ugly. — Nelson A. Rockefeller.

There's a man in this world who is never turned down, wherever he chances to stray; he gets the glad hand in the populous town, or out where the farmers make hay; he's greeted with pleasure on deserts of sand, and deep in the aisles of the woods; wherever he goes there's the welcoming hand — he's the Man Who Delivers the Goods. — Walt Mason.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Blade In Paper Found Hazardous

My husband and I were shocked to open our Sunday paper (S.F. Examiner and Chronicle) and find that it contained an advertisement so dangerous to children. A wrapped razor blade! We consider ourselves very fortunate that our 22-month-old son did not tear the plastic wrapping open; all he did was rip it off the ad paper! It could have resulted in a terrible misfortune for our family.

We hope and pray no children were injured as the result of this advertising. This is one kind of danger we should not have to subject our children to. Besides writing the Examiner and letting them know how we feel, I have also written California Legislature representatives, (Peter H.) Behr and (William T.) Bagley asking them to introduce legislation against such methods of advertisement which endanger the lives of our children. . . .

Different View On Motorcycles

Every article that I read these days tells me how bad and what a nuisance motorcycles are. I have an opposing view -point regarding the county's youths riding their machines in the spare acreage of Marin.

Most of the land that these kids are riding on is already slated for building and all the damage the motorcycles can do in six months can be wiped out in one day by a bulldozer. Everyone is worried about the hillsides! Well, how about your teen-age sons' life! The 16-year-old boy who just got a brand new street bike and hit a car head-on — because he didn't know how to ride!

Dirt riding is a physically demanding sport and improves reaction and coordination. It will also familiarize the youth with his machine so that in case of emergency he can stop, turn, or lay it down if necessary. I do agree that they are noisy. So instead of kicking them out of the "ball park" let's pass a law requiring a silencer of some sort.

"When construction costs are back in line, maybe you could look at the medical profession."

Cries At Medi-Cal Cuts Heartening

California taxpayers can take heart; the governor's 10 per cent reduction in medical benefits has brought cries of indignation from those who were reaping the windfall.

A month or two ago, it was the California Association of Nursing Homes bringing suit against the state for reducing the income of its' members. Last week we found the California Medical Association, the California Dental Association, and the California Rural Legal Assistance group, banding together to bring the same suit into Sacramento Superior Court for another try.

Nursing homes have prospered in the past five years, and naturally they all want to see this sort of thing grow, not diminish.

Medical doctors, seeing the cost of beans going up week after week, begin to worry a bit about where they are going to find the money for new tax sheltered investments.

Let's hope the effect of the reductions will be fewer excess profits for the medical fraternity, and not reduced medical attention to the poor people of this state.

Reason For Employe Attitude Survey

I write this letter as an individual commissioner and do not represent the other members of the personnel commission.

I defended any individual's right to disagree with me. However, I cannot respect his opinion if he is uninformed.

In the case of the personnel commission it is quite obvious that the I-J didn't have the facts which led the commission to undertake an attitude survey.

Had the I-J sent a reporter to any of our meetings he would have realized that the commission's decision to allocate funds for an attitude survey was based on the sound principle that, being a newly created commission, we knew nothing about the needs and conditions of the classified employees of the Marin County superintendent's office, for whom we are responsible. We felt a strong obligation to learn all we could in the most objective manner.

The article states that because the county board disagreed with our decision to take a survey we should have "taken the hint". The personnel commission is an independent commission and although we wish to cooperate with the board and the Marin County school staff, we must reach our decisions independently and to the best of our ability.

In a prior article the I-J wrongfully stated that the California School Employees' Association disapproved of the attitude survey. The fact is that the CSEA endorsed the attitude survey and urged its members to participate in it.

We Face Challenge To Save Planet

We have a challenge before us. Can we be persuaded to squash cans and wash bottles for recycling? But of course, despite the doubts of attorney (Wallace S.) Myers and Councilman (Kenneth L.) Anderson.

Human beings are the wasters of the earth, above all other creatures. Shall we not rejoice for the opportunity to redeem ourselves in this small way? Is burying our garbage the only "profitable" way to dispose of it? How about the ultimate profit to our planet if we all worked to save it? Profit, in dollars, nickles and dimes cannot matter so much any more. Even so, if we don't take care of this problem, the government will be forced to eventually, and at our expense. So let's get to it, and do it ourselves!

Look Who's Leading Moaning About Welfare

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

WASHINGTON — While we all wring our hands over the burden of welfare payments to the poor, we might consider for a moment the burden of our payments to the people who are leading the moaning.

For example, the man who said three months ago that the welfare system has become a "consuming, monstrous, inhuman against the community, against the family, against the individual."

That would be Richard M. Nixon, who accepted a raise of 100 per cent above what his predecessor was paid when he left office 23 months earlier. The Presidents now gets $200,000 plus expenses for making the sacrifice of public service at the highest level.

This is the same Mr. Nixon who said "unless we control inflation, we will be confronted eventually with massive unemployment . . . The primary responsibility for controlling inflation rests with the national Administration."

TAKE, FOR ANOTHER example, Rep. William M. Colmer of Mississippi, chairman of the House Rules Committee, who expressed his distaste for Nixon's welfare reform proposals by stating that "I'm just old-fashioned enough to wonder if the government is going to be able to afford to support the people, or whether the people should support the government."

Colmer, who just turned 81, came to Congress back in 1933, at the bottom of the depression, when members took a pay cut from $10,000 to $8,500 in the spirit of the times. But it was his committee that prevented House action against a congressional pay raise from $30,000 to $42,500.

The crying inconsistency between high public officials' stated attitudes toward welfare and toward pay raises for government employees has been examined thoroughly by Taylor Branch, writing in the Washington Monthly. He points out that there have been 10 federal salary hikes in the past 8 1/2 years, and they have been the main reason for the doubling of the U.S. government payroll from about $25 billion to more than $50 billion in that time.

In the past two years alone federal contributions to welfare programs have increased by $1.7 billion primarily because another 3 million of the poor have come onto welfare rolls. But in that same short period, basic annual pay for government white-collar workers and servicemen has gone up by $6.2 billion. And I for one never heard the first howl about it.

TRUE, YOUR AVERAGE politician and taxpayer is more annoyed by increases to people who are not working than to those who are on the public payroll, no matter how unproductive their jobs may be. But even within the federal pay grades, the people at the bottom of the scale have been shortchanged in comparison to those at the top.

A Grade 5 secretary, for instance, make $2,800 more now than she did in 1962. A Grade 18 administrator, the highest covered by civil service, is getting double his 1962 pay — up from $18,000 to $36,000. A major reason for this discrepancy is the effort to make federal executives' pay comparable, thus competitive, with that in private industry.

To quote Mr. Nixon is not to make him the only White House villain of the piece; what stands out about him is merely the openess with which he applies a double standard to spending for welfare and spending for federal pay.

IT WAS JOHN F. Kennedy's administration, supposedly fueled by idealism, which conceived the comparability idea as a nice tangible supplement to the idealistic rewards high-caliber private executives could claim by accepting federal appointments.

And it was Lyndon B. Johnson who signed the bill doubling the President's pay as of Nixon's Inauguration Day. That measure originated in Congress. In the opposite direction, Johnson initiated the last raise for all members of Congress and top officials of the executive and judicial branches. All Congress had to do was keep its hands off the raises automatically to go into effect.

The procedure was possible because back in 1967 Congress decided that voting itself pay raises was a politically gauche thing to do, so it set up the system whereby new salaries would be recommended by the President and become effective within 30 days unless Congress vetoed them.

So now Congress can scratch the President's back, and the President can scratch Congress' back, and together the President and Congress can caterwaul about the rising costs of welfare.

And you know who pays for all of it.

Large Teacher Layoffs Reflect Attendance Drop

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

In San Francisco city schools, 125 administrators have received notices they will be demoted next fall. In Berkeley, notices of projected reassignment — back to the classrooms, in many cases — have been sent to 106 administrators; in San Diego, to 52; in Oakland, to 30.

About 600 teachers and administrators in the 44,000-student Sacramento Unified School District have been notified they may not be rehired for next year. Similar notices have been sent to 530 in the 20,000-pupil Cupertino Elementary School District in Santa Clara County.

From San Diego to Yreka, the word is out. Few are the districts in which some administrators and teachers have not received warnings of probable dismissal.

WHAT'S GOING ON? Are California's schools on a campaign to clean out "dead wood"? Have they taken the new doctrine of accountability so to heart that they are firing inefficient or marginal employes in wholesale lots?

No. Individual efficiency has nothing to do with it.

The reason usually announced by boards and superintendents for the sudden reductions is "a cut in state funds." This nicely shifts the blame. But it is a half-truth.

There is no likelihood that California's public schools will receive less state money per student next fiscal year than they had this year. School support bills introduced in the legislature all call for more money, not less, for every pupil.

However, despite the probability of greater state support per-pupil, the districts that have sent out the wholesale dismissal warnings very likely will get less money from the state. The reason is simply that they have fewer pupils.

STATE AID to local schools is based on attendance. And all the formulas for revising state aid retain that basis, since it seems the simplest and fairest method.

Attendance in the big city school districts has been dropping for some time, as young families moved to the suburbs. A decline in the birth rate resulted in decreases in children entering school in the small city, suburban and rural districts beginning in 1967. Meanwhile, the children of the "baby boom" that followed World War II have proceeded through the schools — which had a hard time building new classrooms and expanding staff fast enough to keep up with them — and completed high school.

Declining enrollments which began in kindergarten now have reached the upper grades. Clearly enough, the drop will soon reach the high schools in those districts where it has not already done so.

MEANWHILE, HOWEVER, salaries and other costs have been soaring.

School planning and budgeting ever since World War II had been geared to constant increases. When enrollments were growing, each addition to facilities and faculty appeared justified.

When the enrollments started to decline, the schools postponed the inevitable day of reponed the inevitable day ot reckoning by reducing class sizes, adding new programs — and asking for higher tax rates.

But this year, the squeeze is on in earnest.

That is the primary reason for the demotions and dismissals. Most of those squeezed out in the process will be teachers hired last year, since the seniority system prevails by law in California school districts.

Casino In Athens Only For Wealthy

By VICTOR WALKER
Toronto Telegram News Service

ATHENS — The Greek government, by regulations published in the Official Gazette, has instituted a means test for Greeks wanting to gamble in the first casino ever in the Athens area.

To get in, they will have to show proof from the Inland Revenue Department that they pay tax on an annual income of not less than $5,000 a year.

Poorer Greeks will have to continue restricting themselves to state lotteries, football pools, and horse races - the only forms of gambling legal in the region of the Greek capital until the casino opens around Eastertime.

Foreigners wanting to play in the casino, however, will have to prove only that they are 21.

The casino will be housed in the white elephant Mont Parnes Hotel near the peak of the 1,300-foot mountain of the same name overlooking Athens.

A cable-railway between the hotel and the foot of the mountain will get gamblers to the centre of the hot action.

The Mont Parnes was built 12 years ago as a luxury resort hotel boasting the highest swimming pool, cinema and night club in all Greece, but never managed to show a profit. This was attributed mainly to its inaccessibility from Athens, at the end of a narrow, winding and often-dangerous mountain road.

It has now been thrown the lifebelt of Greece's third casino license, supplementing those established in luxury hotels on the islands of Rhodes and Corfu.

A year ago, an American gambling club open only to foreigners had a short run in Athens, but opposition of the Greek Orthodox Church had (until now) blocked the stablishment of any casino proper in the area of the capital.

Regulations for the new casino, published above the signature of the Adjoined Coordination Minister, Mr. Emmanuel Fthenakis, provide that entry is free for all adult foreigners, and for Greeks permanently living abroad and merely visiting their homeland.

Greeks living in Greece will have to show proof of income and, irrespective of earnings, will not be allowed in if they turn out to be students, priests, civil servants, employees of local government authorities, public corporations or banks, or serving members of the Armed Forces or Security Corps. Police will be admitted only on duty.

Those entering will have to fill in a form stating their name and surname, the name of their father, their profession, date of birth address (permanent and temporary, if different), nationality, and the number of their passport identity card.

Once inside, and subject to a strict no-credit rule, they will be able to play all the usual games of chance, including roulette, bacarat, crap, and the slot machines, while there will be separate rooms for bridge and other games of skill.

No distinction is made between the sexes of foreign gamblers, but Greek women will be admitted only if accompanied by an eligible player.

One further regulation stipulates that all personnel of the casino must wear clothes "not provided with pockets".

Novatans Choose Musical Show

Members of the Novato Community Players have selected "Flower Drum Song" by Rodgers and Hammerstein as their musical production for the spring of 1972.

Members made their choice from a field of three, including "South Pacific" and "Unsinkable Mollie Brown" Monday night, reported Paul Terry, secretary.

Terry explained that musical productions are selected well in advance of production dates to allow ample time to procure staff members and permit full rehearsal schedules.

Workshops On Schedule Again

A second workshop to discuss curriculum for the north campus, has been set for 7 p.m. March 25 at the testing office. It was cancelled last Thursday.

Insurance Firm To Cancel Marin Policy

United States Fidelity and Guaranty Co., partial insurer of county buildings for $16 million, will cancel its coverage when the fiscal year ends on July 1.

County Administrator Alan Bruce reported to the board of supervisors yesterday that the cancelation notice was not unexpected because USF&G and its re-insurer, Fireman's Fund, had expressed reluctance to cover the Civic Center buildings since the courtroom bomb explosion of last Oct. 8. (Another board of supervisors story, page 1.)

USF&G had been insuring the county buildings for an annual premium of $29,000. The insurance agreement called for $100 deductible. Last November, Fireman's Fund asked that the deductible be raised to $100,000.

The county worked out a compromise whereby the insurance companies would cover the county buildings with the deductible not to exceed $30,000 for all losses incurred through June 30.

From July 1, Bruce said Fireman's Fund probably would carry part of the insurance, and other insurance companies are being asked to pick up the rest of the coverage.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors Also:

INDUSTRIAL — Formally approved a master plan for the 260-acre Ignacio Industrial Park, also reaching agreement to provide for possible future public use of a lagoon and greenbelt areas planned at the site.

HOUSING AUTHORITY — Appointed Irving Perlman of 1581 Hill Road, Novato, to the Marin County Housing Authority to succeed Vera L. Schultz, who resigned on Feb. 15. Perlman is manager of Safren Wool Stock Co. in San Francisco.

FLOOD SUB-ZONE — Appointed a seven-man advisory board for Ross Valley Flood Control sub-zone 9-A, which includes only unincorporated areas within the Ross Valley Flood Control District.

MEDI-CAL CUTS — Instructed Bruce to send to Sacramento a list of case histories of welfare recipients in Marin who are suffering from the governor's cutback in the Medi-Cal program.

ISLAND — Got an assurance from Hector Rubini, co-owner of Santa Venetia Island, that he would make changes in the gates that lock the bridge. The span was built last summer from the end of Meadow Way to his private island. William G. Thompson of 57 Vendola Drive complained last week that vandals had broken the gates and were overrunning the island.

ARBITRATION — Voted to oppose Senate Bill 333, which would require binding arbitration on labor disputes arising out of negotiations between the county and its fire and police forces. Arnold M. Baptiste abstained, explaining he did not have enough information on the bill to make a decision.

INHERITANCE TAX — Endorsed Senate Bill 291, which would increase revenue to the county from collection of inheritance taxes, and Assembly Bill 541, which would increase inheritance tax fees and provide for half of the fees to be turned over to the county from which they are collected.

FLOOD INSURANCE — Announced that federally subsidized flood damage insurance would be available to private property owners in the unincorporated areas of the county beginning Friday. Several cities also have qualified for the insurance.

SCHOOL ADDITION — Approved construction of a new six-classroom high school building and a swimming pool at the James Hall School, corner of Merrydale Road and Las Galinas Avenue, Los Ranchitos.

DAVIS TRIAL — Reiterated its position that the Hall of Justice courtroom should be used for the Angela Y. Davis hearings. This was in reply to a request from the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, Corte Madera branch, that the trial be held in the more spacious board of supervisors chambers in the Administration Building.

BUDGET — Awarded a $5,105 contract to George Lithograph Co. of San Francisco to print the county's 1971-72 budget booklets. Three bids ranged to a high of $9,535.

Avalanche Traps Guide At Aspen

ASPEN, Colo. (UPI)—Tons of snow, loosened by warm temperatures, roared down the backside of Aspen Mountain Tuesday, burying a guide who was leding 10 tourists on a sight-seeing trip in the popular ski area.

Officials tentatively identified the missing man as Tom Simpson, a guide for Deep Power, Inc., which takes groups on cross-country ski tours during the winter months.

Simpson left his group briefly to check the terrain near the top of the 11,212-foot mountain when the heavy, wet snow began to slide, trapping him.

Police said the ski group was about a mile and a half away from the Sun Deck, which is located on top of the mountain. The slide occurred on the backside of the peak, away from the heavily traveled ski runs which attracts thousands of tourists each year.

An estimated 75 persons, armed with long poles to probe the avalanche area, searched unsuccessfully Tuesday for the body of the missing man.

Restaurateur Denied Permit To Build Seashore Extension

Despite claims from a restaurateur that his business is losing money because of its size, the Sausalito City Council declined last night to approve adding a pavilion to Scoma's, 588 Bridgeway.

The council refused the request by a 4-1 vote, with Councilman Stephen A. Fraser dissenting.

Earlier this month the Sausalito Planning Commission unanimously turned down restaurateur Joseph Scoma's application for a variance to build the shoreside pavilion.

Sidney Rudy, Scoma's attorney, told the council the restaurant can seat only 30 or 31 persons comfortably at present. Rudy said the addition would make it possible to seat 56 persons.

"The owners cannot continue to operate the kind of quality restaurant they have been operating in such a small space and still make a profit," the attorney said in asking the council to overturn the planners.

Planning Director H. Eric Borgwardt said a pavilion would bring the restaurant's seating capacity to more than 70 persons, but Scoma and his attorney disagreed.

Councilman Wyman Hicks pointed out the zoning ordinance in the waterfront area allows a building to cover only 10 per cent of its lot and noted the restaurant already covers 55 per cent of the property. The pavilion would bring lot coverage to about 85 per cent, he added.

Fraser said he felt the proposed addition would be "very attractive. I think we should support this kind of development," he said. "I don't think we should allow the zoning laws to dictate all growth in Sausalito."

Hicks said variances can be granted only for certain kinds of hardships which the zoning regulations specify. "I don't believe a man's claim he is losing money constitutes a legal hardship necessary to grant a variance," he said.

The Sausalito City Council Also:

EXTENSION — Granted a six-month extension on a conditional use permit for the 400-unit Whiskey Springs apartment development in Northern Sausalito. Developer Joseph Duffel, whose permit expired Feb. 17, said he hopes to begin construction of the project on or about May 1.

INVESTMENTS — Asked the city staff to include more safeguards in a proposal from City Mgr. Albert St. Cyr which would allow Corte Madera town officials to handle investments of Sausalito's surplus funds.

LEASH LAW — Postponed action on a proposed dog leash law because the ordinance, which the council approved in theory March 2, was not prepared in time for the meeting.

PLANNED UNIT — Heard first reading of an ordinance permitting cluster-type development in single-family residential zones. Under terms of the ordinance, only detached dwelling units woud be permitted in such developments. Attached units, those with common walls, may be allowed in certain cases if the council decides they will not materially alter the residential character of a neighborhood.

LANDMARK — Appointed Sally Stanford as chairman of a committee to establish an historic landmark preservation program for Sausalito.

TRAFFIC — Set a special meeting to discuss traffic congestion in Sausalito for Tuesday at 8 p.m. in city hall. The council also agreed to consider at that meeting a proposal from Marin Transit Systems to provide tour bus service from Sausalito to Muir Woods and Muir and Stinson beaches.

ARCHITECT — On the recommendation of the city manager and architectural selection committee, agreed to contract with San Francisco architect Aaron Green to prepare plans for the city's proposed municipal center and library.

CLAIM — Rejected and referred to the city's insurance carrier a $75,000 claim for damages from Sandra Calloway of Richmond. Miss Calloway claims she was injured in February when a portion of pavement in a city parking lot gave way.

LOADING ZONE — Passed an ordinace eliminating a loading zone on the west side of Harrison Avenue near Santa Rosa Avenue.

MEMORIAL TREE — Accepted a $10 contribution from Marcie Bowman to purchase a flowering tree in memory of a girl (unidentified) who died recently.

APPOINTMENTS — Approved the following appointments and reappointments by Mayor Alexander R. Imlay to the community appearance advisory board: Charles Merrill, Violetta Autumn, John Armstrong, Jean Dyk and Audrey Emmons.

Evidence Lost, Case Dismissed

Charges of possessing marijuana against Karen Scott and Gary Haggett, both of San Rafael, have been dismissed in Marin Municipal Court.

Judge Robert A. Smallman dismissed the cases after the district attorney's office reported that the evidence had been lost.

The charges, which stemmed from their arrest at their home last September, had been dismissed in December when the district attorney's said the suspected pot had not been analyzed, but they were refiled Jan. 21.

Dams constructed on the Volga River have caused a drop in the depth of the Caspian Sea.

Tentative Nod To Draft Extension By House Panel

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The House Armed Services Committee tentatively has voted to extend the draft until June 30, 1973, and plans to meet later this week on whether to adopt President Nixon's $1.5 billion proposal to raise military pay high enough to achieve an all-volunteer army by that date.

The committee also voted tentative approval of the authority Nixon had asked to abolish undergraduate deferments.

Chairman F. Edward Hebert, D-La., said the committee rejected the idea of going to a volunteer army any sooner, and expressed skepticism about the idea in the first place.

"I still say there can never be a volunteer Army because I don't think it will be possible," he said. "I think the only way to get a volunteer Army is to draft it."

The committee will not vote on the entire draft bill until later, possibly at the end of this week; but the tentative votes on the draft extension and the deferment abolishments were by heavy margins and those items will no doubt be in the final package.

The committee will meet Thursday to pass on the military pay increase.

No Charge Filed

No charge was filed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court against Luther Porter, 47, of San Rafael, who was arrested Saturday on suspicion of possessing a stolen pistol.

Bank Of America Directors Boo Radical Students

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Bank of America stockholders booed and shouted "Throw them out" Tuesday when a group of Los Angeles students accused the bank of militarism and racism.

The students, calling themselves the "Bank of America Project," told the annual stockholders' meeting that the bank practiced discrimination, financed military purchases by Asian governments and made loans to South Africa.

Dr. Carlton B. Goodlett, a stockholder and San Francisco black newspaper publisher, got a friendlier reception from the 400 stockholders in attendance when he also criticzed the bank concerning racial and sexual discrimination and participation in the Vietnam War.

Ad Campaign Planned For 'War No More'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, says he has formed an organization called "War No More" which will spend $10,000 in an unidentified community within the next month for radio and TV commercials urging an immediate end to the Vietnam war.

Gravel said the initial campaign would be aimed at raising more money to spread the advertisements to other cities. He said he could not see why such an issue-oriented advertising pitch would not work in the same way that political advertising works just before an election.

Jury Trial Set For Pair In Speeding Case

Albert William Ferguson, 24, and Phillip McFarren, 20, both of Novato, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to charges stemming from a high speed chase on Lucas Valley Road March 5.

Ferguson is charged with drunken driving, reckless driving and resisting arrest.

Angela Judge Out On Magee Motion

CONFRONTATION COOLED OFF — County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney (left) and Franklin Alexander, a coordinator of the Angela Y. Davis National Defense Committee, gesture widely as they argue over courtroom seating problems. Maloney supervised the ushering of press and spectators as hearings began yesterday on motions concerning Miss Davis and codefendant Ruchell Magee. Alexander, after relaying seating discrimination complaints from the pressing crowd, used a bullhorn to persuade the overflow to depart.

Hearing Today Is Quiet

The Angela Y. Davis-Ruchell Magee case came to another abrupt halt today when San Quentin inmate Magee was successful in removing the latest judge from the case.

Magee, surviving convict from the Aug. 7 shoot-out, opened the day's session in Marin Superior Court by filing a motion saying that he could not receive a fair hearing from Judge John P. McMurray, a retired Inyo County jurist.

The 30-year-old convict triumphantly said, "You're caught again," to prosecuting attorney Robert W. Harris Jr. as the judge led attorneys into his chambers to discuss the disqualification.

After more than two hours, the judge returned to the courtroom to say that he had disqualified himself from the case.

McMurray, a gaunt, plain-spoken man, had been appointed by the California Judicial Council to hear motions in the case, after the five Marin Superior Court Judges disqualified themselves.

Magee, who along with Miss Davis is charged with murder, kidnapping and conspiracy stemming from the Civic Center shoot-out in which Judge Harold J. Haley was killed, has attempted to run his own case from the outset, and has filed stacks of motions.

Earlier, he had moved that Marin judges E. Warren McGuire and Joseph G. Wilson be disqualified from the case. The first challenge, a preemptory one, was granted, but the second was denied after a hearing.

After two bomb threats thwarted efforts yesterday morning to begin hearings on motions, attorneys finally began arguments at 2 p.m.

One of Miss Davis's attorneys, Michael Tigar of Los Angeles, argued that the case against her should be dismissed because it is a "sham" and a "frameup" and based on purely circumstantial evidence.

He said that her activities on behalf of the Soledad Brothers and "other political prisoners" were constitutionally protected and he attacked as weak the identification of her by a gas station attendant which placed her at the Civic Center the day before the shoot-out.

As to why Miss Davis bought a fourth gun just before the shoot-out when she already owned three, and why she fled from California, Tigar indicated that she was "afraid."

Tigar's arguments were interrupted frequently during the first 15 minutes by thumpings from a holding cell adjacent to the courtroom. Magee had been placed there after his request that he act as his own attorney again had been denied.

After he asked to be taken from the court following Judge McMurray's order that Robert

10-Year Rapid Transit Plan Hit

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The Golden Gate Bridge District's $301 million, 10-year plan for a bus rapid transit link from Marin County to San Francisco ran into a wall of opposition last night.

A joint committee of San Francisco supervisors heard city officials and major civic organizations almost unanimously condemn the plan, during a two-and-one-half hour hearing. Three of the five committeemen declared opposition to the district plan, but agreed to delay making a formal recommendation to the full board of supervisors until March 29.

Only one San Francisco official joined bridge district and Marin County spokesmen in supporting the rapid transit plan for a second deck on the bridge and a tunnel to downtown San Francisco, exclusively for bus use.

San Francisco's approval is crucial to the bridge district's rapid transit proposal, which was drafted by the district under orders from the state Legislature to submit a long-range transit plan by April 3.

Should the Legislature kill the plan, the bridge district might be put out of business in July, when the last of the bonds that built the Golden Gate span are retired. Critics of the district have urged its abolition, but San Franciscans last night said they thought the district should continue operating its $25 million ferryboat and bus system already begun.

Last night's hearing was a joint session of the supervisors' street and transportation and planning and development committees, chaired by Supervisor James Mailliard.

The proposal was adopted unanimously last week by the bridge board, with the votes of Supervisors Mailliard and Peter Tamaras. Supervisors Ronald Pelosi and Robert E. Gonzales, also on the bridge board, were absent from last week's vote and Pelosi had requested last night's hearing.

Pelosi and Gonzales, members of the joint committee, joined Supervisor Terry A. Francois in opposing the rapid transit plan. But Supervisor Roger Boas persuaded the committee to delay action until March 29, so he could decide how to vote.

San Francisco Planning Director Allan B. Jacobs and spokesmen for San Francisco Tomorrow, San Francisco Beautiful and San Francisco Planning and Urban Renewal Association (SPUR) all argued that the bridge district's plans would offer "little or no benefits to the residents of San Francisco." They warned improved transit would hasten an exodus to Marin of middle-class San Francisco residents, clog city streets with more traffic

Moving Nixon Eulogy At Young's Funeral

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI)— Whitney Young Jr. was buried today in a pine-dotted hillside cemetery near his birthplace and in a moving eulogy President Nixon said all Americans have a responsibility to fulfill the dreams of equality which the civil rights leader championed.

"To fulfill his dream is the responsibility of each of us," Nixon said before a crowd of several hundred friends, family members, and high ranking dignitaries.

"It is the commitment that each of us makes in our hearts ... to help realize his American dream," Nixon said.

Nixon arrived at the Greenwood Cemetery shortly after the funeral cortege and Young's family was seated. The President walked through a crowd to the graveside and laid a presidential wreath of white and red carnations on the earth.

The President then stood upright, greeted Mrs. Young and other family members and began his eulogy.

"When others were asking what will the government do, Whitney Young was saying what can I do," Nixon said. "What can I do, what can I do to make this a better country through helping others toward equality.

"This recognition of equality was the dream of Whitney Young.

"Shortly before Christmas at a Cabinet meeting Whitney Young was offered a Cabinet position. He told me he felt he could do more for those he needed to help from outside the Cabinet than in it."

Nixon said Young's idea of America was "one nation, indivisible with liberty, justice and opportunity for all to fulfill his dreams.

"It is the responsibility of each of us to help fulfill the dream that was in his heart."

About 3,000 persons attended the services. Young was laid to rest in the heart of the blue grass country, only 40 miles from where he was born.

Young died last week in Lagos, Nigeria, at the age of 49. He was attending a conference on American-African relations when he was stricken with a cerebral hemmorhage.

After the graveside ceremony, Nixon returned to Blue Grass Field where he departed for Washington at 1:30 p.m.

Toliver's Firing Recommended; 'Incompetence' Charge Leveled

The superintendent of the Sausalito School District has recommended that special assistant James T. Toliver Jr. be fired by the district board for "incompetence" and "disruptive" behavior.

In a letter delivered to Toliver Monday, Supt. Lawrence A. Lindberg charged the 37-year-old black educator with "failure to properly administer the school discipline program" and "failure to accept directives and suggestions of principal Henry Hopkins and cooperate with him and other district personnel."

Lindberg also accused Toliver, a tenured employee who has been with the district for almost four years, of "tardiness" and "encouraging and participating in activities disruptive of school district operations."

The superintendent's action came at the recommendation of Hopkins, principal of Martin Luther King School where Toliver has charge of the discipline program, among other duties.

In an evaluation dated March 12, Hopkins charged that the special assistant's performance "in administering discipline has been unsatisfactory, particularly in . . . bringing about a satisfactory solution to problems that appear to be explosive."

Lindberg also informed Toliver that even if the charges were proved false, he would not be employed next year as a special assistant because the position is being eliminated. Last week Toliver was one of 22 of the district's credentialed employees notified by Lindberg at a staff meeting that their jobs were being cut for budget reasons because of a continuing decline in district enrollment.

Toliver reacted with surprise to the administration's charges and vowed to fight the attempt to oust him.

"In my four years in the Sausalito School District I have never received any kind of formal evaluation of my performance," he said. "Now, out of a clear blue sky I have been presented with a number of accusations attempting to rip off not only my job, but my reputation as well."

Toliver said he and his attorney, Leonard Bjorkland, asked to meet with Lindberg to discuss the details of the charges, but "this request was denied."

He promised he will ask for a public hearing before the Sausalito school board, a right the Education Code provides tenured employees, and carry his case to the courts if necessary.

"During these past four years I have gone through too much and have put too much of myself into this community and this district to simply fold up my tent and silently steal away," he explained.

"I was this district's first black administrator," Toliver said. "I have seen its black employees picked off, one by one, in spite of the fact there are a majority of black children here from Marin City desperately in need of the empathy and insight provided by the black teacher. The white children have just as desperate a need to experience a positive relationship with a black adult," he added.

The superintendent's accusations drew prompt fire from school board chairman Nathaniel Johnson. "The black community interprets any move on Jim Toliver as a strike at black images in the school district, images the community feels are absolutely necessary for its youngsters," Johnson said. He added: "I can't even say how strongly I feel about this."

Evacuations On Bomb Scares Off

There will be no more mass evacuation of the Marin County Civic Center because of a bomb threat.

That was the unanimous decision of the Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday after bomb threats to both the Administration Building and the Hall of Justice between 9:30 a.m. and 11 a.m. (Another board of supervisors story, page 44.)

The threats, which proved unfounded, came as a hearing in the Angela Y. Davis case opened in the Hall of Justice.

The telephoned threats disrupted the Marin County Transit District board meeting twice, and the supervisors' session did not get underway until 1 p.m.

County Administrator Alan Bruce, who met with Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos, and the county's judges, said all agreed that henceforth, "there will be no general order of evacuation on the basis of simply a phone threat."

120,000 March Up Fifth Avenue

NEW YORK (UPI)—Some 120,000 Irish-Americans, Irishmen and Irishmen-for-a-day marched up Fifth Avenue today in the city's 209th annual parade honoring Ireland's patron saint, St. Patrick.

The weatherman cast the only pall on the proceedings, replacing an earlier forecast of clear, sunny weather with cloudy skies and a chance of showers.

In all, 345 groups of marchers took part in the parade organized by the Ancient Order of Hibernians.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Backs Pep Pill

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A panel of experts on childhood behavior problems has made the second government endorsement in less than a week of "pep pill" treatment for some overactive children.

Their only quibble with the initial endorsement was that it underestimated the number of children so deviled by "inner tornadoes" they are considered potential candidates for treatment with amphetamines, or pep pills.

A government-assembled panel estimated last week in a report released by the Health, Education and Welfare Department that 3 per cent of all elementary school children up to about age 12 have "moderate and severe" behavior disorders.

"Three per cent is too low," Ronald S. Lipman, a National Institute of Mental Health (NIMH) official said Tuesday. "That report is somewhat conservative, but it's right for the time. No parent wants to be badgered to put his child on drugs.

Trial In Recess

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Charles Manson let his women codefendants confess and he smiled as other followers swore to his innocence but he never told what he knew of the Tate-Labianca murders.

The state and defense rested the punishment phase of the 10-month trial Tuesday without the 36-year-old Manson ever testifying before the middle class, predominantly middle-age jury.

The trial —which has cost Los Angeles County more than $800,000 —was in recess today. Final arguments on whether Manson and the three female killers get life or death are scheduled to start Thursday.

Sadat Supported

By United Press International

The Egyptian National Assembly has endorsed President Anwar Sadat's Middle East policies and voted never to give up the struggle to regain land seized by Israel in the 1967 war.

Egypt's top diplomat in Washington said Cairo would be willing to accept a United Nations peace keeping force but not if Israel were part of it.

In its first session since Sadat rejected a cease-fire extension March 7, the Egyptian assembly said the Egyptian people were ready to become "a nation of fighters alongside their armed forces."

Cairo radio said the assembly issued a resolution Tuesday night "declaring support for the leader and the people, emphasizing that we shall not give up one inch of our occupied land, no matter what the pressures and no matter how fierce the battle is."

Stork Party

WASHINGTON (UPI) —South Carolina's 68-year-old Republican Sen. Strom Thurmond becomes a father for the first time this month and his colleagues showered the expected infant with gifts Tuesday.

Among them was a diaper on which someone had colored a confederate flag.

"To insure propoer political development," the instructions said, "gold only at right ang

"To insure proper political development," the instructions said, "fold only at right angles."

Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., was host for the event, which may have been the first stork party in the history of the U.C. Capitol.

Thurmond's wife Nancy, 24, a former South Carolina beauty queen, was absent because the shower was a stag affair.

Bread Firm Hit

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Federal Trade Commission has charged that nutritional claims for Wonder bread and Hostess snack cakes are false and exploit the desire of children and their parents for healthy growth.

The proposed complaint also charges false weight loss claims for Profile bread and seeks to eliminate the Profile trademark itself as deceptive.

The baker of all three products, ITT Continental Baking Co., Rye, N.Y., said it would contest the case. The firm's lawyer, John Schafer, complained that the FTC had changed its advertising rules and was pursuing its business prey like a hunter seeking "another notch in your gunstock."

According to FTC, Wonder bread is no more nutritious than most other enriched breads, Hostess snack cakes are made primarily of sugar, and thin-sliced Profile has only about five fewer calories per slice than regular bread.

Shamrock Day

DUBLIN (UPI)—Festive Irishmen today toasted the shamrock in song and dance and plenty of drink.

Bands, skirling pipes and mini-kilted majorettes swirled through flag-bedecked cities and towns. Thousands of visitors and Irish exiles joined the nation's 3 million residents in the celebrations marking St. Patrick's Day.

There were Gaelic games, race meetings, local sports and even hikes. It was a public holiday. Everything was closed except for essential services — and pubs ranked high on the list of essentials.

They were open and doing a roaring trade as Irishmen swept worries under the rug and forgot about inflated prices that put the shamrock at twice last year's cost.

Hawkers pushing their carts through the streets and little boys with baskets on their arms were asking up to 15 cents a sprig.

Dairymen Ask Price Increase

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California dairymen told a state hearing Tuesday that they needed higher prices from milk processors to help cope with rising production costs.

The state Agriculture Department hearing, continuing today, was being conducted at the request of producers who want changes in the Milk Pooling Plan and the Stabilization and Marketing Plans throughout the state except in the Inyo-Mono and Siskiyou areas.

The last price increase to dairymen was granted in 1967.

Since then, they said, there have been increases in hay prices, concentrate prices, labor costs and taxes.

Thomas E. Dewey Dies At 68

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—Thom as E. Dewey, crime-busting attorney, three times governor of New York and twice unsuccessful Republican presidential candidate, died Tuesday of a heart attack. He would have been 69 March 24.

His body was to be flown to New York today for funeral services. The cause of death was listed as a heart attack, although the full autopsy report would not be released until later today.

Dewey had planned to attend a White House dinner Tuesday night and a St. Patrick's Day celebration today. President Nixon held a moment of silence at the dinner in honor of Dewey.

A bellhop at the Seaview Hotel found his body face up on a bed in his hotel room. The bellboy went to the room when Dewey failed to meet a chauffeur-driven limousine which was to take him to the airport. Dewey's luggage was packed on the bed beside him.

The Miami Heart Institute said Dewey underwent a checkup on Feb. 2, but was not a patient at the time of his death. Dr. Richard Elias, who conducted the examination, said, "I found what his doctor in New York already knew, that he had coronary artery disease."

Duane Andreas, president of the Seaview and a close friend of the former governor, said he and Dewey had played 18 holes of golf Tuesday morning. "He had a good game, a good day," Andreas said.

History probably will best remember Dewey as the man who, as the Republican presidential candidate in 1948, lost in one of the biggest upsets in American politics.

Once before, in 1944, he had lost the presidency, but political experts had not expected him to win that time against the popular incumbent Franklin D. Roosevelt, in the middle of World War II.

But in 1948, with two minority parties expected to drain the Democrats and signs that President Harry S Truman appeared unpopular across the country, Dewey seemed a sure winner after capturing the GOP nomination.

Several public opinion polls stopped taking straw votes because they said the campaign was too one-sided, and people began talking about President Dewey.

But he lost in a stunning upset blamed in part by experts on Truman's scrappy campaign, the revolt of the farm states, the decline of the third parties and Dewey's and the Republican party's complacency.

The defeat branded Dewey a loser. "We should have known he couldn't win," said Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, daughter of Theodore Roosevelt. "A souffle never rises twice."

"We followed you twice down the road," bellowed Sen. Everett Dirksen from the speakers' platform at the GOP national convention in 1952, "and you led us twice down the road to defeat."

THOMAS E. DEWEY
Upset by Truman

But Dewey was not done. He was re-elected in 1950 to his third term as governor of New York.

And at the 1952 convention, while the conservative wing of the party under Sen. Robert Taft of Ohio was bolting from his leadership, Dewey helped win the nomination for his candidate, Dwight D. Eisenhower, and was influential in having a young California Senator, Richard M. Nixon, put on the ticket as vice presidential candidate.

Dewey, long after his retirement from active politics, remained in contact with the Republican Party.

"The one thing I want to do in whatever way I can is to make the courage of eternal youth run once more in the veins of my party and my country," he once said.

Dewey, of famous lineage which dated back to the 1630s was known for his eloquent manner, his immaculate appearance, his natty black mustache. Mrs. Longworth said he looked "like the little man on top of the wedding cake."

Born in Owosso, Mich., Dewey graduated from the University of Michigan and Columbia University Law School. He worked in private practice and in 1934 he became a special prosecutor studying racketeers in New York.

In that position, he won 72 convictions in the 73 cases he handled and convicted underworld leader Charles (Lucky) Luciano. As governor, Dewey paroled Luciano in 1946 on the provision he would be deported.

Dewey's crime fighting activity led him to run for governor in 1938. He was narrowly defeated. He became New York's youngest governor in 1942 and was reelected in 1946 by the biggest margin up to that time.

As governor, he founded the State University of New York, expanded the highways, cut taxes and enacted the first antidiscrimination laws in the country.

The only failure Dewey ever confessed to in his career came while governor when in the 1940s he launched an investigation of graft and corruption in Albany County. The investigation came to virtually nothing.

"I tried my damndest and I did not succeed," Dewey said.

Dewey aides, encouraged by their leader, were also convinced of victory in 1948. Some looked for housing in Washington. One even signed a lease. But as the final returns were tabulated, he lost narrowly.

Dewey came back to Albany aboard the "Dewey Campaign Victory Special." He made no attempt to conceal his disappointment, his shock.

"There was no hint during the campaign that I should change anything," Dewey told reporters. "Herb Brownell (his campaign manager) talked with the Republican leaders and every single one of them said we were doing the right thing, and we would win.

"But now I am convinced of one thing. And that is that never again will a political campaign be conducted on a high plane. Not if you want to win. To win, you've got to get down in the gutter and slug," Dewey said, a loser to Truman's "give-'em-hell" campaign.

Dewey's administration was one that never permitted an official to do anything which might reflect on the state. His friend, Senate Majority Leader Arthur Wicks, had been accused of visiting a labor leader in jail.

Dewey called Wicks to his office and told him, "You've made a bad error, Art, and you've got to go." Wicks was ousted from his leadership post.

NEW YORK (UPI)—President Nixon will give an exclusive television interview March 22 to ABC-TV commentator Howard K. Smith—the first prime time live interview ever granted by a president to a single newsman.

The network, which made the announcement Tuesday, said the interview entitled "White House Conversation" will be shown March 22 from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. EST. There will be no restrictions placed on Smith, the network said.

'Student Champion' Gets Seat On College Board

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Gov. Ronald Reagan has named Norman E. Watts Jr. of San Anselmo to the California Community Colleges board, the governor's office reported today.

Watts, 28, said he will try to champion the views of students. "It has been my opinion that in a lot of cases they have been ignored," he said.

Watts, a Republican and vice president of Quaker Hill Development Co. of San Rafael, said he worked extensively with a statewide student group called Students for a Creative Society last year. He said he pushed for increasing the state allotment for the educational opportunity program and for running state colleges throughout the year.

He said one of his first acts on the board will be to take a close look at providing more vocational training at community colleges.

Watts, who lives at 28 Woodside Drive, has been a Marin resident since 1967, the year he graduated from college. From 1962 to 1967 he attended night school at American University in Washington, D.C., graduating with a bachelor's degree in political science.

While a student, he was a staff assistant in 1962 for a former Southern California representative and in 1963 and 1964 for an Ohio congressman.

From 1964 to 1967, he was a research assistant for the legal office of Sears-Roebuck.

A native of Los Angeles, he was reared in San Marino and Pasadena.

Reappointed to the community college board yesterday were James C. Dodd, 47, of Sacramento; Harman K. Howard, 55, of Oakland; Joan King, 40, of Bradbury, Los Angeles County; and Myrtle Wiens, 63, of Porterville, Tulare County.

All but Dodd are Republicans.

The appointments must be approved by the state Senate.

TRANSIT

and bring "years of major disruption" if the bus subway is built.

San Francisco Public Works Director S. Myron Tatarian was the only city official defending the deck-and-tunnel plan. He drew grumbles from the 60-person audience by urging an additional new freeway link to the downtown, and use of the bridge second deck by weekend auto traffic.

Jacobs argued that only a rail rapid transit line would benefit the city.

(Bridge directors eliminated rail proposals from their plan due to the estimated $1 billion cost, but said their proposed bus tunnel could be converted to rails in the future.)

Pelosi last night warned bridge officials that their plan would have a "pretty tough time" finding a favorable majority on his board.

Defending the plan were three Marin residents, Ben Farlatti, president of the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau; Margaret Azevedo of Tiburon, chairman of the citizens committee advising the span board on the plan, and Tiburon's Mayor Denis T. Rice, spokesman for the Marin County Transit District.

They argued that failure to adopt a transit plan would increase auto traffic in San Francisco and necessitate widening Highway 101 to 18 lanes by the year 2010.

Lester Cohen of Sausalito spoke for the Sierra Club, against rapid transit as encouraging further population increase.

Napa Man Charged In Coed Slaying

NAPA (UPI)—Authorities today charged "Willie the Woodcutter," a 57-year-old family man, with the murder of Lynda Kanes, a 20-year-old coed at a religious school.

The suspect, Walter Boyd Williams, was to appear in St. Helena Justice Court to be arraigned.

He was arrested Tuesday at his home in rural St. Helena but officials would not disclose how he was linked to the slaying of Miss Kanes, whose body was found in a shallow grave near a remote mountain road a week after she disappeared last month.

Williams, who has a wife and four children, has lived in Napa County for 22 years and made his living by cutting and selling firewood in the hill country. He was known as "Willie the Woodcutter."

The Napa County Sheriff's office said it would withhold all information about the case, but a spokesman said there was "no connection" with the notorious Zodiac killer, several of whose victims were slain in the area.

Miss Kanes, a student at Pacific Union College at Angwin, vanished Feb. 26 while en route to a part time job she held at a country club at St. Helena.

Her automobile, with a portable radio still playing inside, was found on the mountain road near where her body was uncovered a week later. Near the car was her windbreaker with her bra neatly folded on top.

Mass searches, which included students from the Seventh Day Adventist College, failed at first to find her body. But on March 6 deputies came upon the grave covered with logs and brush, in a ravine about 300 yards from where the car had been abandoned.

Further searching turned up other items near the body, including a 48-star American flag with a piece missing, a two-gallon galvanized can with the residue of gasoline and oil mixture, half a barracks bag and a length of manila rope.

An autopsy showed the body had been beaten. In addition, there was a wire noose around the neck.

Air Show, Open House: Gnoss Field

Robert Cummings, film, theater and television actor, will appear at an open house and air show Saturday marking the opening of Spectrum Air's new facilities at Gnoss Field, north of Novato.

The open house, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., will feature displays of new Cessna aircraft and antique planes such as the Ford tri-motor, Stearman, P-51, AT6 and B-25.

Air rides will be offered at a penny a pound, there will be sightseeing rides and refreshments will be served, Spectrum Air reported.

The event is to mark the opening of the firm's new pilot center and new offices to replace those destroyed in a fire last October.

Cummings, a director of Spectrum Air, is a professional pilot and aviation enthusiast.

Irish Premier Hopes For End To Violence

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Irish Prime Minister John Lynch expressed hope on St. Patrick's Day Wednesday that "the passions and prejudice of over 300 years" between Protestants and Roman Catholics will end in Northern Ireland.

After appearing on nationwide television ("Today" — NBC), the visiting head of government of the independent Republic of Ireland attended a special mass at St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church in downtown Washington.

Lynch, guest of honor Tuesday night at a White House celebration, said violence in Northern Ireland, still part of Britain, "must end sooner or later. But the passions and prejudice of over 300 years will

Brazil Is Making Strides Within

By LORENZ STUCKI
Toronto Telegram News Service

Except for a small peripheral zone, all of Brazil lies south of the equator. For this reason, the well-known "north-south gap" is reversed. Brazil's "Milano" and "Torino" are in the south, its "Sicily" and "Calabria" in the north.

But distances are far greater in this huge country than in Italy, and while in southern Europe the 19th & 20th centuries often meet, in Brazil the encounter is between the 18th and 21st centuries.

Any one viewing Sao Paulo from the top of a skyscraper comes to think of Manhattan as a bit old-fashioned and rather small. Brasilia, the nation's new capital, is the first planned metropolis consistently conceived and built for the automotive age, without intersections and traffic lights, with pedestrian walks and children's playgrounds cleanly separated from the speeding traffic.

A good many things regarded elsewhere as architectural futurism have already been realized or are under construction here. Yet the northeastern part of the country, aside from its few larger cities, still lives in the epoch of the French Revolution or even in the era before the rise of the middle class, in a state of deepest feudalism.

Feudalism in northeastern Brazil, which is as large as Italy, Spain and Portugal combined, was intact until recently to the extent that not only the feudal lords, but also most of their "serfs" regarded it as normal and organic and felt a certain loyalty toward their propertied masters.

The people are poor and disenfranchised, many of them starve in years of severe drought, women must bear 10 children in order for four or five to survive past infancy, and the average life expectancy is hardly more than 30.

People here did not object to these conditions, any more than the masses of Central Europe did some centuries ago, for they lacked any standards measured against which their lives might have seemed humanly unworthy and social conditions absurdly unjust.

That is, until the arrival of the transistor radio and people from a later century who came and showed them: politicians from the south seeking new voters, city people from the coast searching for new markets and new sources of labor, bishops and priests, of whom more than half are foreigners in this part of the country.

More recently, the international press (in its constant search for the sensationalism of misery) has also discovered this forgotten piece of ground,, this Brazilian counterpoint to the glamor of Rio de Janeiro and the ultra-modernity of Sao Paulo. The misery is not new. What is new is the fact that people concerned no longer accept it resignedly as God's will.

Also new are the transportation facilities by means of which some of the most miserable attempt to flee to the presumed eldorado of the big cities, on the peripheries of which they live as flotsam in the favelas.

Why has this part of the country remained mired in such backward conditions? The main answer lies in the remote past, which is sketchy. Portugal, the seafaring colonial power which sent its ships to all continents in the 16th Century, including East Asia and Africa, had difficulty finding people willing to emigrate to this vast territory.

Through promises of land and dominion it attracted feudal lords with their dependents and their personal followers, people who did not wish to build a new world but only to go on living their dreams of the old, servants of the king, colonial officials. Without enterprise and without the puritan ethic of achievement of the English and German, Dutch and Scandinavian colonizers of North America, they were also without racial prejudice; they quickly intermarried with the Indians and later also with the Negroes, workers and slaves purchased from black and Arab slave dealers in the African territories and imported into Brazil.

In their tolerance for one another and for human weakness, these three racial groups were quite similar and so they jointly drove out the more industrious Dutch who for a time dominated parts of the northeast. Out of this arose an easy-going, charming, handsome, rather sleepy and undemanding type of person, well-suited to the tropical climate, inclined to music, to dreaming and vegetating, accepting sufferings humbly and passively from God or the gods.

Thus began Brazil, and it began in the northeast, where San Salvador de Bahia, founded in 1549 as one of the first cities in South America, served as the capital.

The main crop was sugar, a product which calls for large plantations and therefore not suitable for the smaller-scale farming common in Europe. In the course of the centuries, other countries began producing increasing amounts of sugar and thus competing with Brazil; the growing popularity of beet sugar finally destroyed the dominating market position which had formerly been enjoyed by northeastern Brazil's cane product. Energetic, enterprising and industrious colonists, such as those from the northern countries who opened up, subdued and developed half the world, would have turned to something else — but not the Brazilians.

Later times brought further waves of immigration to Brazil, aimed first at Minais Gerais, where gold and diamonds had been discovered, and then, under the influence of Europe's population explosion, concentrating on the southern part of the country where the climate was most favorable and where Italian, German and Swiss immigrants settled in order to build a new life, as did Japanese settlers a century later, driven by similar population pressures.

These people came from countries which were in the full flower of development under liberal free enterprise and, here as in the United States, sought that which they had lacked in the old country and strove for success in the new world of limitless possibilities. For them the northeast, the north and the still trackless west were other worlds about which they were unconcerned.

The south was large enough.

San Salvador de Bahia, once the capital of the Portuguese colony of Brazil, is situated on a gigantic bay with a highly irregular coastline and dotted with many islands, an incomparable spot both as to landscape and the advantages of its natural harbor.

While Sao Paulo has grown to nearly four times its former size during the last two decades, Bahia remained for four centuries a sleepy little fishing town, with beautiful, splendid churches but without any notable commercial port or trade. The gigantic coastline of the bay outside the small city remained empty, and in the hinterlands of the State of Bahia, which is as big as France, the clockwork of history stood still.

For the past few years the clock has been running again and an attempt is being made to catch up on the centuries. On the By of Bahia a satellite city called Aratu now is being created, spread over an area of some 160 square miles and planned for a million inhabitants. The Northeastern development agency, the state and the city of Bahia joined forces in the Centro Industrial Aratu, which is using public funds to create port facilities, streets, man-made lakes and parks, facilities for electricity and public water supplies — in brief, the entire infrastructure of a large industrial city . . . thus the 20th century has arrived.

ANGELA

D. Carrow and Robert Y. Bell continue as his attorneys, Magee was placed in the cell into which proceedings were broadcast.

Immediately, loud noises sounding like the banging of metal against a wall began to issue from the cell.

After 15 minutes of this, attorney Tigar asked, "Do those noises emitting from the adjacent cell indicate that Mr. Magee would like to return to the courtroom?"

After it was reported that what Magee wanted was to "have the radio turned off," the judge ordered this done, merely saying, "Yep" when asked if it was all right.

Judge McMurray earlier had told Magee that he was appointing attorneys for the convict not because I think you're a subnormal intelligence but because I think you need all the assistance you can get."

Carrow and Bell had asked to be released from the case, saying that Magee "does not have confidence in lawyers."

Magee confirmed his distrust, adding that "I feel if I really discussed this case with those lawyers it would be in Mr. Harris's hands in two minutes."

Prosecutor Harris was interrupted by Carrow and Bell shortly after beginning his arguments that the grand jury was justified in indicting Miss Davis because they only "had to entertain a strong suspicion that she is guilty."

He then had a clerk bring a box containing guns used in the shoot-out into the courtroom, Carrow and Bell objected to the guns being introduced at that time.

They said that physical evidence in the case, as well as testimony by Asst. Dist. Atty. Gary W. Thomas, severely wounded in the shoot-out, was still sealed under a court order.

The judge agreed but recessed the case until today for further arguments on the point. Harris apparently intended to refer to Thomas's testimony in his arguments.

During the court session yesterday, many of Miss Davis's 350 to 400 supporters, who had gathered at the Civic Center in the morning, attended workshops at the Unitarian Fellowship Church nearby.

The supporters, many of whom carried balloons and banners saying "Free Angela," included six busloads of persons from Oakland and Los Angeles.

After the two bomb threats in the morning, county officials, including the board of supervisors, decided to go ahead with business as usual even if there were additional threats.

Security surrounding the court hearing has been extremely heavy. Each person attending the sessions is searched three times before being permitted to enter the courtroom. All moveable objects on the court floor of the Hall of Justice have been removed, including benches, trash containers and metal cigarette urns.

Novato Panel Endorses 'Bedroom Tax'

The Novato Parks and Recreation Commission has endorsed a planning staff proposal that a "bedroom tax" be levied on new development to obtain funds for park and recreation purposes.

Commissioners Monday night felt the proposed tax was a good approach toward obtaining revenue, reported recreation director Edward W. Adams.

As proposed developers would have to pay the tax, $75 for the first bedroom and $15 for each additional bedroom, for all residential construction, including mobile homes.

The Novato Planning Commission will have a special meeting at 8 p.m. March 29 to discuss the proposed tax.

Parks and recreation commissioners received a request from Betty Machado of 1424 Dawes Street that the seven-member commission be expanded to include four more youth members. John Briggs, a high school student is now serving on the commission.

The commission tabled the request since the city is working toward establishing a youth advisory committee as proposed by City Mgr. Charles A. Brown, Adams reported.

Downtown Plan Stirs More Heat

The sections of the Novato downtown plan covering Grant Avenue, east and west, came under fire at a public hearing before the Novato City Council last night.

Richard Gronberg, proprietor of Johnson's Red Barn, challenged the provision for a mall along East Grant Avenue, and Planning Commissioner Ben F. Edwards had doubts about eliminating parking along West Grant Avenue.

Councilmen took no action at their second hearing on the plan, attended by about 15 persons, but indicated it would be up for adoption next Tuesday.

Gronberg criticized the provision that the East Grant area be devoted solely to office and commercial use, pointing out that light industry now exists there.

There is sufficient commercial and office space in Novato, but a lack of sites for light industrial, he said. The proposed plan would discourage expansion of industry in the area, he said.

Councilman Wayne Sartain said the city should be looking for other areas for industrial development, not the East Grant area.

Gronberg doubted that the proposed mall from Machin Avenue to Scott Street, flanked by small shops, would work.

Sartain said the plan is aimed at "what can be," not what exists now.

Councilmen emphasized it wasn't the city's intent to hurt small business, and Sartain said the purpose of designating the Pinheiro Ranch site for a regional shopping center was "to try to help downtown."

There are now commercial and office uses in the West Grant area and the plan calls for it to be primarily an office center.

Some businesses "thrive on what's there" and "some couldn't thrive on what's proposed," Edwards said, in a plea for flexibility in the plan.

Edwards also expressed concern that the provision to eliminate parking along Grant Avenue from Highway 101 to Seventh Street, and have off-street parking, would drive some businesses from the area.

Sartain said at present "Grant Avenue does not function well," and possibly there is a case for replacing diagonal parking with parallel parking.

Councilman George C. Quesada called for the council to be dedicated to the plan and do everything it can to implement it, rather than making alternate provisions before it is given a chance.

Councilmen also indicated they favored the provision for clustered multiple family development on Reichert Hills, which would provide open spaces, a provision favored by owners of the land involved.

Registration For Spring Term Begins

Fire Kills Boy, Injures Four Others

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Flames and smoke billowed upward in a downtown boutique Tuesday to the mezzanine living quarters of a family where a young boy was killed and four members of his family injured.

An ambulance steward, John L. Meyers, 50, suffered a fatal heart attack at the scene.

The youngster who died was Mark Whisler, 5, son of Louis Whisler, 35, who is in serious condition, and of Melinda Whisler, 32, who is in critical condition.

In addition, the boy's two sisters were injured. They are Holly 6, who is in critical condition, and Amy, 4, who is in satisfactory condition.

The only entrance to the living quarters was through the apparel shop, arson inspector Richard Crispin noted as he estimated damage at $30,000.

Firemen had to break through wired glass windows in an alley in their rescue attempts.

Some of the damage was in other establishments in the six-story structure on Grant Avenue, near Market Street.

Surplus Trucks Up For Bidding

The surplus property sales office at Hamilton Air Force Base has announced that two trucks and a cargo trailer, for sale by sealed bid, may be inspected at the base starting tomorrow.

For sale are a half-ton pickup truck, a two-and-a-half-ton cargo truck and a one-and-a-half-ton cargo trailer. They may be inspected between 8 a.m. and 3 p.m. weekdays to April 1.

Bids must be submitted to the Oakland Defense Surplus Sales Office, Building 501, Naval Supply Center, Oakland, where they will be opened at 10 a.m. April 1.

Rezoning Land Near Campus Site Backed

The Novato City Council last night introduced an ordinance to rezone 15.4 acres adjacent to the proposed north campus of the College of Marin from limited agriculture to planned residential.

Planning Director Brian W. Mattson said the proposed zoning would provide flexibility to preserve the natural features of the site: San Jose Creek and heavy tree cover. A development is planned at the site.

Existing zoning would permit the parcel to be subdivided into 7,500-square-foot lots, he explained.

Redwood Land and Investment Co. requested the zone change for the site on the south side of San Jose Boulevard, opposite San Jose Junior High School and east of the college site.

Councilmen also introduced an ordinance to rezone 8.8 acres on the east side of Marin Valley Drive, south of Bolling Drive, from highway commercial to planned residential, as requested by Myron Kaplan.

The council recommended that density be about 10 to 15 units per acre and land coverage be limited to 30 to 35 per cent of the site.

The Novato City Council Also:

ANNEXATION — Approved annexation to the city of the Marin County Housing Authority's 40-unit senior citizen housing project at the north end of Fourth Street.

SAN MARIN — Approved precise development plans for a 16-unit townhouse complex on the east side of San Andreas Drive, north of San Marin Drive, and a three-unit apartment building at the northeast corner of San Andreas Drive and San Andreas Court, as submitted by Standard Investment Co.

REZONING — Adopted an ordinance rezoning lots at 1033 Second Street and 1032 Third Street from single family to apartments, as requested by Jack Chernow.

APARTMENTS — Adopted precise development plans for a 32-unit apartment development on the south side of Rowland Boulevard, east of South Novato Boulevard, submitted by Charles Kuhn.

PREZONING — Adopted an ordinance to prezone 20.5 acres of unincorporated land south of Center Road and east of Eucalyptus Avenue for single family residential along Sun Lane and limited agricultural along Eucalyptus Avenue.

MOBILE HOME — Adopted an ordinance to prezone 31.5 acres in the unincorporated area east of Marin Valley Mobile Country Club park.

ANNEXATION — Set 8 p.m. April 27 for a public hearing on annexation of 12.6 acres, south of center road and east of Eucalyptus Avenue.

Arraignment On Credit Card Forgery

Stephen Robert Carrino, 23, of San Rafael, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on a charge of credit card forgery. He is to plead to the charge next Tuesday.

Carrino was arrested Saturday after security agents at Disco department store in San Rafael discovered him attempting to use an allegedly stolen credit card.

Consultant Is Eyed For Creek Study

The Novato Flood Control Zone Advisory board is considering hiring a consulting engineer to evaluate methods for Novato Creek flood control other than the plan proposed by the Army Corps of Engineers.

The Corps plan calls for most of Novato Creek to be left in its natural state, but for nearby Warner Creek to be in a concrete channel.

Charles E. Murphy, Marin County Flood Control engineer, said board members Monday night stressed the need for protecting the environment and ecology.

Murphy said he was designated to determine the scope of work a consultant would be expected to undertake and report back to the board.

No date was set for the board's next meeting, but Murphy expected it would be in mid-April.

Three new members joined the board — Jack Kniveton, president of Bel Marin Keys Homeowners Association; Tom Nolan, Novato assistant city engineer, and Dr. L. J. Becnel of Novato.

J. Dietrich Stroeh was elected board president, succeeding Frank Galli.

Someone took his 1964 Cadillac from the rear of 1233 Fourth Street between 2:30 and 7:30 p.m. yesterday, William Clinton McDuffie of 273 Mt. View Avenue, San Rafael, reported to police.

Negligence Charges In Oil Spill Inquiry

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The captains of two tankers which collided under the Golden Gate Bridge, causing a massive oil spill in San Francisco Bay, were charged with negligence Tuesday by the Coast Guard.

The federal agency filed charges of "negligence in the performance of their duties" against Capt. Harry H. Parnell of the Arizona Standard and Capt. Morris E. English of the Oregon Standard. Both ships belong to Standard Oil of California.

The two ships collided in darkness and fog Jan. 18 in the middle of the channel beneath the bridge, causing 840,000 gallons of fuel oil to spill into the water.

Thousands of volunteers conducted a massive clean-up and bird rescue operation after the accident.

The charges resulted from evidence presented before a Coast Guard board of inquiry. The agency said a hearing will be held next Tuesday before federal examiner Tilden Edwards to determine "the right of each captain to hold his U.S. Coast Guard license as a master mariner and San Francisco Bay pilot."

Monetary Policy Hit By Banker

SAN FRANCISCO — (BW) — United California Bank's chief economist Dr. Raymonda Jallow, declared that current monetary policies are "Planting the seeds for a renewed inflationary spiral and contined weakness of the American dollar in international markets."

To overcome this situation, the senior vice preisdent urged monetary authorities "to maintain a rate of inflation below the 5 per cent level.

"It is mandatory that the federal reserve board authorities expand the total money stock (including time deposits) by no more than an 8 per cent to 10 per cent annual rate instead of the current 18 per cent growth rate," Jallow told the annual meeting of the Western Independent Bankers Assn.

The brother and sister team of Richard and Karen Carpenter's "Close To You" won best contemporary vocal performance by a group and they also were named best new artists of the year.

Stephens' "Everything is Beautiful" was named best contemporary male vocal performance. Best contemporary female vocal went to Dionne Warwick for "I'll Never Fall in Love Again."

B. B. King's "The Thrill is Gone" won best rhythm and blues vocal by a male.

One of the biggest surprises at the national televised awards presentation, held simultaneously in New York, Chicago, Nashville, Atlanta and originating at the Hollywood Palladium, was the appearance of Paul McCartney.

"I didn't think I was going to get in because I didn't have a black tie on," said the McCartney who accepted a grammy for the Beatles "Let It Be," which was judged best original score written for a motion picture.

Paul Simon and Art Garfunkel, who once were reported to have said they would never attend a Grammy Awards ceremony, accepted their awards in person at the 13th annuql presentations. Their other Grammys included best arrangement accompanying vocalist, best engineered recording, and best contemporary song.

Aretha Franklin won a Grammy for best rhythm and blues female vocal for "Don't Play that Song".

Best Rhythm and Blues song was "Patches" by Ronald Dunbar and General Johnson and the Delfonics won best rhythm and blues group performance with "Didn't I (Blow Your Mind This Time)."

Other winners in some of the 44 categories were, best country female vocal performance, Lynn Anderson for "Rose Garden;" best country group performance, Johnny Cash and June Carter for "If I Were A Carpenter;" best country song, "My Woman, My Woman, My Wife," by Marty Robbins; best instrumental arrangement, Theme from "Z" by Henry Mancini; best recording for children, "Sesame Street;" best comedy recording, "The Devil Made Me Buy this Dress," by Flip Wilson; and best spoken word recording, "Why I Oppose the War in Vietnam," by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

In jazz categories, small group performance went to Bill Evans and large group was Miles Davis' "Bitches Brew."

Bus Service Operating In Marin At A Deficit

Central Marin bus service between Novato and Kentfield is operating with an 88 per cent public subsidy, and the Tiburon feeder service with a 90 per cent subsidy.

These figures were released yesterday in a statement of operating expense and revenue submitted to the Marin County Transit District directors yesterday by Marin Transit Systems Inc. of Marin City.

The bus firm provides both the central Marin service and the Tiburon feeder service under contract with the Golden Gate Bridge District.

For the month of February, the total operating expense for the central Marin service was $7,695. The 3,978 passengers paid a total of $942.55 in fares. This meant a total operating loss of $6,752.45, or 88 per cent.

In February, the Tiburon feeder service fared worse. Total operating cost was $2,732.50. The 1,310 passengers paid $282.20 in fares. This meant an operating loss of $2,450.30, or 90 per cent.

The situation in February represented a slight improvement over January figures.

In January, the central Marin service had a total operating expense of $8,100. The 3,037 passengers brought a revenue of $680.35, leaving a total operating loss of $7,419.65, a 92 per cent deficit.

For the Tiburon service in January, total operating income from 1,001 passengers was $243.10. Total operating expense was $2,900.10, an operating loss of $2,656.90, also a 92 per cent deficit.

The operating loss is subsidized by the Marin County Transit District from revenues collected from a countywide tax of 5 cents per $100 assessed value.

The transit district is distributing bus schedules and publicity placards in an effort to increase patronage and reduce the subsidy.

Samuel Manheimer of Ross rose from the audience section to suggest that merchants be asked to advertise in the buses and help defray expenses. He told transit directors that many county residents are not aware of the bus service despite the publicity efforts.

Printed bus schedules are available at the Marin County Transit District office in the Hall of Justice at the Marin Civic Center.

Transit Company Will Add Saturday Service

Saturday bus service and three more weekday runs will be added to the Central Marin bus service provided by Marin Transit Systems between Novato and Kentfield.

Marin County Transit District directors yesterday instructed James B. Robertson, acting general manager of the district, to start the expanded service as soon as possible.

Robertson said he would try to have the Saturday service started this weekend. A detail of the Saturday schedule has not been completed, but Robertson said it will be similar to the daily schedule, which starts at 6:39 a.m. in San Marin.

The transit directors also approved the addition of these three new runs to improve service:

A 7:39 a.m. bus will leave San Marin and arrive at College of Marin at 8:55 a.m. At present, the first bus leaves at 6:39 a.m. and the second bus at 8:39 a.m.

A 7:15 a.m. bus will leave College of Marin and head north, reaching San Marin at 8:31 a.m. At present, the first bus to leave the college is at 8:15 a.m.

At present, the last northbound bus leaves College of Marin at 3:15 p.m., hitting the Civic Center at 3:47, and arriving at San Marin at 4:31 p.m. Another run will be added so that the last bus will leave College of Marin at 4:30 p.m., stopping at the Civic Center after the 5 p.m. closing time, and arriving in San Marin about 5:45 p.m.

Transit directors also asked Robertson to see if a bus can serve the Tamalpais Retirement Residence at 501 Via Casitas in Greenbrae and whether a bus stop can be arranged in Loma Verde on the west side of Highway 101 opposite Nave Lanes.

California's First Quints; Fertility Pill

VAN NUYS, Calif. (UPI)— Mrs. Pearl Kaplan, who gave birth to California's first quintuplets, had been taking an experimental fertility drug not commercially available in the United States.

Dr. Hubert Rubenstein, the obstetrician in charge of Tuesday's delivery team of 26 doctors and nurses, said Mrs. Kaplan, 25, had been taking the drug Humagon for about a year before she became pregnant. The drug is manufactured in Europe and available in America only on an experimental basis.

One of the 10-week premature infants was stillborn. But the other four, all girls weighing about two pounds, were in "guarded condition" at Valley Presbyterian Hospital. Doctors expected the infants to live.

School Workers Ask 6 Pct. Pay Increase

Fairfax School District classified employees last night asked district trustees for a 6 per cent cost-of-living pay increase plus fringe benefits similar to those asked earlier by the district's teachers.

School board members took no action on the request. They said they would study the entire salary picture before asking any decision.

H. Reginald Hammond, district superintendent, said the nonteaching employees asked a special 6 per cent raise to bring secretaries' pay schedules into line with other districts, plus total health insurance for employees and families, and an extension of the pay scale for length of service. The top scale now is for six years, Hammond reported; the classified employees want to add increments to 15 years.

Hammond today estimated that the cost-of-living pay raise would cost "roughly $18,000, plus $8,000 for the medical coverage."

The Fairfax School District Board Also:

FINANCES — After discussing proposals for a statewide property tax and other innovations to finance schools, decided to write Marin County's legislators opposing a sugested override tax to finance pupil transportation. "It would shift more burden onto the local property owner," Hammond explained.

MEETING — Approved attendance by Hammond and executive secretary for finances, Gwyneth McGee, at a regional school districts finance meeting in Petaluma March 25.

REORGANIZATION — Heard Hammond report that a letter outlining pros and cons of reorganizing Deer Park and Central schools to provide kindergarten through third grade at one school and fourth through sixth grades at the other, will be sent to district parents next week.

DEER PARK — Heard Hammond report that he will meet with county parks and recreation director Pierre W. Joske tomorrow, to discuss joint development of land at the Deer Park School.

Decision Due On Insurance Manager

Hiring an insurance manager for the Golden Gate Bridge District will be considered by its insurance committee at 10 a.m. tomorrow in toll plaza offices.

Also on the agenda are proposals to increase major medical benefits under group insurance from $10,000 to $20,000, and to market all high-risk bridges in the International Bridge, Tunnel and Turnpike Association as one package to insurance companies.

The legislation-public relations committee also will meet tomorrow, at 1:30 p.m., to consider hiring the San Francisco public relations firm of Arnold & Palmer & Noble as district consultants. The same firm did the public relations work on the district's long-range transportation plan.

President Of Firm Chews A Safety Blade

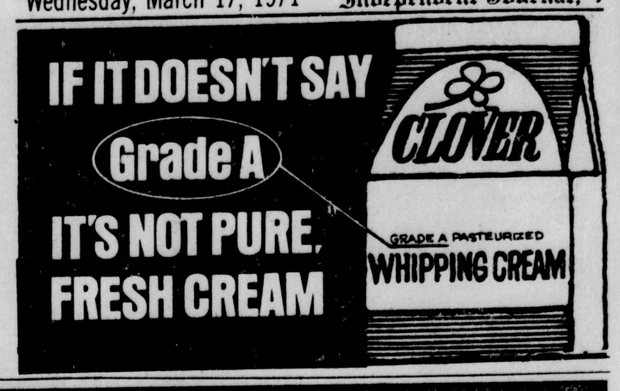
NEW YORK (UPI)—The president of the Personna Safety Razor Co. put his mouth where his money is Tuesday.

He chewed on a razor blade wrapped in a plastic pouch and other coverings which the Federal Trade Commission says is hazardous to children.

Some 80 million blades were distributed in the wrappings in newspaper inserts March 7 and 14 bringing complaints to authorities resulting in the FTC action.

Personna President Charles H. Wilson Tuesday chomped on one of the wrapped blades in a television interview (WNEW-TV) with no apparent ill effects.

Wilson then twisted and bent the wrapping with his fingers. So did a reporter. Neither appeared able to extract the blade.



Panel On Sewage To Be Named

Appointment of a hearing panel to consider a cease and desist order against two Southern Marin sewage dischargers, and possibly also a ban on all new construction in their territory, is on the agenda of the Regional Water Quality Control Board's monthly meeting on March 25 in Oakland.

The board will meet from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and from 2 p.m. to adjournment in the Board Room of the East Bay Municipal Utility District, 2130 Adeline Street.

The regional board also is to set a date for the hearing panel to meet. The board generally appoints three of its nine members as a hearing panel.

If this is done, the panel probably will hold its hearing in time to recommend formal action by the full board at its April 29 meeting.

The Independent-Journal reported an incorrect statement Saturday by the Richardson Bay Sanitary District that the cease and desist order would be considered by the regional board at the March 25 meeting.

The other affected discharger is the City of Mill Valley.

The possibility of a ban on all new construction was suggested by the regional board's staff when the board adopted tough new standards for sewage treatment by the two dischargers.

The I-J, in a separate story Saturday, also reported incorrectly that the new standards had not yet been adopted by the regional board. They were adopted unanimously on Feb. 25.

The regional board, however, agreed at that meeting to consider on March 25 any evidence by the two dischargers that the new standards should be eased. Spokesmen for the two objected that the standards were impossible to meet, and that the only alternative would be to pump the treated sewage out Tennessee Valley for discharge into the ocean.

Banning new construction, which has been ordered in several other communities by the regional board, would be aimed at preventing any further pollution until the two dischargers met the new standards.

In some cases, however, the regional board has lifted a ban when it found that a discharger was making significant progress toward meeting its standards.

In an effort to make additional funds available to the housing market the bank has reduced its best single family residential real estate rate from 7 per cent to 6-3/4 per cent.

No Strike By Teachers Or Workers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—There will be no strike by San Francisco city workers. The city's Labor Council refused to give a strike sanction Tuesday to five unions representing the employes.

George Johns, secretary of the AFL-CIO council, said union members did not really want to walk out although they were critical of a pay increase voted by the Board of Supervisors.

The unions had asked 10 per cent salary boosts but the supervisors voted for only 4 per cent increases. Union leaders said that amount failed to keep pace with the rising cost of living.

In another action, the council also refused to give immediate sanction to a strike by the American Federation of Teachers against the school system.

Johns was given authority to award the sanction but declared teachers must undertake additional negotiations before he would consider that.

The AFT, which represents a third of the district's teachers, had voted to strike today. The Classroom Teachers Association, which represents a majority of the teachers, had voted not to support a walkout.

$7 Million Bank Embezzlement Believed Biggest In History

CHICAGO (UPI)—A federal grand jury has subpoenaed the records of a Chicago businessman and a former bank vice president in an investigation of an embezzlement believed to be the largest in American banking history.

The embezzlement occurred at the Cosmopolitan National Bank and is believed to involve $6 million to $7 million.

James R. Thompson, first assistant U.S. attorney, said Tuesday subpoenas were issued to Louis Steinberg, president of Steinberg-Baum Inc., and Donald B. Santowski, a former vice president in Cosmpolitan's bookkeeping department.

The embezzlement was discovered Feb. 25 when an executive of a large corporation allegedly confessed to a bank official.

Donald D. Magers, bank president, refused to name the executive, but said the man confessed he and a bank employe had conspired to embezzle $6 million to $7 million from the bank.

The basically simple embezzlement scheme had remained undetected until the confession, Magers said, and he was stunned to learn of it.

Magers said the executive simply wrote checks on his firm's account and cashed them in other Chicago area banks. Some of the checks were as high as $900,000, he said.

When the checks were returned to Cosmopolitan's bookkeeping department, he said, no record was made on the overdrafts from the account. The bank employe involved in the scheme was the only one who handled the records, Magers said.

The Chicago office of the FBI also has refused to identify the men involved in the theft. U.S. attorney William Bauer said he was "not in a position to confirm or deny" reports that Steinberg and Santowski were under investigation.

"The Cosmopolitan case is under investigation by a federal grand jury and I do not comment on cases before a grand jury," Bauer said.

Steinberg-Baum is a privately owned Midwest merchandiser-discount operation. It has 13 stores in the Chicago metropolitan area and four subsidiary outlets, named Cost-Plus stores.

Magers said the exact amount of the shortage could not be fixed pending a full check by examiners and an audit.

He said a bonding company insurance policy for $1.8 million will cover part of the theft and the bank hopes to recover the balance of the loss from the corporation.

Pay Hikes Voted By Supervisors

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors yesterday approved an average 5.5 per cent salary increase for most county employees.

In approving the resolution of intent to adopt the salary schedule, supervisors accepted recommendations of the county salary survey team.

The raises will be effective on July 1 and will be in addition to the 2.5 per cent cost-of-living increase all employees received on March 1.

The total cost for the increase is estimated at $1,220,000. County Administrator David L. Nichols said the federal and state governments will pay about $640,000 of the cost and the county taxpayers the remaining $580,000.

Nichols said increased fringe benefits would include 15 vacation days after 10 years service; lowering the retirement age from 55 to 50 years after 20 years of service; education incentives, health benefits and additional pay for hazardous duty.

Seven groups representing county employees have signed memorandums of agreement on the salary offer, but three groups representing social workers have not.

Nichols said the social workers have requested further consideration be given to a voluntary dental plan.

State Rejects Big Suits By Blind Inmates

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI)—The State Board of Control has rejected $10 million in claims by two convicts blinded from drinking orange juice laced with "canned heat" during a firefighting operation.

Two $5 million claims were filed for Billy G. Christian and Joseph J. Martinez, currently confined to the hospital section at San Quentin. They were blinded after drinking the juice during firefighting near Rio Nido in Sonoma County on Oct. 9, 1970.

At the time of the incident they were inmates at the Parlin Fork Conservation Camp near Fort Bragg.

Their attorney said the two men drank the juice not knowing it contained poisonous "canned heat." He said other inmates had spiked the juice.

The board's action Tuesday cleared the way for civil suits to be filed in the case.

Gun Purchases By Stanford Students Eyed

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI)—Stanford University students have purchased a "frightening" number of guns, Santa Clara County Sheriff James Geary said Tuesday.

He told county supervisors that students bought 20 carbines, six shotguns and five automatic handguns at a gun show five weeks ago.

Geary said he had to maintain strong reinforcements for campus riot duty in view of "this frightening situation."

University officials said they were studying possible restrictions on firearms on the campus.

Two students were shot, neither seriously, during a Feb. 8 antiwar demonstration at the school.

Saigon GIs Pursued By Reds In Laos

SAIGON (UPI)—More than 1,000 South Vietnamese troops, carrying their wounded, fought their way through Laotian jungle today in flight from pursuing North Vietnamese forces, U.S. helicopter pilots reported.

The American pilots said the South Vietnamese, survivors of the North Vietnamese capture of Artillery Base Lolo, hacked their way through jungle and scrambled down a 1,000-foot cliff in their quest for safety.

The Americans said so many South Vietnamese scrambled on some rescue helicopters that GIs had to shove them off before the 'copters could take off.

South Vietnamese spokesmen insisted there was neither fighting nor any retreat inside Laos.

U.S. helicopter pilots said the South Vietnamese were headed toward Artillery Base Brown but were forced to abandon that idea when the North Vietnamese blocked their way and the government troops sidestepped the blockade and made their way toward a third base named A Loui.

Two U.S. helicopters were shot down Tuesday trying to resupply South Vietnamese soldiers at artillery base Brown, said W.O. Fred Few, 22, of Chattanooga, Tenn.

Earlier the U.S. command reported the second heavy Communist attack in 24 hours against the American base at Khe Sanh.

Tricia, Ed Engaged At 'Swinging' Party

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Tricia Nixon and New York socialite Edward Finch Cox became officially engaged Tuesday night at one of the swingingest parties ever staged at the White House.

The pre-St. Patrick's day celebration wound up after 2 a.m. EST with movie star Fred McMurray playing the saxophone and Dennis Day singing "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling."

Blonde, blue-eyed Tricia, 25, in a long white chiffon gown banded in ostrich feathers, danced several hard rock numbers with Cox, 24. Several of his Harvard Law School pals kept cutting in.

The evening combined an "Irish Evening of Entertainment," Pat Nixon's 59th birthday party, and the announcement of Tricia's engagement for the June 5 wedding. Sentiment and gaiety were the order of the evening — and nobody wanted to go home.

The President, with Mrs. Nixon smiling by his side, formally announced the engagement of his elder daughter to "Mr. Edward Cox" on the stage in the East Room. He did it with some humor, taking note that the news had broken long ago.

"I understand I'm supposed to make a surprise announcement," he said, grinning. "The difficulty is I find every time I have a surprise announcement, it's leaked —and there seems to be no exception."

He added that making the announcement to the gathering of some 300, including Ireland's Prime Minister and Mrs. John Lynch "seems to be rather an anti-climax."

But the guests, who knew the secret beforehand, stood and applauded as Tricia and Cox took their bows beside her parents. They were joined by her fiance's parents, Col. and Mrs. Howard Ellis Cox of New York.

Mrs. Nixon had decreed that this would be "Tricia's evening." But there was a huge cake with white and green icing inscribed: "Happy Birthday Pat."

310 Okinawans Will Lose Jobs

NAHA, Okinawa (UPI)—A total of 310 Okinawan workers will be dismissed from the U.S. Naha and Kadena Air Bases May 15.

The dismissal notices were handed to the base workers Monday by the U.S. military authorities following notification to the All-Okinawan Military Workers Union.

The latest notice of dismissal will comprise the fourth phase of the 3,000 workers discharge program announced by the U.S. military authorities last year.

This brought to 1,250 the number of Okinawan base workers who have so far been served with dismissal notice.

Expansion Doubters Put To Rest

By ERIK M. INGRAM

The author of a hospital expansion report calling for further development of Marin General Hospital last night cut the heart out of arguments for small satellite hospitals.

Martin A. Paley of Lester Gorsline Associates, addressing himself to a group of Terra Linda physicans at the Marin Hospital District board meeting, said hospitals are built to save lives and not for the convenience of doctors.

"A large comprehensive hospital is more likely to make the difference between life and death (for a patient)," he told an audience of about 50 persons at the hospital.

Examination of travel time from various points in the county to Marin General coupled with population projections through the year 2000 show it would be a mistake to build at any other location, he said.

Terra Linda physicians and some residents have been pushing for a district hospital north of San Rafael because they claim that is where the population center will be in the future.

Paley said the population center will remain where it is — at Marin General.

"The question is," he continued, "what is a reasonable location for the most equitable distribution of services."

The question produced an exchange between Paley and the Terra Linda physicians who continued to press for abandonment of plans to enlarge Marin General.

Dr. David L. Johnson of Terra Linda argued that the 1980 projection of 34 per cent of the population living in San Rafael and north calls for a separate hospital.

He failed to mention, however, that the figure included the population of Novato which is not a part of the district.

Dr. Filmore S. Rodich, a Terra Linda internist, suggested that most persons using the hospital now come from what is considered north. He also charged that the cost per bed for construction at Marin General should be compared to the cost per bed on "flat land development" — which would be lower.

Paley responded that hospital patient records show most patients from San Rafael and no "significant figure" from the area north of that city.

Dr. Gwendolyn M. Campion, board president, answered Rodich's second point saying costs of construction was not the only consideration in expansion but also cost of service. Two hospitals, she said, would mean needless and expensive duplication of services.

Other questions posed by Terra Linda physicians in support of a second facility included traffic congestion at one hospital and resulting smog, the potential of earthquake disaster at the hospital and the possible increase in room rates expansion of Marin General would create.

They were told the hospital is not earthquake proof but no building is.

The charge that room rates would be increased to pay for construction was not answered, being irrelevant since construction would be financed through bonds paid by taxpayers.

The hospital board is expected to continue study of the report at its Tuesday meeting at the hospital.

Ancient Rail Depot Blaze; Arson Probe

Fire, believed to be arson, partially destroyed the 175-year-old railroad depot at Point Reyes Station today, causing damage estimated at about $5,000.

Fire Chief Louis J. Bloom of the Marin County Fire Department said that there was evidence the fire was set, but withheld description of the evidence.

Marin County fire trucks from the Point Reyes substation found the fire had already spread through the walls and roof of the main building and adjoining storage area minutes after the alarm at 2:32 a.m. They were assisted by a truck from Synanon's Fire Department and one from the Point Reyes National Seashore Department. The fire was under control by 4:22 a.m., but mop-up crews were still on site by 9 a.m. this morning.

The building was being used by the engineering department of the Federal Highway Administration. Chief Bloom said fire and water damage to the engineering equipment, documents and other government property still has not been determined.

The old depot building, located on Main Street in Point Reyes Station, was built in the early 1800's by the Northwestern Pacific Railroad. When the railroad discontinued service there in the mid 1930s, the depot was left vacant until 1946 when it was purchased by Gene Compton, a San Francisco restaurateur, who converted it and the adjacent building into a lumber yard.

It was used as a lumber yard by the Diamond National Corporation until March 1970.

Early last October, the federal government leased the building for their engineering offices. Synanon also leases one of the adjacent warehouses to store lumber and other building equipment.

Firemen Respond To Leaky Waterbed Call

A Sausalito man, whose waterbed sprung a leak at 9 p.m. yesterday, called the fire department for help.

Fire fighters helped Mike Kelly of 811 Spring Street siphon the water from the bed out to the back yard, before flooding or any damage occurred.

Delay On Rezoning Requests

An indefinite delay was placed on rezoning requests last night by the Petaluma Planning Commission when it said it would await recommendations from planning consultants before making decisions.

The commission had received a request from the Wes Bailey Land Co. to rezone land on South McDowell Boulevard for the future Cambridge Square Subdivision. Caster Mobilehome Corp. had also requested rezoning as well as a use permit for a mobile home park on North McDowell Boulevard, adjacent to the Petaluma Estates Mobilehome Park.

Asst. Planner Richard D. A. Anderson said the commission cited the current moratorium on rezonings and said it would consider the applications again next fall when planning studies are complete.

Bound Over On Burglary

Stephen Thomas Ainslie, 19, of San Rafael, was bound over to Marin Superior Court yesterday on charges of burglary and possessing stolen property.

He is to be arraigned in superior court next Wednesday.

The charges against Ainslie stem from a burglary Feb. 26 at a Terra Linda residence.

Population Warning: One Billion by 2071

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A White House panel said today that U.S. population growth has aggravated the country's social, environmental and economic problems and made their solution more difficult.

It urged the nation to start developing an explicit policy on population. Otherwise, under certain circumstances, the number of Americans may rise to a billion a century hence.

This recommendation was made in an interim report to President Nixon and Congress by the Commission on Population Growth and the American Future.

Detailed proposals of the commission, headed by John D. Rockefeller III, will be submitted in its final report a year from now.

"Despite the pervasive impact of population growth on every facet of American life," the commission said, "the United States has never developed a deliberate policy on the subject.

"The tension between population and the economy, population and the environment, population and government services, is with us at all times ... Whether we wish to alter it or to live with it, we cannot afford to ignore it."

The commission was created by Congress in March, 1970, at the request of President Nixon. In its interim report, the panel said that while the population stood at 204 million according to last year's census, it probably will grow eventually to 300 million regardless of any policy that may be established.

Whether the population will rise by another 100 million to 400 million "may be determined by what Americans do about family size and population in the next couple of decades," the interim report said.

A difference of just one child per family, on the average, "will have enormous consequences not only for total population but for demands that will be placed on society in the years ahead," the commission reported.

For example, a policy permitting three-child families would result in a population of nearly a billion 100 years hence as a result of "excess birth over death."

The commission made it clear that it deplored the possibility of such future population leaps. Even relatively small growth has caused complications.

"Our view, at this stage of our work," the commission said, "is that population growth of the magnitude we have had since World War II has aggravated many of the nation's problems and made their solution more difficult."

Forgery Charge Against Woman

A 22-year-old Mill Valley woman was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday for investigation of passing a forged prescription after she attempted to obtain barbiturates from a Mill Valley drug store, then left hurriedly when the pharamacist attempted to check with the doctor.

Susan Linda Mark, of 873 Marin Drive, was arrested by police about 4:30 p.m. after she was traced from an auto license number which a pharmacy employee wrote down as Miss Mark left Lockwood's Pharmacy, 12 Miller Avenue.

When she tried to pass the prescription, the pharmacist became suspicious when he noticed the signature was different from the doctor's regular signature, officers said.

Innocent Plea To Auto Burglary

John James Edmunds, 26, of no known address, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of auto burglary. A preliminary hearing was set for Monday.

Edmunds was arrested Monday after he allegedly broke into a car parked near the Holiday Inn in Terra Linda.

Probation In Scuffle Case

Harold Neal McGee, 25, and Richard Louis McGee, 24, both of San Rafael, have been placed on probation for one year in connection with misdemeanor convictions stemming from a scuffle with a neighbor last December.

Judge Robert A. Smallman of Marin Municipal Court also sentenced Harold to 20 days in jail and Richard to 15 days in jail. Both were given credit for time already served.

Both pleaded guilty in January to resisting arrest Dec. 28 after Harold had aimed a gun at a neighbor.

First Latin Mass Slated Friday Night

The first public Mass in Latin to be celebrated in Marin since the Latin Mass Society of Marin County was formed will be at 7:30 p.m. Friday at St. Vincent's Chapel at St. Vincent's School for Boys, north of San Rafael.

Rev. Donald St. Sure, a Jesuit priest, will be the celebrant, according to Frances Bodeen, executive secretary of POPE (Parents for Orthodoxy in Parochial Education), the parent group for the Latin Mass Society.

Mrs. Bodeen said that the Mass, on St. Joseph's feast day, will be a spiritual bouquet dedicated to Archbishop Joseph T. McGucken of San Francisco.

The Latin Mass Society will seek a "more worthy translation" of the ancient Latin into the vernacular, Mrs. Bodeen said. If there is enough response from Roman Catholics in the country, the group will also organize a Gregorian chant choir, she said.

Those wishing to be notified of future Latin Masses may send their names and addresses to POPE, Box 6161, San Rafael 94903.

CASTING ABOUT for a different dinner dish? This one calls for turkey simmered in a skillet, as here, or done in a pressure pan. It's Spanish Turkey Legs made with combinations of green pepper, tomatoes, olives and noodles.

Spanish Turkey Meal In Skillet

Cooked turkey legs save pennies.

The fact that the turkey meat offers plenty of the high-quality protein is part of the bargain packet.

Turkey legs may be cooked to tenderness quickly in a pressure pan (20 minutes) or simmered more leisurely in a heavy skillet — as in this recipe.

SPANISH TURKEY LEGS

2 turkey drumsticks (about 3 lbs.)
2 tablespoons cooking oil
1 cup chopped celery
½ cup chopped onion
1 small green pepper, slivered
1 cup fresh chopped or canned tomatoes
1 cup water
1 bay leaf
1 teaspoon salt
6 stuffed olives, sliced (if desired)
2 cups dry noodles

Wash drumsticks and pat dry with paper towel. Brown on all sides in hot oil in heavy skillet. Stir in celery, onion, and green pepper, and saute lightly. Add tomatoes, water, bay leaf, and salt; simmer, covered, for 2 hours, or until turkey meat is tender. Add olives and noodles, cover and simmer for 20 minutes or until noodles are tender, adding more liquid if necessary. Separate meat from turkey legs, discarding the bones, and serve at once. Makes 6 servings.

With Spring Sunshine Ahead, Think About Serving Punch

Pour over ice in tall glasses. Serve at once. If desired, garnish each serving with an additional scoop of sherbet. Makes 6 servings.

CHERRY FIRE PUNCH

5 cups cold water
1 can (9 fl. oz.) frozen concentrate orange juice
1 cup pineapple juice
⅓ cup lemon juice
1 package (10 oz.) frozen sweet cherries in quick thaw pouch
1 bottle (7 fl. oz.) quinine water, chilled
Ice cubes

Combine water, concentrate, pineapple and lemon juices. Stir until blended. Chill. Dust before serving, thaw fruit as directed on package; add to punch mixture with quinine water and ice cubes. Serve immediately. Makes 2 quarts or 16 servings.

Clean Gasket

Clean the rubber gasket on the refrigerator door with the cleaner used for white side wall tires.

SALUTE TO ITALY

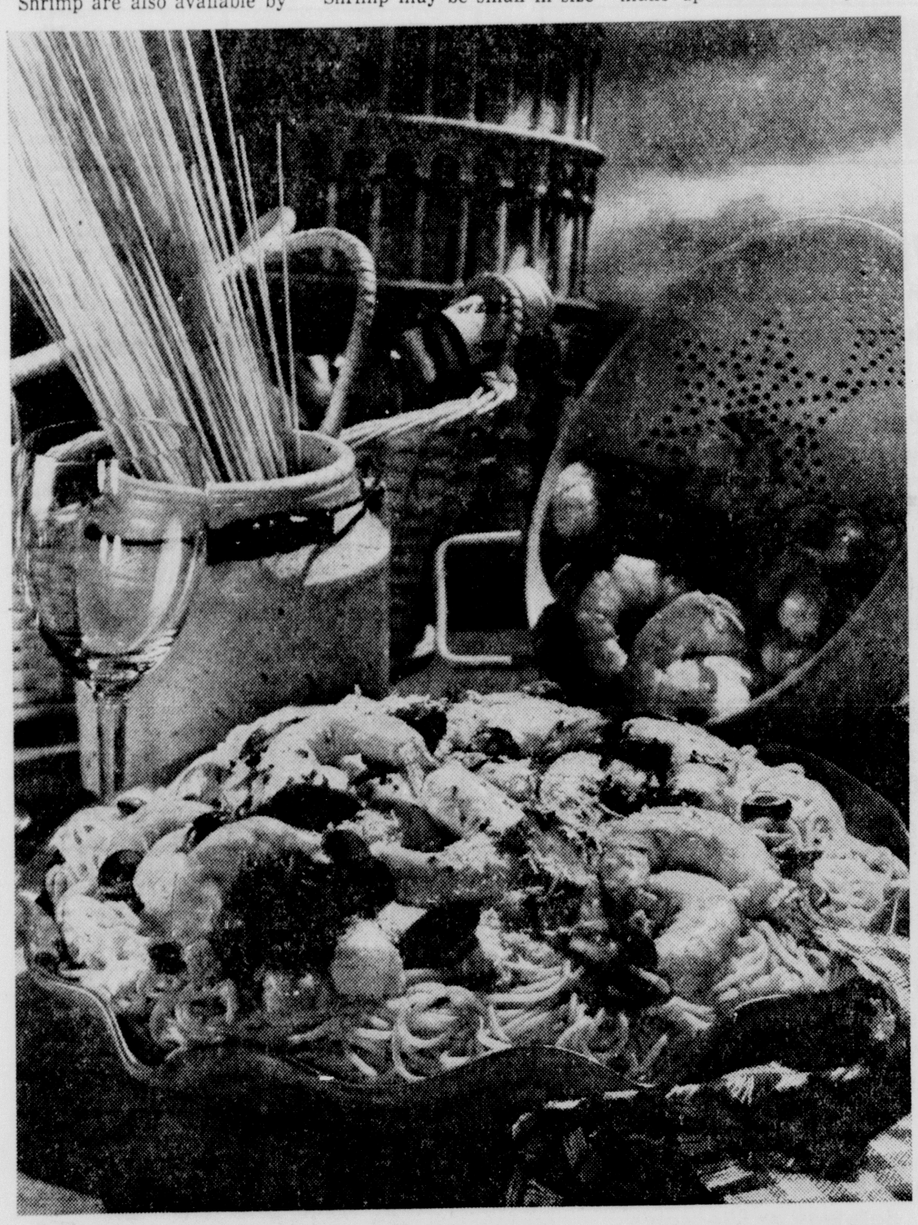
Team Creamy Shrimp With Spaghetti

It's true — the shrimp boats have been coming in loaded, and the sturdy shrimpers have been working overtime. Now the tasty little crustaceans have been processed and are reaching markets across the country. They are available in several styles including individually-quick-frozen, peeled shrimp which may be bought in poly-bags or rigid plastic containers.

Shrimp are also available by the pound either raw or cooked, peeled or unpeeled, and fresh or frozen, as well as in handy, 4½ ounce, shelf-ready cans. Shrimp are graded in six sizes to fill every need whether you soup them in a bouillabaisse or chowder, toss them in a salad, sauce them in a creole, or combine them with rice or pasta in a hearty, satisfying entree.

Shrimp may be small in size as their name indicates, but they are mighty in taste and pack a powerful, hunger-thwarting, protein punch as well as abounding in valuable minerals and vitamins. Shrimp are low in fat and calories with an approximate 150 calorie count for the drained contents of a 4½ ounce can.

Everyone loves shrimp — and many of the ethnic groups who make up America today have brought cuisine ideas for eating enjoyment from their native lands. The Italians are no exception with many American entrees today reflecting their creativity in preparing hearty gourmet foods. The mainstay ingredient in dozens of Italian entrees is the always popular pasta. Pasta takes many forms such as spaghetti, noodles, macaroni, or variations of these basic forms.



As a salute to the ingenious Italians the National Marine Fisheries Service has created a new recipe, Creamy Shrimp With Spaghetti. The tender, tasty shrimp are combined with mushrooms, olives, lemon juice, and dill weed in a creamy sauce. Served over hot, seasoned spaghetti and topped with another Italian specialty, Parmesan cheese, this entree will be among your family's all-time favorites and a collector's item for those occasions when time is short and appetites are big.

CREAMY SHRIMP WITH SPAGHETTI

3 cans (4½ to 5 ounces each) shrimp or
1½ pounds raw shrimp, cooked, peeled, and deveined
¼ cup butter or margarine
3 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
2 cups milk
1 can (3 ounces) sliced mushrooms, undrained
⅓ cup sliced ripe or stuffed olives
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ to ¾ teaspoon dill weed
4 to 6 servings hot, cooked, seasoned spaghetti
2 tablesppons chopped parsley
Shredded Parmesan cheese (optical)

Drain and rinse canned shrimp. Melt butter or margarine; blend in flour and salt. Add milk; cook stirring constantly until thickened. Add undrained mushrooms, olives, lemon juice, dill weed, and shrimp; stir carefully.

Heat well. Serve over spaghetti and sprinkle with parsley and Parmesan cheese, if desired. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Pineapple Pancakes Welcome The Day

Chilly mornings make a hot, hearty breakfast ever so welcome. And what better send-off for the day's activities than golden brown pancakes? Light tender pancakes, so quickly made with pancake mix, can be the base of the nourishing breakfast your family needs daily.

These Pineapple Pancakes are made extra delicious with the addition of crushed pineapple to the batter. Syrup drained from the pineapple is combined with maple-blended syrup and cooked sausage links to make a tempting warm topping.

While pancakes are baking everyone can enjoy a fruit cup — perhaps a combination of orange sections and sliced bananas. Offer milk and coffee with the pancakes, and your family will have the wholesome, hearty breakfast needed to meet the day's activities with vigor and alertness!

An easy way to be sure that breakfast and other meals are nutritionally well balanced is to use the basic four food groups as a guide for menu planning. A selection of foods from these groups — meats and alternates, milk and milk products, breads and cereals, and fruits and vegetables — provides the variety of nutrients your family needs every day.

PANCAKE BREAKFAST
(Makes 4 servings)

Sausage Syrup:
One 8-½ oz. can crushed pineapple
One 8-oz pkg. brown and serve sausage links
½ cup maple-blended syrup

pineapple Pancakes:
1 cup pancake mix
1 cup milk
1 egg
1 tablespoon melted or liquid shortening
Pineapple (saved from can used in syrup)

For sausage syrup, drain pineapple, reserving liquid for sausage syrup. (Pineapple is to be used in pancakes.) Cut sausage links in half and prepare in medium-sized skillet according to package directions; drain. Add pineapple liquid and maple-blended syrup; bring to boil, and boil 5 minutes. Reduce heat and keep warm until ready to use.

For pineapple pancakes, place mix, milk, egg, shortening and drained pineapple in bowl. Stir lightly until batter is fairly smooth. For each pancake, pour about ¼ cup of batter onto hot, lightly greased griddle to make 8 pancakes.

Turn only once. Serve with warm sausage syrup.

TRY THIS hearty breakfast suggestion: pineapple-flavored pancakes topped with warm sausage syrup.

Reuse Bags

Sturdy plastic food bags can be reused —sometimes more than once. Wash them with suds, rinse, stuff with crumpled paper toweling and stand upright to drain.

Fork The Card

A fork makes an excellent holder for a recipe card. Stand it, tines up, in a glass and put the card between the tines. The card stays clean, and is easy to read.

Repel Flies

After emptying, washing and sanitizing garbage cans with hot suds, scatter some packaged soap or detergent into the clean cans. This will repel flies and other insects.

GRANDFATHER ROBERT FROST

'Our Relationship Is Alive'

By PAT BALMES

"Grandfather passed along a yearning to express myself, to communicate my gratitude for being alive," says Mrs. David Hudnut, granddaughter of poet Robert Frost.

The mother of five children who are under 12 years old makes time for her art and writing.

"Motherhood just doesn't stop and art begin. My art is part of serving my family. Art happens because we need it, not because we have leisure," says Mrs. Hudnut. Currently Robin is doing research for a commissioned hisotrical painting of the Lewis and Clark expedition. She is also writing and illustrating a modern Christmas tale "with, hopefully, a sense of timelessness about it." Her paintings, "though few and far between," sell well, some right off her easel.

After trying a studio away from home, Robin decided she is more productive where real family life is going on, and her husband built her huge work table and art storage shelves on a sunny landing at the top of the stairs, central to the children's bedrooms.

This year the Hudnuts have been settling into their redwood house on a sparsely-built high meadow in Tiburon where they can hear meadowlarks. They moved here from Birmingham, Mich.

In their living room, furnished with family treasures, the bookshelf holds a copy of her aunt Lesley Frost's children's book, "Digging Down to China," which Robin illustrated, and an album of Christmas and greeting cards which she designed. Some contain Robert Frost's poems.

ROBIN RELATES that her late grandfather has had a great influence on her life "because he was a person who could express himself so well." Robin calls him "Frost," as if to remind herself that she must share him with the world.

"Because I know his thought and poetry, our relationship is still very much alive. Many days I recall his poems." Robin jests that when she scrubs her kitchen floor she reminds herself of "The witch that came (the withered hag) / To wash the steps with pail and rag" from Frost's "Provide Provide."

And, more seriously when she thinks about relationships between husband and wife, Robin recalls "The Death of the Hired Man."

She quotes, "My object in living is to unite / My avocation and my vocation / As my two eyes make one in sight," from "Two Tramps in Mud Time."

She explains,

"Women have a chance that men don't have to fit all their talents and interests into their vocation as wife and mother."

Robin was close to her grandfather. She says she did not want to read the books published after his death that saw him through others' eyes, some critical.

Her mother, Frost's daughter Marjorie, died a month after Robin was born.

"It hurt Frost very much to think that my mother was dead. She was a poet, a light touch and happy spirit that kept the Frost family loose and happy," she says, — Her mother left her only child a slender volume of poems, among them Robin's favorite, "Franconia."

"Long, long ago a little child,
Bare headed in the snow,
Lay back against the wind
— and smiled,
Then let her footsteps blow.

Lighter than leaves they blew about,
Until she sank to rest
Down where no wind could blow her out,
Deep in a mountain nest.

And to this day she's smiling there
With eyes alert and wild,
For she has lived on mountain air
And stayed a little child."

(reprinted with permission of Robin Hudnut)

Robin remembers "the new dolly from Grandfather that was always under the tree each Christmas," and she speaks of summers she spent at his farm house at Bread Loaf in Vermont:

"Grandfather thought he was doing something nice for me. He would take me out to dinner. He would listen to me play the piano. But it was lonely for me, an only child, to leave my father. Frost lived alone in his cabin. His wife had died and it was not like visiting a warm, happy family," she recalls.

"BUT FROST was not lonely. At that time in his life, when he was famous, people were pressing in on him. He needed to be alone to be creative," Robin explains.

"Grandfather would ask what I was thinking, and when I would begin to tell him, he could express my thought better than I could myself. Frost was so warm, so 'with it,' such a powerful human being with so many antennae. He liked to look at every person as they came around the corner, as if they were freshly made. He liked to look for the unexpected in unlikely people."

The Bread Loaf cabin was small and had a large vegetable garden. Many people from all over the world came "to have their times with Frost" at that cabin, according to Robin.

When Robin was graduated from high school in Billings, Mont., Robert Frost came to give the commencement address.

Her memories are best of their times together when she was at Smith College and Frost, in his late 60s and early 70s, was giving seminars at Amherst College and doing what he called talking-around at campuses all over the country. Then she could appreciate him as a great thinker, says Robin.

While Frost was teaching at Amherst and living at a nearby inn, he telephoned Robin almost weekly, inviting her to dinner.

"He always had a twinkle in his eyes," she remembers. Frost would sometimes give her money and say,

"For books."

Frost visited Robin's house at Smith College often, talking intimately with groups of girls, giving them his poignant reactions, Robin remembers. Never having been graduated himself, he sympathized with her trapped feeling.

"Do you think you are going to sit here until you have learned everything? You have to go ahead on limited knowledge," he would say.

SHE RECALLS that Frost had wonderful ways of expression, was startling to talk to, was buoyant, never heavy-handed and loved to talk. He would go on into the night until someone would have to say,

"We'd better stop."

After her graduation, Frost encouraged and guided Robin's art.

"He warned me that I would become 'a self-cured ham' surrounded by all those art treasures at my job at the Frick Collection in New York City. He was afraid I would become discouraged by those masterpieces and thought I should quit my job and go paint," relates Robin.

After Robin married David Hudnut, Frost shared a Christmas in Connecticut with them and their first-born, Dave Jr. Frost told her,

"Looking at my great grandchildren is like looking through a telescope turned backwards."

Robin and David attended President John F. Kennedy's inauguration and heard her grandfather read his tribute to the United States, "The Gift Outright."

His lines, "Such as we were we gave ourselves outright / (The deed of gift was many deeds of war)," Robin interprets in her own life by giving herself outright to motherhood and wifehood, a role in which she feels totally happy and contented.

"Frost had high hopes for humanity: 'Earth is the right place for love. I don't know where it's likely to go better.' Some of those feelings I know I have and can pass on to my children," says Robin. "Perhaps, someday, I would like to be a teacher, too."

ROBIN IS the daughter of Marjorie Frost Fraser and Willard Fraser, who was three times the mayor of Billings, Mont. She remembers long, quiet hours in her childhood there when she had time for thought and creativity. Her father felt that a political career would give him an opportunity to serve, she says. He taught Robin,

"You can do things. You can accomplish it."

An archeologist and historian of Indians and the West, Fraser, who is now running for his fourth term as mayor, induced the movie makers to film "Little Big Man" in Montana, the authentic historical site of the Battle of the Little Big Horn or Custer's Last Stand.

Robin lived in Billings, then a city of 30,000, until she went to Smith College to study art and art history. Upon graduation she received a graduate fellowship to teach art history at University of Montana and studied there toward a master's degree in art.

While on shipboard with art history students going to Europe, Robin met Princeton student David Hudnut of Rochester, N.Y. Later she married the young lawyer and lived "in three places in New York City," Ithaca, and Birmingham, Mich., before coming to San Francisco for a business opportunity with United States Leasing International.

David's family has a literary ancestor too: Harriet Beecher Stowe, who sat at her kitchen table to write "Uncle Tom's Cabin." David's father, two brothers and an uncle are Presbyterian ministers, as was his late grandfather.

DAVID'S MOUNTAINEERING ax is perched atop the bookcase at their Tiburon home, witnessing his family's love for the mountains. He and Dave Jr. climb in Rocky Mountain National Park in Colorado with rope and pitons, but Robin prefers easier climbs "where I just use my hands."

In their family room, hung with a hammock, a baby swing, rings for the five children and their friends to "skin the cat," and a climbing rope, is an Enit Kaufman chalk portrait of Frost. There, amid lively activity, the artist and mother quotes Albert Schweitzer's words which hang on the wall,

"I don't know what your destiny will be, but one thing I know; the only ones among you who will be really happy are those who have sought and found how to serve."

GRANDDAUGHTER OF poet Robert Frost, Mrs. David Hudnut of Tiburon reads his "Stopping by Woods on a Snowy Evening" to her children, from left, Margie, 9; Benjie, 1: Josh, 6; Johnny, 4 and Dave Jr., 12, quoting, "The woods are lovely, dark and deep / But I have promises to keep / And miles to go before I sleep / And miles to go before I sleep."

(I-J photos by Alfred Arn)

ROBIN HUDNUT works on a chalk portrait, her way of expressing her "gratitude for the privilege of life." The artist explains, "This is what I can do to respond to all that has been given to me. Some people cannot just talk, they must express themselves more quietly; in writing, music or color."

"JOLLYGOOD, FIT FOR A KING...
that's what I like about LAMB."

Here's a recipe Henry VIII would have loved. It's easy and uncomplicated, the way our English cousins prefer it. You start with a fine leg of tender, young American lamb. Then you make this superb sherry-spiked glaze. The whole thing goes like this.

BUCKINGHAM GLAZED LEG OF LAMB (makes 6 to 8 servings)

1 leg of lamb
Salt and pepper
½ cup dry sherry
½ cup currant jelly
½ cup catsup
½ teaspoon marjoram leaves

Sprinkle lamb with salt and pepper. Place on rack in shallow roasting pan. Roast in 325° (slow) oven 30 to 35 minutes per pound, or until meat thermometer registers 175° for medium doneness. Meanwhile, make sauce by combining sherry, jelly, catsup and marjoram in small saucepan. Stir and heat until jelly melts. Brush on lamb occasionally during roasting time. Heat remaining sauce and serve with lamb, garnished with parsley, lemon, and Spanish olives.

Look before you buy. Make sure it's fresh American lamb — the finest.

HELEN HELP US!

Young Couple Are Proving Love By Having Dates Without Sex

DEAR HELEN:

Once upon a time, in the "well ordered" old days when marriage usually came first, it was thought that sex was the greatest, closest, most meaningful expression of true love.

But with sex so cheap these days, it seems people use it to avoid getting really close —in an understanding way I mean.

Or as some gal in a cartoon once said, "I go to bed with a man to keep him from getting serious.'' It's all fun and games, and easier than talking . . . and never, but never forget it's just physical; blank out involvement or emotions or caring. That's square.

A woman friend made this very clear in a puzzling way. She's successful, single, and had planned to remain so — no middle class traps for her, like marriage and dull morality and runny-nosed children. And then, in spite of her best intentions, she discovered she was human. She fell in love.

Do you know how she is expressing that love? By not having an affair with the man. She insists that always before, sex has meant a casual, nothing kind of relationship. She wants this one to last. Strangely enough, the man agrees. So they are going together for six months — nothing but "proper" dates. At the end of that time, if they still feel the same, they'll marry.

So fine — it's like the good old days, except for one thing. These two are liberated. When free people deliberately repress themselves, isn't it kind of unnatural, or something? — CAN'T FIGURE THEM OUT

DEAR CFTO:

No. I think it's kind of romantic —a different way of "proving their love."

It's a topsy turvy world we're living in, yes? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

We've been married two years, and for more than a year now, my husband has lived with me only on weekends. During the week, he stays with his mother.

I live with my folks, but they never bother us, while his mother and family won't accept me. He says he'll live with me all the time if we get an apartment by ourselves, but he's never tried to find one. We both work, so it isn't money problems, though it is cheaper living home.

I love him, but I'd like a full time husband. What can Ido? — N. H.

DEAR N:

Go apartment hunting. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

We are two high school teachers concerned about the validity of movie ratings. The grading is all right, but meaningless, when theater people close their eyes and allow very young children into M and R films. If they can check on ages when it comes to paying adult or student prices, why not on ratings too? Or do they use those initials as a lure to attract bigger audiences? We've seen 16-year-olds and younger getting into X-rated films. — J & D

DEAR J AND D:

Let's let theater owners or managers answer your question. How about it — are ratings meaningless, you readers out there? — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

U.S.D.A. findings show that beef, pork, lamb, veal, poultry, fish and eggs contribute over 40 per cent of the protein in the national diet. Beef ranked highest in consumption, followed by pork. The meat group supplied about one-third of the total iron consumed. Liver supplied 11½ per cent of the total vitamin A intake and pork provided 14 per cent of the total thiamin in the diet.

SMART SHOPPER

'Tattletale Gray' Replacing 'Whiter Than White' Laundry

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — Some dramatic changes are taking place in the washday miracle business. And the consumer has much to gain from them.

In the first place, the number of miracles has dropped faster than suds down the drain. Phosphates, the ingredients which manufacturers claim are the most important for detergent washing ability, are being reduced in many products to help reduce pollutants in rivers and lakes.

Enzymes, those friendly and famous little consumers of chocolate and blood stains, are being phased out as potential health hazards and skin irritants. Yet only a few months ago, an axiom of the detergent biz was that enzymes were next to godliness in getting stubborn stains out of clothes.

THE NEXT thing to go — and is already going in many home laundry rooms — is the concept that clothes must be always pure white in order to be clean. This, of course, is not true. But millions of home launderers have been brainwashed into believing that it is.

In fact, if you are one of those who want to fight pollution as well as dirty clothes, you face the necessity of cutting down on phosphates, the principal cleansing agent of detergents because of their water softening ability and stain removal capacity.

One way to do this is to buy low-phosphate detergents or switch to soap if you are in a soft-water area. If you are in a medium or hard water area, you still might be able to use lower-phosphate detergents than you now use without sacrificing washing ability.

The only way to tell if you can use lower-phosphate detergents is to try them and see if they do an acceptable job. There is one side effect, however. That is the likelihood that too little phosphate will leave the water with high alkaline content, which tends to abrade fabrics and reduce their life.

ANOTHER STEP is to cut down the amount of your present detergent per load. If you cut too much, it could have the same side effect noted above. But it could also save quite a bit of money on detergent purchases.

At least one expert on detergents, Ronald Ostrander, a chemical engineer for Proctor and Gamble, told a House Committee that good laundry results could be obtained with one-quarter or one-eighth of a cup of Tide instead of the recommended 1¼ to 1½ cups.

CARDIN'S JERSEY OVERALLS

Paris couturier Pierre Cardin has chosen jersey overalls for men as the central motif for his collection, unveiled Monday. At left two models wear the jersey with short leather boots as Cardin's idea of the replacement for the traditional suit. At right, the jersey is teamed with knee-high boots and worn under an Abominable Snowman-like fur coat.

Serving all of Clover Country — NEWS FLASH! — Spring 1971

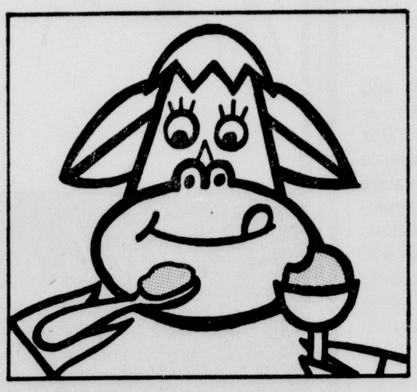
SECRET FOUND IN GRANDMOO'S SEWING BOX

"My new ice cream is just like Grandmoo used to make," says dairy industry celebrity.

Something old was announced to Redwood Empire ice cream lovers when Clo, famous spokes-cow for Clover Brand, introduced her new Clover Country Ice Cream.

"The recipe was Grandmoo's secret for many years," Clo said. "We found it in her sewing box, hidden among the thimbles and vanilla beans."

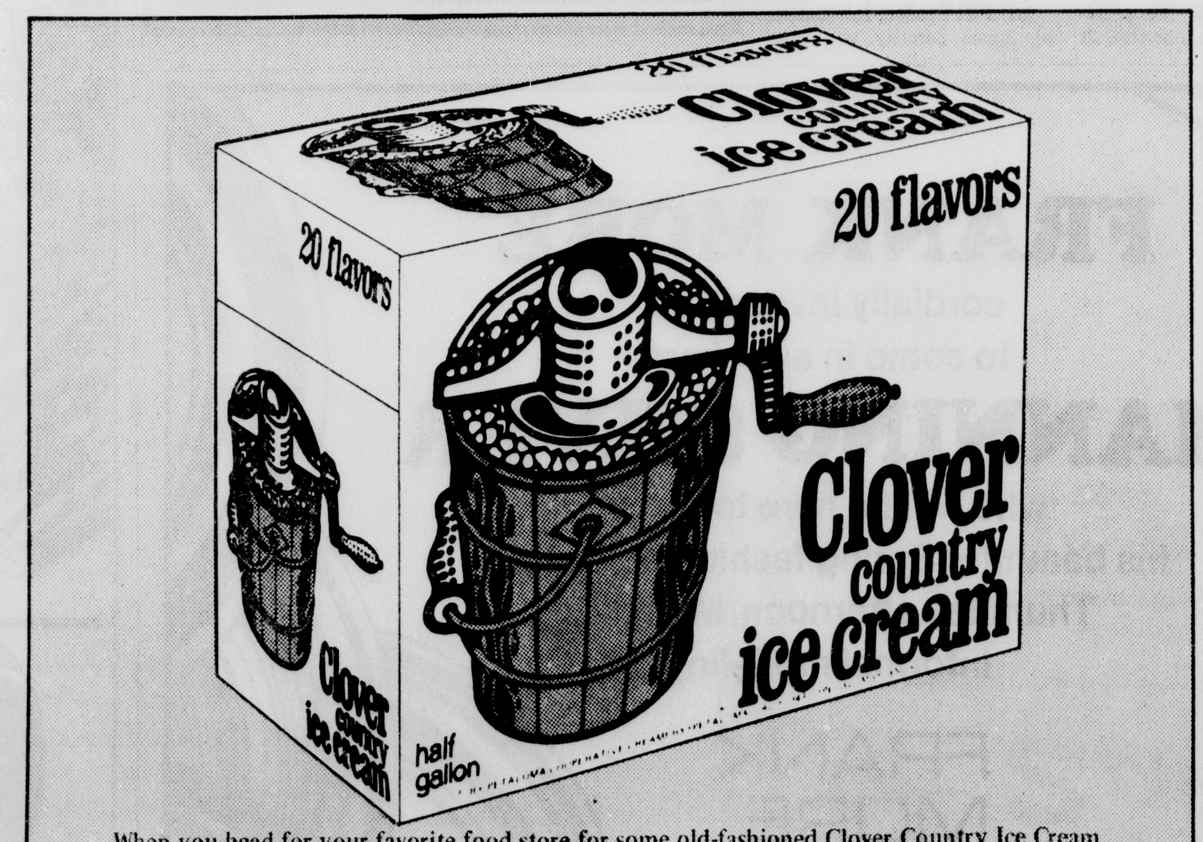
"And now, Clover Brand brings back this old-fashioned country ice cream for everyone in Clover Country to enjoy," she explained. "Its creamy smoothness and country-fresh taste take you right back to the joys of childhood."



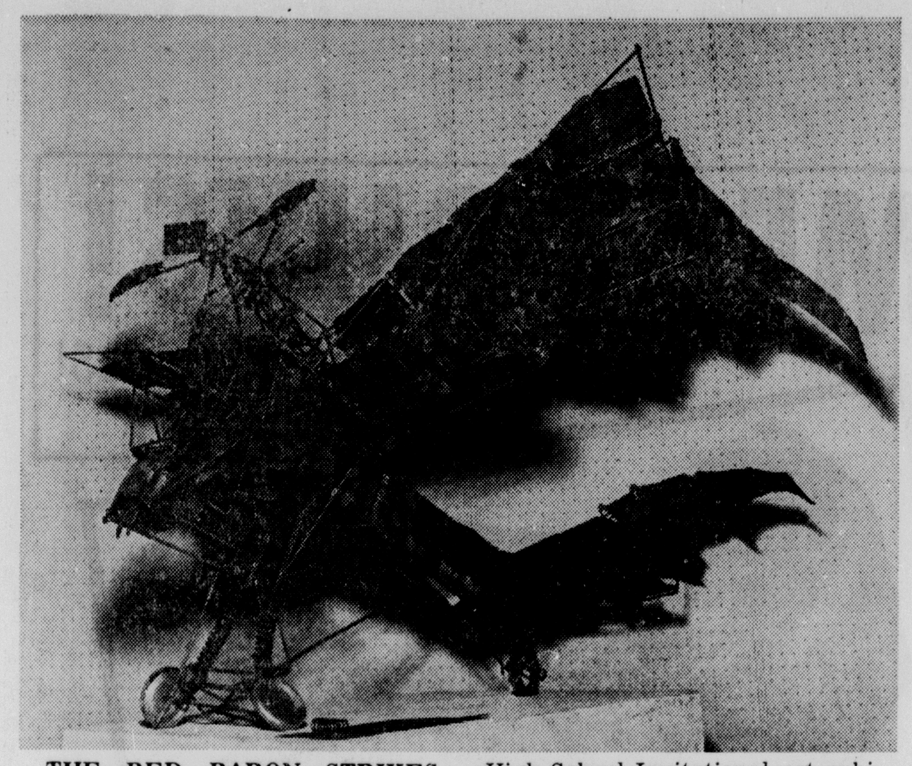
Clo paused thoughtfully, then suddenly ambled off, mooing happily. "Hey, Clo," this reporter yelled, "Where you heading?"

"To the nearest store for some of that delicious, ever-lovin' Clover Country Ice Cream," she called, breaking into a full gallop.

"Wait for us," we muttered, strapping on our roller skates.



When you head for your favorite food store for some old-fashioned Clover Country Ice Cream, here's the brand new, zip-open carton to look for. It's as different as the ice cream inside it.



THE RED BARON STRIKES BACK — This whimsical welded sculpture won an honorable mention for Anorzis Makaruk in the High School Invitational art exhibit at the Marin Society of Artists' gallery in Ross.

HIGH SCHOOL ART SHOW — Students from Marin high schools including Arna Segerquist whose abstract painting won an honorable mention, are currently participating in a show of all media arts and crafts at the Marin Society of Artists' galley in Ross.

Only $1,000 From Edinburgh Goal

The drama department at the College of Marin needs only $1,000 more to pay air fare for 35 students and faculty to Scotland's Edinburgh Arts Festival this summer.

James C. Dunn, head of the department, said yesterday the students already have raised $13,000 and are continuing efforts to raise the remainder.

Of the amount received so far, he said, $5,000 came from the Okes Foundation in San Francisco, $3,000 from a student-sponsored art auction in February, $3,000 from the college's student government and the remainder from individual donations.

He said plans for raising the last $1,000 include canvassing businesses for donations and a benefit performance of the next college production, "Cabaret."

The college was asked to perform at the Edinburgh festival because of its unusual production of Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew."

The production, directed by Dunn, was staged in an Old West setting and played to sellout crowds at the college.

Dunn said yesterday at least one performance of the play will be staged in Marin before the company leaves for Scotland in August.

Laser Beam Art Lecture Slated

A lecture and demonstration of laser beam art will be given at 8 p.m. tomorrow in Darwin Hall at Sonoma State College.

Dr. Elsa Garmire, a laser physicist and research fellow in electrical engineering at California Institute of Technology, is a founder of a group known as "Experients in Art and Technology." She has worked with the intense light as a new art form and acted as a consultant on laser beams for the hemispherical Mirror Pavillion at EXPO '70 in Osaka, Japan.

ART REVIEW

Show For High School Artists

By LAURA DEVENDORF

Some artists consider even sidewalk drawing art, and a growing number seem to feel that showing in professional galleries and museums and contending for prizes doesn't matter. But not the artists on display through March 21 at the Ross Art and Garden Center.

These are students selected by the Marin Society of Artists for its High School Invitational Exhibition at the center.

For most participants, this is their first time out in a professional gallery and they have met the occasion with earned enthusiasm. According to Henri Boussy who has the dual role of Tamalpais High School art instructor and of exhibit coordinator for the society, getting in just wasn't that easy.

"Invitations with tight quotas were issued to the art departments of all Marin public high schools. Each school, for example, was allowed only six paintings or graphics. So at Tam with three instructors, each of us could only select two. It was very difficult and some of the kids were disappointed."

Of the final 220 pieces included in the show from Tamalpais, Drake, Terra Linda, San Andreas, San Marin and San Rafael high schools, 10 received $10 awards from the Sylvia Ludens memorial fund, and four were given honorable mentions by jurors Farhad Moezzi, Martin Stoelzel and Alton Raible.

Raible's impression has since been echoed by many, "It's a good show with some elegant things in crafts.I was particularly pleased with the craftsmanship in this area, much of it equal to college ability."

This is strongly a ceramics show with three awards and two honorable mentions going to this category. And except for Phil Tobin of San Andreas, all these awards were taken by Terra Linda students.

As Boussy sees it, this is probably caused by "the enthusiasm and energy of a particular department and instructor." It's more a matter of emphasis than that one school has an advantage over another.

"As to program," Boussy adds, "they are all comparable. All offer a full arts program plus ceramics, art metal and jewelry, sculpture, crafts and some graphics. As a county, we're remarkably rich in art experience."

The invitational reflects this variety with awards, for example, going to everything from a richly woven tapestry, to a surrealistic oil, to a welded airplane.

As sponsor, the art society is enthusiastic about the show which was initiated last year as a means of satisfying their community service obligation. And as one member remarked, this year's edition has "a freshness and vitality that is superior to many of the shows the society itself has offered."

The winners and their parents are delighted with the recognition. One parent who is now a professional artist recalls when she herself won a $3 art award in junior high and regards her child's accolade as something of an omen.

If anyone is disgrunted it is for the same reasons found in any professional juried show. "The students," Boussy reports, "take exception to some of the awards. Students are inclined to be more conservative while the judge is more apt to be radical or avant garde."

Otherwise, most of them are impressed. "Gee, man, I didn't know the other schools were doing such good stuff!" was one overheard remark. Well, with a world bulging with hopeful artists, few of whom will survive, a show like this is a mild introduction to that reality.

Those who survived its screening have reason to be proud. And those who won have even better reason to relish that heady taste of the ultimate in survival — success.

Winners were:

Painting: Rob Springett and David Seagale, both Sir Francis Drake High School; honorable mention to Arna Segerquist, Terra Linda High. Drawing: Diane Gower of Tamalpais High. Tapestry: Nancy Byrd, Terra Linda. Art metal: Bill Harrington, Tamalpais High.

Sculpture: Ronald Aguila and Gary Williams, both Terra Linda; honorable mention to Anorzis Majaruk, also Terra Linda. Ceramics: Debbie Gerhke, Jeff Hamlin and Jonathan Braun, all Terra Linda; honorable mentions to Zack Miller, Terra Linda and Phil Tobin, San Andreas.

Larkspur Council Delays Action on Schultz Sign

The Larkspur City Council last night took a look at a compromise proposal by developer Niels J. Schultz to put up a smaller version of the city's last billboard, but took no action.

Instead of the approximately 600-foot square sign at 2062 Redwood Highway advertising and pointing the direction to Schultz's Bon Air apartments, Schultz proposed a sign about one-third as large, giving directions to Greenbrae, Bon Air and possibly Larkspur.

The councilmen agreed that there is a dearth of highway signs marking exits to Larkspur and none for Greenbrae and Bon Air, but did not agree on which markings were most needed.

Councilman Neil Brixon finally said, "Let's get that big sign down and put up some sign less objectionable to residents."

It was decided, however, to postpone decision on the matter until at least the April 7 meeting because city officials plan to meet in the meantime with state Division of Highways representatives to discuss directional signs for the area.

In other action last night, the council denied an appeal by J. B. Ketring for a sideyard variance for a deck at his home at 909 Marina Vista.

Police Relations On Board Agenda

The Marin Junior College District board, meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the College of Marin's Olney Hall, will be asked to grant college credit for a police-community relations program.

Sponsored by the Marin County Police-Community Relations Department, the program is made up of a series of speakers talking on community problems.

The board, in the past, has turned down similar proposals that the program be granted college credit. The board has maintained the college already has such a program.

The board also will consider working drawings for demolition of the old science and communications buildings located on the proposed library site.

Low-Cost Housing Discussion Tonight

A proposal to build federally assisted housing in Marin City will be discussed by the Marin County Housing Authority board at 7:30 p.m. today in the Manzanita Center, Marin City.

The proposal, which would provide low-cost housing under several federal programs, is from the Marin Urban Development Association, a group of Marin City residents seeking exclusive development rights in Marin City.

Red Cross Gets Donation Boost

Donations to the American Red Cross are running about 10 per cent ahead of those of last year, according to Emanuel Franzel of Belvedere, chairman of the Marin chapter.

Yesterday, the half-way point of the drive for $33,000 needed this year for the Marin Chapter, 1,960 donors have given a total of $14,922.

The funds will support such programs as the first aid and swimming instructions, but will also be used to help replenish the national disaster fund which was depleted by the Southern California earthquake and just recently the disasters caused by the tornadoes along the Mississippi Delta, Franzel said.

Young Potters Display Wares

Ceramics produced by young potters of the Sunrise Art Guild are on display at the Fairfax Library, 47 Broadway.

Librarian Emily Shortell said the exhibit will continue through March 31.

Tom Rinker, Seth Seiderman and Edward Trumble, all students at Sir Francis Drake High School, have arranged 25 pieces of pottery, including vases, bowls, teapots, cups, casseroles and a pitcher.

FIRST STEP FOR SCHOOL PURCHASE

Hub Council Forms Panel To Check Cook School For City Headquarters

By LARRY MOWELL

The San Anselmo City Council took a tentative step last night toward buying Isabel Cook School for a city hall and fire headquarters.

The council, meeting with the San Anselmo School District board, formed a committee to find out if the purchase is feasible. Councilman Kenneth L. Anderson was selected to head and choose the committee.

The council has been eyeing the site for more than a year to house its crowded departments. Meanwhile, the school district, eager to dispose of the 43-year-old school has been postponing decisions on moving the school's students until the council decides, according to director Basil H. Scalarbrini.

Until the council moved last night at the prodding of the school board, two other possibilities also had been considered. The first was to build on the creekside parking lot at the Hub; the second was to add to the present city hall after buying adjoining property.

To buy the Isabel Cook School site and build a facility for displaced students would require a joint bond issue, probably about $2 million, Mayor James F. Reed predicted.

He doubted voters would pass it and Councilman Warren R. Perry pointed out that voters in November would not even buy a fire engine "which is peanuts compared to this."

Nevertheless, Reed said, "we have to get out of this facility (city hall.) We have almost hopelessly substandard facilities in both police and fire departments."

If the school is purchased, the fire department could be housed in the present multipurpose building, Scalabrini said. The police department would expand into vacated offices of the present city hall when all other city departments move to the school, he said.

Councilman Woodrow V. Capurro opposed the site. He said the cost of remodeling would be great and objected to separating city services, moving from the center of town and feeding fire trucks directly onto busy Sir Francis Drake Boulevard. However, he voted for the study with the other four councilman.

Councilman Lewis W. Stewart said, "It could be the most economical thing the city has ever done to meet a pressing need."

The sale would also meet a pressing need of the school district. District Supt. W. Kenneth Lowry said after the meeting the site is bad for a school because of traffic and noise on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard. In addition, he said, the school, built in 1927, is inflexible for modern instruction and has hazardous stairs and stairwells.

The 421 displaced students would be taught in an addition that would be built to an existing school, Lowry said.

Boy Bit, Rabies Feared

The father of 6-year-old Bobby Bethke of Sausalito has appealed to the owner of a dog that bit his son last week to come foreward to spare the boy the painful rabies treatment.

Robert Bethke, of 6 Princess Lane, Apt. 4, said his son was bitten on the leg Thursday at 5 p.m. in front of the Village Fair on Bridgeway.

Young Bethke described the dog as small with long, reddish-brown hair, his father said. Its owner was a young girl with long, brown hair, wearing blue jeans, a cape or poncho and boots, carrying a leather purse.

Bethke said the girl knew her dog bit Bobby because she spanked her pet.

He asked the girl to call him and tell him whether the dog has died or is ill. If so, rabies are possible and Bobby will have to undergo the painful 14-shot Pasteur treatment.

If the dog is not found, Bethke said, Bobby's shots will begin tomorrow.

Youth Injured In Cycle Crash

An 18-year-old San Anselmo youth was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital with injuries sustained yesterday when his motorcycle collided with a car in San Anselmo.

The hospital said Larry Gillespie of 837 San Anselmo Avenue was admitted with broken ankles and a fractured vertebra.

Police officers said today he was southbound on San Anselmo Avenue when an auto, driven by Wolfe Albert Mayer of 117 Sequoia Drive, San Anselmo, pulled in front of him at the Belle Avenue intersection.

Mayer told officers he was leaving a parking space and did not see Gillespie coming.

Summer School Plan Opposed

The superintendent of the San Anselmo School District disclosed last night that he opposes a district-sponsored summer school program.

"Observing the present fiscal condition of the district and the previous recommendations of the district's teachers, I cannot recommend that the district operate a summer school program for 1971," Supt. W. Kenneth Lowry said in a memorandum to the school board prepared for a joint meeting with the city council.

Since the alternative would require the city alone to provide recreational services during the summer to school children from the adjoining unincorporated area of Sleepy Hollow, the school board asked the city council to let the board pay the city's nonresident recreation fee. The council agreed in concept, provided the payments are fair to the taxpayers of San Anselmo.

Instead of a district-sponsored summer school, Lowry suggested a private educational program run by parents and financed by fees. It would be similar to a self-sustaining program operated in the Kentfield School district for the past two years, Lowry siad.

The district would save approximately $6,500 by underwriting the Kentfield-type program, Lowry said, but would pay $2,000 to $2,500 from its community services funds to pay for the recreation of Sleepy Hollow children.

Lowry said the money would pay the differences between the fee charged each child and the cost to the city of a program.

Councilmen, still licking their wounds from the defeat of a proposed police services district for unincorporated areas, feared city taxpayers would be subsidizing the recreation of Sleepy Hollow youngsters, since 80 per cent of the community services fund is supplied from San Anselmo.

"I don't see how the council should decide how we should spend the money we receive," said Basil H. Scalabrini of the school board.

However, director Eugene E. Jacks — acknowledging the intensity of the tax equity dispute between San Anselmo and Sleepy Hollow — said some equitable means of financing could be worked out.

During the meeting, the city council also approved an amendment to a contract for mutual use of recreation facilities and referred to the parks and recreation commission proposed improvements to the playground at Isabel Cook School.

The amendment, already approved by the school board, would allow one agency to build recreation facilities on the property of the other.

The school district, which also had been scheduled to hold its regular meeting last night at Red Hill School, adjourned to Thursday at 8 p.m. to take up unfinished business.

Classes Set On Listening

Lothar Salin, San Rafael printer and advertiser, has scheduled classes in West and Central Marin designed to develop effective listening habits and communicating techniques for use in both business and personal situations.

In San Anselmo, classes will be held at 7:30 p.m. beginning March 30 at Red Hill School. In West Marin, classes will begin at 7:30 p.m. March 31 at the West Marin Elementary School, Point Reyes Station.

For further information, interested persons may call the College of Marin Community Education Center.

Despite 'No Vacancy' Signs, Teacher Applicants Flock In

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Marin school districts are receiving record numbers of applications for teaching jobs at the same time many of them are reducing staffs.

There is such a surfeit of applicants for teaching jobs that Kentfield School District stopped accepting applications three weeks ago, reported Supt. Anthony G. Bacich. Novato Unified School District has been discouraging those who write in for application forms, telling them there is no likelihood of jobs, according to Supt. James G. Bunker.

Yet there are more than 500 applications on file in Kentfield and about 1,000 — all new this year — in Novato. And the major flood of applications generally starts about this time and continues through April.

The Kentfield and Novato districts are by no means unique. Kenneth Lowry, superintendent of San Anselmo School District, reported applications there are running at least one-third greater than in previous years. Supt. Milton S. Cohen reported more than 1,000 applications have been received already by Larkspur district.

Supt. Clifford Campbell said Dixie district has about 700 applications already on file. Two-school Lagunitas School District already has 140 applications for teaching jobs for next fall, six more than the total received all last spring, reported Supt. Joseph Amato. Supt. James A. Collins in Mill Valley said applications are running considerably heavier than in the past.

None of these districts, however, has any jobs to offer — other than to fill a few vacancies left by resignations. And most of them expect very few to resign, since changing districts is far from easy this year.

Rather than adding jobs, some elementary school districts will be eliminating some, because of lower enrollment.

County Schools Supt. Virgil S. Hollis predicts a decline of about 1,000 in over-all Marin public school enrollment next term. Enrollment this year — roughly 52,000 — is down about 300 from last year, which in turn declined about 800 from the 1968-69 school year.

The declining enrollment is one reason some districts plan to reduce teaching staffs. Another reason is probable loss of state or federal funds for such special programs as remedial reading instruction and counseling.

The Larkspur district, expecting enrollment to drop by 65 after a decline of 75 this year, plans to reduce its teaching staff by five. Mill Valley district, which expects enrollment to hold close to the present 3,563, has notified 10 teachers hired last year that they may not be re-employed.

Dixie, which cut staff for the current year, plans no further reduction for next year as attendance is expected to remain at about the present 4,640. Kentfield expects its enrollment to drop from 1,360 to 1,300 and will eliminate three teaching jobs. Lagunitas plans to keep the same number of teachers although expecting about 20 fewer pupils.

Reed district, predicting an enrollment decline of 40, "may cut two or more teachers," according to acting Supt. Lester Dunn. San Anselmo, with pupil count expected to go down by 50, may eliminate six special teachers.

Biggest drop, and biggest cut, are in prospect in Sausalito — which, unlike other districts, has not received "a lot of applications," according to Supt. Lawrence A. Lindberg.

With enrollment expected to fall from the present 570 to 518 next fall, the Sausalito district plans to eliminate eight classroom teaching positions and nine jobs in the district office, Lindberg said.

The enrollment decline has not yet hit the high schools. But in Novato Unified district, there will be three or four fewer teachers next year through eliminating six or seven in the elementary schools, adding three in junior highs, and keeping high school staffs unchanged, reported Superintendent Bunker.

San Rafael city schools will have about the same number of teachers next year as this, with about the same total enrollment of 8,900, predicted Jerald Gill, personnel director. A slight drop in the elementary schools will be balanced by a slight increase at the high schools, he said.

Only three districts expect greater enrollment next year: Tamalpais High, Shoreline Unified and Marin Junior College.

Supt. John A. Grasham said a 6 per cent enrollment increase is expected at the college and some teachers will be added.

Supt. Charles E. McCully at Shoreline, where a slight increase is forecast, said he is receiving up to 20 job applications per day, but expects to have only two jobs to fill — those of teachers planning to quit at year's end. Supt. Wilber D. Hawkins plans to reduce the administrative staff in Tamalpais High School District by four, but will at least balance that by additions to the teaching staff because of a predicted enrollment gain of 360.

Novato's Dollar Days Set To Go

Downtown Novato retail merchants will offer three days of sales during spring dollar days starting tomorrow.

About 30 to 35 stores, offering a wide variety of merchandise, will participate in the sales event Thursday, Friday and Saturday, according to Billie Garl, secretary of the Novato Chamber of Commerce.

Stores will be open Friday night until 9 o'clock. Spring dollar days are one of the eight business promotional events sponsored by the retail committee of the chamber this year.

A banner announcing the sales days flies over Grant Avenue near Highway 101 and participating merchants are expected to fly banners in shop windows.

Portable Classroom Firm Sued

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A civil suit charging fraud was filed in Superior Court Tuesday against a Santa Rosa firm that supplies many Marin County School districts with portable classrooms.

The Speedspace Corporation, one of four firms indicted last November by a Federal Grand Jury on anti-trust charges, was sued Tuesday for more than $1 million by Atlantis Electric, Inc., of San Francisco in a contract dispute.

The suit charged that Speedspace fraudulently represented that it would hire the electrical firm as a subcontractor for $1,500,000 worth of work in 1969 and then failed to carry out the promise.

Pleads Innocent To Drug Count

Roger Blair Griffith, 22, of San Rafael, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to charges of possessing hashish and offering to sell marijuana and opium.

A preliminary hearing was set for next Tuesday.

Griffith was arrested last Wednesday after a San Anselmo man told police that he picked up Griffith, who was hitchhiking, and that Griffith offered to sell him the drugs.

Car Hits Tree, Driver Injured

A 39-year-old San Anselmo man was treated today at Marin General Hospital for cuts above the right eye and on the ear sustained in a San Anselmo auto accident.

Officers said Marcel Cassou of 230 Brookside Drive, was traveling west on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard when his auto struck a tree at Cordone Drive. No cause was listed for the 1 a.m. accident.

Auto Stereos Reported Stolen

Two tape stereos have been reported stolen from autos parked at 10 Skylark Drive, Larkspur, police said yesterday.

Officers said Dicie Jane Gates of apartment 75 reported Saturday a tape stereo and tapes valued at $139 missing from her auto.

Earlier, Sheldon Andrews of apartment 69 reported a similar theft from his auto parked at the building.

Fewer Reed Students; Staff Same

The Reed School District will have approximately 60 fewer students next school year but that won't mean a reduction in staff, Acting Supt. Lester Dunn told the district board last night

Dunn said the enrollment drop from the current total of about 2,000 would mean two less classrooms in use

Chairman Gordon C Wright said he hoped the two extra teachers would be used throughout the district to help in the teaching program.

Dunn's disclosure came as the board reviewed its $2,425,377 preliminary budget for next fiscal year.

Although the board took no action on the budget, Trustee Kenneth C Wells questioned the proposed increase in maintenance to $31,440, up from $16,639 two years ago.

Dunn said it was due to an increase in vandalism and a resulting boost in insurance. The insurance will increase from $13,500 this year to about $20,000 next year, Dunn said.

On a question from the audience, Dunn said that the district now has an assessed valuation of $55 million, but that it should go to $59 million next fiscal year.

Although the preliminary budget for next year is $115,091 more than this year's budget, Dunn said it should not require an increase in the current tax rate of $2.28 per $100 of assessed valuation.

The Reed School District Board also:

COMMITTEE — Appointed Betsy Leth to the district's facilities and transportation committee.

PORTABLES — Authorized Dunn to see if the district can cancel its lease on three portable classrooms which now cost the district $6,835 per year. It now has sufficient classrooms without these, Dunn said.

LANDSCAPE Hired the landscape architectural firm of Theodore Osmundson and Associates of San Francisco for $2,000 to design the initial stage of landscaping for the new Reedlands Wood School. Dorothy Groo, chairman of the facilities and transportation committee, reported on work to be done.

SPEAKERS Asked for a demonstration of a speaker system from Harry Kowamato of Los Angeles for use at board meetings. Kowamato has offered to sell the system to the district for $600. Audience members have complained in the past about an inability to hear speakers.

REORGANIZATION — Asked for a volunteer to serve as an alternate delegate to the Tamalpais High School District Reorganization Committee.

CLOSED Went into a closed meeting at 10:30 p.m. to discuss hiring an interim superintendent, but adjourned at 11 p.m. taking no action.

Trustees Want To Know Possible Bike Path Use

Trustees of the Reed School District last night approved surveying district students to determine how many would use a bicycle-pedestrian path proposed along the old Northwestern Pacific Railroad right-of-way.

Trustees said they would use the results to try to convince the state Division of Highways to install street lights for safety reasons at points where the railroad right-of-way crosses Tiburon Boulevard, a state highway.

The City of Tiburon has proposed building the path. It obtained the right-of-way from the railroad last year.

The city has asked the school-district to contribute to the cost of building the paved path, although Trustee Chairman Gordon C. Wright said last night he thought school money could be spent only in areas where the path would be contiguous to school property.

Airline Reports January Losses

LOS ANGELES (BW) — Western Airlines has reported a January loss of $322,000, reduced from a loss of $637,000 for January of last year.

January operating revenues increased 7.1 per cent to $25,137,000.

Man Kills Boy For His Prank

CINCINNATI (UPI)—A 16-year-old boy was fatally beaten with a wooden stake after he walked on the newly seeded lawn of a neighbor, police said.

John Rothan, a student at Western Hills High School, died about seven hours after he was admitted to St. George Hospital Tuesday.

Police were questioning Joseph W. Evans, 26, who told them the boy and several of his friends deliberately walked on his new lawn and pulled up one of the stakes he had put around the perimeter to protect the grass.

Stock Exchange Chief Resigns After Dissent

NEW YORK (UPI)—Ralph S. Saul, president of the American Stock Exchange since 1966, resigned from the post Tuesday for "personal reasons." He will join First Boston Corp., an investment banking firm.

American board chairman Frank C. Graham Jr., who announced the resignation, said it was accepted with reluctance. The board will set the date for the resignation to assure reasonable time to name a successor.

Saul, 48, served with the Securities and Exchange Commission for seven years before becoming president of the nation's second largest stock exchange. He was a one time assistant counsel to Gov. Averell Harriman in the 1950s.

In recent months, Saul disagreed with leaders of the larger New York Stock Exchange on the issue of letting mutual funds, insurance companies and other large trading institutions have their own seats on the exchanges. The New York Stock Exchange favored letting them in, while Saul was opposed.

Saul also opposed plans to substitute a system of negotiated fees for the traditional commission structure used by both exchanges in the buying and selling of stocks.

Final Days Set On Rail Station

Tomorrow is the last day objections to closing of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad station in San Rafael may be filed with the state Public Utilities Commission.

If no appeal received, the railroad's application to close will be routinely approved without a public hearing.

A commission spokesman said yesterday a hearing would be held only if protests are received from the City of San Rafael or from persons "who regularly use" the station.

The railroad has moved ticket sales and other operations formerly handled at the station to Petaluma.

Teacher Group Asserts Wrong Information Given

Reed School District Teachers Association said last night the Independent-Journal had been furnished misleading information for an article on March 11 stating that an agreement on resolving disputes between the district board and teachers was near.

Martin Magid, association president, told the board "that once again information supplied to the press by the Reed District office has appeared in the paper as misleading and inaccurate."

Board Chairman Gordon C. Wright said that he had hoped that procedures aimed at resolving disagreements between the two parties would have been approved last night. However, he said, Acting Supt. Lester Dunn was sick last week and County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney, who was to have helped work out the procedures, was unavailable.

The procedures, discussed at a meeting between the board and teachers last Wednesday night, also would be aimed at settling the current teacher contract impasse. Wright had told the I-J after that meeting that an agreement on the procedures was near and that discussions might be wrapped up at last night's meeting.

Another meeting with the teachers was set for 8 p.m. next Wednesday at Bel Aire School.

Ferronickel Output Begins In Caledonia

OAKLAND (BW) — Start up of ferronick production from electric furnace no. 10 at Doniambo in Caledonia — the second large furnace to be brought on steam this year — has been announced by Societe Le Nickel and Kaiser Nickel.

The new 33,000 KW rectangular furnace brings to four the number of furnaces producing nickel contained in ferronickel put into production at Doniambo during the last three years.

Stolen Car

Petaluma police reported that a car owned by Pebble M. Fender, 163 Webster Street, was stolen last night. The white 1963 Rambler had license plates ENG 659.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

New Health Care Legislation Due

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation is being prepared to insure every Californian against the kind of long term illness that can ruin a person financially.

A working man would pay a small, almost token monthly premium and be protected against "catastrophic" medical expenses for long-term hospitalization or extensive surgery.

The far-reaching proposal—expected to be opposed by insurance companies—will be introduced by Assemblyman William Campebell, R-Hacienda Heights.

He also is the author of Gov. Ronald Reagan's Medi-Cal "reform" bill, but plans to push his own catastrophic insurance program separately.

"Only two kinds of people can afford to get sick today—the Medi-Cal recipient and the extremely wealthy," Campbell said in an interview.

"What I want to do is give the working guy a piece of the action. He now pays for all the Medi-Cal and welfare and gets nothing in return."

Medi-Cal provides free health care for 2.4 million low-income Californians. It and welfare combined cost taxpayers $3.5 billion annually.

As now envisioned by Campbell, his legislation would require every employed Californian to pay a $1 monthly premium into a new state-operated catastrophic insurance program. Employers would match that with another $1.

Nonemployeees such as shop owners or pensioners—could buy into the insurance program on a volunteer basis for $2 monthly.

Rich and poor would pay the same premium under the legislation as tentatively drafted. But Campbell said he may still decide to base the premium on percentage of income.

His plan would not replace the basic private insurance program which covers relatively minor day-to-day costs of short-term hospitalization, doctor visits or drugs.

A person would become eligible under the new state program only after benefits ran out under his private basic plan.

For instance coverage might begin, Campbell said, after 75-to-100 days of hospitalization, $2,000 in surgical fees, $200 in outpatient drug costs, $1,000 in laboratory fees or $500 in physical therapy.

Campbell, a 35-year-old former school executive, said he expects to draw opposition from insurance companies because his program "would probably do away with private major-medical coverage." He also anticipates the fire of some conservatives who might fear a government insurance program. But Campbell said he regards himself as a conservative.

HIRING

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan said Tuesday that he would not tolerate discriminatory practices in the hiring of state workers.

Reagan made the comment after an official of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People said state government hiring policies were "subtly discriminatory."

The governor told his weekly news conference:

"I won't tolerate it at any level of our government. And if we find it going on, believe me, those responsible will either straighten up and fly right or they will be ousted."

HOME TAX

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —The property tax on homes occupied by their owners would be eliminated under a $2 billion tax revision proposal being sponsored by California's Democrats.

The program would provide $1 billion in direct property tax relief for owner-occupied homes. It also would include a reduction in taxes for enters and business inventories.

Details of the program are scheduled to be announced publicly on Thursday.

BENEFITS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A string of bills revising the state's workmen's compensation program has been introduced with the sponsor saying inflation has cut buying power of current disability payments.

Chairman Willie L. Brown Jr. of the Assembly Ways & Means Committee proposed the legislation Tuesday for the California Labor Federation, AFL-CIO.

The measures would:

—Increase maximum weekly permanent disability benefits from $52 to $100 per week and provide life pensions for those with disabilities of 70 per cent or more.

—Increase maximum weekly temporary disability benefits from $87 to $150.

—Require mandatory rehabilitation programs for injured workers.

—Extend coverage to domestic service.

—And require labor representation on the Workmen's Compensation Appeals Board.

ANTISMOG

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The major proposals of Gov. Ronald Reagan's antismog program—including stiffer exhaust emission controls—was before the Legislature today.

The proposals in the form of bills were introduced Tuesday with one requiring 1966-70 model cars to be equipped with devices to control oxides of nitrogen. It was authored by Sen. H. L. Richardson, R-Arcadia.

The oxides are the pollutants causing the brownish-orange element in photochemical smog. Currently, emission devices need only to filter out hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide from exhaust.

OIL CRITIC

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan is accused of "protecting oil interests" by keeping the Legislature from acting at once on a bill tightening the oil depletion allowance.

The charge came from Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, R-Van Nuys, who said Tuesday that the bill needed a letter of authorization from Reagan before it could be considered by the full Assembly ahead of the budget.

Moretti said the measure by Assemblyman John L. Burton, D-San Francisco, would raise an estimated $26 million by limiting the oil depletion allowance to the actual cost of development of a well.

Currently oil companies are allowed a 27 1-2 per cent depletion allowance on all wells every year before they begin paying any other taxes.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Heart Is Susceptible To Many Abuses; Heart Diseases Result

There are many different forms of heart disease because the old ticker is susceptible to a variety of abuses. In addition, the organ deteriorates with age and is subject to injury from a blow to the chest or penetrating wound. We can further subdivide cardiac conditions into disorders involving the valves, muscles, and coronary arteries, etc. Arterio sclerosis, a major offender, indirectly affects the pumping apparatus by narrowing the coronary arteries. These channels literally feed the heart muscle because the blood on the inside of the heart goes in one end and out the other.

ONCE THE HARDENING process develops, the changes may be permanent, but all is not lost. New passageways may open up to bypass obstructions or provide new channels to nourish the starving heart muscle. Several operations also improve the coronary blood flow.

High blood pressure is another origin of cardiac disease. Constant arterial resistance overtaxes the old pump and, to compensate, the heart enlarges. In addition, hypertension encourages hardening of the arteries which, in turn, adds to the resistance and impairs the coronary circulation.

BRONCHIAL ASTHMA, chronic bronchitis, and emphysema also create a strain on the heart. In these situations the right ventricle is forced to pump blood into scarred lung tissue. As a rule, these lung conditions exist for years before signs of heart trouble occur.

Cardiac infections usually strike at an earlier age and the most notorious culprit is rheumatic fever. Although the entire heart may be involved, the valves are favored. But not everyone who has had rheumatic fever is left with leakage. Those with marked scarring can have the damaged valves replaced with artificial appliances.

Rheumatic fever is on the wane thanks to the prophylactic effect of antibiotics. Syphilitic heart disease has almost disappeared. Congenital defects continue to occur but with the new German measles vaccine these conditions will become less prevalent.

MOBILES OVER CRIB

F. L. W. writes: Mobiles suspended over the baby's crib or buggy are for mothers, not for baby. The mother should try it on herself. Try to lie on your back and stare at moving objects, such as butterflies or birds, and you will soon be a nervous wreck. What do you say about this, doctor?

REPLY

Following the movement of these mobiles is one way in which the baby's eyes are strengthened. An infant is not sophisticated enough to become a nervous wreck.

TRIGGER FINGER

T. G. writes: My doctor wants to give me injections for trigger fingers (the pinkie and ring finger.) Do you think this treatment will do any good?

REPLY

What kind of injections? Splinting the fingers helps the majority. As a rule, surgery is advised when simple measures do not bring relief within three weeks.

EMOTIONS AND DIARRHEA

M. A. writes: Could a mental condition cause a person to have loose stools all the time?

REPLY

Not as a rule. Loose stools may occur in a highly nervous, emotionally disturbed individual. But X-rays and stool analyses should be done to rule out more common causes for the symptom.

Mascone Vote Plan Is Passed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A proposal to make 18-year-old Californians as powerful as their parents in the voting booth reached the halfway mark in the state Legislature today.

Republicans and Democrats generally agreed that the legislation giving 18-, 19-and 20-year-olds the vote in all elections would receive Assembly approval.

In an apparent unprecedented action, the Senate Tuesday voted narrow 28-9 approval to the proposed constitutional amendment by Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco, and sent it to the Assembly.

Veteran Senate attaches could recall no previous occasion when the Senate passed a measure lowering the voting age. At past sessions, the Senate repeatedly has killed such proposals while the Assembly has endorsed them.

The legislation needed at least 27 favorable votes. Ten Republicans joined 18 Democrats in voting for approval while eight Republicans and a Democrat voted to defeat it. The Democrat was Sen. Lawrence Walsh of Huntington Park.

Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti's office said the Moscone measure would be assigned to the Elections and Reapportionment Committee which already has approved a similar bill by Assemblyman Willie Brown Jr., D-San Francisco.

The committee has under study other proposals which would go much further than Brown's or Moscone's and lower the legal age of adulthood and give the 18 to 20 crowd the same privileges enjoyed by their parents.

Supporters estimate that 1.5 million young Californians would be fully enfranchised under the Moscone legislation. Currently, they can vote in congressional and presidential elections but are prohibited from casting a ballot at a city council, school board or gubernatorial.

The Moscone measure would be subject to voter ratification, probably at the June 1972 primary election. Gov. Ronald Reagan has said he favors submitting the question to the electorate.

The legislation also eliminates all California literacy tests for voting and reduces residency requirements to only 30 days in the state in conformity with federal law. A voter now must reside in the state for one year, the county for 90 days and 54 days in a precinct.

Moscone, a potential Democratic contender for governor in 1974, has carried the 18-year-old voter measure for four years. The Senate last March 3 defeated it again but reversed itself Tuesday with only token debate.

Tam Meeting Is Tonight

The Ad Hoc Congress on Tamalpais High School District Reorganization will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock instead of tomorrow as originally scheduled.

The meeting, to be held in the Redwood High School library in Larkspur, was switched at last night's meeting. The group's final meeting, slated for Monday, was rescheduled for Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the library.

The congress is a group of district and school administrators, trustees, students and community representatives meeting with Supt. Wilber D. Hawkins for a line-by-line explanation of his plan.

BEFORE THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA

Application of PACIFIC GAS AND ELECTRIC COMPANY for authority to revise its tariff for electric service to offset increases in the cost of gas used for electric generation.

APPLICATION
No. 52490

PACIFIC GAS AND ELECTRIC COMPANY hereby gives notice that in Application No. 52490, filed with the California Public Utilities Commission on March 10, 1971, it has requested authorization to revise its tariff for electric service to offset increases in the cost of gas used for electric generation. These increases are subject to possible reduction and refund to PG and E's electric department. Should this occur, PG and E proposes to reduce its offset rates accordingly and to make appropriate refunds.

The proposed offset rate increase will cover the increased cost of gas used to generate electricity and will not increase PG and E's net revenues. The proposed increase of .0059 cents per kwh for substantially all electric service, to be effective March 31, 1971, amounts to less than a 1° increase for those affected. For domestic customers this means an average increase of less than 3c per month over present rates.

A copy of the application and related exhibits may be examined at the offices of the California Public Utilities Commission, State Building, 350 McAllister Street, San Francisco, California 94102; at Pacific Gas and Electric Company, 245 Market Street, San Francisco, California 94106, Room 832; and c/o the Division Managers in PG and E's Division Headquarters in Eureka, Red Bluff, Chico, Marysville, Sacramento, Auburn, San Rafael, San francisco, oakland, San Jose, Salinas, Fresno, and Stockton.

This notice is given in accordance with Rule 24 of the revised Rules of Practice and Procedure of the California Public Utilities Commission.

TRAINING BY CLEANING THE PARK

Two men from the San Rafael National Guard Engineer Battalion demolish an old bridge in the Palomarin area of Point Reyes National Seashore. The work during the weekend was the beginning of a program to upgrade the area through removal of old structures and through erosion work, planting and a general cleanup. Since the work provides training for the guardsmen and is valuable to the park, Supt. John L. Sansing said the project will continue through April and May.

PX Probers Exonerate Bromley

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Senate investigators today formally exonerated a reputed slot machine czar of sworn allegations that he offered a former general a $50,000 bribe to keep quiet about corruption in the military.

Bringing together the principals —entrepeneur Martin J. Bromley and former Brig. Gen. Earl F. Cole —the Senate Investigations Subcommittee gave Cole a chance to confirm or deny that Bromley tried to bribe him in Germany on Oct. 10, 1969.

"The man at the end of the table is Martin Bromley," Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., acting subcommittee chairman, told Cole. "Is he one of the men you met in Frankfurt who offered you a $50,000 bribe?"

"He is not," Cole answered firmly as Bromley smiled.

"Have you ever seen him before today?" Ribicoff asked.

"To the best of my knowledge, I have not," Cole said. "I do not know Martin Bromley."

"Then, any indication that you were the man is wrong," Ribicoff told Bromley. "The committee believes you and we wish to say that in no way were you implicated in the alleged bribe offer to Cole."

Two weeks ago, an Army investigator testified under oath that Cole had told him two men, one a Jeff Bromley, tried to bribe him to "take the Ffifth Amendment and keep his mouth shut" in the subcommittee's investigation of alleged corruption at military clubs and Post Exchanges around the world.

Subcommittee investigators said at that time that Jeff Bromley was an alias used frequently by Martin Bromley, whom they identified as head of a worldwide slot machine syndicate. Cole has been accused by more than two dozen witnesses of being deeply involved with some of Bromley's associates, especially businessman William J. Crum.

Tuesday, Bromley indignantly denied to the committee both that he ever used an alias and that he ever tried to bribe Cole. He produced evidence that he was in Spain when the alleged bribe offer was made.

Cole supervised club operations in Vietnam and later was made PX commander in Europe. Last summer, he was demoted to colonel, stripped of his Distinguished Service Medal and retired because of activities in the European Post in 1969.

Appearing for a fourth round of questioning today, Cole continued to deny he had a close relationship with Crum. But as before, his most frequent answer to questions was," I don't recall."

Though questioning Cole closely about a meeting he had with Crum in Hong Kong in 1967, the subcommittee made no reference to Crum's appearance on network television Tuesday night, in which the mystery businessman made his first public denial of wrongdoing.

Crum dismissed as an "out and out lie" testimony given the committee that he bribed Cole to help build a fortune selling slot machines and liquor to military bases in Vietnam. He also said the charge was made by an "extremely vindictive man," a former employe, who "had a very bad habit" of pretending to be the nephew of Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz.

Answering on network television the charges he has refused to discuss with the Senate investigations subcommittee, Crum denied he was the key man behind a web of corruption at military clubs and post exchanges in the war zone.

Crum, who the subcommittee has been trying to find for months, appeared on the CBS TV "Sixty Minutes" show in an interview filmed by Mike Wallace aboard Crum's sailboat outside Hong Kong. Crum said he was too ill to travel to Washington, but would talk to Senate investigators if they come to him, "in the presence of my attorneys."

Turk Kidnappers Caught In Battle

ANKARA (UPI)—Deniz Gezmis, a 25-year-old university dropout who masterminded the kidnaping of four U.S. airmen, was captured by Turkish police today in a four-hour gun battle near Gemerek, 125 miles southeast of Ankara.

Gezmis was described as the leader of the Turkish People's Liberation Army and, as such, was Turkey's most wanted man. With other militant leftists he is accused of a series of bank robberies, bombings and attacks on political rivals.

He was brought to Ankara for questioning and told police he and his companions had planned to execute the four Americans kidnaped March 4 but were dissuaded by a letter one of them, Sgt. James Sexton, 22, of San Angelo, Tex., had written to his pregnant wife.

Yusaf Aslan, Gezmis' accused accomplice in the kidnapings, was wounded in the gunbattle which broke out Tuesday night when the two men were challenged while loading a motorcycle onto a truck. En route to a police station they suddenly drew pistols and began firing.

They fled into a house where a woman was wounded before Gezmis managed to commandeer a car. They tried to flee but ran into a police roadblock where they fought it out until Aslan was hit and wounded seriously and Gezmis was captured.

The capture of Gezmis and Aslan came only hours after Turks learned of a high level military shakeup which diplomats said thwarted a planned coup by dissident army, navy and air force officers dissatisfied with the way their superior officers were conducting Turkish affairs.

Diplomats said the two events had increased chances of a quick and peaceful settlement of a crisis of authority now in its sixth day. It appeared the country's four political parties would form a coalition under a leader yet to be chosen.

Police said Gezmis was armed with two automatic weapons and two hand grenades of Russian manufacture, plus identity cards of the Al Fatah Palestinian guerrilla organization when captured. They said Aslan carried two revolvers and a grenade, also of Russian make, a large quantity of ammunition and an American identity card.

Gezmis is accused of kidnaping the four Americans at gunpoint. They included Sexton; Airman 1c Richard Caraszi, 22, Stamford, Conn.; James M. Gholson, 23, Alexandria, Va.; and Larry J. Heavner, 22, Mayville, W.Va. They were released unharmed and returned to the United States last Sunday.

February Income Fails In Big Push

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The personal income of all Americans increased in February at a rate only about half as fast as the monthly average during last year's recession, the Commerce Department said today.

The report further dampened the Nixon administration's predictions of an early economic upturn.

The department said personal income —the total of wages, salaries, interest, dividends, individuals business profits, farm earnings, rentals, welfare benefits and other payments to individuals —was at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $828.9 billion last month, up $2.2 billion from January.

Total personal income in January had leaped $9.2 billion from December. The average monthly increase in 1970 was almost $4 billion.

Wages and salaries accounted for $1.6 billion of the $2.2 billion February gain. Of the advance, $900 million came in government employment and only $700 million in private employment.

Manufacturing payrolls, which increased $1.3 billion in January, declined by $200 million in February.

In a related report, the department said home building activity increased only slightly in February. The administration has been counting on a sharp increase in residential construction to help stimulate the still sluggish economy.

Private housing starts were at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 1.7 million units last month, up only 6,000 units from January and well below the 2 million unit figure reported in December. The February rate was substantially higher than the 1.3 million rate a year ago.

Home building increased steadily in the last half of 1970 after a severe slump that ripped the industry in 1969 and the first half of last year. It reached the two million unit mark in December but slipped in January and February.

Scientist Said Hushed On SST-Cancer Theory

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said today a government cancer expert was prevented from talking in public about the possibility the supersonic transport (SST) could alter the upper atmosphere and increase the incidence of skin cancer.

The House begins debate today on whether to continue funding for the 1,800-mile an hour airplane.

Proxmire said Dr. Gio Gori, associate scientific director of the National Cancer Institute had planned to appear at a press conference with three other scientists today to discuss skin cancer problems raised by the SST.

But Proxmire said Gori had to cancel his public appearance "and we understand the reason was because the White House objected."

Gori could not be reached immediately for comment.

Proxmire released a letter from Gori saying a 4 to 10 per cent decrease in ozone caused by water vapor spewed into the stratosphere by SSTs could result in thousands of new skin cancer cases.

Proxmire quoted Gori as saying the ozone decrease would allow more ultraviolet radiation to reach the earth and an "annual increase in skin cancer cases in the United States alone would range from a low of 23,000 cases to a high of 103,000 cases."

Proxmire said it was one thing for the administration to require loyalty from government employes. "But it's outrageous to attempt to deprive the Congress and the people of this vital data," he said.

Proxmire said it would be foolhardy to approve another $134 million to keep the project alive until all the questions about skin cancer possibilities were answered.

The letter from Gori to Proxmire was among 24 released by the senator who had written 40 meteorologists and skin cancer experts for their opinion on the estimate of Dr. James E. McDonald of the University of Arizona that SSTs could cause 10,000 new cases of skin cancer.

None of those responding said McDonald was wrong, said Proxmire.

A close vote in the Senate will go in favor of the SST according to GOP Leader Hugh Scott, who said "it will pass. There are enough votes for it."

The House, which began debate today, will vote on an amendment to kill the project Thursday. But it too is expected to approve the project. SST opponent Rep. Sidney R. Yates, D-Ill., said, however, he is still optimistic the House might vote the project down.

Yates, in remarks prepared for the debate, said the project was "unduly favorable to Boeing" aircraft Co., because the government was providing $1.3 billion in subsidies while Boeing would get "most of the profits."

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon said today St. Patrick's Day is a celebration for all Americans.

"It is a time of celebration not only for those of our citizens whose ancestors were born on the Emerald Isle, but also for countless others who value those qualities of warmth and humor, pride and courage which are so closely associated with the Irish people," the President said in his annual St. Patrick's day message.

STARS ABOVE

Sea Serpent Made Up Of Long Lines

By SHERMAN WALKER

The Sea Serpent (Hydra) is made up of a long line of stars that are rather dim. Although Hydra doesn't seem to be going anyplace in particular, it is an interesting figure to trace out by the sky viewer.

Hydra has one bright star called Cor Hydra (Heart of the Serpent) and sometimes called Alphard (meaning the Solitary One). The whole constellation is more noticeable than it deserves — there are few bright stars in the vicinity. The Serpent reaches across almost 90 degrees of sky and is of about the same brightness throughout its length, except for Alphard which is about magnitude 2½.

To locate Alphard in the sky, face southward at 9 p.m. and look at the region of the sky that is three-fifths of the distance up from the southern horizon to overhead.

Alphard is of orange-reddish hue which probably accounts for the name, Heart of Hydra. It is more than 200 light years from the solar system.

Just south of the constellation of Cancer (the Crab) is a small group of stars making up the head of the Serpent. Also there is one dim star which could mark the end of the tongue.

The brighter of the five stars of the head is Epsilon Hydrae.

Psssst! AF Floats Secret Test

The Air Force conducted hush-hush tests of a new Mae West in the Olympic-sized swimming pool of the Edgewater Inn in Corte Madera yesterday.

It turned out that the tests were secret not because of national security but because of the complications of industrial competition and bureaucracy.

Air Force civilian technicians were testing a new inflatable life preserver developed by H. Koch manufacturing Co. of Corte Madera.

J. J. Riley, supervising the tests for the Air Force research and development center at Wright Patterson Air Force Base in Ohio, firmly vetoed newspaper photographs. Meanwhile, the "downed pilot" in flight suit, helmet and bright red Mae West was being dragged the length of the pool by three puffing technicians hauling on a simulated parachute harness.

"How would it look," Riley demanded, "if this got out here before it was out in the East? We haven't contracted with the vendor yet, this is just a test, not a purchase.

"You'll have to go to the Wright Patterson PIO (public information office) to get the story. You won't be able to get it without my OK."

About then, the dragging harness parted and the "pilot" climbed out of the warm pool. The secret test was over.

Lecture Slated On De Chardin

An illustrated lecture on priest-paleontologist Teilhard De Chardin will be presented by St. Stephen's Church from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday at the church, 3 Bayview Avenue, Belvedere.

A team of speakers will discuss the Frenchman's book, "The Phenomena of Man," and his concepts on man's destiny.

Further information may be obtained and reservations made by calling the church.

Innocent Pleas To Pot Charge

Hart Keith Bell, 26, of San Rafael, and Charles Virgil Leffingwell, 25, of San Francisco, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to charges of possessing marijuana.

They are to return to court next Wednesday to have a date for a preliminary hearing set.

The pair was arrested in a drug raid March 8 at a Sausalito residence.

Probation Of Two-Years Given

Cathy Brownell of San Rafael has been placed on probation for two years by Judge Robert A. Smallman of Marin Municipal Court for her conviction on a misdemeanor charge of possessing marijuana.

Mrs. Brownell and a San Rafael man were arrested at their home Aug. 6 and both were charged with possessing marijuana. Charges against the man were dropped in January when Mrs. Brownell pleaded guilty to the charge and indicated the marijuana belonged to her.

Restitution Is Ordered

Steven Terry Odom, 20, of Santa Rosa, has been ordered to pay $360 restitution in connection with his conviction on a misdemeanor count of car theft.

Judge Robert A. Smallman of Marin Municipal Court also placed Odom on probation for three years.

Odom was arrested Jan. 18 when California Highway Patrol officer stopped to assist him when he developed car trouble on Highway 101.

He pleaded guilty to the misdemeanor charge last month when it was reduced from a felony count of car theft.

Seniors Ask Mountain Graduation

Seniors at Redwood High School in Larkspur would like to hold their graduation ceremony on Mount Tamalpais, but park officials must first give approval.

Trying to get away from the school's "cramped" gymnasium, where ceremonies have been held in the past, the students have suggested the Mountain Theater as an ideal location since more spectators could be seated.

A meeting among the students, school administrators and park officials was set for today to study the feasibility of the site and special problems it might offer.

"The Mountain Theater should be available for this type of activity," Robert Crawford, a park official, agreed yesterday.

Only twice before has it been used for graduations, he said, but by out-of-couny schools with much smaller graduating classes.

He said matters to be discussed today include insurance, control of access to the outdoor theater and transportation.

The thought of new graduates "getting a sense of freedom and jumping into their hot rods, scares the hell out of me," he said.

Crawford said he would propose today that graduates be transported to and from the graduation by bus to avoid accidents on the mountain roads.

He said the students' proposal would be studied thoroughly during the next month.

Strawberry Cove Plan Due Airing

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A controversial plan to build a 96-unit apartment project on Strawberry Cove will be heard again by the Bay Conservation and Development Commission at 2 p.m. tomorrow in Room 1194 of the State Building, 455 Golden Gate Avenue.

Commissioners heard more than two hours of opposition on March 4, and agreed then to continue the hearing tomorrow to give time for all interested persons to speak.

The project was proposed by Paul J. Broman of Peacock Gap, and has won strong opposition from residents of the area. Broman's plans call for building the apartments in six separate structures, a swimming pool, public boat ramp and a boardwalk along the bayshore.

Commissioners have set voting on Broman's application for a permit for their April 15 meeting.

Hungarian Boss Blasts Nixon For War, Strategic Embargo

BUDAPEST (UPI) — Janos Kadar, first secretary of Hungary's Communist party, believes the United States is re-escalating the war in Vietnam.

In an exclusive interview with United Press International, Kadar ranged over both domestic and international affairs and said that, while east-west European relations are improving, there is little hope for a radical growth soon in Hungarian-American relations.

It was his first interview with a non-Communist correspondent in nearly 2 1-2 years.

Hungarian sources said the fact Kadar gave a policy interview so soon before the Soviet Party congress—which sets long-term policy for both the Soviet Union and its allies—was a "sensational" sign of his strength, self-confidence and solid ties with Moscow.

In a written answer and in a 90-minute private conversation in his office, Kadar made these major points:

—Both the European Common Market and its Communist counterpart, COMECON, "represent a reality—and obviously will remain so. Therefore I find it reasonable that some sort of contacts be established between the two organizations and most likely this is going to happen."

—A European Security Conference could be convened this year. Its original agenda should focus on non-controversial items, but he said the question of a mutual east-west reduction of troops in Europe might be discussed there "at a certain stage." The Berlin question, however, would be a "burden."

—Hungarian-American relations are hampered by U.S. "discriminations" in trade, including the strategic trade embargo. He hinted that he considered President Nixon's visit to Romania and Yugoslavia "a discrimination among the socialist countries, an attempt to disrupt our cooperation" and said the time is not ripe now for Nixon to visit Hungary.

—"I am impressed," he said, with moves by the new Polish government —an important statement of approval for the hard-pressed Poles. He indicated that Hungary and other COMECON nations are sending aid to Poland.

The last blizzard of the season whistled along the Danube River outside Kadar's wood-paneled office as he received this correspondent and, over coffee and Coca-Cola, discussed his problems and policies.

Tropical plants stood at one end of the long yellow-and-brown office and Kadar's neat desk stood at the other, beneath the framed "Order of Lenin" medals given by the Soviet Union. A painting of Lenin playing chess hung on one wall, group photographs from Kadar's past hung on another.

Cigarette boxes containing three different brands stood on the mahogany conference table where the interview took place, but Kadar smoked his own—a particularly potent Hungarian brand, "Sinfonia." He wore a conservative gray suit with maroon tie and laughed, smiled and joked often as he talked in his soft, hoarse voice. After 14 years in power, Kadar seems in good health, but looks tired and older than his 58 years. He frequently stressed the "practical" basis of his policy; ideology played little part in his conversation.

On Vietnam and the Middle East, Kadar was uncompromising.

Asked about "de-escalation" of the Vietnam War, he said, "the facts run counter to this catchword." He cited the invasions of Laos and Cambodia and said:

"This dangerous sequence and trend of events can be called anything but de-escalation of the war: in fact, exactly the opposite has taken place . . . the only way to end the war is to make use of the political contacts still at disposal at the Paris talks."

He repeated the familiar demand that Israel withdraw from all captured Arab territories. But he said such withdrawal could "provide a far more favorable climate" for settlement of the long-range Palestinian problem.

On relations with the United States, the Hungarian leader said that, given the distances and differences between Hungary and America, "it is scarcely believable that (they) could suddenly become main partners." But he suggested that the Nixon administration is doing little to help this situation.

First, he said, Washington should "cancel the obsolete measures which hinder economic relations." He explained he meant both the lack of "most favored nation" treatment and the strategic embargo.

After Nixon's visits to Romania and Yugoslavia last year, he said "some people (in Hungary)—and they were not few—viewed these visits as a discrimination among the socialist countries, as an attempt to disrupt our cooperation."

He refused to comment on Nixon's call for congressional guarantees for private U.S. investment in Romania and Yugoslavia. But, asked if he would welcome a Nixon visit to Hungary, Kadar replied:

"Neither the situation nor the conditions, in my opinion, have ripened on either side for a visit to Hungary by President Nixon."

Kadar acknowledged that the presence of Hugarian cardinal Jozsef Mindszenty in the U.S. Embassy here (where he has been since 1956) continues to hamper relations "to a certain extent," but added that "time has surpassed Mindszenty and his problem."

He said this was mainly a problem for Mindszenty and the United States, but said "we are prepared to consider . . . such initiatives that may lead to a solution. Since this situation was not brought about by us, I think the initiatives must not be expected to come from our side either."

Partial Prison LockupContinues

A partial lockup at San Quentin continued today after another day of calm at the prison where 12 men were wounded and one killed during racial troubles last week.

Associate Warden James W. L. Park said the 1,400 men in the east and south blocks were still locked up today. He did not know when the lockup will be ended.

Inmates in the two cell blocks have been locked up, except during meals, for the past week. Lockup in the north and west blocks was ended Monday.

Inmates are being searched for weapons as they are taken to meals, Park said. More than 50 makeshift weapons have been seized since violence erupted March 8, Park said.

Fine Day For Talking About Irish Football!

Happy St. Patrick's Day. Pass the corned beef and let's all have a slug of Irish whiskey, you little leprechauns, you. Shurre and begorra, but it's a fine day for the wearing of the green —be it a tie, or socks or cabbage.

And what better time than to discuss Irish Football, a rough and tumble sport that will be displayed in San Francisco's Balboa Stadium Sunday by the Kerry All-Ireland champions against an Irish All-Star team. To start at 2:45 p.m., the game will be the first time two headliner Irish teams will have played outside of Eire.

Just what is Gaelic Football? "It's a combination of the best of soccer, rugby and a little basketball," explained Kevin Downey of San Rafael, publicist for the co-sponsoring United Irish Societies of San Francisco and the St. Patrick's Fathers, a missionary group.

"The players are all amateurs and come from all walks of life," said Downey, a native of the auld sod who played the game for 20 years before coming to the U.S. "There are men from all walks of life in the 20-30 age bracket — a policeman, banker, farmers, truck drivers, an accountant, hotel owner, military officers and so forth, giving unselfishly of their time to Ireland's favorite sport.

"The game is played with 15 men per side," he continued, "on a field 130 by 80 yards. There is one referee, two linemen and four umpires — one at each corner of the field.

There are 30 minutes of constant action in each half with a 10-minute intermission. That is, there are no time outs unless there is a serious injury. If a player is just slightly hurt, then he has to get off the field on his own — even if he has to crawl.

"Believe me, Shamus, there is tackling just as rough and tough as any hockey game you've seen and the players don't wear pads.

"Now, the idea, of course, is to get the ball through the goal posts by either kicking or punching the ball. We use a soccer ball. (Look, Ma, Paddy's Pigskin!) If the ball is kicked or punched over the cross bar it is worth one point. If the ball goes under the bar, past the goalie and into the nets it is worth three points. Players cannot throw the ball, but they may kick it or punch it. It's not unusual to see them kick the ball 60 yards in the air."

Downey, who operates a cocktail lounge in San Francisco, says the co-sponsors hope to draw a crowd of 10,000 to Balboa. He said games in Ireland draw upwards of 100,000 fans.

The Kerry team, he said, has been champion of Ireland 22 times. "They have a dynasty like the Green Bay Packers and the Chicago Bears used to have and the San Francisco 49ers will have in the future. A game like this is like the Baltimore Colts against the rest of the National Football League or the New York Knickerbockers against the rest of the National Basketball Association."

Speaking in an Irish brogue as thick as the corned beef I was eating over our luncheon meeting, Downey said the 36 players on the two rosters will arrive in San Francisco Saturday afternoon and will stay at Bay Area private homes to save on expenses. Two of the All-Stars, Colm McAlarney and Sean O'Neill, will stay at Downey's home in Terra Linda.

Downey said it is costing $25,000 to bring the squads to San Francisco, adding, "Needless to say we'll need a capacity crowd to help us defray the expenses. Tickets cost $3 apiece and can be purchased at any Macy's store in advance. On the day of the game the tickets will cost $4."

With that, Downey downed a large glass of milk!! An Irishman drinking moo juice at this time of year???? Egads!!!

"Yes," he apologized. "I've developed an ulcer worrying about the expenses of this game."

Now, shurre and you wouldn't want a fine gent named Kevin Downey to suffer further on this day of days, would you? Get out and buy a ticket for some good fun at Balboa Stadium Sunday.

Marin Baseballers Win Loop Opener, 10-3

POWER SUPPLY — College of Marin first baseman Rafael Gallardo (25) crossed the plate with a big smile on his face after clouting a home run early in yesterday's game against Skyline. Gallardo had six runs batted in on the day to lead the Tars to a 10-3 win in their Camino Norte Conference opener in Kentfield. (Independent-Journal photo by Alfred Arn)

Gallardo Knocks In Six Runs

First baseman Rafael Gallardo had six runs batted in, five of them in the first two innings on a home run and a bases loaded single to lead the College of Marin Tars to a 10-3 victory over Skyline Junior College in a Camino Norte Conference season opening baseball game yesterday at Kentfield.

Jerry Goodrich, staked to six runs in the first two innings, went the distance to record the win. He also helped himself at the plate with three singles in four at bats.

Gallardo, a sophomore, cracked a fastball 380 feet over the right centerfield fence with Ken Roby and Dee Fedrick aboard and nobody out in the first. In the second, Goodrich opened with a single and was thrown out at third when Mike Parnow followed with a single. Roby and Fedrick then walked to set the stage for Gallardo, who drilled a line single to right to score Parnow and Roby.

Gallardo picked up his other RBI in the sixth inning with a sacrifice fly.

The Tars play again tomorrow, at De Anza Junior College in Cupertino.

Cavaliers Surprise Warriors

CINCINNATI (UPI) —Somebody named Bobby Smith has put a damper on the playoff hopes of the San Francisco Warriors.

The unheralded Smith and Walt Wesley sparked a fourth-quarter rally that carried the expansionist Cleveland Cavaliers to a key 108-103 victory over the Warriors Tuesday night. It was only the 14th victory in 78 games for the Cavaliers this season.

But as far as coach Al Attles and the Warriors are concerned, it couldn't have come at a worst time.

San Francisco needs two victories to nail down second place in the NBA's Pacific Division and the final playoff spot. Cleveland wouldn't cooperate, so the Warriors now must test Cincinnati tonight and follow it up with games against the rugged Chicago Bulls on Thursday and at Seattle in the season's finale Sunday.

Cincinnati, Chicago and Seattle also are scrambling for playoff spots. The fast-breaking Royals are 1 1-2 games behind Atlanta in their fight for the final playoff spot in the Central Division, so Bob Cousy's squad won't roll over and play dead for the Warriors.

Chicago has a comfortable four-game edge over Phoenix in their runnerup battle in the Midwest Division but the Bulls have treated the Warriors roughly all season and there's no sign of a change of heart.

So Attles knows it's up to the Warriors. He doesn't want to depend on San Diego and Seattle losses to back the Warriors into the playoffs.

San Diego is two games behind San Francisco with home games remaining against Detroit. Milwaukee and Phoenix. Seattle, which trails the Warriors by 2 1-2 games, entertains Milwaukee and the Warriors at home and goes on the road for games at Portland and Phoenix.

Smith scored a career-high 37 points against the Warriors who led 80-78 at the end of the third quarter but were outscored 30-

Two Marin Teams Win With Shutout Victories

Two Marin County Athletic League teams registered shutout victories, and two others lost in extra innings in preseason, non-league baseball games yesterday.

Marin Catholic blanked Analy of Sebastopol, 5-0 in Kentfield, San Marin whitewashed Cardinal Newman, 6-0 in Santa Rosa, Terra Linda bowed to St. Ignatius in San Francisco, 8-4, and San Rafael was defeated by Petaluma, 7-6 in Petaluma.

A game between Redwood and Montgomery of Santa Rosa scheduled for yesterday was postponed because of wet grounds.

Junior lefthander Jim Lowe blanked Analy on seven hits, and his Marin Catholic teammates erupted for four runs in the second inning to back him up. The Wildcats of Kentfield collected only six hits, but half were doubles, including a two run blast by Don Bianchini. The other two-base hits were by Vince Bormolini and Tom Olson, who also stroked a two run single.

Three San Marin pitchers, Ken Siler, Rick Jensen and Greg Mazeres, limited Cardinal Newman to just three hits, while the Mustangs exploded for five extra base hits. Mazeres had two of them, a double and a triple, while Tim Bowen and Marty Larsen each doubled and Jim Thompson belted a two-run triple in the seventh. Thompson also had a single.

Terra Linda came from behind to tie St. Ignatius with three runs in the bottom of the seventh inning, only to have the Wildcats score four times in the top of the eighth to win it. The Trojan rally started with two out and the bases empty, and included three walks and two singles. The telling blow was a two-run base hit by Tom Hughes after Larry Kerr walked with the bases loaded to force home Jim Cottington.

Ken Burns slammed a two run homer as San Rafael scored three times in the second inning to take an early lead over Petaluma. The Bulldogs scored twice more in the third, and once in the fourth, but were shut out the rest of the way. The Trojans tied the score at 6-6 with a run in the sixth, and pulled out the victory with a run in the ninth.

Gary Nelson and Dave Urquhart had a triple and a double respectively in the losing cause.

John Billings pitched a three-hitter to lead the Drake High School Pirates to a 2-1 victory over Santa Rosa High School. John Loane had a single and double to pace the Drake Attack.

Giant Vet, Rookie Impressive

PHOENIX (UPI) —Two sacrifice flies and Don McMahon, a 41-year-old relief pitcher, showed Tuesday he has lost none of his stuff by blanking the Milwaukee Brewers over the final two innings to pick up his first win of the spring.

San Francisco won 6-5 when rightfielder George Foster scored Jim Rosario with a sacrifice fly in the top of the 10th inning at Phoenix.

Trailing 5-4, the Giants had tied the contest in the ninth on a hit batsman, single by Chris Speier and Ed Goodson's sacrifice fly.

Both teams collided again today at Phoenix. San Diego comes to town Thursday and the Oakland A's meet the Giants for the third time this spring on Friday at Phoenix. The A's and Giants have split in their two previous games.

Rookie righthander Steve Stone of the Giants continues to impress manager Charlie Fox. He started against the Brewers Tuesday and struck out nine while allowing two runs in six innings.

Matching Stone on Milwaukee's side was another rookie, Bill Parsons, who shut out the Giants on two hits over the first five innings.

Then in the sixth the Giants scored four times to take a 4-2 lead. One of the big blows of the rally was a double by Willie Mays.

Terra Linda's Swim Team Romps Again

Paced by ace freestyle sprinter Thom Guthrie, the Terra Linda High School Trojans continued to go undefeated in first round Marin County Athletic League swim meets with a powerful 72-23 victory over the Novato Hornets in Terra Linda.

In other league meets, San Rafael overwhelmed Drake's Pirates 60-34 in San Anselmo.

With only eight boys out for the varsity and Class B swim teams, and some of them downed with the flu, Tamalpais High School didn't have enough athletes to field teams yesterday and had to forfeit their meets to Redwood High.

Guthrie tied the school record he already held in the 50 free with a 23.3 clocking, and splashed to another victory in the 100 free to complete his perfect day.

The other Trojan double winner was Rick DeMont, picking up victories in the 200 I.M. and 400 free. DeMont's I.M. time is the fastest in the league this year.

Recording an excellent 1:01.5 backstroke time was Roger Rechsteiner for Novato. Rechsteiner, the only Hornet swimmer to take a first place, also romped in the 200 free for his double win.

In their breeze over Drake, the Bulldogs got a double win from Scott Dicker, who nailed down the I.M. and the butterfly.

Terra Linda's superb Class B team also remained undefeated, with an 83-2 annihilation of Novato.

'Exclusive' Rooting Section For Hawaii

HONOLULU (UPI) —University of Hawaii will have an exclusive "eastern" rooting section during the National Invitation Tournament in New York.

Approximately 200 employes of American Airlines in New York have adopted the squad and will form a special cheering section at Madison Square Garden.

Artis Gilmore Signs $2.7 Million Contract

NEW YORK (UPI)—Wendell Cherry, board chairman of the Kentucky Colonels, was willing to reach into his pockets to make his team a winner in the American Basketball Association.

Cherry dug deep Tuesday night and came up with an estimated $2.7 million multiyear contract for Jacksonville's All-American Artis Gilmore. It was believed to be the richest contract ever offered a rookie.

"When we took over this franchise, we were determined to bring this city the best basketball money could buy," said Cherry Tuesday, "and I think we've taken a giant step that direction tonight."

That giant step is represented by the 7-foot-2 Gilmore, who signed with the Colonels for what team president Mike Storen called, "the most substantial contract ever signed in this league."

Gilmore stretched his huge frame over a courtside table in between games of an ABA doubleheader in Louisville Tuesday night as a crowd of 10,000 gave him an enthusiastic ovation.

"This marks a major breakthrough for the ABA in signing a top-flight big man," Cherry said.

Gilmore averaged 22.3 points and 23.2 rebounds per game this season as he led the Dolphins to a berth in the NCAA Regionals. Jacksonville was beaten by Western Kentucky, 74-72 last Saturday.

Gilmore is expected in New York Wednesday afternoon.

Anthony Fourth In PBA Winnings

AKRON, Ohio (UPI)—Earl Anthony of Tacoma, Wash., on the strength of his $10,000 win last weekend in the Cougar Open, has pulled into fourth place in the earning standings of the Professional Bowlers Association.

Anthony's winnings brought his total so far this year on the tour to $21,060.

The top three in the standings are Johnny Petraglia, Brooklyn, N.Y. with $26,603; Dave Soutar, Gilroy, Calif., $22,830, and Don Johnson, Akron, with $22,136.

FRAZIER HOSPITALIZED

Blood Pressure Reported High

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Heavyweight champion Joe Frazier complained of being tired and was admitted to St. Luke's Children's Medical Center Tuesday when tests showed his blood pressure "on the high side."

Dr. James C. Giuffre, medical director, said the champ would be hospitalized "at least a week" for "purely routine" tests.

The boxer has cancelled all scheduled public appearances since he won a grueling 15-round decision over Cassius Clay March 8 at New York.

"I hope and pray it's nothing seriously wrong with him," Clay said. "They say he's just tired. I hope it's true."

From his hospital bed Tuesday, Frazier, as he did right after the title fight, talked about retirement but said that if Clay "wants another fight, He'll get it."

Clay remained solemn when he was asked if he would visit Frazier. "If he's just tired, he'd get a lot more rest not seeing me," he said.

"His problem is in no way the result of the fight," the physician said. "There is no detached retina. His eyes looks a little bloodshot, that's all.

"I checked his blood pressure and found it was on the high side," Giuffre said. No medication had been prescribed.

The physician said the urea content of Frazier's blood "was high" but said the fighter "really needs rest and relaxation." The doctor said he would perform the tests, including a complete blood profile to pinpoint Frazier's ailment.

Frazier's blood pressure was about 130 over 80 prior to the fight, Giuffre said, and 160 over 90 when checked at the hospital.

There were unconfirmed reports earlier that Frazier had already been in the hospital for several days. He cancelled out on several television appearances. He notified NBC he would not be able to appear Tuesday night on Johnny Carson's "Tonight Show."

Yank Durham, his manager, a hospital board member, said Frazier had the flu last Saturday when he failed to appear for a television taping with Clay in New York City. "I didn't want him embarrased," Durham later remarked.

Giuffre said Frazier went to the hospital Monday to sign autographs and returned Tuesday to show a film of the fight to youths at a drug clinic. The doctor said Monday was "the first time he had been here."

The doctor said Frazier pulled him aside while there to show the films and complained of feeling weak.

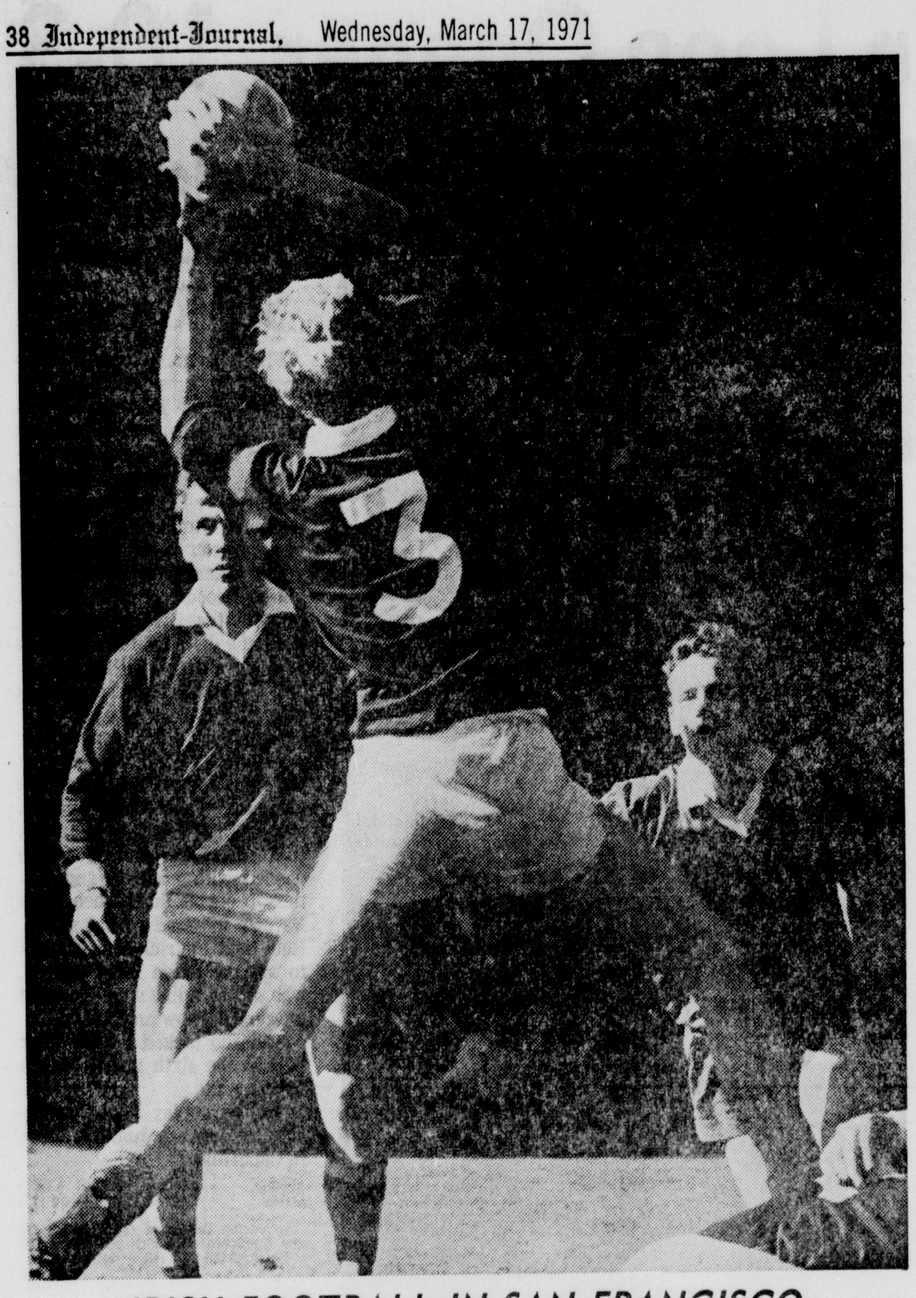
Giuffre pronounced Frazier physically sound before the fight.

Baseball Tryouts Set For Saturday

Major League tryouts for the San Rafael American Little League will be held Saturday for boys 10 through 12 years of age at Davidson Junior High School, it was announced today. Only boys who did not play for a major league team last year must try out.

The tryouts will start at 10 a.m. for 10-year-olds, 11 a.m. for 11-year-olds and noon for 12-year-olds.

In the event of inclement weather, the tryouts will be postponed until Sunday, same times, same location.



IRISH FOOTBALL IN SAN FRANCISCO

Action like this will be seen for the first time in the United States Sunday, 2:45 p.m. at Balboa Stadium, San Francisco, when the Kerry championship team of Ireland meets an All-Star team from the rest of Eire in Gaelic Football. It will mark the first time two high-caliber teams of Ireland will play on foreign soil. See Jim Gilmartin's column on page 37 for complete details.

A Garden In Phoenix Without An Outfield

PHOENIX — Behind the centerfield fence of Phoenix Municipal Stadium there is a garden spot. In fact, it is called Cookie's Garden. Several years ago when he was a coach of the Giants Cookie Lavagetto conceived the idea of the garden, complete with a baseball infield and pitching mound but no outfield.

"WE DON'T need an outfield for what I have in mind," said Lavagetto. "All we want to do is teach the proper way to bunt and the correct way for a pitcher to cover first base."

Lavagetto's garden school always opened each day as the Cactus League exhibition activity started on the other side of the centerfield fence. What was going on in the garden was obscured by the fence and oleanders.

COOKIE SINCE has retired but the garden activity still goes on while Cactus League games are being played. Hank Sauer now is the garden teacher and, like Lavagetto, he rarely sees an exhibition game.

If the Giants turn out to be good bunters this season and if the pitchers break from the mound instinctively to cover first on every ground ball hit to the right side, does Sauer plan to take credit?

"WHY NOT?" countered the amiable Pennsylvania Dutchman who was born on St. Patrick's Day. "Won't I get the blame for bum bunts or pitchers forgetting about covering first?"

Sauer's role as a garden teacher isn't his only job with the Giants. He is batting instructor, scout and good will ambassador. He even filled in last year as manager of the Phoenix Giants when Charlie Fox was promoted from the farm club to the big team.

SAUER KNOWS that in his job as batting instructor he can't make a .300 hitter out of a .250 hitter.

"No way, no how," said Sauer. "I can correct faults and I can teach a youngster sound batting fundamentals. But the rest is up to him.

"I TEACH the three important things — how to hold the bat, the hip pivot and to keep the head in there. Then if they still can't hit, the ability is not there."

Keeping the head in there? What does that mean?

"KEEPING THE eyes on the ball means the same thing," said Sauer. "A batter must practice following the pitch. If there is one common fault among young batters it is failure to keep the eyes on the ball."

Of all his jobs with the Giants, Sauer is happiest as batting instructor. Why?

"I'VE NEVER forgotten the help I received as a young player," said Sauer who was the home run hitter of the Cubs two decades ago. "Jewel Ens made me. I was always in front of the ball and pulled everything foul down the left field line.

"I was using a 35 ounce bat. Ens gave me a 42 ounce bat. I told him I couldn't swing that but he convinced me I could. The heavier bat slowed down my swing and shots I had been hitting foul now were finding the left center lane."

AS A GOOD will ambassador, Sauer soothes sagging morale. Some years ago when Willie McCovey's morale was low because a former manager of the team tried to convert him into an outfielder, Sauer got Stretch straightened out.

"Hank is a good man," says McCovey.

Carr, Wicks Lead UPI All-America

NEW YORK (UPI)—Austin Carr of Notre Dame and Sidney Wicks of UCLA, who finished 1-2 respectively in the balloting for UPI's Player of the Year honors, were the top votegetters in the 1970-71 All-America squad selected Tuesday by the United Press International.

Carr, a 6-foot-3 guard who is the nation's second leading scorer, and Wicks, a 6-8 forward who led the top-ranked Bruins in scoring and rebounding, received 781 and 777 points out of a possible 800 in a balloting of 400 sportswriters and sportscasters from across the country.

Also named to the first team All-America squad were Artis Gilmore of Jacksonville, John Roche of South Carolina and Dean Meminger of Marquette. All five first-team selections are seniors.

The second team consists of Jim McDaniels of Western Kentucky, Johnny Neumann of Mississippi, Ken Durrett of LaSalle, Howard Porter of Villanova and Curtis Rowe of UCLA. Neumann, a sophomore who led the nation in scoring with a 40.1 average, is the only non-senior on the second team.

Named to the third unit were sophomore George McGinnis of Indiana, junior Paul Westphal of Southern California, junior Julius Erving of Massachusetts, senior Charley Yelverton of Fordham and senior Dave Robisch of Kansas.

Cooper Beaten, Decides To Quit

WEMBLEY, England (UPI) —Henry Cooper, who once floored Muhammad Ali and who held the British heavyweight boxing title longer than any other man in history, has decided to call it a career.

Cooper, 36, announced his decision to retire from the ring after losing a close 15-round decision to Joe Bugner Tuesday night. Cooper, last beaten by former heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson in 1966, had held the British title since 1959 except for a short period of voluntary retirement.

Basketball

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Sidney Wicks and Curtis Rowe, who helped lead UCLA to its fifth straight Pacific 8 Conference title, headed that circuit's all-conference team announced today.

Wicks, also named to the UPI All-America team today, was the only unanimous choice of the eight league coaches taking part in the balloting. He was one of three repeaters, too, the others being center Stan Love of Oregon, the league's highest scorer, and Paul Westphal of Southern California.

Wicks and Rowe were picked as forwards, Love as center, and Westphal and Phil Chenier of California as guards.

HAYWARD (UPI) —Hayward State is looking for a new head basketball coach today after Herb Graw quit to become associate dean in the school of education.

In three seasons, the Pioneers compiled a 29-48 record under Graw. He resigned Tuesday because he says his new position will take up most of his time.

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) —The California Angels sent pitcher Steve Kealey and catcher Dave Adlesh to the Chicago White Sox Tuesday in exchange for catcher Art Kusnyer.

BLOOMFIELD HILLS, Mich. (UPI)—No. 1 seed Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., overcame a slow start to down Karen Krantzcke of Australia in three sets Tuesday in the opening round of the $10,000 K-Mart Invitational Professional Tennis Tournament.

In other first-round matches at the Bloomfield Tennis House, Ann Jones of Great Britain beat Betty Ann Hansen, Santa Monica, Calif., 6-1, 6-3, Wendy Gilchrist of Australia was a surprise victor over Kristy Pigeon, Danville, Calif., 6-1, 6-2, and Tory Fretz of Sherman Oaks, Calif., hung on to defeat Ceci Martinez of San Francisco, 7-6, 6-2.

2 Records In Marin Track Loss

Despite two school record performances by Ted Cain, the College of Marin Tars lost their second straight Camino Norte Conference track meet yesterday 113-23 to Contra Costa J.C. in Kentfield.

The Tars, who lost their league opening meet to West Valley of Campbell Mar. 5, picked up only a single first place yesterday, and Cain wasn't responsible for it. Gary Wall won the high jump at 6 feet, 1 inch.

Cain had to settle for second place in each of his record setting efforts. He covered the 440 in 49.3 seconds to break the old mark of 50.2, and smashed the record for the 440 intermediate hurdles with a clocking of 55.3.

Haywood: Not Sure Of Getting Money

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Spencer Haywood testified before a U. S. District Court here Tuesday that he asked the Denver Rockets for a salary increase of $100,000-a-year because he did not believe he would ever get the $1.9 million they originally promised him.

Haywood, appearing before Judge Warren J. Ferguson and a seven-woman five-man jury who will decide who has the rights to the 21-year-old star, told the court that he did not understand how a stock investment portion of his contract would bring him the money.

He said he discussed the contract, which had a variable annuity clause in it that was to have provided him with $1.5 million, with his former high school basketball coach and guardian William J. Robinson. He said they agreed that the contract did not provide for the $1.9 million.

United Press International learned Monday that the stock held under the annuity plan was in the name of the Ringsby Trucking Line, the firm that owns the Rockets.

J. W. Ringsby said that the worth of the annuity plan could have reached as much as $3 million, depending on the economy. Ringsby also admitted that the worth of the stock could have dropped had there been a serious decline in the market.

Because he was uncertain that the annuity plan would bring him the money, Haywood asked the Rockets for the $100,000 raise. It was at that time that he came under the advisement of a Los Angeles attorney who said there were still further discrepancies in the Denver contract.

Haywood said he left the Rockets because the contract was invalid. He later signed with the Seattle Supersonics of the National Basketball Association for a straight cash deal of $100,000 a year over 15 years.

There are numerous suits and counter suits surrounding the case of the former Univrsity of Detroit star and the man who led the United States Olympic basketball team in 1968. Lawyers are battling for the Denver Rockets and the Seattle Supersonics, the lawyer who advised Haywood of the alleged contract discrepancies is also being sued by Denver. Even the Supreme Court has been brought into the case to make a ruling over Haywood's eligibility to play for the Sonics.

Seals' Last Chance At Penguins

OAKLAND (UPI) —The California Golden Seals have been able to beat every team in the National Hockey League this season with the exception of Pittsburgh and Los Angeles.

They get their last chance tonight to defeat the Penguins at the Coliseum-Arena. In their previous five games, the Seals have managed one tie and four losses.

Against Los Angeles, the Seals own a horrendous 0-4-0 record. The Seals entertain the Kings in the Arena Sunday afternoon and close the season April 3 in Los Angeles.

"Those teams go about hockey in a very definite manner which a lot of our guys can't understand," said Seals coach Fred Glover. "In some cases you could say we get intimidated."

Glover threatened to shake up the Seals considerably unless certain individuals show definite improvement and hustle in the team's remaining nine games.

"Some of the players are not putting out," he said. "I've warned them that if they can't straighten themselves out during our remaining seven home games, they won't be around next season.

"Let's face it —when you have a year such as we've had, you've got to make changes."

Finley's Experiment Headed For Oblivion

By United Press International

Baseball's three-ball, three-strike experiment seems doomed for oblivion along with previous suggestions that the game be played with yellow baseballs or metal bats.

The suggestion was made by Charles O. Finley, owner of the Oakland Athletics, who thought the three-ball, three-strike rule might speed up the game. But experiments with it have turned out exactly the opposite — producing tedious games of "pitch and catch."

The Cleveland Indians and Athletics experimented with the suggestion again Tuesday, with the Indian winning a 10-7 decision during which Cleveland pitchers allowed 15 walks and Oakland pitchers eight. Vida Blue of the Athletics, who pitched a no-hitter and one-hitter last spring, was among the pitchers who just couldn't adjust. He allowed eight walks and was tagged for six hits and five runs in six innings.

Ray Lamb, the winning pitcher, yielded only three hits but walked 10 batERS.

On other fronts: Ralph Garr drove in two runs with a sacrifice fly and a single and rookie Marty Perez knocked in two with a single to lead the Atlanta Braves to a 5-2 victory over the Minnesota Twins. Phil Niekro, 12-18 last season after a 23-13 record in 1969, pitched five one-hit innings and has allowed no runs in nine innings this spring.

George Foster's sacrifice fly drove in Jim Rosario in the 10th inning and gave the San Francisco Giants a 6-5 win over the Milwaukee Brewers ... Bob Spence hit three homers, including a grand slam, as the Chicago White Sox' "B" team whipped the Pittsburgh Pirates' "B" squad, 13-9. Richie Zisk hit two homers and Vic Davalillo also connected for the Pirates.

Tony Conigliaro homered for the California Angels but they lost to the Tokyo Orions, 7-2 ... Rookie Bill Bonham and veteran Bill Hands combined in a one-hitter to pitch the Chicago Cubs to a 2-1 triumph over the San Diego Padres. Rafael Robles singled off Hands in the fifth inning for the Padres' only hit.

The cCardinals ran their spring record to 8-3 when Jose Cardenal's grand slam homer in the seventh inning helped them beat the Cincinnati Reds, 10-7. Ted Simmons hit a three-run homer off Greg Garrett in the second inning to help the Cardinals build a 5-0 lead ... Frank Howard and Mike Epstein hit their first homers of the spring for the Washington Senators, who beat the Boston Red Sox, 5-4. It was the fourth straight loss for the Red Sox. After the game, the Senators farmed out outfielders Tom Grieve, Jeff Burroughs and Gary Ratliff, pitchers Mike Thompson and Jan Dukes and infielders Jim Mason and Larry Biitner.

Tom Bradley, Terry Foster and Stan Perzanowski combined in a four- itter to pitch the Chicago White Sox to an 8-0 decision over the New York Yankee in a night game at Caracas, Venezuela.

Patterson Sets Cleveland Bout

CLEVELAND (UPI) —Floyd Patterson, former heavyweight champion, has agreed to fight Terry Daniels of Dallas here in a 10-round main event April 14.

Since ending a two-year retirement to take another shot at gaining the title, Patterson, 36, has knocked out Charlie Green and Levi Forte. His overall record as a pro is 48-7-1, including 37 knockouts.

Daniels has compiled a 27-2-1 pro record. In his only two appearances here, Daniels scored knockouts.

Patterson had been scheduled to meet Oscar Bonavena in New York next month but the bout was cancelled when the Argentine boxer broke his wrist in an automobile accident Monday in Los Angeles.

Brisk Ticket Sales For U.S.-Russ Meet

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

How To Prevent Dry Rot Damage

Dry rot still takes a big toll of wooden boats every spring. The cost of the damage, not only in money but in a waste of good boating time, is tremendous. This is the time of the year most of the damage is done. This is the time one can do something about it.

If you have a wooden boat, here are some questions that may provide a few of the answers you want. They are from other owners of wooden boats who are concerned about dry rot:

Q. Why do they call it "dry rot?" The wood has to be wet to rot . . .?

A. It is a misnomer. The expression originated centuries ago when the rotten wood found in big ships was usually very dry. Rotted wood dries out extremely quickly because it has so little substance. What's left is just a skeleton.

Q. What is rot exactly?

A. It is the disintegration of wood caused by a fungus which is a very simple form of plant life. A fungus is a parasite and feeds on other organic matter. It send out microscopic roots which consume the cellulose of wood. As a part of the balance of nature fungus rids the forest floor of dead trees.

Q. Will it spread from wet canvas?

A. The fungus which destroys sails and canvas goods, if they are stored wet, is called mildew, it's slightly different, but just as destructive. Other forms of fungus are mushrooms, puffballs and the mold found on stale bread.

Q. Will dry wood rot?

A. Not if it's truly dry. There must be at least 15 per cent moisture in the wood before fungus will grow. Also wood that is saturated with water will not decay . . . or, at worst only decay very slowly . . . because the fungus won't grow due to lack of oxygen.

Q. How does dry rot start?

A. Rot spreads when it matures and becomes dry. It sends out microscopic seeds called spores. They are in the air everywhere. Those landing on wood will sprout and grow if conditions are right.

Q. What are best storage condition?

A. Germination of the spores won't take place in cold weather or on dry wood. Right conditions for growth are the same as those for other plants . . . warmth, moisture, oxygen. Rot thrives in moist, warm weather or in heated places where there's lots of moisture. It follows that the best storage avoids these conditions.

Q. Will good paint on a wooden boat prevent rot?

A. Contrary to popular belief rot does not start on the outside of a boat so the paint is not the most significant factor . . . although it is important. Rot begins on the inside in cracks and joints and closed spaces where wood can stay moist for a long time.

Q. How about the topsides . . .?

A. Most important! Keep topsides in good repair so that water will not become trapped in crevices or joints. Caulk and fill seams and joints where water can be held. Soak wood in fungicidal preservatives.

Q. Water runs into my boat no matter what precautions I take. What should be done?

A. I know what you mean. Winter winds seem to force snow and rain through almost anything. However, if water comes in, provide drain holes for it to run right out again. Also provide good ventilation so that wood can dry out after getting wet. This may kill the fungus and stop the cycle.

Q. Are any woods fungus-proof?

A. Some resist dry rot better than others. Best by far is cypress. Cedar is No. 2, and Sitka spruce is good. Hardwoods that resist rot are mahogany, oak and teak. That's why you see these woods used in boat building.

Q. How long can sails be stored wet?

A. Consider one hour as being too long. Mildew grows very much faster than dry rot fungus. Under good conditions . . . for the mildew . . . I once saw a $500 canvas sail utterly destroyed in six days.

Teams Point To UCLA In Regionals

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Sixteen teams are busy readying for eight NCAA regional playoff games and throughout there's the feeling that there's really only one team to beat — UCLA.

The Bruins have become virtually synonymous with the NCAA—they've won the last four titles and six of the last seven—and the general consensus among tournament teams this year is that UCLA is the one to stop.

The Bruins, the nation's No. 1 ranked teams, finished 25-1 with an impressive victory over Southern California Saturday afternoon. They'll open against Brigham Young in the Western Regionals tomorrow at Salt Lake City, Uah and Long Beach State (23-4) will face the University of the Pacific (21-5) in the other half of the doubleheader.

In other regional play, Pennsylvania (27-0) takes on South Carolina (23-4) and Fordham (24-2) meets Villanova (24-6) in the Eastern regionals at Raleigh, N.C.; Western Kentucky (21-5) tangles with Kentucky (22-4) and Marquette (27-0) plays Ohio State (19-5) in the Mideast at Athens, Ga.; and Notre Dame (20-7) faces Drake (20-7) and Houston (21-6) hooks up with Kansas (25-1) in the Midwest at Wichita, Kan.

"I'm not overconfident but I don't lack confidence either," says UCLA coach John Wooden. "I think we've peaked at the right time." On the other hand, any team is capable of beating you at this point.

Bowlers Win $2,761 In 'City' Tourney

A prize fund totaling $2,761.70 will be given out by the Marin County Bowling Association to winners in the 23rd annual City Tournament which ended last weekend, according to unofficial figures released yesterday by MCBA secretary Dick Treadway.

Singles winner Walt Spellman will get $75 plus trophy, and doubles winners Rennie Horvath and Charles Robertson will each get $55 plus trophies. Spellman won the singles with 636 scratch, 52-pin handicap, 688 total. The doubles winners scored 1182-136—1318.

The Roto-Rooter Service team earned $250 and trophies for its record shattering scratch 3251 and 3315 handicap. All events winner John Bussey earned $50 for his 1924-66—1990 score.

BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER

The 5-7 split is particularly frustrating, because it often occurs after a pocket hit. The bowler has an urge to grumble about "bad luck," but such is not the case. If you leave the 5-7 or the 5-pin alone after hitting the pocket, it is a strong indication that your ball is fading instead of driving in at the finish.

There are several remedies. Make sure you are keeping your fingers behind the ball all the way. Reduce your speed. And reduce the amount of hook you are using. One or more of these should help.

ALMANAC

Today is Wednesday, March 17, the 76th day of 1971. This is Saint Patrick's Day.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter. The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury and Saturn.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Pisces.

On this day in history:

In 1889 a submarine developed by John Holland remained submerged off Staten Island, N.Y. for one hour and 45 minutes.

In 1912 Mrs. Luther Gulick of Lake Sebago, Maine, formed a group for young women to be known as the "Camp Fire Girls."

In 1938 Generalissimo Franco ordered the bombing of the Loyalist-held city of Barcelona in the Spanish Civil War.

A thought for today: American publisher Horace Greeley said, "The illusion that times that were are better than those that are, has probably pervaded all ages."

Examinations For Base Checkers Set

The federal Civil Service Commission announced yesterday that examinations will be given in May for persons seeking jobs as checkers in military base stores throughout the Bay Area.

Three months' experience in a grocery store or completion of a training course for checkers is required. Applications may be obtained in any main post office, and must be returned by April 30, the commission said.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Expert Employs New Math For A Four-Heart Victory

The rubber bridge player suffers from the conviction that two plus two equals four. The typical expert at the national tournament now being held in Atlanta will assure you that even three plus two may equal only three. It sounds pretty foolish, but the expert can show you a hand to prove his point.

Opening lead — ♠ J

KING OF HEARTS

South wins the first trick with the king of spades and leads the king of hearts, expecting no trouble. If the hearts behave normally, South will lose only one spade and two clubs.

Unfortunately, East discards a diamond on the first round of hearts, and South thus discovers that the trumps are very sour indeed. The typical rubber bridge player would see that he is sure to lose two trump tricks as well as the three tricks in the black suits. "Three plus two equals five," he says to himself, and he promptly concedes down two. The concession saves time, but it's hard to think of any other argument in its favor.

BETTER ATTEMPT

The tournament experts makes a better attempt to make his contract in spite of the discouraging mathematics. Mind you, a rubber bridge expert could make the same skillful play, but few rubber bridge players are willing to give a hand the right amount of thought.

After discovering the bad trump break at the second trick, the expert cashes the top diamonds and ruffs a diamond. Then he leads the ace of spades, holding his breath, cashes the ace of clubs, and gives up a spade trick.

FREE FINESSE

West wins the third round of spades and leads the queen of clubs. East overtakes and tries to cash a second club trick, but West has to ruff since he has nothing but trumps left in his hand. Now West must lead a trump, giving declarer a free finesse and the contract.

I wisp I could prove this to my banker, but he's not a bridge player. He still thinks that three plus two equals five, especially on money I owe the bank.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one heart, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - J 10 9
♥ - J 9 8 7 6
♦ - 10 8 6
♣ - Q 9.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two hearts.

You have four points in high cards, one point for the doubleton and one point for extra length in partner's bid suit. This is just barely enough for a raise.

Market On Low Side At Closing

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market finished lower Wednesday, although well above early morning levels. Trading was fairly heavy.

Of the 1,659 issues crossing the tape, 762 pointed lower while 604 gained.

Closing prices included AT&T 48 3-4 off 1-8; Bethlehem Steel 22 off 1-8; DuPont 141 5-8 up 1 1-8; Ford 60 7-8 off 1-4; General Electric 110 1-2 unchanged; General Motors 84 5-8 up 1-8; Southern Pacific 41 off 1; Standard of Jersey 77 3-4 off 14; Texaco 37 1-2 off 3-8, and U.S. Steel 33 1-4 up 1.

Profit taking accounted for part of the setback. But some analysts believed selling also reflected uncertainties in the Middle East and Laos, and fresh signs the predicted economic recovery will be slow in getting started.

Gillette was among the day's most active issues as a result of an early block of 356,400 shares traded at 49, off 1 1-8 in a cross-transaction.

Also heavily traded were Federal National Mortgage, Chrysler, Occidental Petroleum, and Ford Motor.

Steels and chemicals generally traded narrowly. So did rails, airlines, and aircrafts.

Prices weakened in brisk trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Second Generation Clothiers Opens On Hub's Miracle Mile

A new clothing business in San Anselmo is The Second Generation at 412 Red Hill Avenue on the Miracle Mile.

Owner Mrs. Sally Fulton of Kentfield opened Monday with a line of used children's and women's wear and will try to handle consignments of top apparel lines in stocking her racks. This is her first business venture for herself, although she has been in retailing previously.

Hours are from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays.

UNUSUAL BUSINESS opened not long ago in Sausalito is Anchor Trading Co. at 490 Gate 5 Road.

Owner F. J. (Woody) Whitcraft retired from the sea three years ago and first opened in Santa Cruz before coming to Sausalito.

Anchor Trading handles the usual supplies and hardware, but Whitcraft's specialties are marine artifacts — decor pieces and trading "for anything that comes off a boat." Consequently if you can't find what you want anywhere else you might here.

Hours are from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. seven days a week.

ANOTHER NEWLY OPENED marine business at 135 Third Street, San Rafael is Trawler Yacht Sales, a yacht brokerage firm also handling the Newport Trawler line.

Owners are Addison Mooney of Corte Madera, James Howard of San Rafael and R. (Bud) Gestri of Sausalito. All have been active in Marin County boating activities for several years.

ALEXANDER GRIEVE of San Rafael has been elected a principal of Towers, Perrin, Forster and Crosby, Inc., international consultant management firm. He has been an actuarial consultant in the San Francisco office for the last five years.

OTHER REAL ESTATE: Donald A. Beacock, head of Earle and Solvason, Inc., Corte Madera, has been awarded a graduate educational certificate from the Realtors Institute ... Marin County's multiple listing sales in January reflected the highest cooperative sales among all counties in the state, at 78 per cent.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Investment Club's Success Story

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Five years ago I wrote for your advice on starting an investment club. We have grown from nine members to 26 and our net assets are $50,000. Would you appraise our holdings? They are: Avon, Bristol-Myers, Eastman Kodak, Litton Industries, Minnesota Mining, Tampax and Xerox. — M.H.

A. With one exception your club has built a fine portofolio of issues with above-average appreciation prospects. The weakest stock, Litton Industries, has recently reported disappointing earnings again for the second quarter. For the six months through January, earnings dropped 37 per cent to 61 cents a share on a 2 per cent gain in sales; full fiscal year net may be equally sluggish.

The 84 per cent rebound staged by Litton shares from May 1970 lows, suggests the strong possibility of a period of consolidation. You should consider switching out of Litton in anticipated periods of sideways action.

Q. I recently inherited odd lots of seven utility companies and of two mutual funds. I have $1,000 to invest and would like to add to one or more of these. Which would you select? — C. L.

A. Your inherited portfolio returns a generous 6.5 per cent on average. My first choice for purchase would be Central Maine Power, which reported improved operating results for 1970.

Earnings rose 9.1 per cent to $1.62 a share. Dividends have widened annually, with the most recent increase to 30 cents in the December quarter. Continued earnings growth should be realized from greater area industrialization and participation in atomic generating plants to be operative in 1971 and 1972.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL

Child Care Deductions Allowed Up To $900 For Working Mothers

You can deduct up to $600 for the care of your child, or $900 for two or more children if it is necessary to enable you to work.

You can deduct this only if it is for the care of a dependent child under 13 years of age, or for the care of any other dependent for whom you are entitled to an exemption who is mentally or physically incapable of caring for himself.

The expense must be paid and it cannot be paid to an individual for whom you claim a dependency exemption.

You can only make this deduction provided the cost is for you to earn a living or to enable you to look for work.

If you work only part of the day and pay for child care for all the day, you can deduct only the part that corresponds to the time you were working.

If the person you pay does work other than child care, such as housecleaning, the deduction is allowed only for the child care part.

The deduction is allowed to women and to widowers. Widowers include men who are divorced or legally separated and have not remarried. It is also allowed to husbands of incapacitated or institutionalized wives while the wife is disabled.

This deduction is allowed only if the wife is mentally or physically incapacitated or institutionalized for a period of 90 consecutive days unless the period is terminated by her death.

A married man or woman can deduct their child care expenses only if they file a joint return and together earn less than $6,000 per year.

If they earn over $6,000 per year, the deduction is reduced by the amount earned over the $6,000. This does not apply if the taxpayer's husband or wife is incapable of self-support because he or she is mentally or physically defective.

If you qualify, then get Form 2441 and complete it fully. Attach this form 2441 to your tax return and claim the deduction on Schedule A, line 16, Miscellaneous Deductions.

Echo Of Indian Treaties In Alaskan Oil Discovery

Many decades have passed since the United States government, by treaties broken and treaties changed, took the last land it wanted from the Indians and confined them to reservations which nobody else much cared about.

But the same thing may be happening in the Arctic regions of Alaska as a result of the discovery of oil.

A GROUP OF OIL companies paid the State of Alaska $900,000 down — with more to come from royalties — for rights to drill in the northernmost region of the 49th state. This is cold, mostly barren country in the "land of the midnight sun." It is not in private ownership; therefore, the mineral rights reside with the State of Alaska.

But this vast, frigid expanse is the home of a few thousand Eskimos. They claim as their homeland by right of long occupation some 56 million acres — including those where the oil was found.

THE ESKIMOS are not quite so naive about the way government does things as were the Indians of a century ago. And the government is not quite so disdainful of the rights of a minority people as it was back in the days of "Manifest Destiny."

A bill has been introduced in Congress to grant the Eskimos exclusive native hunting rights to 40 million acres, land title to 100,000 acres around established villages, cash payments which will run to a billion dollars over 28 years, plus a share in oil royalties.

This souldslike a mighty fine offer — far better than anything the Indians got in the Old West. The Eskimos would wind up rich.

However, the Eskimos who live in the far north of Alaska are not satisfied with the offer, according to John Upicksoun, president of the Arctic Slope Native Association, who is touring California to raise money for a legal battle. Upicksoun is from Point Barrow, right on the edge of the oil reserve (a place remembered mostly, by those who remember it at all, as that where famed humorist Will Rogers and globe-girdling flyer Wiley Post died in the crash of Post's plane on Aug. 15, 1935).

UPICKSOUN SAYS his people want title — not just hunting rights — to more of the land. They are not so much interested in the billion dollars.

"We know how to live off the land, the rivers and the sea," says Upicksoun. "Hunting rights alone will not keep prospectors and oil developers from ruining our land and so we must demand full ownership."

His words echo those a century ago of the Indian chief White Ghost, when the government forced the Sioux and Cheyenne out of the Black Hills because gold had been found there. Said White Ghost:

"THE EARTH IS FULL of minerals of all kinds, and on earth the ground is covered with forests of heavy pine, and when we give these up to the Great Father we know that we give up the last thing that is valuable either to us or the white people."

We hope the members of Congress listen to the Arctic Slope Native Association. Nothing resembling what happened to the Indians should happen again in the United States. Not even with a billion-dollar lure attached.

"Where be ye, St. Patrick, now that we need ye???"

$72 MILLION QUESTION

Teacher Retirement Fund Shift Points Up Dilemma

By ARTHUR YOUNGBERG
California News Alliance

California teachers — kindergarten through junior college — have a $72 million question. They want to know why $72 million in State Teachers Retirement System reserves should be shifted into the state general fund to avoid a tax increase.

The $72 million in dispute is the contingency reserve: funds set aside from interest earned on teacher contributions to protect against investment losses and other costs not anticipated. The Reagan administration wants to take this reserve and use it in the general fund.

HOW DID THIS financial dilemma come about?

Most retirement funds operate on the principle that payments contributed, plus interest earned, will provide enough to meet pension benefits. But not so the Teachers Retirement System.

Teachers contribute from 6.5 to 11.8 per cent of their pay. This money is invested in bonds, mortgages, and stocks. School districts also contribute to the fund, up to 3 per cent of teacher salaries. But this money is not invested. It earns no interest.

Together, the teacher and school district contributions pay only about half the costs of pensions for retired teachers under the system. The state makes up the rest.

THE STATE SHARE of teacher retirement costs in 1971-72 is pegged at $98 million. By shifting the $72 million from the reserve, only $26 million needs to be budgeted. This would help the administration balance the budget without increasing taxes.

However, legislative analyst A. Alan Post estimates that it will take $150 million over a 30-year period to repay the $72 million, because of the loss of investment earnings — an interest cost of $78 million for taxpayers.

Assemblyman E. Richard Barnes, R-San Diego, has introduced a bill that would require teachers to pay 8 per cent of their salaries into the system, to be matched by 8 per cent from school districts. In 10 years, this would put the system on a self-sustaining basis, Barnes figures. In the meantime, the state would be required to budget $135 million a year.

WHAT MAKES the Teachers Retirement System problem so frightening is the increasing liability as more teachers become employed and salaries keep going up.

Michael Thome, executive officer of the system, estimates the state liability for future benefits now is $4 billion and growing each day. Thome says that if the system isn't properly funded, the annual state cost will go from this year's $98 million to $354 million in 1980 and $625 million in 1989.

The $72 million transfer proposal faces its first big hurdle Friday, when the State Teacher Retirement System board is expected to vote on it. The board has the power to veto such a transfer.

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

If all our misfortunes were laid in one common heap, whence everyone must take an equal portion, most people would be contented to take their own and depart. — Socrates.

I saw a delicate flower had grown up two feet high between the horses' feet and the wheel track. An inch more to the right or left had sealed its fate, or even an inch higher. Yet it lived to flourish, and never knew the danger it incurred. It did not borrow trouble, nor invite an evil fate by apprehending it. — Henry David Thoreau.

There is nothing in the laws of nature or the nature of man to require that a state which is big and vital and productive must also be mundane and dirty and ugly. — Nelson A. Rockefeller.

There's a man in this world who is never turned down, wherever he chances to stray; he gets the glad hand in the populous town, or out where the farmers make hay; he's greeted with pleasure on deserts of sand, and deep in the aisles of the woods; wherever he goes there's the welcoming hand — he's the Man Who Delivers the Goods. — Walt Mason.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Blade In Paper Found Hazardous

My husband and I were shocked to open our Sunday paper (S.F. Examiner and Chronicle) and find that it contained an advertisement so dangerous to children. A wrapped razor blade! We consider ourselves very fortunate that our 22-month-old son did not tear the plastic wrapping open; all he did was rip it off the ad paper! It could have resulted in a terrible misfortune for our family.

We hope and pray no children were injured as the result of this advertising. This is one kind of danger we should not have to subject our children to. Besides writing the Examiner and letting them know how we feel, I have also written California Legislature representatives, (Peter H.) Behr and (William T.) Bagley asking them to introduce legislation against such methods of advertisement which endanger the lives of our children. . . .

Different View On Motorcycles

Every article that I read these days tells me how bad and what a nuisance motorcycles are. I have an opposing view -point regarding the county's youths riding their machines in the spare acreage of Marin.

Most of the land that these kids are riding on is already slated for building and all the damage the motorcycles can do in six months can be wiped out in one day by a bulldozer. Everyone is worried about the hillsides! Well, how about your teen-age sons' life! The 16-year-old boy who just got a brand new street bike and hit a car head-on — because he didn't know how to ride!

Dirt riding is a physically demanding sport and improves reaction and coordination. It will also familiarize the youth with his machine so that in case of emergency he can stop, turn, or lay it down if necessary. I do agree that they are noisy. So instead of kicking them out of the "ball park" let's pass a law requiring a silencer of some sort.

Cries At Medi-Cal Cuts Heartening

California taxpayers can take heart; the governor's 10 per cent reduction in medical benefits has brought cries of indignation from those who were reaping the windfall.

A month or two ago, it was the California Association of Nursing Homes bringing suit against the state for reducing the income of its' members. Last week we found the California Medical Association, the California Dental Association, and the California Rural Legal Assistance group, banding together to bring the same suit into Sacramento Superior Court for another try.

Nursing homes have prospered in the past five years, and naturally they all want to see this sort of thing grow, not diminish.

Medical doctors, seeing the cost of beans going up week after week, begin to worry a bit about where they are going to find the money for new tax sheltered investments.

Let's hope the effect of the reductions will be fewer excess profits for the medical fraternity, and not reduced medical attention to the poor people of this state.

Reason For Employe Attitude Survey

I write this letter as an individual commissioner and do not represent the other members of the personnel commission.

I defended any individual's right to disagree with me. However, I cannot respect his opinion if he is uninformed.

In the case of the personnel commission it is quite obvious that the I-J didn't have the facts which led the commission to undertake an attitude survey.

Had the I-J sent a reporter to any of our meetings he would have realized that the commission's decision to allocate funds for an attitude survey was based on the sound principle that, being a newly created commission, we knew nothing about the needs and conditions of the classified employees of the Marin County superintendent's office, for whom we are responsible. We felt a strong obligation to learn all we could in the most objective manner.

The article states that because the county board disagreed with our decision to take a survey we should have "taken the hint". The personnel commission is an independent commission and although we wish to cooperate with the board and the Marin County school staff, we must reach our decisions independently and to the best of our ability.

In a prior article the I-J wrongfully stated that the California School Employees' Association disapproved of the attitude survey. The fact is that the CSEA endorsed the attitude survey and urged its members to participate in it.

We Face Challenge To Save Planet

We have a challenge before us. Can we be persuaded to squash cans and wash bottles for recycling? But of course, despite the doubts of attorney (Wallace S.) Myers and Councilman (Kenneth L.) Anderson.

Human beings are the wasters of the earth, above all other creatures. Shall we not rejoice for the opportunity to redeem ourselves in this small way? Is burying our garbage the only "profitable" way to dispose of it? How about the ultimate profit to our planet if we all worked to save it? Profit, in dollars, nickles and dimes cannot matter so much any more. Even so, if we don't take care of this problem, the government will be forced to eventually, and at our expense. So let's get to it, and do it ourselves!

Trade Quota Mess Springs From Nixon Campaign Promise

WASHINGTON — There is discredit enough for everybody in the Japanese-United States textile trade mess into which the nation is again plunged.

Plunged by whom isn't quite clear — unless it is by everyone, none of whom wants the mess we now face and nearly all of whom will be hurt.

One thing is evident: It will take a lot of poise and restraint by all concerned to avert the worst legislated textile quotas spawning a web of other protectionist blockades to commerce with every trading nation sliding down the chute to retaliation and attempted self-survival.

And in the end, as the twin evils of protectionism and depression of the '30s proved, none escapes.

THE FIRST STEP to averting the worst is to see as clearly as possible how we got here. It's like this:

Before his election Mr. Nixon promised the U.S. textile industry "special relief" against increasing textile imports. He said he would try for negotiated voluntary quotas.

He tried to get them with the Japanese — and failed. Then the President asked Ways and Means Committee Chairman Wilbur Mills to initiate legislative quotas as a means to bring pressure to bear on the Japanese to accept voluntary quotas.

It didn't work. Nixon tried new negotiations with the Japanese — no agreement.

Wilbur Mills never wanted legislative protectionist quotas and felt let down by the President when the administration supported them last year. They failed to pass because time ran out.

Now both the Japanese and Representative Mills (D-Ark.) have made an end run around the President. The Japanese have come up with a pretty foxy, one-sided voluntary quota agreement — if Korea, Taiwan and Hong Kong will go along. And Mills apparently left the President on the sidelines and allowed the Japanese to believe no legislative import quotas would be enacted in light of their voluntary plan.

NOW EVERYTHING is in a tangled mess.

The President terms the Japanese offer "inadequate" and wants legislated quotas only if a more adequate voluntary agreement cannot be reached.

Mills accepts the Japanese offer as the best way to avoid harmful protective legislation.

Where lies the national interest? Let's look at some facts.

Nixon and Mills are both basically advocates of liberal, free-trade policy. The President has always described quotas as "wrong in principle" and textile quotas as justified "only as exceptional."

But is there any prospect whatsoever that the many protectionists in both the House and Senate will, if they pass any quota legislation, ignore the demands of other industries to "exceptional" treatment like the textile industry? Hardly.

THE REALISTIC CHOICE between the nations is not between a carefully limited textile quota as exceptional to the President's disapproval of quotas or no trade legislation at all. It is between no quotas and a burgeoning protectionist network which would beget a disastrous trade war between the United States and other trading nations.

Congress must choose — unless the Japanese decide to improve their offer.

Fortunately Congress has two different Nixons to choose from — his harried, partly politically minded plea for the textile quota and the wise advice in his recent message on "U. S. Foreign Policy for the 1970a."

In that message he said our goal must be "to defend and encourage liberal trade policies abroad and at home."

Sound advice.

Look Who's Leading Moaning About Welfare

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

WASHINGTON — While we all wring our hands over the burden of welfare payments to the poor, we might consider for a moment the burden of our payments to the people who are leading the moaning.

For example, the man who said three months ago that the welfare system has become a "consuming, monstrous, inhuman against the community, against the family, against the individual."

That would be Richard M. Nixon, who accepted a raise of 100 per cent above what his predecessor was paid when he left office 23 months earlier. The Presidents now gets $200,000 plus expenses for making the sacrifice of public service at the highest level.

This is the same Mr. Nixon who said "unless we control inflation, we will be confronted eventually with massive unemployment . . . The primary responsibility for controlling inflation rests with the national Administration."

TAKE, FOR ANOTHER example, Rep. William M. Colmer of Mississippi, chairman of the House Rules Committee, who expressed his distaste for Nixon's welfare reform proposals by stating that "I'm just old-fashioned enough to wonder if the government is going to be able to afford to support the people, or whether the people should support the government."

Colmer, who just turned 81, came to Congress back in 1933, at the bottom of the depression, when members took a pay cut from $10,000 to $8,500 in the spirit of the times. But it was his committee that prevented House action against a congressional pay raise from $30,000 to $42,500.

The crying inconsistency between high public officials' stated attitudes toward welfare and toward pay raises for government employees has been examined thoroughly by Taylor Branch, writing in the Washington Monthly. He points out that there have been 10 federal salary hikes in the past 8 1/2 years, and they have been the main reason for the doubling of the U.S. government payroll from about $25 billion to more than $50 billion in that time.

In the past two years alone federal contributions to welfare programs have increased by $1.7 billion primarily because another 3 million of the poor have come onto welfare rolls. But in that same short period, basic annual pay for government white-collar workers and servicemen has gone up by $6.2 billion. And I for one never heard the first howl about it.

TRUE, YOUR AVERAGE politician and taxpayer is more annoyed by increases to people who are not working than to those who are on the public payroll, no matter how unproductive their jobs may be. But even within the federal pay grades, the people at the bottom of the scale have been shortchanged in comparison to those at the top.

A Grade 5 secretary, for instance, make $2,800 more now than she did in 1962. A Grade 18 administrator, the highest covered by civil service, is getting double his 1962 pay — up from $18,000 to $36,000. A major reason for this discrepancy is the effort to make federal executives' pay comparable, thus competitive, with that in private industry.

To quote Mr. Nixon is not to make him the only White House villain of the piece; what stands out about him is merely the openess with which he applies a double standard to spending for welfare and spending for federal pay.

IT WAS JOHN F. Kennedy's administration, supposedly fueled by idealism, which conceived the comparability idea as a nice tangible supplement to the idealistic rewards high-caliber private executives could claim by accepting federal appointments.

And it was Lyndon B. Johnson who signed the bill doubling the President's pay as of Nixon's Inauguration Day. That measure originated in Congress. In the opposite direction, Johnson initiated the last raise for all members of Congress and top officials of the executive and judicial branches. All Congress had to do was keep its hands off the raises automatically to go into effect.

The procedure was possible because back in 1967 Congress decided that voting itself pay raises was a politically gauche thing to do, so it set up the system whereby new salaries would be recommended by the President and become effective within 30 days unless Congress vetoed them.

So now Congress can scratch the President's back, and the President can scratch Congress' back, and together the President and Congress can caterwaul about the rising costs of welfare.

And you know who pays for all of it.

Large Teacher Layoffs Reflect Attendance Drop

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

In San Francisco city schools, 125 administrators have received notices they will be demoted next fall. In Berkeley, notices of projected reassignment — back to the classrooms, in many cases — have been sent to 106 administrators; in San Diego, to 52; in Oakland, to 30.

About 600 teachers and administrators in the 44,000-student Sacramento Unified School District have been notified they may not be rehired for next year. Similar notices have been sent to 530 in the 20,000-pupil Cupertino Elementary School District in Santa Clara County.

From San Diego to Yreka, the word is out. Few are the districts in which some administrators and teachers have not received warnings of probable dismissal.

WHAT'S GOING ON? Are California's schools on a campaign to clean out "dead wood"? Have they taken the new doctrine of accountability so to heart that they are firing inefficient or marginal employes in wholesale lots?

No. Individual efficiency has nothing to do with it.

The reason usually announced by boards and superintendents for the sudden reductions is "a cut in state funds." This nicely shifts the blame. But it is a half-truth.

There is no likelihood that California's public schools will receive less state money per student next fiscal year than they had this year. School support bills introduced in the legislature all call for more money, not less, for every pupil.

However, despite the probability of greater state support per-pupil, the districts that have sent out the wholesale dismissal warnings very likely will get less money from the state. The reason is simply that they have fewer pupils.

STATE AID to local schools is based on attendance. And all the formulas for revising state aid retain that basis, since it seems the simplest and fairest method.

Attendance in the big city school districts has been dropping for some time, as young families moved to the suburbs. A decline in the birth rate resulted in decreases in children entering school in the small city, suburban and rural districts beginning in 1967. Meanwhile, the children of the "baby boom" that followed World War II have proceeded through the schools — which had a hard time building new classrooms and expanding staff fast enough to keep up with them — and completed high school.

Declining enrollments which began in kindergarten now have reached the upper grades. Clearly enough, the drop will soon reach the high schools in those districts where it has not already done so.

MEANWHILE, HOWEVER, salaries and other costs have been soaring.

School planning and budgeting ever since World War II had been geared to constant increases. When enrollments were growing, each addition to facilities and faculty appeared justified.

When the enrollments started to decline, the schools postponed the inevitable day of reckoning by reducing class sizes, adding new programs — and asking for higher tax rates.

But this year, the squeeze is on in earnest.

That is the primary reason for the demotions and dismissals. Most of those squeezed out in the process will be teachers hired last year, since the seniority system prevails by law in California school districts.

Casino In Athens Only For Wealthy

By VICTOR WALKER
Toronto Telegram News Service

ATHENS — The Greek government, by regulations published in the Official Gazette, has instituted a means test for Greeks wanting to gamble in the first casino ever in the Athens area.

To get in, they will have to show proof from the Inland Revenue Department that they pay tax on an annual income of not less than $5,000 a year.

Poorer Greeks will have to continue restricting themselves to state lotteries, football pools, and horse races - the only forms of gambling legal in the region of the Greek capital until the casino opens around Eastertime.

Foreigners wanting to play in the casino, however, will have to prove only that they are 21.

The casino will be housed in the white elephant Mont Parnes Hotel near the peak of the 1,300-foot mountain of the same name overlooking Athens.

A cable-railway between the hotel and the foot of the mountain will get gamblers to the centre of the hot action.

The Mont Parnes was built 12 years ago as a luxury resort hotel boasting the highest swimming pool, cinema and night club in all Greece, but never managed to show a profit. This was attributed mainly to its inaccessibility from Athens, at the end of a narrow, winding and often-dangerous mountain road.

It has now been thrown the lifebelt of Greece's third casino license, supplementing those established in luxury hotels on the islands of Rhodes and Corfu.

A year ago, an American gambling club open only to foreigners had a short run in Athens, but opposition of the Greek Orthodox Church had (until now) blocked the stablishment of any casino proper in the area of the capital.

Regulations for the new casino, published above the signature of the Adjoined Coordination Minister, Mr. Emmanuel Fthenakis, provide that entry is free for all adult foreigners, and for Greeks permanently living abroad and merely visiting their homeland.

Greeks living in Greece will have to show proof of income and, irrespective of earnings, will not be allowed in if they turn out to be students, priests, civil servants, employees of local government authorities, public corporations or banks, or serving members of the Armed Forces or Security Corps. Police will be admitted only on duty.

Those entering will have to fill in a form stating their name and surname, the name of their father, their profession, date of birth address (permanent and temporary, if different), nationality, and the number of their passport identity card.

Once inside, and subject to a strict no-credit rule, they will be able to play all the usual games of chance, including roulette, bacarat, crap, and the slot machines, while there will be separate rooms for bridge and other games of skill.

No distinction is made between the sexes of foreign gamblers, but Greek women will be admitted only if accompanied by an eligible player.

One further regulation stipulates that all personnel of the casino must wear clothes "not provided with pockets".

Novatans Choose Musical Show

Members of the Novato Community Players have selected "Flower Drum Song" by Rodgers and Hammerstein as their musical production for the spring of 1972.

Members made their choice from a field of three, including "South Pacific" and "Unsinkable Mollie Brown" Monday night, reported Paul Terry, secretary.

Terry explained that musical productions are selected well in advance of production dates to allow ample time to procure staff members and permit full rehearsal schedules.

Insurance Firm To Cancel Marin Policy

United States Fidelity and Guaranty Co., partial insurer of county buildings for $16 million, will cancel its coverage when the fiscal year ends on July 1.

County Administrator Alan Bruce reported to the board of supervisors yesterday that the cancelation notice was not unexpected because USF&G and its re-insurer, Fireman's Fund, had expressed reluctance to cover the Civic Center buildings since the courtroom bomb explosion of last Oct. 8. (Another board of supervisors story, page 1.)

USF&G had been insuring the county buildings for an annual premium of $29,000. The insurance agreement called for $100 deductible. Last November, Fireman's Fund asked that the deductible be raised to $100,000.

The county worked out a compromise whereby the insurance companies would cover the county buildings with the deductible not to exceed $30,000 for all losses incurred through June 30.

From July 1, Bruce said Fireman's Fund probably would carry part of the insurance, and other insurance companies are being asked to pick up the rest of the coverage.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors Also:

INDUSTRIAL — Formally approved a master plan for the 260-acre Ignacio Industrial Park, also reaching agreement to provide for possible future public use of a lagoon and greenbelt areas planned at the site.

HOUSING AUTHORITY — Appointed Irving Perlman of 1581 Hill Road, Novato, to the Marin County Housing Authority to succeed Vera L. Schultz, who resigned on Feb. 15. Perlman is manager of Safren Wool Stock Co. in San Francisco.

FLOOD SUB-ZONE — Appointed a seven-man advisory board for Ross Valley Flood Control sub-zone 9-A, which includes only unincorporated areas within the Ross Valley Flood Control District.

MEDI-CAL CUTS — Instructed Bruce to send to Sacramento a list of case histories of welfare recipients in Marin who are suffering from the governor's cutback in the Medi-Cal program.

ISLAND — Got an assurance from Hector Rubini, co-owner of Santa Venetia Island, that he would make changes in the gates that lock the bridge. The span was built last summer from the end of Meadow Way to his private island. William G. Thompson of 57 Vendola Drive complained last week that vandals had broken the gates and were overrunning the island.

ARBITRATION — Voted to oppose Senate Bill 333, which would require binding arbitration on labor disputes arising out of negotiations between the county and its fire and police forces. Arnold M. Baptiste abstained, explaining he did not have enough information on the bill to make a decision.

INHERITANCE TAX — Endorsed Senate Bill 291, which would increase revenue to the county from collection of inheritance taxes, and Assembly Bill 541, which would increase inheritance tax fees and provide for half of the fees to be turned over to the county from which they are collected.

FLOOD INSURANCE — Announced that federally subsidized flood damage insurance would be available to private property owners in the unincorporated areas of the county beginning Friday. Several cities also have qualified for the insurance.

SCHOOL ADDITION — Approved construction of a new six-classroom high school building and a swimming pool at the James Hall School, corner of Merrydale Road and Las Galinas Avenue, Los Ranchitos.

DAVIS TRIAL — Reiterated its position that the Hall of Justice courtroom should be used for the Angela Y. Davis hearings. This was in reply to a request from the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, Corte Madera branch, that the trial be held in the more spacious board of supervisors chambers in the Administration Building.

BUDGET — Awarded a $5,105 contract to George Lithograph Co. of San Francisco to print the county's 1971-72 budget booklets. Three bids ranged to a high of $9,535.

Avalanche Traps Guide At Aspen

ASPEN, Colo. (UPI)—Tons of snow, loosened by warm temperatures, roared down the backside of Aspen Mountain Tuesday, burying a guide who was leding 10 tourists on a sight-seeing trip in the popular ski area.

Officials tentatively identified the missing man as Tom Simpson, a guide for Deep Power, Inc., which takes groups on cross-country ski tours during the winter months.

Simpson left his group briefly to check the terrain near the top of the 11,212-foot mountain when the heavy, wet snow began to slide, trapping him.

Police said the ski group was about a mile and a half away from the Sun Deck, which is located on top of the mountain. The slide occurred on the backside of the peak, away from the heavily traveled ski runs which attracts thousands of tourists each year.

An estimated 75 persons, armed with long poles to probe the avalanche area, searched unsuccessfully Tuesday for the body of the missing man.

Restaurateur Denied Permit To Build Seashore Extension

Despite claims from a restaurateur that his business is losing money because of its size, the Sausalito City Council declined last night to approve adding a pavilion to Scoma's, 588 Bridgeway.

The council refused the request by a 4-1 vote, with Councilman Stephen A. Fraser dissenting.

Earlier this month the Sausalito Planning Commission unanimously turned down restaurateur Joseph Scoma's application for a variance to build the shoreside pavilion.

Sidney Rudy, Scoma's attorney, told the council the restaurant can seat only 30 or 31 persons comfortably at present. Rudy said the addition would make it possible to seat 56 persons.

"The owners cannot continue to operate the kind of quality restaurant they have been operating in such a small space and still make a profit," the attorney said in asking the council to overturn the planners.

Planning Director H. Eric Borgwardt said a pavilion would bring the restaurant's seating capacity to more than 70 persons, but Scoma and his attorney disagreed.

Councilman Wyman Hicks pointed out the zoning ordinance in the waterfront area allows a building to cover only 10 per cent of its lot and noted the restaurant already covers 55 per cent of the property. The pavilion would bring lot coverage to about 85 per cent, he added.

Fraser said he felt the proposed addition would be "very attractive. I think we should support this kind of development," he said. "I don't think we should allow the zoning laws to dictate all growth in Sausalito."

Hicks said variances can be granted only for certain kinds of hardships which the zoning regulations specify. "I don't believe a man's claim he is losing money constitutes a legal hardship necessary to grant a variance," he said.

The Sausalito City Council Also:

EXTENSION — Granted a six-month extension on a conditional use permit for the 400-unit Whiskey Springs apartment development in Northern Sausalito. Developer Joseph Duffel, whose permit expired Feb. 17, said he hopes to begin construction of the project on or about May 1.

INVESTMENTS — Asked the city staff to include more safeguards in a proposal from City Mgr. Albert St. Cyr which would allow Corte Madera town officials to handle investments of Sausalito's surplus funds.

LEASH LAW — Postponed action on a proposed dog leash law because the ordinance, which the council approved in theory March 2, was not prepared in time for the meeting.

PLANNED UNIT — Heard first reading of an ordinance permitting cluster-type development in single-family residential zones. Under terms of the ordinance, only detached dwelling units woud be permitted in such developments. Attached units, those with common walls, may be allowed in certain cases if the council decides they will not materially alter the residential character of a neighborhood.

LANDMARK — Appointed Sally Stanford as chairman of a committee to establish an historic landmark preservation program for Sausalito.

TRAFFIC — Set a special meeting to discuss traffic congestion in Sausalito for Tuesday at 8 p.m. in city hall. The council also agreed to consider at that meeting a proposal from Marin Transit Systems to provide tour bus service from Sausalito to Muir Woods and Muir and Stinson beaches.

ARCHITECT — On the recommendation of the city manager and architectural selection committee, agreed to contract with San Francisco architect Aaron Green to prepare plans for the city's proposed municipal center and library.

CLAIM — Rejected and referred to the city's insurance carrier a $75,000 claim for damages from Sandra Calloway of Richmond. Miss Calloway claims she was injured in February when a portion of pavement in a city parking lot gave way.

LOADING ZONE — Passed an ordinace eliminating a loading zone on the west side of Harrison Avenue near Santa Rosa Avenue.

MEMORIAL TREE — Accepted a $10 contribution from Marcie Bowman to purchase a flowering tree in memory of a girl (unidentified) who died recently.

APPOINTMENTS — Approved the following appointments and reappointments by Mayor Alexander R. Imlay to the community appearance advisory board: Charles Merrill, Violetta Autumn, John Armstrong, Jean Dyk and Audrey Emmons.

Evidence Lost, Case Dismissed

Charges of possessing marijuana against Karen Scott and Gary Haggett, both of San Rafael, have been dismissed in Marin Municipal Court.

Judge Robert A. Smallman dismissed the cases after the district attorney's office reported that the evidence had been lost.

The charges, which stemmed from their arrest at their home last September, had been dismissed in December when the district attorney's said the suspected pot had not been analyzed, but they were refiled Jan. 21.

Dams constructed on the Volga River have caused a drop in the depth of the Caspian Sea.

Tentative Nod To Draft Extension By House Panel

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The House Armed Services Committee tentatively has voted to extend the draft until June 30, 1973, and plans to meet later this week on whether to adopt President Nixon's $1.5 billion proposal to raise military pay high enough to achieve an all-volunteer army by that date.

The committee also voted tentative approval of the authority Nixon had asked to abolish undergraduate deferments.

Chairman F. Edward Hebert, D-La., said the committee rejected the idea of going to a volunteer army any sooner, and expressed skepticism about the idea in the first place.

"I still say there can never be a volunteer Army because I don't think it will be possible," he said. "I think the only way to get a volunteer Army is to draft it."

The committee will not vote on the entire draft bill until later, possibly at the end of this week; but the tentative votes on the draft extension and the deferment abolishments were by heavy margins and those items will no doubt be in the final package.

The committee will meet Thursday to pass on the military pay increase.

No Charge Filed

No charge was filed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court against Luther Porter, 47, of San Rafael, who was arrested Saturday on suspicion of possessing a stolen pistol.

Bank Of America Directors Boo Radical Students

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Bank of America stockholders booed and shouted "Throw them out" Tuesday when a group of Los Angeles students accused the bank of militarism and racism.

The students, calling themselves the "Bank of America Project," told the annual stockholders' meeting that the bank practiced discrimination, financed military purchases by Asian governments and made loans to South Africa.

Dr. Carlton B. Goodlett, a stockholder and San Francisco black newspaper publisher, got a friendlier reception from the 400 stockholders in attendance when he also criticzed the bank concerning racial and sexual discrimination and participation in the Vietnam War.

Ad Campaign Planned For 'War No More'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, says he has formed an organization called "War No More" which will spend $10,000 in an unidentified community within the next month for radio and TV commercials urging an immediate end to the Vietnam war.

Gravel said the initial campaign would be aimed at raising more money to spread the advertisements to other cities. He said he could not see why such an issue-oriented advertising pitch would not work in the same way that political advertising works just before an election.

Jury Trial Set For Pair In Speeding Case

Albert William Ferguson, 24, and Phillip McFarren, 20, both of Novato, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to charges stemming from a high speed chase on Lucas Valley Road March 5.

Ferguson is charged with drunken driving, reckless driving and resisting arrest.
